This bill is approved. This measure provides that the proceeds of the sale of buildings located on lands, the expense of the acquisition of which is to be assessed, wholly or partly, on property benefited shall be applied to the cost of such acquisition or to the reduction of assessments therefor. As the law now stands, when buildings upon lands acquired for a public purpose are sold, preparatory to starting its improvement, the proceeds of such sales are paid into the "General Fund for the Reduction of Taxation." This is unfair to the property owners who bear the expenses of the assessable improvement, the cost of which is actually reduced by the proceeds of the sale of the buildings to be removed from the site of the improvement. The purpose of the bill is to give property owners specially assessed for the expense of the improvement the benefit of this offset, which is tantamount to providing that they shall be assessed only for the net cost of the improvement. This is eminently fair, therefore the bill should be approved. It is suggested, however, that the measure be so amended that its provisions cannot be construed to be retroactive; for, if this is not done, it may be that the authorities will be swamped with thousands of applications to reopen and reduce assessments heretofore made upon the existing basis, the adjustment of which may prove vexatious.

Senate Int. 443, Boylan. To amend the Labor Law, in relation to fire alarm signals and fire drills.

This bill is approved. It was introduced at the request of the Real Estate Board. It amends section 83-a of the Labor Law (chapter 36 of the laws of 1909, as amended). This section provides the conditions under which fire alarm signals and fire drills shall be required in factory buildings over two stories in height, in which more than twenty-five persons are employed above the ground floor and excepts buildings which are adequately protected by sprinkler systems approved by the public authorities. Experience has shown that in many low buildings the requirements of the existing law are more radical than are necessary. The amendment would eliminate the words "in which more than twenty-five persons are employed above the ground floor" and would substitute for them a requirement that the fire alarm signal system and fire drills should be necessary when required in the City of New York by the Fire Commissioner and elsewhere by the Industrial Commission. In other words it places in the Fire Commissioner and in the Industrial Commission certain discretionary authority in keeping with the general rule-making provisions of the Labor Law and will in cases approved by these public officials relieve safe buildings from equipment which is now required by the law, but is realized to be unnecessary.

Senate Int. 444, Boylan. To amend the Labor Law, in relation to definition of owner of tenant factories.

This bill is approved. It was introduced at the request of the Real Estate Board. It is designed to correct an inequality in the Labor Law. Under the existing provisions of section 94 it is impossible for an agent to avoid penalties for violations in spite of the fact that he cannot comply with orders issued under the Labor Law without the consent of the owner. It is recalled that in a recent decision of the courts it was held that under the wording of the Labor Law the agent became technically responsible for the removal of violations and for the penalties for the non-removal and that practically his only recourse was to relinquish his agency of the building. The object of Senator Boylan's bill is to correct this feature of the law. As the law now reads the term "owner" means "the owner or owners of the freehold of the premises or the lessee or joint lessees of the whole thereof, or his, her or their agent in charge of the property." The amendment simply eliminates all reference to the agent.

Senate Int. 440, Boylan. To amend the Labor Law, in relation to persons responsible for the observance and punishable for the non-observance of section eighty-three-a.

This bill is approved. It was introduced at the request of the Real Estate Board. It would include among the exceptions in section 94, subdivision 2 of section 83-a relating to fire drills. Section 94 prescribes what sections of section 83-a shall be carried out by the owner of the tenant-factory by excepting subdivision 2 of 83-a, responsibility for fire drills. This is a reasonable amendment as it is quite obvious that the lessee and tenants of the building who are actually on the premises and directly responsible for its proper operation should conduct fire drills.

Senate Int. 441, Boylan. To amend the Labor Law, in relation to persons responsible for the observance and punishable for the non-observance of section eighty-eight.

This bill is approved. It was introduced at the request of the Real Estate Board. It amends section 94 of the Labor Law by excepting subdivision 2 of section 88 from the sections for which the responsibility is now placed on the owner. Subdivision 2 of section 88 makes the owner and not the lessee responsible for providing and maintaining for operatives wash-rooms and washing facilities, etc., and artificial illumination and ventilation. This is plainly a responsibility which should rest on the lessee and the amendment so places it.

Senate Int. 442, Boylan. To amend the Labor Law, in relation to persons responsible for the observance and punishable for the non-observance of section seventy-nine-c.

This bill is approved. It was introduced at the request of the Real Estate Board. It amends section 94 of the Labor Law by placing upon the lessee instead of the owner the responsibility for the provisions of section 79-c, subdivision 3, "access to exits." The present law requires that the owner instead of the respective lessee or tenant of enant-factories shall be responsible for maintaining continuously safe and unobstructed passageways, etc., to every means of exit including outside fire-escapes and passenger elevators, and for seeing that no door leading into or out of any factory shall be locked, bolted or fastened during working hours. On the face of it the owner of a building has no means of compelling his lessees or his tenants to do any of these things, without being actually on the ground and in many cases employing force, and this continuously, he could not insure the free access to exits and it is humanly impossible for him at all times to know that his tenants or lessees are keeping the doors unlocked as required. This question of the locked door has been extremely troublesome and while its unfairness has been obvious to those who have to administer the law they have been unable to do anything to relieve owners from carrying out this impossible requirement. The amendment would place the responsibility on the tenants.

Senate Int. 445, Boylan. To amend the Labor Law, in relation to persons responsible for the observance and punishable for the non-observance of section eighty-one.

This bill is approved. It was introduced at the request of the Real Estate Board. It amends section 94 of the Labor Law, by relieving owners from the responsibility for the requirements of section 81 of the same law, in relation to lighting of halls and stairways. Section 94 places the responsibility for this specifically upon the owner, instead of the respective lessees or tenants. The amendment would confine the responsibility of the owner to the lighting of public halls and public stairways.

Senate Int. 77, Gibbs. (Same as Assembly Int. 527, Blakeley.) To amend the public health law, in relation to wall paper and calcimine.

This bill is approved. It is similar to a bill introduced last year, Senate Int. 549, Halliday; Assembly Int. 417, Bush. It adds a new section to the Public Health Law, providing that in cities and villages with a population of 10,000 or more, the wall or ceiling of any building used by human beings for working purposes shall not be repapered or recalcimined until all the old paper and calcimine have been removed and the wall thoroughly cleaned. Violation is a misdemeanor. While this bill imposes another obligation upon real estate owners, it is a proper obligation and is approved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 360, Sheridan. To add to chapter 52 of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, section three hundred and twenty-a, relating to mortgages.

This bill is disapproved. The first paragraph of the bill is intended to compel the revelation on the record of facts concerning participation mortgages. Participation in mortgages usually becomes effective as to mortgages already on record and as the contracts between mortgagor and mortgagee have theretofore been made the section would not apply. If the participation arrangement is part of the original contract (in which case the section would apply) the penalty for failure to comply with the section is that "the party for whose interest the recording thereof is made shall derive no benefit from the recording thereof," and that such failure to comply to the section "shall be a com-

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule LXXXVI of the Supreme Court General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

Increase in Tax Rate.

It is fairly certain that the tax rate in each Borough, except Queens, will be fixed at about thirty points higher than last year. This increase follows automatically the great decrease in personal property taxes largely due to the workings of the Emerson Bill, and to the decrease in franchise assessments.

The falling off in the personal property taxes amounts to more than $165,000,000, while the drop in franchise assessments is about $25,000,000. The increase in real estate values is not large enough to cover the loss in these two items. The increased real estate assessment totals figure up only a little more than $105,000,000, so that there is about $85,000,000 less taxable values this year than in 1917, which will increase the rate about thirty points.

Queens has a still heavier burden because $1,236,000 is due and payable this year for the improvement of the Queensboro Boulevard. There seems to be no way to avoid making this payment this year, although the suggestion has been made that the amount be split up to cover a three-year period. There is, however, not time enough to obtain the necessary legislation to make this plan effective.

The boulevard payment will necessitate an additional tax in Queens of about twenty points, making the total addition to last year's taxes about fifty points.

New Light on Building.

All who are affiliated in any capacity with the building trades have heard endless unfavorable comment on the dearth of work and the lack of interest on the part of those connected with the industry. Contractors and material dealers have declared there was not sufficient construction in progress to warrant the maintenance of their offices and staffs, and in general the life of the industry was jeopardized by the unusual conditions now existing.

Numerous explanations have been advanced, many of them worthy of consideration. Few, however, are willing to concede a bright side to the situation. These pessimists are wrong, for if the situation is faced squarely the opposite viewpoint will become apparent.

There are a number of reasons to indicate that the building industry overlooked some important facts that obviously change the aspect of the present situation to a marked degree. We have heard upon all sides that the contracting business was practically at a standstill, with architects and engineers dormant so far as new projects were concerned.

A more comprehensive view of the conditions, however, should be sufficient to convince the most ardent pessimist that his own lack of vision was the prime factor responsible for his attitude. Primarily he should get acquainted with the real facts and then revise his mental viewpoint.

The following facts were obtained from extensive records and statistics compiled by the F. W. Dodge Co., and indicate that although there has been much pessimistic comment, an argument cannot be sustained when confronted with exact figures. In New York State and Northern New Jersey a grand total of 653 operations for which contracts were awarded last December and work actually started in January involved an expenditure of nearly $28,000,000. During the same period plans for 691 new structures were started, to cost, according to estimates, about $27,000,000. We have listened to arguments about the dearth of multi-family house construction and we realize the supply was unequal to the demand. Yet, there were 63 contracts placed at a valuation of $1,342,000 for work of this character and 96 new projects authorized representing a potential expenditure of $2,921,000. Contracts were let for five chapels and churches costing $80,000 and 15 new ones are being planned to cost $426,000.

There are plans in progress for 19 schools at an approximate cost of $2,727,000, and contracts have been placed for 13, costing $1,141,000. Plans were started for 23 warehouse and storage buildings to cost about $632,000 and contracts were entered into for the construction of 23 that involve a total of $1,770,000. The dwelling group indicates a movement of similar magnitude, as there are 196 new houses being planned, valued at $1,435,000, and 244 contracts, within the month, representing a total cost of $1,255,000.

These figures are only a part of those tabulated. They are quite sufficient, however, to indicate to the pessimistic that the fault lies with them and is not brought about by the true conditions. The Government construction for this territory alone represents the amazing total, during January, of 34 new projects costing $8,967,000, and 17 new contracts entered into involving an expenditure of $9,807,000. Already, for the current month, the new construction authorized and announced by the Federal departments is in excess of the volume projected and contracted for during last month, and as the war progresses and necessities arise, activity of this character will be materially increased.

In the face of the foregoing figures how can the building interests of this section of the country complain of a lack of opportunity? Rather the fault is theirs, caused by a lack of discernment and foresight that prevented a large majority from taking advantage of what was clearly within their grasp. It is sincerely to be hoped these figures, that are authentic and reliable, will assist greatly in driving away the clouds obscuring a clear view of the actual building conditions. The building interests should take heart.

The Barge Canal.

Announcement by the Barge Canal engineers that operation of the canal may be possible by May 15 has emphasized the importance of providing barges and completing terminals if any relief from traffic congestion is to be had in the near future. Senator Sage's bill authorizing the State to build or buy, or to help finance companies formed to build and operate barges, is in the right direction. But it will require concerted and energetic action on the part of State officials and private individuals if any adequate results are obtained this year.

The freight capacity of the canal is put at ten million tons a season. It will take a canal boat nearly one week to go from Buffalo to New York City. Allowing one week at each terminal for loading and unloading, including the delays which are certain to be encountered both in transit and at the terminals, a barge will average about one round trip each month.

Locks, the width of the canal at some sections, and the depth of twelve feet of water, fix the size of barges at 150 feet in length, 35 feet beam and 9½ feet depth, which limits the cargo capacity of each barge to about 800 tons. It will cost from $30,000 to $40,000 each to build barges of this description.

Figuring the tonnage to be carried in each direction through the canal at five million tons per season of seven months it will be necessary to provide 875 of these 800-ton barges, which at the minimum cost of $30,000 each, will aggregate $26,250,000. In this estimate of the tonnage necessary to handle the traffic no account has been taken of the barge in use on the old canal, many of which may be pressed into service under the new conditions prevailing on the improved waterway, although they are unsuitable for the proper functioning by this important adjunct to east and west freight trunk lines. Dependence on the old barges would be equivalent to the use by the railroads today of their equipment of twenty years ago.

The requisition by the Government of practically all the shipyards for the construction of ocean-going tonnage makes the task of equipping the Barge Canal with the necessary boats additionally difficult. It may, and probably will be, necessary to finance shipyard construction as well as the actual building of barges. This question of the equipment should not have been left to this late day.

It is gratifying to find that in the construction of the terminals the State officials have been more forehanded. Of the eight or more terminals to be provided for Greater New York at least two are practically ready for operation three are in process of construction and the calls for bids for contracts on three others have been made.

At Piers 5 and 6, East River, Manhattan, the work has been complete as far as the deck floor, leaving only the deck freight house to be built and the cranes for handling freight installed. These piers are each 500x85 feet and can be used now.

The piers at the foot of West 53 street, North River, will not be ready for service until next year. Part of the piles have been driven and some timber work done. In The Bronx at East 138th street, at Mott Haven on the Hudson River, there is a bulkhead wall 680 feet long and 100 feet wide, running back to Exterior street, which is parallel to the river. The piling on this job is about one-half done.

At the mouth of Newtown Creek, in Greenpoint, the wood pier, 400x40, is completed, and a concrete pier, 400x90, is under construction. The freight she on the upland is built and this terminal can also be used at any time. The depth of water at all the terminals mentioned above is sufficient for barges, but not for ocean-going vessels, and freight arriving at them will have to be transferred overland to other points if destined for transoceanic shipments.

On the Gowanus Canal the terminal not only has the longest piers, but the greatest depth of water. There is about 35 feet of water at low tide along the 900-foot bulkhead wall at the foot of Columbia and Henry streets, and the pier, which measures 1,200x150 feet, can accommodate a number of ocean-going steamers at the same time. The Government has taken over temporarily one-half of this terminal, and the work on the other pier will be postponed until after the war for this reason. There are fifty acres of ground back of the water front on which it is possible to erect grain elevators and other buildings for handling freight. Work on the wall and the first pier is well advanced and the terminal can be used next year.

In Queens there have been secured three sites for terminals, but no work has been done on them. Bids have been asked for on contracts for the jobs at Flushing, Hellett's Cove and north of the Queensboro Bridge, and it is expected that work will be commenced on these terminals within the next six months.

Retail Price of Coal.

As the result of the decision of the United States Fuel Administration to make the price of coal to retailers the same, whether purchased through jobbers or direct from the operators, it is contemplated that a reduction in the retail price will result. The jobber is at present permitted to add from fifteen to thirty cents a ton to the Government price, but under the new plan that commission will be eliminated. To offset this the mine price will be increased slightly and the jobber will be compelled to look to the operator for his profit.

There is nothing new in this method, for it was in vogue at the time that the Government took over control of the mines, and there seem to be several reasons why it is advisable to return to the old practice. It developed that under the system of allowing the jobbers a specific guaranteed commission it was possible for some operators to establish subsidiary companies solely for the purpose of selling, thereby absorbing the jobbers' commission.

The Fuel Administration realizes that the jobber is essential to the conduct of the coal business, and wants to assure his reasonable compensation and at the same time eliminate fictitious commissions which must be paid by the ultimate consumer. The following announcement was made this week by H. A. Garfield, United States Fuel Administrator:

"The United States Fuel Administrator makes the following announcement concerning the jobbers and jobbers' margins as defined in the President's order of August 23, 1917. The intention was to preserve a useful service at the hands of men experienced in the distribution of coal and to allow a reasonable charge for the service. It was the intention, furthermore, to deny this margin to anyone who did not actually render this service. Prior to the fixing of Government prices, it was customary for the jobber to purchase coal at a lower price than that generally allowed to the consumer, and to make his profit by selling to his customers at the market price. After the fixing of the Government prices, which included an allowance for jobbers' margins, unforeseen difficulties appeared. Many who were not entitled to the margin and did not perform any useful service, nevertheless absorbed the margin. It is virtually impossible satisfactorily to police the situation as it stands. The United States Fuel Administrator is satisfied that the only sound basis is to include in the Government price a proper allowance for selling expenses and to provide for the compensation of the distributor in that way.

"The United States Fuel Administrator therefore announces that on and after April 1, 1918, the limit of compensation of the jobber is removed, but that his compensation must come out of the Government price at the mine and may not be added to it. The mine prices will be republished prior to April 1, 1918, and at that time a proper allowance for selling expenses will be included in the prices."

The Jury System.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The apparent difficulty in obtaining eligible jurors for jury duty revives the suggestion oftentimes made that jury trials be dispensed with in commercial cases, and the recent provision made by the Chamber of Commerce for increased facilities for the handling of commercial differences by arbitration accentuates the advisability of some more or less radical changes in the laws applicable to the jury system. The popularity of the facilities afforded by the Chamber of Commerce evidences some dissatisfaction with our present system.

It is generally claimed that a final determination of a business difference may be had from the Committee on Arbitration in much less time than a trial can be had at law. It is also contended that a proceeding under arbitration is much less expensive than under litigation. And beyond all this there seems to be a feeling that the Committee on Arbitration is infinitely better fitted for the decision of commercial questions than is either a judge or a jury.

But whatever the cause may be the fact remains that among business people there is a growing distrust of the jury system as it now stands in so far, at least, as the same is applied to the trials of commercial disputes. And certain it is that many of our great business institutions look hopefully to the plan of arbitration created by the Chamber of Commerce under which their differences may be submitted to arbitration.

If my own experience of more than thirty-five years is of value, I may say that I cannot recall one case, in the trial of which I participated, that I would have hesitated to have dispensed with a jury. Personally I believe that the ordinary commercial case is better tried before a judge without a jury than otherwise.

From expressions of opinion it is quite clear that, with one or two exceptions, the judicial mind clings to the perpetuation of the trial by jury, in some one form or another, of commercial or business disputes. I am constrained to believe, however, that in this respect the bench does not echo the sentiments of the great business interests of the community. One hears constantly expressions of dissatisfaction at the results of jury trials in commercial cases, and there has grown up among business people a willingness to settle their disputes out of court on most any terms rather than have them submitted to a jury under the present system of selection.

Our judges are elected by the people, or they are appointed by executives to whom the people voluntarily give that power. The judiciary as a result is directly or indirectly chosen by the people, and presumably chosen because of their fitness for the duties that they will be called upon to perform. We are prepared to submit our differences to our judges with full confidence in their fairness and in their ability to decide the questions presented to them. May the same be said generally of our jurors? There is a deep seated and growing feeling among merchants and others interested in commerce that it may not.

There is no doubt much to be said for the retention of the jury system on the criminal side of our courts, but so far as the ordinary commercial dispute or difference is concerned there are many who believe that the jury system has outlived its usefulness.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 304.—An attorney for a Savings Bank, to which application has been made for a mortgage loan, passes title, deeds are given and money paid. Six months later the attorney learns that an old village tax has not been paid and demands return of the amount from the seller. Can he legally enforce payment and does refusal impair warranty deed?

Answer No. 304.—The question is hardly intelligible, and the answer depends entirely upon the papers executed. If the writer means that a loan was made by a Savings Bank secured by a mortgage upon his property, and that at the time the mortgage was made a tax remained unpaid, a lien upon said premises, which the attorney for the Savings Bank neglected to notice, the rights of the mortgagee depend upon the form of the mortgage. If the mortgage is in the usual form and contains warranty of title and a covenant and that there are no encumbrances upon the premises prior to the mortgage lien, the bank can compel the mortgagor to make payment of the tax. What the question means by publication for a mortgage loan, who the seller is and how warranty deed enters into the matter at all cannot be understood.

Fire Hazard.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

New York City is in grave danger of a general conflagration due to shortage of coal and an excessive winter. This is not an alarmist statement, but a fact stated by Fire Chief Kenlon and proclaimed publicly by the Mayor. It is doubtful whether this statement of peril has been seriously taken, at least seriously enough to bring results. It should be reiterated until it brings a mental reaction that will lead to greater care with the cigarette butt, the over-hot stove, the pile of rubbish in the cellar, and to the readiness of the hand extinguisher, the standpipe and the sprinkler system.

But what has the shortage of coal and a bad winter got to do with all this, asks the average man. Just this—lack of coal to keep buildings warm has crippled at least a thousand sprinkler systems in the warehouse and manufacturing district, according to an authority, and many standpipes and even fire extinguishers have been damaged by freezing. And it is not generally known how much the Fire Department depends on sprinkler systems in certain districts—the most dangerous districts—to prevent general conflagration.

Unfortunate then is a tendency of property owners once having installed sprinkler systems and other fire-fighting apparatus, to consider their duty done and everything else up to the Fire Department and the insurance company. This letter is an appeal to all such to realize that they alone are responsible, and responsible all the time, to see that such apparatus is kept in condition for immediate and effective use to save their own property and indirectly that of their neighbors.

As chairman of the Committee on Fire Prevention of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, I desire, therefore, to reiterate the fact, as publicly as possible, and to urge the necessity of every precaution by every person that another disaster be not added to our present troubles.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEKReal Estate Board's Benefit—Cunard Line to Have New Building—Other Brokerage Reports

NEXT Thursday an auction sale of seats for the benefit performance to be held on Sunday, March 3d, at the Hippodrome, will take place in the rooms of the Real Estate Board of New York. Joseph P. Day will be the auctioneer, assisted by Laurence McGuire, president of the board. Announcement is made that one of the features for the performance will be provided by the boys of Camp Upton, detailed by General Johnson, and the Navy will be represented with special drills and the signal exhibitions arranged by Lieutenant M. S. Benthall, U. S. N., by direction of Rear Admiral Usher, U. S. N., and Lieutenant John Philip Sousa.

The performance will mark the farewell appearance in New York this season of the Chicago Opera Orchestra, with G. Sturani and M. Charlier conducting. Mary Garden will be the star of the operatic section of the program.

Other artists who will appear include: Sybil Vane, with the girls of the Hippodrome, Carolina Lazzari, Francesca Peralta, Forrest Lamont, Germaine Clerget, Eva Gauthier, Florence Macbeth, Lieutenant B. C. Hilliam of the Canadian forces and Fred Walton.

Increased membership in the Fifth Avenue Association was reported at the annual meeting yesterday in Delmonico's, nearly two hundred new names having been added. The board of directors and the following officers were re-elected: Chairman of the board, Ancell H. Ball; president, Robert Grier Cooke; first vice-president, Michael Drieger; second vice-president, Michael Friedsam; third vice-president, Henry J. Cochran; secretary, William W. Hoppin; treasurer, Thomas B. Clarke, jr.; Bruce M. Falconer was reappointed counsel.

A number of interesting sales and leases made up the budget of brokerage reports. These deals compare in importance with any week since last fall.

The most important announcement was the projected erection of a large office building on the historic site of the old Stevens house at 27 Broadway. The property was purchased by Irons & Todd, builders, from William H. Mairs, the Manhattan Railway Company, and John P. Brennan, and so soon as the new building is completed it will be turned over to the 25 Broadway Corporation, which is controlled by the Cunard Steamship Company.

Fire Exchange Ruling.

At the meeting of the New York Fire Insurance Exchange last week action was taken providing that the Manhattan high pressure area within which special allowances or modified charges are now provided for certain classes of risks, was extended to include the two areas most recently equipped with the high pressure or separate fire main system. The areas affected are the territory bounded by West 23d street, Madison avenue, West 34th street and the North River, and the territory bounded by Chambers street, Park Row, Nassau street, Maiden Lane and the East River, New York Harbor and North River water fronts; such allowances or modified charges, as to risks lying within these two added territories, to be applied only in future ratings or reratings which under the general rules of the Exchange involve either a full survey or a full occupancy report.

The Manhattan high pressure area, as thus extended, will include that portion of the Borough of Manhattan lying south and west of the following described boundary line drawn across the borough from river to river, both sides of all the streets and avenues named lying within the area:

From the North River along West 34th street, Madison avenue, East 24th street, Lexington avenue, East 21st street, Gramercy Park East, East 20th street, Irving place, East 14th street, Third avenue, the Bowery, and East Houston street to the East River.

All rate cards bearing date February 14 or later will include the allowance here provided for, if any is due.

Another insurance matter that is again being agitated is the rating of risks in Manhattan and the Bronx as compared with rates in other sections of the State. The bill that was introduced in the Legislature last year by Mr. Callahan for the purpose of equalizing rates in the Bronx has been again introduced by Assemblyman Sheridan.

Back of the bill is the agitation for a reunion of the rates in New York City so as to relieve this section of carrying more than its proportionate share of the burden imposed by the relatively greater losses in other parts of the state. The bill was originally intended to lead to the equalization of the rates between the Annex district of the Bronx and that part of the Borough which was included with Manhattan in the scale. This matter has since been adjusted satisfactorily by the State Insurance Department.

The question of the readjustment of rates in the city came up at the last meeting of the Insurance Exchange. In view of the extra hazard in the city due to the coal shortage, and consequent failure of sprinkler and other automatic fire prevention devices to work, it was agreed that the matter would not be taken up until normal conditions again prevailed.

Another factor that was influential with the members of the Exchange was that during the period of the war there was additional risk due to fires in munition plants, chemical manufactories, etc. The large number of fires along the docks, due largely to war conditions, was also brought forward as proving the additional liability of the insurance companies during the war, and as justification for no sweeping change in the rates at the present time.

Incidentally the Insurance Department is not friendly to the proposal incorporated in Assemblyman Sheridan's bill, fearing that it opens the way to political and other influences in bringing about a readjustment of rates established by long practice.

New Rules Adopted.

The Board of Standards and Appeals has adopted an amendment to the fire alarm rules which permits mechanical, non-coded closed circuit or coded closed circuit fire alarm signal systems in five-story factory buildings. This is one of the suggestions made by the Real Estate Board when the rules were being revised. The revised rules recently issued permitted these signals only up to four stories. The rule was adopted on February 7 and is effective March 6. It reads as follows:

Rule 7.—Five-story factories. In factory buildings, as defined in the Labor Law, not exceeding five stories in height nor 2,500 square feet in area in any story above the first, occupied by not more than one tenant, in which not more than one hundred persons are employed at any time above the first story, or occupied as a tenant factory in which not more than fifty persons are employed at any time above the first story, the fire commissioner shall accept either mechanical, non-coded closed circuit or coded closed circuit fire alarm signal systems.

The Board of Standards and Appeals on the same day adopted another rule, also effective March 6. It reads as follows:

Affidavit as to use. Every applicant for a permit for the reconstruction or alteration of any building under section 6 of the building zone resolution shall submit with his application an affidavit setting forth the use of the building in question at the time of the passage of the building zone resolution and further setting forth any and every change in use which has been made since the adoption of the said resolution.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel J. P. Goldman, Chairman

Broker's Commission.

IN an action for broker's commissions the New York Appellate Division, in Shapiro v. Benenson, 167 N. Y. Supp. 1004, makes the following rulings: Where a broker foregoes a fixed commission on a sale of land as consideration for an agreement whereby he is given the sale of other land, on refusal of the principal to perform the second contract the broker could either elect to disaffirm the second contract and be restored to the consideration parted with, or recover damages for breach of the second contract. It is not necessary to plead rescission of the second contract to recover the consideration where he had received nothing thereunder; the bringing of the action being a sufficient notice. He cannot sue for damages for breach of the second contract and at the same time rely on such released commission as damages, on the ground that the owner was estopped to deny that he was damaged to that extent; it being necessary to rescind to recover the commission.

Liability for Deficiency.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage the only question was as to the liability of the Mortgagor M. for the deficiency. The mortgage was made by M. for $4,000, with interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. Subsequently he transferred the property to S., and the rate of interest at that time was 5 per cent. On September 15, 1914, the mortgagee wrote a letter to S. notifying her that the rate of interest on the mortgage from October 1, 1914, would be 6 per cent. It is held that the mere notice by letter of a raising of the interest rate and payment of such interest by S. did not show a binding agreement to change the rate of interest, or that there was consideration for such an agreement and extension of the mortgage so as to relieve M. from liability for the deficiency on foreclosure. Rafel v. Maurer, 167 N. Y. Supp. 941.

LEGISLATION.

plete full defense to any action to foreclose said mortgage." This paragraph is clothed in some obscurity and in any event I hardly think the courts would enforce so drastic remedies as those therein provided. The second paragraph of the bill is very poorly drafted; just what the phrases "any transfer whatever in which is involved a mortgage" and "innocent party" might be interpreted to mean is involved in obscurity. The author evidently has some ideas on an important subject, but they are clothed in language which if placed on the Statute Books would be the source of endless litigation.

Senate Int. 406, C. F. Thompson. To amend the Greater New York Charter, generally.

This bill is disapproved. It proposes that the city shall go into the business of building, equipping, purchasing and operating omnibuses, motor omnibuses or other like vehicles, together with garages, machine shops and repair shops to be operated in connection with such vehicles. It would also create a Public Utilities Department, the jurisdiction of which, for the time, is to be restricted to all matters affecting municipally owned and operated omnibuses. The measure seems to be an important and seriously intended step in the direction of municipal ownership and operation of public utilities. It has been introduced by Senator G. F. Thompson, a Republican, representing an up-state district, who was chairman of a legislative committee that investigated and caused the reorganization of the Public Service Commission of the First District, a few years ago. The bill presents the municipal ownership issue in a manner that is unavoidable. It apparently must be faced by the Legislature and by the people of New York City, with the realization that the proposition that the city shall own and operate motor-omnibuses is the opening wedge which is intended ultimately to split away all public utilities from private control. The advocates of municipal ownership and operation of public utilities contend that as their panacea for local transportation evils and inadequacies was contained in the platform of the political party that swept the city in the last municipal election, it follows that our people want local public utilities owned and operated by the municipality. Their opponent argued that the issue of municipal ownership was completely overshadowed in the municipal campaign of 1917 by the attacks made upon the efficiency and integrity of the Mitchel Administration, and was not seriously considered even by those who supported Judge Hylan at the polls. As a matter of fact, the candidates elected upon the platform containing the municipal ownership plank received substantially less than a majority of the total vote cast, although they all achieved heavy pluralities. Under the circumstances, it would seem that whether or not the local electorate favors municipal ownership and operation of public utilities has not, as yet, been definitely determined. Why not submit the question to a referendum, as a distinct proposition, at the ensuing election? Meanwhile, let all legislation upon the subject be deferred until the result of such referendum has been promulgated.

Assembly Int. 437, Drachley. To amend the Penal Law, in relation to public traffic in real property on Sunday.

This bill is disapproved. It proposes to amend the Penal Law to prohibit the public trafficking in real property on Sunday. Its apparent purpose is to prevent not only the actual buying, selling, leasing or mortgaging of real property on Sunday, but the inspection on that day of such property by persons who may contemplate purchasing or leasing the same. Just why this proposed addition should be made to our existing farcical "Blue Laws" is not clear, unless it is to prevent thrifty working people from examining property, offered them for purchase, upon the only day that they can make such inspections without loss of wage-earning time. This proposed imposition upon home-seekers should be vigorously opposed.

Assembly Int. 464, Garfinkel. To amend the General City Law, in relation to the renting of apartments in cities.

This bill is disapproved. It provides that the rent agreed upon at the time an apartment or "apartment dwelling" is rented shall be the maximum rental to be charged for the twelve months next ensuing, unless an express agreement in writing be made to the contrary at the time of such renting. The measure further provides that "where the landlord intends to raise the rent at the expiration of such twelve months' period, he must give notice thereof to the tenant at least thirty days before the expiration of such period." It also contains this somewhat revolutionary provision: "The rent now charged to any tenant of any such apartment or apartment house dwelling shall constitute the maximum rent to be charged for the same apartment or apartment house dwelling until May 1, 1919, and thereafter until the landlord shall have given thirty days' written notice of an intention to raise the rent." Supposedly, the bill is intended to apply only to tenancies "from month to month," but it would affect as well those now held under written leases for a year. The measure is not only unconstitutional, but it is so utterly impracticable from every angle that it will hardly be taken seriously by the Legislature.

Assembly Int. 559, Karlin. To amend the Workmen's Compensation Law, in relation to the time from which compensation is allowed to injured employees, amount of such compensation and medical treatment of injured employees.

This bill is disapproved. This is an unwise amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Law. It is generally conceded by those who have a knowledge of the working of the Compensation Act that a short waiting period between the injury and the compensation would furnish an opportunity for grave irregularity. The present waiting period was fixed at two weeks. Workmen will obviously not stay out of work for two weeks unless compelled to do so. In relation to the provision for medical treatment under the wording of the bill it might compel medical treatment for life.

The Repair of Deterioration

Suppose you close your office or factory to-day—"fire" everybody, lock the door, quit.

And when the war is won, and won by US it will be, you want to start up again.

What has happened in the meantime?

Deterioration!

Rust, dust, mold, damp—each has taken its toll. Machines and materials are virtual junk. Your ledgers are the records of a business that is dead.

By simply quitting—by simply doing nothing—you have incurred a loss that will cost many thousands of dollars to regain.

Apply this thought to your advertising.

Quit for the duration of the war—and what happens?

Deterioration!

Your name becomes a memory—your trademark a cryptic sign. You have "scrapped" your good-will and prestige.

By simply quitting you have incurred a loss that will cost many thousands of dollars to repair.

I know that there are many who wish to maintain their position in spite of war orders and other critical circumstances.

For the benefit of these, our Service Department is at this time devoting particular attention to advertising designed to meet present conditions.

(No. 13 of a continued series)

Wants Increased Gas Rate.

The Bronx Gas and Electric Company, serving the territory represented by the old town of Westchester in the Bronx, now part of the 24th Ward, has petitioned the Public Service Commission for permission to charge $1.50 per thousand cubic feet for illuminating gas. Its present rate is $1.00 a thousand cubic feet. The company alleges various reasons as need for increased revenue. The Commission has taken the petition under consideration and at its meeting on Wednesday, February 20, will doubtless set a date for a hearing at which the company will be called upon to set forth in detail its reasons for desiring the increase. The principal reason set forth by the company in the application is that it does not now receive an amount equal to the cost of production and that each thousand cubic feet of gas manufactured and delivered costs $1.145, "without any return whatever upon the capital investment." The petition states that this cost will speedily increase to $1.20, and that adding to this sum a proper return upon the capital invested the total cost and value of the gas furnished by the petitioner will be for the ensuing year at least $1.50 per thousand.

Hearing on February 25.

The Public Service Commission has directed a hearing to be held on February 25 at 2.30 p. m. in reference to the rates charged for auxiliary or breakdown service by the several electrical corporations in New York City. This hearing will also have a special reference to the furnishing of auxiliary service by the electrical companies to consumers who have private plants on their premises, but who cannot economically operate them in the summer months when there is no call to use exhaust steam for building heating purposes. The suggestion has been made that rates should be established under which it would be economical for private plant owners to use the service of the electrical stations of the electric companies for lighting and power during the summer months. The Commission regards this suggestion as a step in the direction of fuel conservation and hence has notified the several fuel conservators of New York City of the proposed hearing, inviting their attendance.

Connecting Bridge.

The Hell Gate Bridge crossing the East River, which connects the Pennsylvania and New Haven Railroad systems, is playing an important part in the movement of troops from the south and west to the Long Island training camps, according to an article appearing in the December issue of Queensborough.

The Hell Gate bridge, with nearly three miles of elevated approaches, constitutes one of the greatest engineering projects of the world, overshadowed only by its importance as a trade route and public utility for freight traffic. The bridge was opened for passenger traffic between Boston and Washington in April, 1917, and is rapidly nearing completion as a freight carrying route.

The latest information from the engineers in charge shows that four tracks are completed (two freight and two passenger) from Port Morris in the Bronx to Sunnyside Yards in Queens, where the road joins with the Long Island Railroad. From Sunnyside Junction to Metropolitan avenue one track is ready for operation of freight. From Metropolitan avenue to Fresh Pond Junction two tracks are ready. In fact, two tracks along the whole route are expected to be completed within a few weeks excepting one-half mile.

Queens Borough will profit directly by this new all rail route to New England and the West, which will avoid all the cumbersome delay in the lightering of freight cars on floats from Long Island to the main land. Apart from the matter of convenience, it is estimated that 24 hours will be saved in the shipment of goods originating in Queens and Brooklyn.

"Largest Order Ever Placed."

As a result of the vigorous insistence of the Public Service Commission, fortified by recent judicial decisions, that action be taken at once to secure new cars needed for adequate service on Brooklyn lines, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company within the next few days will place orders for what is described as "the largest purchase of new equipment which has ever been the outcome of a regulatory proceeding before the Public Service Commission in this or any other State." Defeated repeatedly in the courts and shaken in its contention that new cars are so little needed that it would be "unpatriotic" to require it to purchase now, the company will place orders calling for a considerably larger expenditure than did the commission's original requirement. The R. T. Company assured the Commission that it will immediately spend more than $3,000,000 for new cars, of which 100 will be big steel cars for rapid transit lines and 50 will be surface-car "trailers" of the largest practicable seating capacity. The company will also start at once to convert 100 of its center-entrance surface cars for multiple-unit operation and 50 four-motor cars to serve as "leaders" for the "trailers," and the multiple-unit cars will be used in two-car train operation on congested surface lines.

Commission Moves.

In order that the Federal Reserve Bank might obtain much needed office space for the next Liberty Loan, the Public Service Commission has moved a portion of its offices to the building at 99 Lafayette street, in which all of the offices of the Commission are to be located after May 1. While the Commission's lease for its quarters in the Equitable Building does not expire until May, recognizing the imperative need of providing the Federal Reserve Bank with the space necessary to conduct its activities, the Commission consented to move its Division of Designs, which prepares the plans for new subways, to the Lafayette street building. This removal was accomplished on February 9, and released about 18,000 square feet for the use of the bank. The bank asked that the Commission provide this much space for it by February 15.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 21 as against 22 last week and 30 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 6 as compared with 7 last week and 15 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 15 as compared with 15 last week and 15 a year ago.

From the Bronx 8 sales at private contract were reported as against 5 last week and 14 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 240 of this issue.

Historic Stevens House Sold.

With the sale of the old Stevens house property at 27 Broadway another one of the famous landmarks in the Battery Park section will become a thing of the past. Irons & Todd, builders, purchased the property from William H. Mairs, the Manhattan Railway Company and John P. Brennan. Arrangements have been made for the erection of a tall office structure, which when completed will be turned over to the 25 Broadway Corporation, controlled by the Cunard Line. Plans for the new structure are in course of preparation in the office of Benjamin W. Morris. Carrere & Hastings are associate architects in the new project. The transaction in its entirety will involve approximately $10,000,000. The deal was negotiated by the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company. John P. Todd stated this week that work would begin this year regardless of war conditions. Various reports have been in circulation as to how high the building would go, twenty-six stories having been mentioned. The property has a Broadway frontage of 203.8 feet and measures 233.4 feet in Morris street, and 227 feet in Greenwich street. The Cunard Line recently completed new headquarters on the river front at Liverpool, and its intention to erect a building for permanent headquarters in this city is indicative of the confidence felt by the company in the future shipping business of New York. The Stevens house was erected 114 years ago. It was acquired by the seller in 1891.

Shipbuilder Transfers Holdings.

Charles E. Gremmels, shipbuilder and realty operator, transferred to the newly formed Providential Realty & Improvement Company, Inc., of which Mr. Gremmels is president, and John J. Weiss, secretary and treasurer, properties located in Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn and Richmond. In Manhattan, the transferred parcels include 369 to 373 First avenue; 16 Suffolk street, and the northwest corner of First avenue and 94th street, all new-law tenements; also the dwellings at 25 East 94th street, and 57 East 121st street; three modern apartment buildings in the Bronx located at 1705 to 1709 Fulton avenue; also sixty-two lots on Broadway, 230th street, and 231st street, and on Albany terrace, Vreeland place, and Kimberly place, upon which the new owner will erect taxpayers and apartment houses; also ten lots on Kingsbridge terrace and 228th street, upon which it is planned to build apartment houses. In Brooklyn, the dwelling 1374 Pacific street, is included in the deal. Mr. Gremmels has been a heavy buyer of property on Staten Island, and has transferred dwellings of various types at Mariner's Harbor and on Richmond terrace. He also transferred six lots on Richmond turnpike, and fifty lots at Westleigh, S. I., which will be improved with residences in the near future. Two stucco dwellings at 730 and 737 Bidwell avenue are also included. In addition 231 lots acquired by Mr. Gremmels on Livermore avenue and Watchogue road are to be improved with dwellings to house ship workers and other artisans in various other enterprises now being directed by the United States Government. The company has also arranged to take over waterfront sites which are under various contracts, and option, and is negotiating for the purchase of other properties in Manhattan and vicinity.

West 21st street, to R. Kaufstein. The property was held free and clear of mortgage, and was sold for a cash price stated to be approximately $150,000. It covers an area of about eight lots, the 22d street end being improved with three and four-story loft buildings have a frontage of 125 feet, while the 21st street portion, measuring 75 feet, is unimproved. The depth is 197.6 feet. The original holding of the Down family at this point contained about eleven lots. The heirs recently disposed of the east end to the New York Central Railroad for a right-of-way for its proposed West Side extension. The buyer contemplates the improvement of the site with a large garage. George W. Mercer and John P. Finneran were the brokers. Leopold Moschowitz represented the buyer as attorney.

Upper Drive Corner Sold.

Benjamin Winter, of Winter Realty, Inc., purchased the six-story apartment at the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 181st street, on a plot 125x125; also a similar property at the northeast corner of Haven avenue and 180th street, 125x100, and the two six-story walk-up apartment houses at the southeast corner of Broadway and 184th street, 75x103. The four properties show an aggregate rent-roll of about $80,000, and were held by the seller, the Great Northern Construction Company, at $650,000. Samuel Ginsberg was the broker.

Large Sale on Washington Heights.

Freidus & Company sold to investors four houses on Washington Heights. Three of the houses were in one parcel, and include the six-story buildings at 514 to 524 West 146th street, 180 feet west of Amsterdam avenue, owned by the College Holding Company, Max E. Levine, president. The houses occupy plots 40x99.11 feet each, and were acquired by the seller about fifteen months ago from the State Banking Department, and were held at $165,000. The remaining house is a five-story building, 25x112.6 feet, at 400 West 163d street, which was sold by Nellie Rosenberg and was held at $30,000.

Building Again Resold.

Andrew J. Connick and Max Marx purchased 38 East 68th street, a five-story house. This is the sixth transaction in which this property has been involved since 1912, in which year it was sold by William H. Barnard to Stephen C. Clark, and in turn was acquired by Frederick Wynant, Mrs. Sophie von Brzezicka, Martin T. Manton, and Thomas Bodger, who is the seller in the present transaction.

Buys in the Bronx.

Lillian-Tremont Realities, composed of Ole G. Bertelsen, C. G. Cleo and Hans Anderson, bought from the Comity Mortgage Company the plot 79.5x80.6x irregular, at the southwest corner of Tremont avenue and Lillian place, for improvement with a five-story tenement. The selling company will advance a building loan of $56,000. The Comity Company acquired the property last December in foreclosure proceedings.

Sale on Inwood Hill.

Mr. Minosuke Yanaguchi bought from the estate of Isaac D. Cole ten lots with a two-and-one-half story frame dwelling and stable on the top of Inwood Hill at a position which would be 204th street, were it extended. The property fronts 128.2 feet on the west side of Prescott avenue, and runs through for a distance of about 205 feet to St. Nicholas place. Frank Volz was the broker.

Deal in Produce Section.

The five-story building at 197 West street, and 52 and 54 Jay street, forming the southeast corner of those thoroughfares, has been sold by John W. Griggs, who acquired it June 11, 1898. It has been held at about $40,000. The property has a West street frontage of 29.2 feet, and extends 79.11 feet to Caroline street.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

ALTHOUGH business during the past week was seriously interrupted by another legal holiday there was a most favorable showing of new construction, both projected and actually placed under contract. Probably the most interesting as well as important operation in the news of the period was the proposed office building scheduled for erection upon the site of the Stevens House at the southwest corner of Broadway and Morris street and running through to Greenwich street. The plans are being prepared by Benjamin W. Morris and Carrere & Hastings, associated architects, for Irons & Todd, owners and builders. When completed, this building, which will cost between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000, will be turned over to a holding company, and occupied by the Cunard Steamship Co.

For some time the Record and Guide has predicted a strong building movement to start with the advent of the spring months and current signs point to the fulfillment of these predictions by a marked increase both in the number and value of structural operations during the balance of the year. The recent inclement weather has been one of the prime causes for withholding quite a number of substantial building projects from an immediate start, and now that weather conditions have materially improved, with a consequent relief to the fuel situation and railroad congestion, it is more than likely that considerable new activity will be apparent within the next few weeks.

During the past two weeks Government building work again occupied a prominent position in the news. From the viewpoint of the building trades and the material interests, this phase of activity is taking on additional significance, both from the fact of its great cost and necessity and again because it assists in enabling the contractors to hold their working forces intact pending a general revival of building operations of a private character.

The schedule of new projects required by the Government's military program is a most ambitious one, affecting the building trades in practically all of its branches and involving all parts of the country in its scope. This work will call for the consumption of immense quantities of materials at an expenditure of millions of dollars. The labor element alone is an item of paramount importance, involving as it does thousands of mechanics and laborers for various periods. The working plans for these projects are well advanced and Congress has been asked for the necessary appropriations to expedite the work. A large percentage of this building will be awarded on a cost plus basis, without competition, but there are many that will be figured in the open market and let to the lowest responsible bidders. This type of construction will provide an excellent opportunity for the builders of the nation to participate in this work, doing a patriotic service while holding their mechanical forces intact for the time when private building again returns to the normal.

The markets for building materials and supplies are generally quiet, although there are additional signs of new life apparent each day. Orders are somewhat more frequent and inquiries growing in volume. The difficulty of obtaining adequate stocks for the local markets has been one of the prime deterrents, and with better weather conditions relieving the railroad congestion and making navigation in nearby waters more certain, this condition should soon adjust itself. The markets are almost without reserve stocks and there is a distinct shortage in certain lines, but with improved transportation facilities that will permit new supplies to be brought into the Metropolitan markets and assure more prompt deliveries of structural essentials to the jobs, the general situation will be improved and active construction started on an important scale. Material prices are holding firmly, with no changes of consequence noted during the week. There are possibilities, however, that a sudden demand for materials would have the effect of strengthening current prices to some degree, as the supplies on hand in most lines are extremely light.

Common Brick.—Manufacturers and dealers in Hudson River common brick are more hopeful today than they have been for some weeks. The change of feeling has been brought about by the fact of the sale of two barge loads during the week and a substantial increase in the number of inquiries for future deliveries. Last Saturday brought an increase of 25 cents a thousand in the price of brick and the ruling quotations are $10.25 a thousand, to dealers, in cargo lots. It is thought that this figure will hold for awhile, but as there is only a slight reserve, aside from those stocks in the hands of the jobbers, there is no prediction what effect a suddenly increased demand might have upon the wholesale market. Although the weather has moderated greatly and the navigation of the lower Hudson is possible, there is no traffic possible above Tarrytown, and it will require some weeks of the most favorable sort of weather conditions before brick barges are released from the Haverstraw district and those points above. The Raritan situation is unchanged. The waters are ice-bound and as the demand is not heavy no attempt will be made to force matters.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, February 22, 1918. Conditions of market: Demand improved; prices higher. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10.25 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none; sales, 2. Distribution, Manhattan, 1; New Jersey points, 1.

Face Brick.—Business in this line has not been particularly brisk, but according to one of the prominent dealers market conditions could be infinitely worse than they are at present. The wheel of progress has unquestionably started to turn for them and from this time forth they are looking for a steady improvement in the building situation. There are quite a few important building projects of interest to the manufacturers and dealers in face brick about ready to start, and the commencement of these would tend to materially brighten the future outlook. Face brick prices are firm and as there has been no decrease in production costs no recession in wholesale prices are thought likely for some time.

Lumber.—The past week has brought no material change to the local lumber situation, but there is a strong undercurrent of feeling indicating considerably better times in the early future, both from the viewpoint of volume of business and ability to obtain adequate supplies of new material. There is practically no demand emanating from the building interests for new construction work of a private nature. This is generally attributed to the inclement weather lately experienced. There is a strong demand, however, for materials for the local work required in the furtherance of the Government building program and from manufacturers who have Federal contracts for munitions and supplies. Generally the stocks in the hands of the retailers are at a low ebb and but small quantities have recently come in to relieve the situation. The wholesale market is firm and from all accounts there is almost no likelihood of important price changes in the near future. The principal difficulty of the lumber interests is in obtaining delivery of lumber from the mills. With improved transportation conditions both by rail and water so that deliveries could be accomplished within a reasonable period the lumber situation would take on a more hopeful aspect, as there is sufficient business in sight to create a busy spring and summer season.

Structural Steel.—Improved weather conditions and relieved traffic congestion of the railroads has been responsible for a better feeling in the steel industry. The tonnage output has improved somewhat and manufacturers are anticipating a further betterment as the spring season advances. Government business predominates and the efforts of the industry are being spent to meet the Federal requirements as they arise. There is somewhat of an improved showing in the demand for fabricated material for private construction. This improvement is at the present time mainly in the form of inquiries for operations now being planned, but if satisfactory terms can be arranged there is every probability that a large percentage of these contemplated projects will mature at an early date. Recently, in the Metropolitan district, a number of large building operations have been announced. The total tonnage requirements will be large and if the industry, in addition to its Federal business, is in a position to supply the demands, and deliver fabricated material within a reasonable time, the effect upon the building industry in these parts will be most favorable. At the present writing there has been no change in the mill base quotations and the industry is anxiously waiting to learn what the Government will impose as the conditions for the second quarter.

Portland Cement.—Although there has been no material change in the cement market situation, the improved weather has effectually brightened the outlook and there is a feeling that the future is more certain than it has been for some time. Business has been light but inquiries are indicating a renewal of interest in construction work over a wide territory. Prices are firm at the $2.15 level and likely to remain at that figure for a time.

Reinforcing Bars.—There is an indication of new activity in this line as a result of the number of reinforced concrete structures being planned for an early start. This work is for both the Government and large industrial projects. There has been no change in the wholesale price. The figure of $2.90 a hundred pounds, mill base, as fixed by the Government, is still in effect.

Roofing Slate.—New roofing slate prices recently became effective in the Metropolitan district. The current quotations are indicating an advance of approximately $1 a square in some of the Pennsylvania productions, and on No. 1, sea green and certain sizes of Vermont intermediate sea green product. In the latter instance, however, the advance was only 35c. No. 1 clear red and mottled red is advanced $1 on all sizes, and No. 1 Maine quotations have been entirely withdrawn with prices only made on application for specific operations.

Nails.—There is a grave scarcity of both cut and wire nails and jobbers are handicapped severely as there is a heavy demand. Prices are unchanged.

CREATING JEWISH SOCIAL CENTER

bers of the association can participate. I. J. Phillips, 1150 Broadway, is the chairman of the building committee.

The plans and specifications for this operation were prepared by Louis Allen Abramson, architect, 220 Broadway, who has had a most successful experience in designing and planning structures of this character. Thomas J. Bird, 30 East 42d street, was the steel engineer, and Chauncey Matlock, 30 East 42d street, was the engineer in charge of the plumbing, heating, and ventilation. The building will represent the expenditure of more than $150,000.

The construction of this building was under the direction of A. L. Mordecai & Son, 30 East 42d street, who obtained the general contract and the following concerns supplied labor and materials for the work: Jacob Volk House Wrecking Co., 103 Park avenue, wrecking; Hinkle Iron Co., 534 West 56th street, structural steel; Micwiel Co., 162 East 23d street, mason work; James H. Young Stone Co., Locust avenue and 136th street, limestone; Annett & McConnell, 6 West 141st street, granite; man avenue, Brooklyn, ornamental iron; Lasette & Murphy, 238 West 108th street, plumbing; Jackson Mantle & Grate Works, 2 West 33d street, tile; Southern & Marshall, 247 East 43d street, interior trim; Jacobson & Co., 241 East 44th street, plain and ornamental plastering; Voska, Foelsch & Sidlo, 61 Mills street, Astoria, L. I.; Hyman Denker, 5 West 111th street, painting, and Cassidy & Son, 101 Park avenue, lighting fixtures.

The new structure is now erected so as to include the cornice directly over the fourth story. Provisions have been made so that in future the superstructure may be added. The building occupies a plot 60x100 feet, and includes a spacious lobby and auditorium on the first floor with coat rooms and lavatories on the second floor. The synagogue extends through the third and fourth floors with the exception of the front of the building where the fourth floor space is to be used as a library, room for trustees, and gallery. The additional stories that will be erected at some future time will contain the following: Fifth and sixth floors, gymnasium and exercise rooms; seventh and eighth floors, natorium and baths, including steam and hot rooms, showers, etc., and sleeping rooms; ninth floor, class and club rooms for juniors; tenth floor, club rooms and banquet hall, with necessary kitchen, and pantries.

The facade of this structure has been designed in a severe early Italian Renaissance style and has been constructed of Indiana limestone and granite. The auditorium is finished in a delicate Adam style. The synagogue is interesting in that it has a seating arrangement that is novel in the manner in which the sections for men and women are segregated. This room is treated in a severe Italian Renaissance style with imitation Kato stone pilasters and cornice and Famosa marble columns. The library is, and the club rooms will be paneled in early English wainscoting, with cork flooring.

Bowman, president, Hotel Biltmore, owner. This garage will be used to house the cars belonging to the group of hotels that are controlled by the syndicate headed by Mr. Bowman. CONSTRUCTIVE SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLUTION OF NATION'S HOUSING PROBLEMS

American City Planning Institute Meets at Philadelphia.

THE second meeting of the American City Planning Institute was held at the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia, last Tuesday, and representatives from Canada and England, from Boston to Chicago and the South were present. Lawrence Veiller, Director of the National Housing Association, called the conference to order, and the continuous all day and evening sessions started their lively discussions on war housing.

Joseph M. Richie, General Organizer of the American Federation of Labor, pointed out that everybody was represented but the workmen. Architects, city planners, experts on industrial relationship, state sanitation inspectors, industrial educational workers, manufacturers, contractors, Y. W. C. A. representatives, both men and women of local and national official and non-official industrial housing committees, all willingly submerged their individual interests and plunged broad-mindedly into the spirit of five-minute discussions of the many direct and collateral subjects involved in the housing question now engaging the mind of the President of the United States, both houses of Congress, the Cabinet, industrial leaders, Chambers of Commerce and the workmen themselves.

Permanent Construction Favored.

"To What Extent Shall War Workers Be Housed in Temporary Barracks—in Permanent Homes?" was the subject of the morning discussion, and permanent construction was overwhelmingly favored, based upon the experience of Great Britain and various communities in the United States considering the interests of the individual worker, the industry and the community.

John Nolen of Cambridge, Mass., well known for his work in city planning, advocated permanency, showing that the cost was but little more than make-shift temporary construction, and that cost in any event should not be the primary consideration any more than there should be an attempt to build the cheapest possible vessels or shells or uniforms. The point was raised that soldiers are quartered in temporary barracks and then why not workmen? But it was pointed out that the soldiers remain in such quarters usually but three or four months at a time and that usually an ideal location is selected, women and children are excluded, men are under strict military discipline, high standards of sanitation and other regulations can be enforced, all of which does not apply to industrial workers. Frederic Law Olmsted of Brookline, Mass., also declared that temporary structures meant inadequate and unsatisfactory housing.

Charles W. Leavitt of New York spoke in favor of permanent construction, based upon his years of experience in handling thousands of industrial workers, showing that most plants manufacturing war goods would continue to manufacture some class of goods after the war and that not only workmen's homes, but the administrative buildings of the plant, should be of a permanent character, as they would be required regardless of the nature of the product.

Frank E. Blake, of the Remington Arms Company of Bridgeport, asserted that temporary barracks for skilled workmen had been a failure in their experience, and that they had expended three million dollars in the best class of permanent dwellings for their employees, most of the structures being brick with slate roofs. Houses for superintendents are designed to rent for from $20 to $35 a month. Most of these houses are on lots 50 x 100 feet, but still they are too close together. They have also constructed three dormitory buildings, three stories in height, for girls, the cost of each building being $65,000, containing 125 rooms. They have had no complaints regarding either the rooms or the furnishings. Rentals are from $2.50 to $3 a week for single rooms or double room with two beds. A la carte restaurants are provided and reception rooms for the use of girls.

Leslie H. Allen, of the Aberthaw Construction Company of Boston, explained how speed and permanency could both be accomplished. If necessary, he said, they sometimes rushed houses up, completing the outside walls, roof and temporary flooring for emergency use, and then as other houses were entirely completed families could move into these and the unfinished homes could then be completed.

W. H. Ham of Bridgeport, which has become the nation's laboratory for working out many housing problems, pleaded that the Government should set a high standard for workmen's houses, as its action would set the style for the next hundred years. Construction should be permanent and the cost amortized over a period of thirty years. He showed that speed and permanency were both possible, and that they had put up a brick schoolhouse and turned it over ready for a hundred and fifty children in four weeks' time, the basement having been previously excavated.

Thomas Adams of Canada, Chief Advisor to the Canadian Commission on Conservation, and a leader in solving the war housing problems of Canada and Great Britain, described what had been accomplished at Gretna, in the south of Scotland, where with but little than vacant land to start, permanent housing with brick walls and slate roofs had been provided for ten thousand women and five thousand men.

He declared that the twenty thousand skilled ship builders in the United States at the start of the war would be increased to two hundred and fifty thousand, and that these workmen should be given permanent homes because the United States would need these workers to build up its merchant marine after the war. He also showed that good houses were not alone sufficient, but that wholesome amusements and recreations were also essential.

Opinion was unanimous in favor of permanent construction except in rare cases where a plant was manufacturing war munitions, which would be abandoned immediately at the close of the war.

Shall Houses for War Workers Be Rented or Sold? was the discussion at the luncheon meeting. Joseph M. Richie, representing skilled labor, felt that this was a question which the workers could best decide for themselves, and that probably some would want to rent and others would want to buy, and it might be best to provide for both. The copartnership plan or joint ownership in a community of houses, represented by a stock interest, was suggested as affording the workmen the advantage of ownership, still providing for the mobility of labor through the easy sale and transfer of stock.

Mr. Ritchie said that about thirty-six thousand men were now employed along the Delaware River in the shipbuilding industry, and that when the Hog Island and Bristol yards were in operation and additional shifts were added this would be increased to about sixty thousand. Tending to show that workmen at present were not better able than formerly to purchase homes, even with the present high wage scale, he called attention to a canvass which had been made by responsible committees in Philadelphia, dividing the city into ten districts and examining 157 articles, which showed that the purchasing power of working men in that locality is no greater now than in 1914 at the lower wage scale owing to the present general increase in prices. Custom and locality also were sighted. Thus at Akron, Ohio, there is a shortage of homes to rent, while at Hopedale the custom is to rent exclusively; but both plans were felt to be desirable, permitting the men to take their choice.

Provisions for Women.

The Housing of the Single Worker was the text of the afternoon session, and was divided as follows:

1. Shall We Provide for Housing Many Women Workers?

2. What is the Best Way to House the Woman Workers?

3. Shall We Encourage or Discourage the "Take a Roomer" Campaign?

In this discussion representatives of the Y. W. C. A., women architects and other workers experienced in the housing problems of girls and women took a leading part. Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Chairman of the Housing Committee of the Y. W. C. A., sent a letter, which was read, outlining the fundamentals which the association deemed for the best interests of girls and women workers, which included: 1—Single rooms wherever practicable. 2.—One shower bath for every ten girls. 3.—One toilet for every six girls. 4.—A scientifically conducted kitchen, and 5—Wholesome recreations and amusements and proper facilities to receive men friends.

It was also felt that girls should have representation in the management of the home, and that they could best be handled in groups, as follows: A—Young girls, B—Older women, C—Colored girls, and D—Foreign, non-English speaking girls, who should also be provided with an American matron.

It was shown that girls spent more time in their rooms than men, and that girls want clothes closets, and that it is better to keep different nationalities together, as Italian, Swede and Russian women, for instance, do not generally get along well together and do not like the same foods; also, while American girls like the privacy of a single room, foreign women do not object to double rooms. Some discussion was given to other likes and dislikes, such as the comparative popularity of tubs and showers, it being shown that girls under thirty like side showers, which do not wet the hair; while women over thirty like tubs.

It was pointed out that a solution of the housing problem for men automatically solved the problem to some extent for women, because when ship builders, for example, are provided with homes their wives and daughters will also be provided for, or in other cases where men have gone to the front and wives or daughters have engaged in industry they have their home already provided. Of course, in many cases, such as in Bridgeport, girls have gone from New York and other cities, and in such cases every provision should be made for their requirements, such as dormitory facilities or accommodations with private families, in which case a preliminary and periodical investigation of the homes or boarding houses should be made, and also of the girls applying for accommodations. Particular emphasis was placed upon the importance of such continued observations in addition to the preliminary investigations.

In connection with the "take a roomer" discussion there was some difference of opinion. Lawrence Veiller presented its dangers, the possibility of a family overcrowding itself to get the additional money revenue, and also the evils more or less inherent in taking strangers into a family household, especially in cases where their coming and going gives them access to the entire house.

Charles B. Ball, Chief of the Bureau of Sanitation of the Department of Health of Chicago, was inclined to favor the taking of one woman where overcrowding would not result.

W. G. Lynch, of the Lynch Construction Company, showed moving pictures of some of the two million dollars' worth of workmen's houses which they have recently built in and around Waterbury, Conn., including those for the Scovill Manufacturing Company, where $560,000 worth of houses, mostly two-story, six-room brick structures in rows, with large basements, have been sold to the employees on easy terms covering a long period.

The evening session was devoted to discussion of conditions at different industrial towns, such as the attractive type of stucco dwellings, extremely popular with the employees of the Tray-lor shipbuilding plant at Cornwallis; also the need of homes for 5,000 additional workers at the Hog Island plant of the American International Corporation, where 25,000 men have been employed in the preliminary work and thousands of others will be needed for the actual ship construction. It is planned to house these workers at favorable points between Philadelphia and the yard.

A representative of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation discussed the housing problem of their 85,000 employees located at their different plants, and they state that their problem has not been entirely solved, but with great difficulty and large labor turn-over. Their conclusion is that rooming for workers is unsatisfactory, and that they should have permanent houses within fifteen minutes of their work.

LOANING INSTITUTIONS FORM COMMITTEES TO STUDY FINANCIAL PROBLEMS

CONDITIONS affecting the market for real estate, but more particularly the financing of the market, have recently received the attention of several of the heads of leading and representative institutions and companies who are concerned in that branch of the business. Several meetings have been held within the past month, and a definite line of action laid out, which they believe, will remove the more serious perils that overhang the market and tend strongly to restore confidence and stabilize values.

The first of these meetings was held in the library room of the Real Estate Board on January 29, among those present being Louis V. Bright, President Lawyers' Title Insurance & Trust Co.; Gerald R. Brown, Controller of the Equitable Life Assurance Society; Hubert A. Cillis, President Germania Life Insurance Co.; Edward J. Devlin, Manager New York Life Insurance Co.; Robert E. Dowling, President City Investing Co.; Wm. Felsinger, President New York Savings Bank; Richard M. Hurd, President Lawyers' Mortgage Co.; H. A. Kahler, President New York Title Co.; Clarence H. Kelsey, President Title Guarantee & Trust Co.; Alfred E. Marling, President Horace S. Ely & Co.; Laurence McGuire, President United States Realty & Improvement Co. and also President of the Real Estate Board of New York; George T. Mortimer, President Equitable Office Building Corporation; Franklin Pettit, President of the Realty Company of America; John J. Polleyn, President Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank; Henry A. Schenck, President Bowery Savings Bank, and Walter Stabler, Controller Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Alfred E. Marling was chairman and John L. Parish secretary.

In the informal discussion there was general agreement that the unprecedented stringency was due entirely to war conditions; the money that had always been available for the financing of real estate operations was gone, probably into Liberty Loan bonds. Building operations, it was felt, could, under existing circumstances, have no consideration until the war had been won.

But the entire absence of money for the refunding of mortgages presented an aspect of the situation that was, in the minds of many, becoming increasingly disagreeable to contemplate. Under normal conditions the maturity of a mortgage was an issue in the ownership of real property not difficult to negotiate; either the mortgagee extended or renewed the mortgage for a further term, or he was paid off with money realized from a new mortgage obtained easily in the market in due course of business.

Now all that was changed; there was no money for loans on mortgages and a larger than usual number of mortgagees were refusing to renew or extend and were demanding payment—perhaps desiring to put their money into Liberty bonds, or other investments. This situation bore with particular severity on the owner who was not prepared to pay off and who could not get his mortgagee to renew.

But it bore also upon the mortgage and title companies which had guaranteed great amounts of mortgages that were outstanding in the hands of their customers and gradually coming due. And it bore with serious import upon the prospects of savings banks, in case the next Liberty Loan should be put out at a higher rate of interest than four per cent. (It has since been decided at Washington that this loan is to pay four and a half per cent.)

None of the Committee believed that the dangers indicated were imminent, for with few exceptions most holders of maturing mortgages had agreed to extensions of their mortgages, on terms that were satisfactory to the mortgagors; but the peril was in prospect and the prevailing conditions were tending to the undermining of values, in the face of renting conditions that were better than they had been for at least a generation.

There was unanimous agreement that something had to be done to relieve the tension, and soon, at that. Two committees were appointed: one composed of Messrs. Kelsey, Dowling, Pettit, Schenck and Stabler, to consider matters before the Legislature, at Albany; the other, composed of Messrs. Bright, Devlin, Felsinger, Hurd and Kahler, to take up the matter of relief, by way of Washington.

The latter Committee had noted the introduction in the Senate at Washington, by Senator Simmons, the day before the meeting above referred to, of the McAdoo bill, to create a $500,000,000 War Finance Corporation. They found upon inspection and study that with a few simple amendments this bill was splendidly designed to extend the relief desired to the neglected or overlooked real estate market.

The amendments asked for are designed to authorize the War Finance Corporation to include in the scope of its financial operations, besides banks and trust companies—savings banks and mortgage and title companies; and to accept as collateral on loans to them, such securities as are now lawful investments for savings banks and trustees of estates of deceased persons, under the laws of the States, respectively.

This they felt would cover the requirements of the situation, and in case of emergency provide a source of relief from any disaster that could threaten during the course of the war. Unanimously agreeing on these points the Bright Sub-Committee reported back to the main Committee, on February 7, where the whole question was again reviewed and discussed from every viewpoint. The recommendations of the Sub-Committee were unanimously approved and Mr. Bright and his associates were authorized to employ counsel, to send a delegation to Washington and were directed to take all steps necessary in their judgment to obtain the amendment of the War Finance Corporation bill, as approved.

Since then two committees—the general committee acting through Mr. Marling and the Sub-Committee through Mr. Bright—have taken important steps toward the achievement of the end unanimously desired. They have been in correspondence with Senator Calder, who has undertaken to "do his bit," have obtained also the cooperation of Henry Morgenthau, and acting partly on his advice and that of Laurence McGuire, President of the Real Estate Board, have retained the services as attorney and counsel of former Congressman John J. Fitzgerald, of Stapleton, Fitzgerald and Mahon.

Mr. Fitzgerald was chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the House in the last Congress, before which the War Finance Corporation Bill is now pending, having been sent over from the Senate a week ago, with a few amendments, but before the amendments advocated by the Marling committee could be placed before it. Mr. Fitzgerald is now down in Washington on this mission.

Those who have studied the problem most deeply and are best acquainted with the underlying conditions of the real estate markets of this and every other city of importance in the country, are most earnest and determined in advocacy and support of the War Finance Corporation Bill with the amendments indicated. Most of them think the real estate interests are greater and of more importance to the nation in the successful prosecution of the war, than the interests first considered in the bill. In this city alone the entire volume of mortgages amounts to something like $6,000,000,000 and not less than a fourth of them mature and become due and payable every year. The per capita percentage is probably higher here than elsewhere, but every other community in the country is affected in similar manner with New York, and needs the protection that would be afforded by these amendments.

Undoubtedly they would have joined in the demand voiced by the Marling Committee of New York's financial institutions if they had been asked, but there was no time to ask them, and there is but little time left for concerted action in the country.

DIGEST OF RECENT LEGISLATION AT ALBANY

Status of Bills Affecting Real Estate and Realty Interests—Current News and Gossip at the State Capital

(Special to the Record and Guide.)

ALBANY.—Backed by the State Conference of Mayors, a Home Rule Constitutional Amendment which is designed to give cities the right to frame and conduct local government absolutely without interference by the State Legislature has been introduced by Senator Charles F. Murphy of Kings and Assemblyman Clarence F. Welsh of Albany. This amendment goes a step farther in the direction of real Home Rule than the Brown amendment passed by the Legislature last year. Under the terms of the Murphy-Welsh measure cities will be given powers in the way of regulating their own conduct by means of ordinances which would be impossible under the Brown amendment, which was vigorously opposed last year by various civic organizations.

The design of the latest constitutional amendment is to sidetrack the Brown amendment, and the State Conference of Mayors is determined to accomplish this by pressing the enactment of the measure. These organizations charge that the Brown measure is a half-hearted attempt to vest in cities the right to regulate their own household, as the amendment must be passed by another Legislature before it can be submitted to the electorate, believe they can put through the Murphy-Welsh measure in such time and with sufficient support to nullify Senator Brown's amendment.

The prospects of success for the lately introduced amendment are bright. Welsh will be able to put his measure through the Assembly without difficulty. In the Senate it is not expected any serious opposition will be met in view of the recent decision of the Court of Appeals in the Watertown Optional City Government Case in which Judge McLaughlin and a majority of the other judges indicated a temper to give the cities ample leeway in the accomplishment of a system of self-government under the somewhat fragile Home Rule measures adopted in the past. Knowing the attitude of the highest court it is not expected that the Legislature will block the Home Rule Amendment of the Brooklyn Senator and Albany Assemblyman.

R. E. McGahan, secretary of the Citizens' Union, made this comment upon the Murphy-Welsh measure to-day:

"The proponents of a constitutional Home Rule grant are encouraged by the recent decision of the Court of Appeals upholding the Optional City Government Law. This law was enacted through the efforts of the Mayors' Conference and others.

"In its opinion the Court declared that, even though the law in question did delegate to cities power to regulate duties not strictly municipal, that did not render it unconstitutional. This declaration makes Senator Brown's proposed amendment useless; in fact his amendment would restrict the power of delegation now recognized by the Court to 'purely local' matters. The next step, therefore, is an amendment to the Constitution guaranteeing to cities the right to frame and conduct local government without interference by the State Legislature."

A poll of the legislators present in Albany today indicated that sentiment generally is in favor of the Murphy-Welsh amendment. Among New York city legislators there is a disposition to push the measure through the Legislature without interruption. It looks now as if adjournment would be set for April 6 in view of which speedy action on the amendment is expected.

A municipal ownership bill, providing that any city may, by resolution of its Common Council or Board of Aldermen, submit the question of acquisition, ownership and operation of public utilities to the people, was introduced in the Senate and Assembly this week by Senator Robert F. Wagner and Assemblyman Charles D. Donohue, the Democratic leaders in both houses. In New York City the resolution to submit the question must be passed upon concurrently by the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen.

Under the Wagner-Donohue bill a petition signed by ten per cent. of the voters of a city praying for the adoption of a municipal ownership resolution may be filled with the governing board where such body fails to pass such a resolution. The question may be submitted to the voters at a general or special election. In the latter case the election must be held on the first Tuesday in April.

If the election results in a majority vote in favor of such acquisition, the city may immediately begin condemnation proceedings to settle the value of the property to be taken over. The Public Service Commission is empowered to make a valuation of the property which shall be a basis for the amount finally decided upon. The city may issue bonds to pay the amount agreed upon. As soon as the amount to be awarded for the property taken is settled and the amount tendered by the city, the title to the property vests in the city which is thereupon given power to establish rules and regulations governing the operation of the public utilities so acquired.

Public utilities so taken over will be under the control of a board or department to be established by the Common Council. The board or department will be appointed for a term of five years and the salaries of the members fixed by the council. The bill will meet with the stiffest opposition in both houses of the Legislature, in the opinion of the legislative leaders. It represents a part of the Hylan program.

The Dwelling House Bill, introduced by Morris Feigenbaum, under the terms of which cities could acquire land by condemnation upon which to erect municipally-owned dwelling houses is doomed. The scheme is regarded as Utopian and would work untold hardship on real estate and investors who have placed their moneys in this form of security. The design of the bill is best explained by its introducer in a statement made public simultaneously with its introduction.

"Under my bill," he says, "the unused land in all cities is declared forfeit to the city, which is to pay nothing more than the assessed value for it. Further, if buildings are condemned as fire-traps and as insanitary shacks and hovels, the city is to take over the land upon which they stood. A Dwelling Commission is established to consist of a Commissioner, who has not been in the business of renting homes or real estate speculating, within five years. This officer is to be elected by the people, and he will become one of the most important functionaries of municipalities. Under him, there will be experts, acting as deputies, and they will survey the city, and proceed to administer to the needs of the people.

"Under my bill, apartment houses may be erected to cater to people capable of paying high rents, but here they will not pay for vulgar, lavish and indecent display, but only for solid service. Cottages will be built and rented to the poorer workers, who will also have moderate apartments, flats and even tenements to choose from. But not one hair's breadth of deviation from the best standards of sanitation and health will be allowed."

Real estate owners will be interested in the resolution submitted to the Senate this week by Senator Bernard Downing, of New York City, calling for an investigation of the finances and premium rates of fire insurance companies operating in the Metropolis. The resolution provides further for the appointment of a Commission consisting of three Senators and five Assemblymen, whose duty it shall be to inquire into the basis of fire insurance premium rates and particularly into the causes for the recent increase in such rates. The commission will also inquire into the management of the fire insurance companies, will study the basis of costs of operation and the amounts of their profits with a view to ascertaining what would be a fair rate to be charged for risks in New York City.

Eighty cent gas throughout The Bronx is provided for in a bill introduced by Senator Dunigan this week. The bill amends the so-called Eighty Cent Gas Law by way of extending its operation throughout Harlem.

Assemblyman Amos introduced a measure empowering cities to acquire, construct and operate public utilities and enterprises for the service of their inhabitants and by contract to extend the use of such municipally operated enterprises to inhabitants of adjoining territories. Such a proposition must be approved by the voters of the municipality adopting the scheme at a general or special election.

Comptroller Charles L. Craig vigorously opposes the Ottinger bill creating a Terminal Commission for New York City. He wired his opposition to Legislative Representative Edward J. McGoldrick, Assistant Corporation Counsel, at the same time declaring that the measure will add another financial burden to the city whereas its purposes can be accomplished through already existing agencies. The Comptroller's opposition is directed primarily against provisions of the bill which authorize the Terminal Commission to obligate the city without limitation under agreement with the various railroads for the cost of furnishing additional terminal facilities. W. J. C.

HOUSING PROBLEMS.

Wilmington, Del., presents another acute situation, where two ship yards are turning out oil tankers and mine sweepers, employing several thousand workers, 43 per cent. of whom are skilled, earning from $18 to $30 a week, and piece from $30 to $100 a week. Of these workmen 84 per cent. are Americans or naturalized, and 60 per cent. are married. There is a shortage of 3,000 houses, which must be brick, stone, concrete or stucco, as no frame houses have been built in Wilmington for thirty years. Good sites for housing developments are available at about $1,500 an acre, which is about the maximum price; which it is felt can be paid and still provide the homes for skilled workers at prices they desire to pay.

Sparrows Point, Md., is another congested industrial point, where men are obliged to travel back and forth from Baltimore. R. O. Sturgis, a Boston architect, pointed out a similar condition at Spantum, on the Fall River, near Boston, where 8,000 men are employed. Staten Island, with ten or fifteen thousand additional men coming to man the ship yards, faces a similar situation. Newark claims a shortage of accommodations for the 25,000 new workers for the three yards on the Newark Meadows, where the Submarine Boat Corporation alone is preparing to operate its huge project of ship construction with twenty-eight ways.

Thus with this review of the nation's critical requirements and constructive suggestions for their speedy and permanent solution the conference closed with the hope that the Government would promptly inaugurate its now pending program of financial assistance in providing workmen's houses at the acutely congested industrial points.

MEASURES AFFECTING REAL ESTATE

Bills Which Have Been Approved or Disapproved By Committee Appointed By Real Estate Board of New York

THE Real Estate Board is calling particular attention to Senator Boylan's bill, Int. 621,—Assembly Int. 613, Seesselberg, introduced at the request of the Board. The bill amends the Greater New York Charter and provides for a fixed annual tax rate on real estate and on personalty. The amendment reads as follows: "Such annual rate shall not exceed, however, seventeen and one-half mills upon each dollar of assessed valuation of real property, and two and one-half mills upon each dollar of personal property, if any, tangible and intangible, assessed on the assessment books of the city, without offset for debt or exemption of any character unless such exemption is in the nature of a contract between the Federal, State and city governments and the owner of the property." The Real Estate Board believes that with a fixed tax rate on real estate, and at a moderately low rate, the necessity for economy would be continuously before the city, and a low personal tax rate as is provided in the bill would insure the collection of the personal tax.

There is to be a hearing on this bill on Tuesday next, March 5, before the Joint Committees on the City of New York of the Senate and Affairs of Cities of the Assembly, and the Real Estate Board is arranging for a large delegation to go to this hearing. Those who can go were asked to notify the Real Estate Board not later than Saturday, March 2, but late comers can probably be accommodated if they apply in person at the Board's office not later than noon on Monday. Action was taken at the meeting of the Legislation and Taxation and Real Estate Laws Committee on the following bills:

Assembly Int. 658, Seesselberg. To amend the Tax Law, in relation to the assessment and taxation of personal property in cities containing more than one million inhabitants and having a charter provision limiting the tax rate on personal property to two and one-half mills annually.

This bill is approved. It is logically related—the Bill No. Int. Senate, 621, Boylan—Assembly Int. 613, Seesselberg, fixing the tax rate. The purpose of the bill is to tax personal property where it is located and not where the owner is domiciled, as under existing law. This new method of applying the personalty tax will bring an additional revenue.

Senate Int. 549, Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment. This is a concurrent resolution proposing an amendment to article one of the Constitution, relating to intoxicating liquors.

It provides for an amendment to the Constitution which if ratified would prohibit the manufacture, possession, sale, keeping for sale, giving away, bartering, furnishing or transportation of any intoxicating liquors after September 30, 1920, except for medicinal, mechanical, chemical, scientific or sacramental purposes. The Real Estate Board has consistently taken the position that prohibition should be a matter of State control, and upon this ground is opposed to the Federal Amendment now before the Legislature, but the referendum, it believes, to be the only fair method of testing the sentiment of the State in this matter, and, therefore, approves the resolution now proposed by the Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment.

Senate Int. 375, Dunnigan. Adding new section 436-a, Greater New York Charter, by providing that the owners of real property assessed for a permanent sewer substituted for a temporary sewer, that the cost of which has also been assessed against such property, shall be credited toward the permanent sewer assessment with the amount paid on the temporary sewer assessment. The city is to pay the deficiency caused by such credit.

This bill is approved. It provides that when a property owner has paid for a temporary sanitary sewer he will not be called upon to pay for a permanent sewer which may be built later. All sewers as a rule called temporary sanitary sewers are practically permanent and it is unfair to force a property owner to pay for another sewer.

Senate Int. 571, Cotilloo. To amend the Greater New York Charter in relation to the purchase of supplies and the establishment of a department of purchase.

This bill is approved. It amends the Department of Purchase Law. The amendment provides that until this department is organized purchases may be made by heads of department and Borough Presidents, and be legal.

Senate Int. 505, Lockwood. (Same as Assembly Int. 543, Tallett.) To amend the Education Law, relative to the retirement of teachers.

This bill is approved. It will apparently restrict the compensation of teachers retired for disability by allowing consideration only for time spent in teaching in this State. The present law seemingly omits this restriction. The amendment would also permit the State Teachers' Retirement Fund Board to order a reexamination of the retired teacher within two years after retirement and to cut off all further payments if the recipient be found not longer incapable of teaching.

Senate Int. 536, Lockwood. Making an appropriation for the expense of securing information to aid in carrying out the provisions of section two hundred and twenty-one-b of the Tax Law, imposing an additional tax on the transfer of certain investments.

This bill is approved. It appropriates $15,000 to defray the expense of securing information to carry out the provisions of section 221-b of the Tax Law imposing an additional tax on the transfer of certain investments. The proposed appropriation is to be used to detect tax-dodging.

Senate Int. 478, Sage. (Same as Assembly Int. 601, Macchold.) An act creating the Hospital Development Commission, and making an appropriation for expenses of such Commission.

This bill is disapproved. It makes provision for additional hospital facilities for the insane. It authorizes the selection of a new hospital "adjacent to the Metropolitan district." In view of the attempt, only recently thwarted, to locate such an institution at Yorktown on the Croton Water-Shed, near Lake Mohansic, the bill should be vigorously opposed unless it shall be amended so as to specifically provide that no land upon a water-shed from which a municipality derives its water supply, in whole or in part, shall be selected as the site for the proposed hospital.

Assembly Int. 610, Meyer. (Same as Senate Int. 506, Nicoll.) Making an appropriation for the expenses of the Commission established pursuant to Chapter 426, Laws of 1917, for the investigation of port conditions at the Port of New York.

This bill is disapproved. It appropriates $100,000 to continue the work of the Commission appointed by Chapter 426, Laws of 1917, to investigate the Port of New York conditions. The job this Commission was appointed to perform, but which it has thus far only scratched at, has been fully accomplished by the Van Benschoten Commission, appointed by authority of Chapter 720, Laws of 1917, to investigate the surface railroad situation on the west side, Manhattan, as appears from its comprehensive report to the Legislature, dated January 31, 1918. Here are two Commissions appointed about the same time by Governor Whitman to investigate the same subject. One finishes its work promptly and now the other comes along and wants an additional $100,000 to enable it to go over the same ground. The bill should be opposed and the attention of the Governor should be called to the apparently useless duplication of the work of the Van Benschoten Commission the bill contemplates.

Assembly Int. 470, Judson. (Same as Senate Int. 420, Emerson.) To amend the Tax Law, in relation to the definition of investments.

This bill is disapproved. It amends the Secured Debts Law so as to bring within the provisions of the law, bonds, notes, debts, debentures, etc. (except those payable on demand or within one year), instead of limiting its application to all such instruments as are part of a series of similar instruments; it also provides that bonds secured by a deed of trust or mortgage are exempt from its provision, only if the mortgage tax shall have been paid on the real estate; it also provides for the refund of taxes erroneously paid. The Real Estate Board is opposed to the inclusion of more taxables in the Secured Debt Law, and believes this bill should be vigorously opposed.

Senate Int. 495, Sheridan. (Same as Assembly Int. 686, Coles.) To amend the Real Property Law, in relation to registering title to real property.

This bill applies to the Torrens Law. It has been examined carefully by the Torrens Law Committee of the Real Estate Board, and is disapproved. The Legislation Committee concurs in this disapproval. The amendments proposed by this bill would nullify the Torrens Law of New York by rendering it unconstitutional. The following are the chief reasons for this view: The Court procedure for registering a title as provided by sections 384-a-385 omits any requirements that the Court shall determine who are to be proper parties defendant, and provides that those who are designated as such parties by the applicant shall be given notice of the proceeding by registered mail only fourteen days before the hearing or by publication in one newspaper for only two weeks, as the Court may direct. This time is entirely too short; the notice is not adequate; and no registration on such a procedure could be conclusive and binding on all the world. The bill provides further that judgment may be taken by default if none of the defendants appear. This is impossible in such a proceeding, and in our opinion it would be absolutely unconstitutional. The burden of an absolute insurance is also placed on the county by this bill; and this we think is unconstitutional. The work of registering titles is restricted by this bill entirely to public officials, and this we think unwise. The effort to minimize time and expense, which prompts the amendments offered by this bill, is in itself praiseworthy; but these proposed amendments go so far as to nullify the law and make it unconstitutional.

Assembly Int. 9, Youker. (Same as Senate Int. 151, Burlingame.) Amending the Real Property Law, generally, relative to registration of titles to real property under the Torrens System. Official examiners of title under the bill are placed in the Classified Civil Service. Only duly licensed attorneys may be such examiners.

This bill is disapproved. The three most fundamental difficulties with this bill are: (1) that it does not require personal service of the summons in the court proceeding on any defendant, no matter how well known, (2) that it provides erroneously for judgment by default in this form of proceeding in which there may be infants or other incapacitated parties, under which circumstances the laws of this State have always required the plaintiff to prove his case, and (3) that it does not demand a guardian ad litem to look after the interests of such incapacitated persons in the suit. It also puts an unwarranted, and we think unconstitutional, burden of insurance on the country; and it fails to require in terms sufficiently explicit that the court shall pass judicially on the validity of a title to be registered. Many of the carefully worked out good features of the present law are preserved, of course, in this proposed amended bill. But, while the existing law so closes the circle of absolute requirement in such case as to make a registration conclusive against the whole world, this proposed bill leaves that circle open at a number of crucial places.

NEW YORK BUILDING MANAGERS TO MEET

Monthly Dinner Scheduled for March 12—
Several Important Questions Considered

THE New York Building Managers' Association will hold its next meeting at the Park Avenue Hotel on Tuesday evening, March 12, at half-past six o'clock, at which time an address on the subject of "Pipe" will be delivered.

The Legislative Committee has been active in the consideration of bills presented to Albany. It has disapproved several measures, and requests that each member of the association and all others interested in real estate write to his Assemblyman or Senator that they may be defeated.

The following Assembly bills are disapproved: No. 325, Rosenberg; No. 349, Orr; No. 350, Orr; No. 357, Karlin; No. 395, Smith; No. 402, Garfinkel; No. 438, Rosenberg and No. 464, Garfinkel. The following Senate bills are disapproved: No. 77, Gibbs; No. 269, Smith, and No. 309, Dowling. Copies of these bills and the written protests of the committee are on file in the office of the association.

The Weekly Underwriter gives the fire losses in the United States and Canada for January, 1918, as $37,575,100 as compared with $36,431,770 last year. The increase is slightly more than 3 per cent. The Underwriter states that "it is disconcerting to have the new year open up so unfortunately." Nothing is said about the thoughts of the unfortunate premium payers whose rates have lately been increased 10 per cent. In view of the 3 per cent. increase in losses it is refreshing to note in an editorial in the same issue of the Underwriter the following: "The real question that is secretly disturbing both fields is as to whether 10 per cent. was a sufficiently high figure. Many of the best authorities here think not. Had New York's action been delayed a few weeks longer it is probable that 20 per cent. would have been charged. There is no complaint by the public on the 10 per cent. advance. They probably feel that they got off easy." The Real Estate Board, under the able insurance chairmanship of J. J. Hoey, vice-president of the Continental Insurance Company, seems to feel the same way about it, and no complaints have been forthcoming from the State Superintendent of Insurance, who officially represents the public.

A decision has been handed down by the State and Industrial Commission in the case of "Zubradt v. Estate of George Shephard," which holds that a janitor who, while engaged in cleaning windows, a hazardous employment, falls to the street, sustaining serious injuries, is entitled to an award under the Workmen's Compensation Law, his employment being incidental to the non-hazardous business of his employer, who was engaged in operating apartment houses.

A decision has been handed down by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the case of "Muller v. Hillenbrand," holding the owner of an apartment building liable where the janitor of the apartment house committed an assault upon a child who was roller skating upon the sidewalk in front of the premises to the annoyance of the tenants of the apartment.

Members are especially cautioned to keep in mind the various measures which have been introduced at Albany, as well as an ordinance introduced in the Board of Aldermen, which are designed to hold landlords responsible for failure to supply heat or hot water in apartment houses, regardless of any unusual conditions which make it impossible to obtain coal.

It has been announced by the representatives of the local and state Fuel Administration that their officers are now working on plans to prevent a coal shortage next winter. Suggestions for the accomplishment of this result will be welcomed by the Fuel Administration. If any member has a practical suggestion to make it would be well to forward it to the Coal Committee of the association.

Hearing on Boylan Tax Rate Bill.

The New York Board of Title Underwriters, is heartily in favor of the passage of the Boylan Bill (Senate Int. 621) which establishes 17½ mills on each dollar as the flat tax rate for real estate. The organization will be represented at the hearing before the Joint Senate and Assembly Cities Committee, at Albany, next Tuesday. John L. Parish, secretary of the organization, said yesterday:

"Everyone interested in real estate should communicate with his Senator and Assemblyman before next Tuesday so that concerted action may be obtained in getting this important legislation on the Statute Books. This measure is a wise municipal economy and will rebound to the benefit of real estate."

Edward P. Doyle, of the Real Estate Board of New York, addressed the members of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers last Wednesday afternoon in the Board Room of the Brooklyn organization, 189 Montague street. Mr. Doyle discussed the attitude of the Manhattan brokers of the Boylan bill. The Board favors the measure.

The Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers heartily indorsed the measure and through its Taxation and Legislation Committees has started a campaign among its members, both active and associate, as well as among the civic organizations of the Borough to speed the passage of the bill.

A large delegation of Brooklyn real estate men, civic workers, taxpayers' associations and others interested in the success of the bill will join the Real Estate Board of New York delegation next Tuesday morning which will leave on a special train from Grand Central Depot at 8 o'clock for Albany to attend a hearing of the bill. William P. Ray, President of the Brooklyn Board, will head the Brooklyn delegation.

Control of Waterways.

A committee of three has been appointed by Director General McAdoo to investigate the inland and coastwise waterways of the United States and advise him as to the best means of putting them to advantageous use and solving transportation problems. The canals of the country and the coastwise Mississippi and lake traffic will be considered. Work has already been begun by the committee which is headed by Maj. Gen. W. M. Black, Chief of Engineers of the United States Army.

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule
LXXXVI of the Supreme Court
General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

In order that real estate brokers and agents may participate in the Thrift Stamp Campaign, the Realty Division of the War Savings Committee, Laurence McGuire, chairman, has prepared postal cards which will be given, in limited quantities, to agents, so that they may be enclosed with the rent bills. Attention is called to the advisability of exchanging Liberty Loan coupons for Thrift Stamps.

On next Tuesday there will be a Joint Hearing at Albany before the Senate and Assembly Committee on the Boylan and Seesselberg bill fixing the tax of 17½ mills on each dollar of real estate and 2½ mills on each dollar of personalty, the latter without offset for debt or exemption, unless such exemption is in the nature of a contract between Federal, State and City government, and the owner of the property. The Real Estate Board of New York has taken the stand that a fixed rate would be a great stimulus to real estate investing and believes that a low personalty tax could be collected. This position is sound, for both will encourage economy in municipal affairs. It is through the Board's efforts that the bill was introduced.

Increasing Material Prices.

After a survey of the building material market for the past year it is possible to realize that the building interests, particularly in the Metropolitan zone, have a foundation for their present attitude regarding building conditions. One of the prime contentions of prospective builders, architects, contractors and their allied interests, was the prohibitive cost of construction due to the excessively high levels of material prices. The claim was frequently heard that no revival of structural activity could possibly be started while these levels were maintained by the producers and dealers. Although this is partly true it might be interesting to note the extent of the commodity price increases during the past year, and if possible to predict the possible effect upon the future of building in the local territory.

From February, 1917, to February, 1918, there has actually been a steady increase in the prices of practically all building commodities. Steel is a notable exception. This upward trend occurred despite the marked drop in the volume of active construction. The ratio of price advances varied according to type and use and ranged from ten per cent. to more than one hundred per cent. in certain instances. The increases that are noted are the figures that were current in the wholesale markets and the cost to the ultimate consumers naturally increased in proportion.

In February, 1917, Hudson River common brick brought $9 a thousand, in cargo lots, in the wholesale market. At the present time, but in a much slower market, this type of brick is being quoted at $10.50 a thousand and there is every prospect of further advances in the immediate future. One year ago Portland cement, in a comparatively active market, was selling at $1.97 and today the price is $2.15 with no certainty that this figure will hold for any length of time. Present conditions seem to assure a substantial advance from the present level. Rosendale cement has not been effected to the extent of many other commodities and has only increased 15c. a barrel over the price of last year.

The price of gravel has increased between sixty and seventy per cent. and is now being quoted at about $2 a yard with practically none available at any price. Furthermore, the Federal Government is ready to utilize almost the entire output of the coming season in the furtherance of its program of essential military and naval construction. Lime, eastern common brands, has advanced within the year from $1.60 to $1.90 a barrel, and the hydrated grades have experienced proportionate increases.

In the entire building material market there was probably no more sensational advance in price than that experienced by the buyers of building sand. For a long time the average price of sand was in the neighborhood of 50c. a cubic yard. Today, the wholesale price of this commodity is $1.15, or nearly $2 a cubic yard delivered at the job. The prime reason for this seemingly excessive figure was the severe weather experienced all through the winter with its contingent difficulties of transportation; increased demand caused by the augmented use of reinforced concrete as a medium of construction for industrial and commercial structures, and the extreme scarcity of labor required to mine the sand and handle it at the production plants.

The lumber market has also been materially effected by the high production costs and the shortage of labor both in the woods and at the mills. Difficulties caused by freight congestion also contributed in advancing prices as there was a consistent demand but a scarcity of available supply. The requirements of the Government for lumber necessary in the construction of cantonments, base hospitals and other projects of a similar character created a scarcity in the local markets and made it possible for the dealers to maintain their high price levels. Yellow pine flooring increased during the year almost forty per cent. in price and hemlock lumber advanced about twenty per cent.

Structural steel is one of the few building essentials that at the present time is quoted at wholesale at a lower figure than that which maintained last year, but this is attributable to the influence of the action of the Government in regulating the output and controlling the price. At the same time it is almost impossible to obtain fabricated material for use in private building construction, and where it can be had, delivery is made only after lengthy delays. The additional cost of shop work and erection offsets the control price at wholesale, so the builder is but little better off financially than he was last year in so far as the structural steel is concerned.

Unquestionably these facts seem pessimistic and in a manner they are, yet it must be taken into consideration that the best informed individuals in the building trades are confirmed in their opinion that the present high levels are here for a long time; that the highest point in material prices has not as yet been reached. Before a downward revision in the price scale occurs the present levels will be considerably advanced. The present time would seem to be a most propitious one for contemplative builders to put their houses in order and arrange for an early start of projected operations.

Inadequate Subway Exits.

When the extension of the Seventh avenue subway through William street is opened, intending passengers on this important link in the Dual Subway System south of City Hall will be somewhat in the predicament of a passenger on a torpedoed liner who has a life preserver in hand but who is unable to adjust it to his person. The William street tube is planned to relieve the rush hour congestion east of the old Broadway subway, while the newly opened tunnel along West Broadway will take care of the crowds west of that thoroughfare.

But, unlike the ample provisions made for ingress and egress to the Broadway and West Broadway tubes, the Public Service Commission has so far built only three entrances to the William street subway between City Hall and Wall street. These stairways, of which two are at Fulton street and one through a building in John street, are also to be used as exits. All three are situated to the east of William street, the Public Service Commission holding that William street is so narrow that it is impossible to provide entrances in both sides of the street.

If William street is too narrow for entrances in both sides of the street it is much too narrow to force the crowds, trying to use the subways all over to one side of the street. It will not diminish the crowds at the three entrances if the same stairways are used for exits. The relief which the business men have expected from the opening of the William street tube will not be felt if the Public Service Commission does not make the subway available.

William street is lined with high buildings containing many thousands of offices. Office hours in these buildings are generally from nine to five o'clock. Practically all the people employed in these buildings go and come at the same hours, and to try to funnel them into the subway through three small openings in the few minutes in which they are trying to get to their homes will result in bringing down upon the Public Service Commission rather more condemnation than anything it has had to stand for in a long time.

The number of entrances necessary to accommodate the crowds at the John-Fulton streets section of the line may be judged by the fact that the old subway has eleven entrances between the north side of Fulton street and the south side of Dey and John streets. The West Broadway line has ample exits also.

This question of the inadequacy of the provisions for getting into and out of the William street tube is not a new one. The attention of the Public Service Commission has been repeatedly called to this condition, but, so far, nothing has been done to remedy the defects in the original plans, although the line is approaching completion.

Now a committee of business men at the head of which is Rudolph Wirth has sent to Mayor Hylan a communication asking him to make an investigation of the facts and if it is proved that the contention of the committee that the exits are totally inadequate to see that relief is afforded. In Mayor Hylan's absence Acting Mayor Smith has referred the matter to Borough President Dowling, who has commenced a careful examination of the problem.

There ought to be some way that the Public Service Commission can adjust this life saving tube to the necessities of the occasion so that the long suffering public can get its head and shoulders into it without squirming.

Fire Insurance Investigation.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I note that Senator Downing directs his proposed inquiry particularly with reference to the basis on which the rates of fire insurance are fixed and for the purpose of ascertaining the reasons for the recent increase in such rates. Now it seems to me that such an investigation would be largely a waste of time and money and serve no useful purpose—in fact, serve no purpose so far as I can see, other than furnish a medium through which many people might give voice to their prejudice against the insurance companies.

The making of rates is almost entirely in the hands of the Fire Insurance Exchange, against which, naturally, there is some sentiment from time to time on the part of those who are dissatisfied with its rulings. The Exchange, however, has served a useful purpose insofar as it has prevented a ruinous competition among the companies, and so far as I can see, it should not be left open to those who would destroy it for one reason or another.

If in its rate-making, the Exchange has been unfair or arbitrary in some cases, the remedy of the property owner seems to me to be quite clear under Section 141 of the Insurance Law which provides that it "shall be subject to the visitation, supervision and examination of the Superintendent of Insurance, who shall cause to be made an examination thereof as often as he deems it expedient and at least once in three years. For such purpose he may appoint as examiners one or more competent persons, and upon such examination, he, his Deputy or any Examiner authorized by him shall have all the powers given to the Superintendent, his Deputy or any Examiner authorized by him by section thirty-nine of this chapter, including the power to examine under oath the officers or agents and all persons deemed to have material information regarding the business of or manner of operation by every such person, corporation, association, bureau or board. The Superintendent shall make public the results of such examination and shall report to the Legislature in his annual report on the methods of such rating organization and the manner of its operation."

Under these circumstances, would not a request by the Legislature for an investigation and report from the Superintendent of Insurance on the question of rates, answer all practical purposes, and would we not in this way have an investigation by a man entirely without prejudice, one seeking no publicity or notoriety so far as the subject is concerned, and possessing the skill and ability that come from long experience, and which would enable him to make an intelligent and fair report? Such a condition would conserve the interests of the companies as well as those of the insuring public.

A legislative investigation of the subject would in all probability not be fairly reported, and as reported, tend largely to inflame public sentiment against the companies. In this connection, I have oftentimes observed during the many years that I have been more or less familiar with fire insurance, that the public mind seems satisfied only when premium rates are cut, and no thought is given to the vital necessity of maintaining or increasing the financial strength of the insurer.

I am not aware that underwriting profits have been large enough during the past twenty years to warrant any material onslaught upon the rates of premium, and I have sometimes felt that were it not for the skillful financing of the companies by able executives, our insurance facilities would be infinitely less than they now are.

I hold no brief for the Exchange, nor for the Superintendent of Insurance, but I do believe that between the two, and in the light of the section of the Insurance Law just quoted (Section 141), the interests of the insuring public are reasonably safeguarded and that an investigation at this time is not warranted.

WILLIAM B. ELLISON.

Staten Island Tax Sale.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The following is a copy of a letter sent to President Dreyfus of the Staten Island Civic League with respect to an impending tax lien sale in Staten Island:

"No tax lien sale for the Borough of Richmond has been advertised and no date has been fixed for any such sale. There are about 6,000 liens that are in arrears. The earliest time for which a sale could be fixed would be about January or February, 1919.

"Under a bill now pending in the Legislature, which has been approved by me, authority is given to the comptroller to grant an adjournment of a tax lien sale for a period of three years. The present law limits the power of adjourning to fifteen months. You will see, therefore, that even if the necessary steps were taken now to prepare for a sale in the early part of 1919 there is ample provision in the law for the granting of adjournments to meet any condition that may exist in 1919 or thereafter.

"While I should personally like to adjourn all tax lien sales until after the war, the necessities of the city are such that it is important that arrears be paid up as quickly as possible under the conditions of the times so that provision may be made for new schools, etc. Perhaps you do not understand that a large amount of money has been advanced by the City of New York to pay for local improvements, the assessments for which have not been paid by property owners. The total amount of assessments and arrears on December 31, 1917, due to the City of New York for advances made for the Street Improvement Fund, the fund for street and park openings and special assessments, was $24,088,333.33. This great outstanding, uncollected indebtedness diminishes the city's borrowing power to that extent and acts to the detriment of every one. It is one of the causes for overcrowding in the schools, due to the inability to provide new school buildings.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin,
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 305.—Where a man gives possession of a house to prospective buyers who have signed a contract to buy, pending search of title, etc., but there is no stipulation as to rent, is the owner obliged to keep the property in repair or if the tenant has repairs made, is the owner legally liable for same?

Answer No. 305.—Where a vendee in a contract for the sale of land enters into possession without an agreement to pay rent therefor, he ordinarily cannot recover for any repairs he may make, nor is the vendor during such occupancy under a duty to make repairs. If the title should prove defective and the vendor without fault of the vendee refuses to complete the sale the vendee has an equitable lien on the land for necessary repairs he may have made. The terms of the contract are not disclosed and the above answer is upon the assumption that it contains no stipulation providing who shall be responsible for repairs or improvements made pending its consummation.

"I trust that an appreciation of these conditions will impel those on whose behalf you intervene to make such exertions as are reasonably possible under war conditions in making payments on account of arrears so that the necessities of the city may be somewhat relieved and a better condition created for the granting of adjournments in 1919 should the war then continue."

CHARLES L. CRAIG, Comptroller.

Objects to Tax Levy.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

William Jay Schieffelin, Chairman of the Citizens' Union, instituted suit this week, through Leonard M. Wallstein, as his attorney, for an injunction against Comptroller Craig and the Board of Aldermen to restrain them from including the $2,061,364.06, which is the cost of the city's share of opening and extending Queens Boulevard in Queens, in the tax levy for the year 1918.

Preliminary steps for the inclusion of this sum in the tax levy were taken at the last meeting of the Board of Estimate, on Thursday, February 21. It was at that meeting that Mr. Wallstein objected to the report of the Board's Committee on Finance and Budget that it had no choice but to add this sum to the tax levy, resulting in an increase of 2½ points in the tax rate.

Mr. Schieffelin's action is brought upon the ground that the Board of Estimate, in reaching its decision to raise this money by taxation instead of by the issuance of fifty-year corporate stock, failed to comply with the provisions of the Charter, which require that before any decision is reached as to how the city's share of such improvements shall be paid, ten days' notice must be given to the public in order that persons interested may appear before the Board of Estimate. No such notice was given in this case. The first information which the public had that the Board proposed to dispose of this matter at its meeting of last Thursday was the appearance of this item on its calendar, which was published only the day before.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Notable Sale in the Financial District— Demand For Private Residences Increases

FOLLOWING closely upon the recent sale of the old Stevens House in lower Broadway, comes the announcement that the twenty-six-story office structure at 50 Broad street has been sold to a newly-formed corporation. The two properties are practically within a stone's throw of each other, and though entirely different in character, still indicate the demand for high class properties located in the financial section of Manhattan.

In the former case the property was acquired by a large steamship company who will improve the site for investment, though it will occupy a portion of the building. In the latter instance the property was already improved with a substantial structure, in splendid condition.

The new owners of 50 Broad street have obtained a structure which has passed through the experimental stage. After its completion there was far more space available in the financial district than the demand warranted, and as a result it went to foreclosure and was acquired by the plaintiff, the seller in the present deal. About the time of the foreclosure sale the total rent roll amounted to $65,000 a year. This was due in part to the many vacancies in the building and also that space did not command the present figures. Today the building is completely filled, with the exception of a couple of booths on the ground floor, and the gross rental is about $300,000.

There has been an enlivened demand for private houses, as stated in the Record and Guide a few weeks ago. This class of property seems to be coming once more into favor, and the trouble seems to be to obtain really desirable properties at a fair price. Owners are becoming stiff in their demands and it is becoming harder to close deals.

This condition also applies to apartment houses. It is noticeable that exchanges are not as frequent an occurrence as a few months ago. During the past few weeks several good-sized deals have been consummated, the exchange feature being but a small part of the consideration, while in other instances this element was entirely eliminated.

Increased rentals and the cessation of building operations of a speculative nature are primarily responsible for the demand. It will be surprising if the market is not considerably enlivened before the summer months come around.

Leaders in the real estate field, specially representative of the large loaning institutions, have held several meetings during the past few weeks for the purpose of analyzing the financial condition of the market. The consensus of opinion was that war conditions are primarily responsible for the lack of money available to finance real estate operations. The committee dwelt upon the difficulty being experienced in obtaining renewals on expired mortgages and the hardship caused to those who were unprepared to meet the obligation either in whole or in part. The mortgage and title companies who had guaranteed mortgages were face to face with the problem of meeting these payments. In order to relieve the tension two committees were appointed one to consider the legislation at Albany and the other to consult the authorities at Washington. Further details of the movement will be found in another column of this issue.

Thrift Stamp Campaign.

The decision of the National War Savings Committee to incorporate all of the realty men in the five Boroughs under Laurence McGuire, Chairman of the Realty Division, has met with the expected results. Brokers from Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond are already addressing their communications to the Committee at 217 Broadway, offering their help in this movement, which must be waged with renewed vigor. Mr. McGuire, when interviewed yesterday, said: "Although it is less than two months since I organized the Realty Division of the War Savings Committee, I am proud of our achievement. With the assistance of A. N. Gitterman, who is acting as our secretary, we have a committee of one hundred who for convenience have divided Manhattan into twenty-seven districts and have bought more than 20,000 thrift stamps and cards which was the original allotment. The banner district of Manhattan is north of Dyckman street, and from that location alone we have received the report cards regularly and promptly which are so necessary for the proper compilation of sales. This the Government is most anxious to receive so that they may record the interest in this movement and see the effect of proper introduction of thrift methods.

"Mr. Just's Upper Manhattan division has established a record hard to beat, totalling 256 War Savings stamps and 1,579 Thrift Stamps. I hold three cards dated February 16, which show not only individual effort, not confined, however, to this district solely, but wonderful team work.

	W. S. S.	Thrift	W. S. S.	Thrift

B.....	1	24	62	556
C.....	..	26	..	435

"From this district emanates the idea which we expect will bring our biggest returns in the Exchange of Liberty Loan Coupons for Thrift Stamps, this plan devised by Roby V. Priddy, a former employee in one of our member's offices, has already brought results, and with the circulation of the post cards, now being prepared, no doubt our division sales will be double in March over the two previous months. Many of our members are using individual methods of helping the general sales campaign. Robert R. Rainey uses a stamp "War Savings Stamps for Sale. Apply at office or from Rent Collector," on all bills, receipts, letters, etc.

"J. Irving Walsh encloses a letter with all his communications asking tenants to include an extra payment for stamps, card for which he stores 'free of charge' in his office safe.

"Ex-President Edgar A. Tredwell received the prize offered recently for the best suggestion for the encouragement of sales among our own members which was to ask each member to send a check for ten dollars to the order of War Savings Committee and the Committee to request the members to sell the extra thrift cards, so that each member of every class would have contributed something to the campaign which must be successfully waged and with renewed vigor."

Queens Manufactories.

The replies to the questionnaire recently sent out by the Industrial Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens to manufacturers have been tabulated and show that in addition to the seventy-five plants in Queens that are now producing government supplies, there are nearly 100 other manufacturing establishments which have large available floor space and are ready to take on government contract work at once.

The total floor space included in the manufacturing plants which have indicated their willingness to do government work amounts to approximately 2,250,000 square feet, of which 50 per cent. on an average is available for government work. These plants now have 5,000 employees and could employ more than 7,500 men and women.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 32 as against 21 last week and 48 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 18 as compared with 6 last week and 15 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 14 as compared with 15 last week and 33 a year ago.

From the Bronx 17 sales at private contract were reported as against 8 last week and 7 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 270 of this issue.

$2,000,000 Broad Street Deal.

Through the signing of contract, one of the large downtown office buildings will pass into new hands on April 1. Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., sold for the New York Life Insurance Company to the newly organized Broadex Realty Corporation, the twenty-six-story building at 50 Broad street. The amount involved is reported to have exceeded $2,000,000, and a loan of $1,750,000 at five per cent., having amortization clauses, has been arranged for. The structure is comparatively new, having been erected in 1912 by interests identified with the Degnon Construction Company and the Tube Realty & Terminal Company. Willauer, Shape & Bready were the architects, and at the time of construction they estimated its cost at $1,500,000. The New York Life Insurance Company instituted foreclosure proceedings in 1915, and acquired the property on a bid of $1,500,000. The mortgage judgment amounted to about $1,725,000. The site was acquired in 1912 by the Fifty Broad Street Company from the Empire Realty Corporation. The structure stands on a plot fronting 80.3 feet in Broad street, 60.5 feet in New street, and has a depth of 186.4 feet. Before the war the building contained many vacancies, but since that time the demand for office space has increased to such a proportion that the rentals were advanced from $65,000 to about $300,000. The property is assessed by the city for taxation purposes at $1,900,000. It is located between the Stock Exchange and the Consolidated Exchange and faces the Curb Market.

Architect Purchased Home.

Charles B. Wetmore, of Warren & Wetmore, architects, purchased for his future home, the four-story residence at 8 West 53d street, facing St. Thomas' Church, through Pease & Ellison, from the Estate of Lillian S. Gillespie, for a price said to be slightly less than the assessed valuation of $115,000. This block is highly restricted. The sole deviation from private houses in this block was eliminated in 1900 when owners on the block, backed up by residents in 53d street, paid $19,000, so that no change to the apartment house then existing at 21 and 23 west 53d street would be made. George Blumenthal ultimately bought the property and built a home which he recently vacated for his new residence at Park avenue and 71st street. It is just thirty years to a day since the firm of Riker & Son, predecessors of the firm of Pease & Ellison, sold the property for George R. Sheldon, as trustee, to Thomas Stokes, father of Mrs. Gillespie. She purchased the property from her father in 1899.

Heights Apartment in Exchange.

Frederick Brown resold to Howard C. Higgins, ship builder, the two five-story apartments at 530 and 534 West 179th street, each 43.6x100 feet, having accommodations for forty families. They are fully tenanted at an annual rental of $14,000. The holding price was $120,000. In exchange was given the Magnolia farm at Freneau, near Mattewan, N. J., consisting of 98 acres, with a large main house and six outbuildings, held free and clear. Included in the sale are 22 thoroughbred horses, in addition to other live stock, together with farming implements. Seven acres of the tract are woodland, and the remainder is devoted to truck raising and alfalfa. The estate was originally the home of Phillip Freneau, said to have been a close friend of General George Washington. Mr. Brown acquired the 179th street houses last month from a company headed by Jacob Hirsch.

Sale in Union Square.

John R. Strong, as executor, sold through I. B. Wakeman, the five-story office building and stock at 24 Union Square East, adjoining the Union Square Savings Bank at the northeast corner of 15th street. The site measures 26x125 feet, and was held at $90,000. The property has been in possession of the Brown and Johnson families for more than a half century.

Haven Avenue Corner Sold.

Byrne & Baumann sold for the Henry Morgenthau Company, to the Harvey

Realty Company, D. W. O'Neill and Robert F. Archibald, the southwest corner of Haven avenue and 181st street, vacant, measuring 112 feet on Haven avenue, 87.6 feet in 181st street, having south and west lines of 100 and 125 feet, respectively. In exchange was given the northwest corner of Eighth avenue and 127th street, two five-story flats with stores, on a plot 50x83.6 feet. The Haven avenue plot was held at $60,000, and the Eighth avenue corner $80,000. This completes the sale by the Morgenthau Company of all its vacant holdings in the Fort Washington section. Originally the same company controlled all the vacant land in Broadway, between 177th and 181st street, west to Riverside Drive. Much of this property was sold in large plots at auction to builders who improved with high class apartment houses. At the present time there are only a few vacant corners left in the whole section. The Harvey Realty Company owns the three six-story ele-

Reader Interest in Advertisements

Too large a proportion of trade paper advertisements are composed of descriptions of what the product is—not what it will do. They are written from the standpoint of the manufacturer instead of that of the user.

They suggest the interest of the man who made the product, rather than the one who is going to put it to work.

In the case of a technical product to be installed in the plant of the buyer, his whole interest is connected with the application and not limited to the way the machine or appliance was made.

Reader interest in ads of this kind, means getting into them data having to do with the experience of others in connection with the product advertised.

The reason so few ads are of this character is because it is a lot more trouble to get the facts of a customer's experience than to tell what the factory knows about how the goods were produced.

The latter can be made into interesting looking copy, but it will lack the practical, brass tacks atmosphere that makes advertising convincing.

It is the object of the Special Copy Service Department of the RECORD AND GUIDE to assist manufacturers in the preparation of copy that has Reader interest. The services of this department are available to our advertisers without charge.

A two-story garage will be erected on the site, and this projected building has been leased from the plans, through Ames & Company, to the firm of J. J. Archbold, Forwarders, Inc., for a term of twenty-one years. The entire transaction involves about $150,000.

Harry K. Grigg bought from Thomas G. Grace, the six-story office building at 132 and 134 Front street, on a plot 40.10x85 feet, at the southwest corner of Pine street. Mr. Grigg also owns 77 Front street, corner of Old Slip. He is in the coffee business, being connected with E. H. & W. J. Peck at 77 Front street. His newly acquired property, which was formerly the home of the Tea Auction Room, will be extensively altered and leased for a long term to one tenant. Geo. R. Read & Company were the brokers.

Geo. R. Read & Company sold for the William Jay Estate, 86 Broad street, a five-story building, on a lot 27x98 feet. The property has belonged to members of the Jay family for more than fifty years. The new owner will alter the premises, and occupy a portion of it.

RECENT LEASES.

Cigar Dealers Lease.

Schulte has obtained, through the Charles F. Noyes Company, for his 117th location, at an aggregate rental of about $200,000, the northeast corner of John street and Broadway, two stores in the former Chatham & Phenix Bank building, with a frontage of 20 feet on Broadway and 45 feet in John street. The location extends from the Broadway frontage to a new arcade entrance to the subway which will be incorporated in the building as the result of extensive alterations about to be made by the Corbin Building Company. This company represents the Chatham & Phenix National Bank, the owners of the building, and under the supervision of Bert L. Haskins, vice-president of the bank, extensive alterations are to be made including the modernizing of the entire building and installing five modern up-to-date stores on the ground floor and retail booths in the basement. Schulte will occupy this new store exclusively for his own business.

New Tenants on Broadway.

The lease of large space in the new Broadway-Fifth Avenue Building, at 921 to 925 Broadway, through to 149 and 153 Fifth avenue, covering the entire block front in 21st street, to three large commercial concerns, identified with the duPont interests, marks another step in the plans being perfected for the future development of American commerce. Through M. & L. Hess, Inc., and Goodale, Perry & Dwight, the Allied Industries Corporation, the French American Construction Corporation, and the Phillip Kobbe Company leased from the Bradish Johnson Estate, the twelfth floor for office purposes.

now occupied by white tenants, but on March 1 will be tenanted by negroes. The lease involves an aggregate rental of about $100,000 for the term and was negotiated by Louis C. Whitfield. St. James Court has accommodations for fifty-two families, and has four stores on the grade floor. It is understood that the rental schedule calls for $8 a room.

Front Street Lease.

Charles F. Noyes Company leased 79 Front street for the Old Slip Realty Company to F. E. Childs Company, Inc., for five years from May 1, at an increased rental of about 50 per cent. The demand for buildings in this section, according to Mr. Noyes, greatly exceeds the supply, as was indicated by the fact that there were five applicants for the building within twenty-four hours after the lease was verbally closed. $1.75 on Every $100 of Your Assessed Valuation

As a regular annual tax rate on real estate in this city, where realty is assessed at a higher rate than elsewhere, generally, should in our opinion be the maximum limit at all times.

THE BOYLAN bill (Senate int. No. 621) at Albany, makes this the rate throughout New York City.

ON TUESDAY next, March 5, at 1 o'clock, there will be a hearing on this bill at Albany, before the joint SENATE and ASSEMBLY CITIES COMMITTEE.

THE NEW YORK BOARD OF TITLE UNDERWRITERS takes this means of recommending to ALL TAX PAYERS in the city that they make their influence felt at Albany, in favor of the BOYLAN BILL.

TO the MAN whose house is assessed at $5,000, it means A REDUCTION in his TAX BILL of at least $12.50 from present rates.

WRITE to your SENATORS and ASSEMBLYMEN before Tuesday, that you want them to vote in favor of this bill as a wise measure of municipal economy and an act of justice to yourselves.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that there has been no one feature of special interest to the building trades during the past week, the period evidenced a strengthening of the building situation as applied to purely private construction, and leads to the hope that a general resumption of activity is near at hand. There has been a marked increase in the number of individual projects both in the Metropolitan district and throughout New York State and New Jersey, and although the single operations are relatively insignificant, the total bulks up large as compared with some recent weeks.

There have recently been a number of high class apartments planned and the major portion of them are likely to proceed in the near future. This fact alone indicates the trend toward improved building conditions and provides a large measure of hope and satisfaction to the contractors and dealers in materials and building supplies.

Naturally the Government work still occupies the most prominent position in the present building situation, and while this war lasts it is doubtful if any other factor will arise to supplant it. The volume of work recently undertaken by the Federal departments involves immense expenditures of public funds and will provide occupation for thousands of mechanics and laborers for months to come.

According to statistics prepared by the F. W. Dodge Co., for the month of February, the grand total of building operations for New York and New Jersey indicate an increase that is a most favorable sign of better times. During the month of January new construction to the value of $13,797,000 was started and last month the total of construction actually started amounted to $17,744,000. Of this amount $4,695,000 was located within the bounds of Greater New York. The Government work contracted for and commenced during the month reached a total of $6,387,000.

The markets for building materials during the past week were generally quiet, but with indications that the movement has really started. Prices are firm and in particular instances advances have been announced. There is a growing feeling among the building interests that commodity prices will not recede from their present levels for a long time after the war is ended and peace declared. The reconstruction of the destroyed areas in Europe will require immense amounts of American materials and supplies and the demand for these coupled with the requirements that will emanate from local interests, will effectually operate to maintain the high levels.

Common Brick.—The wholesale market for Hudson River common brick has experienced a quiet week. Although no sales have been registered there is somewhat of a better tone to the situation as a consequence of the improved riding conditions through the city. The price has stiffened and quotations are now ranging from $10.25 to $10.50 a thousand. The upper sections of the river are still frozen solid and it will be at least six weeks before brick barges are able to come through from Haverstraw. At the present writing there is practically no brick for sale in the wholesale market. Reserves in the yards of the dealers are generally below those of last year at this time, but at the existing demand there is no immediate danger of a brick famine. The Raritan market is quiet. Although the river is again open to navigation, no quotations are being made and manufacturers are holding off pending relief from the fuel and labor difficulties. Coal is impossible to obtain and labor is exceedingly scarce.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, March 1, 1918. Condition of market: Demand, slight prices, firmer. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10.25 to $10.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none; sales, none.

Structural Steel.—According to the report of the Bridge Builders and Structural Society, during the month of January, but fifty-three per cent. of the total capacity of the bridge and structural shops of the country was contracted for as against one hundred and fourteen per cent. for the preceding month. There were a number of reasons for this condition, among them being the severe weather prevalent over a wide territory and the consequent railroad congestion and the shortage of fuel. Activity in the steel industry is generally confined to fulfilling the requirements of the Shipping Board for ship steel and for the various Government departments for the material required in furthering the program of military and naval construction and the needs of munition plants. The volume of tonnage placed for private construction has been negligible and there will be no material increase in the volume of this type of business until general building conditions are revised and it is possible to erect structures of all types upon a more reasonable basis. The past week witnessed a number of important tonnage commitments, but these were almost entirely for construction in connection with war activities. There has been no change in base price quotations for fabricated material, the Government control price still ruling all estimates.

Portland Cement.—The cement manufacturing interests are more optimistic than they have been for some time past. The railroad congestion, while still a troublesome factor, is slowly being eliminated and shipments are moving from the mills in a most satisfactory manner. The demand is strengthening; that coming from Federal sources being especially heavy, and there are indications that better business from private building interests will shortly follow. The wholesale price of $2.15 a barrel, for large lots, is still effective, but this figure is likely to be advanced at almost any time. It was recently decided that the cement manufacturers would obtain only about seventy-five or eighty per cent. of the coal used last year and this will mean a curtailment of production during the current year and a consequent advance of prices that are likely to hold for some time.

Wire Products.—Owing to the numerous deterrent factors it has been estimated that the output of the mills producing wire and wire nails has not averaged more than sixty per cent. of normal during the past three months. The supply of raw material is short. The demand is only fairly active and no increase is looked for until building construction is resumed on a large scale. It has been stated that up to January 1, the Government had bought from the various mills more than 400,000 kegs of wire nails, and that nearly one-half of the total was supplied by the American Steel & Wire Co. Mills in the Pittsburgh district are generally sold ahead to July 1. Federal control prices are in effect until April 1.

Window Glass.—The long anticipated agreement between the Federal Fuel Administrator and the representatives of the glass manufacturers was arrived at last week with the result that the total production of glass for the year beginning December 8, 1917, and the close of December 7, 1918, will equal only fifty per cent. of the production of last year, which aggregated approximately 11,000,000 boxes. This action is said to be quite satisfactory to the manufacturers. The railroad congestion is still one of the principal factors in hindering the producers and the condition seems to be growing more acute each week. Glass manufacturers have recently advanced their prices and the existing schedule of discounts will be found on the following page.

Lumber.—The local lumber situation is quiet, with a seasonable demand from building interests and manufacturing consumers' requirements up to the average. The market is looking forward to improved spring business through the revival of small-house construction in suburban localities. The wholesale interests are chiefly interested in getting out the immense volume of ship timbers required by the Shipping Board and other orders for Federal lumber. Prices are well sustained and strengthening in certain lines. The transportation situation remains as one of the principal deterrents to the lumber industry, and the local dealers, both wholesale and retail, will suffer from a shortage in supplies until the railroad congestion is relieved and embargoes lifted.

Cast Iron Pipe.—There are signs of new activity in this market, but at the present writing the bulk of the inquiries are emanating from private interests. Although there is a considerable volume of municipal work in prospect it has not yet reached the stage where estimates are called for and it may be some time before the market feels the effect of the public work. Government prices still rule and all quotations are being based on the figures of $55.35, New York, for 6 in., 8 in., and heavier, and $58.36 for 4 in.

Linseed Oil.—Although the demand for this commodity is inactive the prices are firm with prospects of further advances. The future of the market as applied to linseed oil is almost entirely dependent upon the shipping facilities, particularly those for bringing seed in from Argentine. From the building interests no great volume of business is anticipated owing to the lack of new construction work, but there are prospects of considerable business from manufacturing consumers and for repair work during the early spring months.

Sand and Gravel.—The market for sand is quiet owing to the dearth of construction, but the price of $1.25 a cubic yard is holding. This means about $2.25 to $2.50 a yard, delivered at the job, according to the length of haul. The gravel situation is now entirely in the hands of the Government. All quotations for gravel have been withdrawn from the market and the entire output will be taken for Federal use at a figure said to be satisfactory to the producers.

Iron and Steel Bars.—The demand for iron and steel bars is firm and the majority of the mills are sold up for months in advance. The output of the mills has been seriously curtailed by the shortage in the supply of steel, fuel and the railroad congestion. Steel bars are quoted f. o. b. Pittsburgh as follows: Rolled from old steel rails, 3c.; from steel billets, 2.90c., and refined iron bars, 3.50c.

Hydrated Lime.—There is but a slight demand for this commodity, either for the common or finishing grades. No increase in the volume of business is anticipated until there is a marked resumption of building operations in this territory. Prices are firm and likely to hold indefinitely.

NEW YORK, MARCH 9, 1918

HEARING HELD AT ALBANY ON BOYLAN TAX BILL

Little Chance of Flat Tax Rate Measure Passing in Present Form—Amendments Overcoming Defects To Be Introduced

(Special to the Record and Guide.)

Albany, March 8.—Sentiment in the Legislature cannot be construed wholly as favoring the Boylan Bill, which would limit the real estate tax in New York City to $1.75 on each $100 of assessed valuation and would impose a personal property tax of 25 cents per $100. The proponents of the bill declare it to be absolutely necessary to relieve the heavily burdened real estate in New York City.

It was learned tonight that the bill is to be amended so as to provide some means of obtaining the true valuation of personalty in New York City and taxing it; if not at the rate of 25 cents per $100 at some rate which will insure a lowering, or at least no increase, in the realty tax rate. In its amended form a hearing will be given the bill some day next week, the date to be fixed later, at which representatives of the New York City Tax Department, the Real Estate Board and other organizations interested will be heard. It is certain that the bill as it now stands, limiting the realty tax to $1.75 per $100 of assessed valuation, will not be passed. The Legislature will not at this time attempt to fix this maximum, and the prospects are that nothing but a campaign of education, designed to acquaint each member with the true inwardness of the taxation problem in New York City, could accomplish this. It can be stated definitely that the introduction of the bill will accomplish this—namely, the initiation of some form of taxation of personalty that will serve to lift some of the burden from the real estate in the Metropolis.

The gauge of the Legislature on the Boylan Bill is illustrated by the following interviews:

Senator Elon R. Brown: "I will not discuss the matter."

Senator Robert F. Wagner: "The bill will not be reported in its present form, but it has some good points."

Senator Edward F. Dowling: "It seems practicable, but personalty is an elusive entity."

Senator John V. Sheridan: "Personally I believe the measure has the support of real estate owners in New York City, but I doubt its ability to pass at this time. I know this—that something must be done to relieve the already too heavily burdened real estate owner. I know of cases where real estate owners have been impoverished and forced to submit to the sale of their property for unpaid taxes by reason of the rising scale of realty taxes."

Senator Cullen: "I am not on the committee which has the bill and could not discuss it."

Assemblyman Charles D. Donohue, minority leader in the lower house: "The principle of the bill looks good, but I fear it would not be practicable. In spite of the imposing array of figures its proponents declare it will raise, it is nevertheless a fact that no one has ever been able to lay his finger on that elusive thing known as personal property."

Assemblyman Franklin Judson, chairman of the Assembly Committee on Taxation: "I do not understand as yet what the bill aims to accomplish, but I will make a study of it when it comes up."

Assemblyman Peter D. McElligot: "I have not been able so far to give the bill any great study."

It is likely that a meeting of real estate organizations and taxpayers will be called within the next few days by the Real Estate Board of New York to discuss amendments to the bill.

Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Company, appealed to the Legislature to protect real estate interests against the city administration. Mr. Dowling said in part:

"We look to the Legislature to protect us, not only against the tendency of New York City administrations to favor certain classes of residents at the expense of the real estate interests, but against almost revolutionary extension of governmental power in new directions such as the proposal for municipal trading.

"Some of the men who make these unjust demands on the city administration to get something for nothing are single taxers, but others do not believe in property rights at all. They would take our property away from us if they could.

"You have got to protect the city from the people of the City or New York or they will take it away from you and wreck it.

"I have heard all I want to hear about Home Rule. We had 130,000 Socialists voting down there last autumn. You have got to protect the city from the revolutionary elements in certain parts of the city. They want to take away personal property. They do not believe in property, anyhow. That is what they are after in their municipal trading schemes.

Unequal Taxation.

"Between 57th and 89th streets, on Fifth avenue, there are twenty private residences, each containing from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 of personalty which does not pay one cent of taxes. Yet it is given the same protection by the city as the property owner in Third avenue, who is taxed to the limit of his capacity. There are individuals in New York with $5,000,000 of personal property in their homes on which they pay no tax.

"My conviction is, gentlemen, that if you put this tax of twenty-five cents per $100 on personal property New York City will have so much money that real estate will not have to pay even the $1.75 proposed in this bill, but rather will pay only $1.50 real estate assessment."

"The Boylan and Seeselberg bills are companion measures," said A. C. Pleydell, Secretary of the New York Tax Reform Association. "They propose to do two things in connection with taxation in the City of New York: First, to limit the rate on real estate to $1.75 a hundred dollars, and, second, to tax personal property, both tangible and intangible, without deduction for debt or exemption, at the rate of 25 cents a hundred dollars (2½ mills). The second provision is intended to supply the deficiency in revenue which would result from the limitation on the tax rate on real estate.

"As to the limitation of the rate on real estate. In round figures, the tax rate this year will be about $2.36 per hundred dollars on both real and personal property, varying in the different counties. This will raise nearly $200,000,000. The remainder of the Budget comes out of the general fund—licenses, special taxes, water rents, etc. A rate of $1.75 on real estate only would raise about $145,000,000. This would leave about $55,000,000 to be raised by taxation, other things being equal. To raise this sum from personal property at the rate of 25 cents a hundred dollars will require an assessment of $22,000,000,000. This is two and one-half times the amount of the present real estate assessment, which is $8,300,000,000. The present personal property assessment is only $250,000,000, most of such property being taxed under special laws.

"The bill provides that personal property, both tangible and intangible, in the city shall be taxed without deduction or exemption. This would tax all the personal property which is now classified under the special tax system; for instance, the personal property of banks, trust companies, mercantile and manufacturing corporations, real estate mortgages by whomever held—all of which is now exempt from local personal property taxation, because of the payment of special taxes. This would, of course, be a double tax. But even if all such kinds of personal property are assessed, it is incredible that $22,000,000,000 would be placed on the assessment rolls.

"If, on the other hand, it is not intended to tax personal property which is under these special laws and the bill should be changed in this respect, then about the only kinds of personal property that would be affected would be that of public service corporations (which now largely escape assessment because of the offset of bonded indebtedness) and personal property in the hands of individual merchants and on consignment. The bill would repeal the existing exemption of $1,000 on household furniture and of savings bank deposits, and also the exemption of funds of charitable and religious organizations. But the aggregate of personal property of this character that would be reached would fall far short of providing the millions of dollars of necessary revenue.

"As to the general principle of tax rate limitation. Such a limitation as is proposed in this bill is highly undesirable because it absolutely ties the hands of the local authorities. The debt service now takes about seventy cents of the present tax rate. Should the $1.75 limit be in operation no retrenchment could be made on the debt service and the difference between $1.75 and the present rate would mean a reduction in the amount available for city expenses. Similarly, should the State Direct Tax be increased, the amount available for ordinary city purposes would be still further curtailed.

"In addition, this is not the time to agitate for a large reduction in taxes on real estate. Taxes on all other classes are going up and are likely to increase still further on account of the war, and of the war taxes, a smaller proportion is falling on real estate, as such, than on other classes, while rents are going up.

"The present high rate on real estate is in part due to abnormally low rates in the past, resulting from the city paying for large public improvements by bond issues. Now that these bond issues have to be met, the tax on real estate is naturally increased, but the purpose of these improvements was to add to real estate values.

BENEFIT FOR THE ARMY AND NAVY GIVEN BY THE REAL ESTATE BOARD

Performance in Lieu of Annual Banquet

INSPIRED by patriotic motives, the Real Estate Board of New York tendered a benefit performance at the New York Hippodrome last Sunday night to our Army and Navy boys, through the New York Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society and the War Camp Community Service of the City of New York. The performance was in lieu of the annual dinner of the Board, which has been a yearly feature for the past two decades. Before the first curtain rose the house was packed to capacity.

The gross receipts of the benefit approximated $16,000, though final figures are not available at this time. There are some expenses to come out of this amount, but the net showing will rebound great credit to the Board and the committee, headed by Elisha Sniffen.

The program was divided into three parts, the first headed by military evolutions and ceremonies by a detachment of the 71st Infantry, New York Guard, and a detachment of the 308th United States Infantry. Several artists appeared in this portion of the program, including Sybil Vane, of the Hippodrome company, and Lieutenant B. C. Hilliam, of the Canadian army. A special feature of this part was the auctioning off of the original of the frontispiece on the program by Joseph P. Day. After spirited bidding the painting was purchased by Robert Grant for $300.

The second part was devoted to music, artists connected with the Chicago opera having volunteered their services. Mary Garden appeared as a compliment to the United States Navy and sang the aria from Carpentier's Louise, and as an encore sang "Annie Laurie." Under the conductorship of Marcel Charlier the Chicago Opera Association orchestra rendered the overture "1812," by Tschaiakowsky, in a masterly manner. The Prologue from "Il Pagliacci" was sung by Desire Defrere. Pierre Henrotte, concertmaster of the orchestra, played the "Meditation" from Thais.

Francesca Peralta sang the soprano aria "Un Bel Di" from Madame Butterfly, and in conclusion of this part the orchestra, under the leadership of Arnaldo Conti, played "I Vespri Siciliani," by Verdi.

The third and final part of the program included a selection from "Jack o' Lantern," by the Sunshine Girls, which included the sending of a message by wig-wag signals. Fred Stone, in cowboy costume, assisted by Cubie Crutchfield, did stunts with a lariat, which demonstrated the versatility of this comedian.

Hon. Martin Littleton delivered a patriotic address, and Houdini mystified the audience by swallowing two hundred needles and a ball of thread separately only to have the needles appear threaded and ready for use.

Men stationed on various ships in the vicinity of the Port of New York appeared in a sketch, entitled "A Day on Board a Battleship." Various scenes were depicted, showing the life of sailors in port. One of the features of the sketch was a competition drill between two gun crews using a five-inch gun loading machine and a four-inch gun, with Morris-Dotter.

Lieutenant John Philip Sousa, U. S. N. R. F., led a number of selections, played by a composite band made up from crews of several ships now in local waters. Sailor Ragtime Riley sang Life's prize song, "We Are Coming," composed by Lieutenant Sousa. Miss Florence Macbeth concluded the performance with a rendition of the "Star Spangled Banner," Keys-Smith setting.

The Entertainment Committee for the Real Estate Board of New York comprised Captain Charles B. Dillingham, Colonel J. Hollis Wells, Lieutenant M. S. Bentham, R. H. Burnside, Bruce Edwards, Mark A. Luescher and Laurence McGuire, honorary chairman.

The following were the stage managers: For the Navy—Lieutenant-Commander J. W. Wilcox, Jr., U. S. N., and Lieutenant-Commander W. E. Eberle, U. S. N.; for the Army—Colonel J. Hollis Wells and Captain Eugene J. Orsenigo, and for the Hippodrome, William G. Stewart and Clyde Powers.

BOYLAN BILL HEARING.

"The proposers of this bill argue that it would 'stabilize' real estate values. Its first effect might perhaps be to increase them and thus make a present to certain holders who could dispose of the property while the rate was low; but to the disadvantage of permanent investors, who would find the city crippled in its power to make public improvements and who would ultimately have to pay the higher rate necessary to get such needed improvements."

Laurence McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board of New York, contended that the provision for a small personal property tax had been proposed as a relief to real estate which could not be burdened further with safety. He spoke in favor of the Boylan Bill. Edward P. Doyle estimated that about $230,000,000 could be raised under the plan proposed with real estate not paying more than $1.75 for each hundred dollars of assessed valuation and personal property 25 cents a hundred.

In addition he called attention to the fact that the city's tax rate is now near the constitutional limit of 27 per cent. exclusive of the debt service. This year's rate is 2.36 in Manhattan, 2.46 in Richmond. Of this amount seventy points are for debt service, leaving 1.66 in Manhattan and 1.76 in Richmond for general purposes. If no relief is afforded or if there is as great an increase in the tax rate next year as this year the limit will be reached.

Mr. Doyle also said that when this constitutional limit of 27 per cent. was imposed real estate was assessed at not more than 65 2/3 per cent. roughly of its value.

If that method of assessment had been continued we would have now reached the constitutional limit. In 1903 Mayor McClellan directed the Tax Department to assess at full value, and that method has continued ever since.

The hearing on the measure this week accomplished something. It gave rise to discussion of the bill in quarters where it may develop something in the way of interest and support.

Representatives of the Private Bankers' Association of New York City and the Association of Life Insurance Presidents sought an amendment specifically exempting securities and other personal property which now pay a direct tax. This amendment will probably be incorporated in the bill before the hearing next week.

TAX RATE FOR NEW YORK CITY ADVANCES ABOUT THIRTY POINTS

THE tax rate for the city of New York was fixed by the Board of Aldermen this week. As forecasted in the Record and Guide on February 23, the rates in the various boroughs are more than thirty points higher than last year. Manhattan, as usual, receives the heaviest burden. This borough pays about five-eighths of the entire amount.

The total amount of the budget for 1918 is $238,123,759.29, which includes the State tax, amounting to $8,463,756.38. The tax notes issued by the city between November 8 and December 31, totaling $900,000, increases the total to $239,023,759.20. From this amount is deducted $45,633,550.87, which includes $7,400,534.10 to be raised by the various counties and $38,233,016.77, the estimated revenue of the general fund, bringing the net amount of taxes to be raised throughout the city to $193,390,208.43.

The rate as applied to the various boroughs compared with last year is as follows:

Borough	1917	1918	Inc.
Manhattan	2.02	2.36	.34
Bronx	2.08	2.40	.32
Brooklyn	2.07	2.40	.33
Queens	2.12	2.21	.32
Richmond	2.12	2.46	.34

Controller Charles L. Craig issued the following statement: "The increase in the tax rate is due to the increase of $14,513,758 in the appropriations of the city departments, an increase of $6,745,821 for debt service and $2,061,364 for the city's share of the Queens Boulevard widening. The State tax is $8,453,756.

"Expressed in points and taking Manhattan as an illustration the increases in the tax rate are made up as follows:

For city departmental appropriations	16.10
For debt service	7.65
For State taxes	9.85
Special Queens Boulevard tax	2.47

"The increase in the rate of Manhattan was diminished two points by reason of the decrease in the amount provided for tax deficiency requirements."

A. W. Warner said: "Real estate in New York City realized a depreciation this week of about $280,000,000 in value, theoretically speaking, when anticipation crystallized in a tax increase of approximately one-third per cent. In other words, the cost of government by city, county and State has increased from about $200 out of every $1,000 of rent to about $235 out of every $1,000 of rent. It will not be long before the landlord—diligent tax collector that he is—will turn over a quarter of all the rent he receives for taxes; or if his property is vacant he will pay a quarter of what he might be able to collect were it rented. These figures are roughly based on the assessed real estate valuations for 1918 of $8,339,542,851, a tax increase of nearly $28,000,000, and a rental value of 10 per cent. of the assessed values.

"If rents were to be limited by law, and no other elements intervened, this depreciation would be an actual one, as real estate derives its value exclusively from the clear, spendable, net income it can dependably produce for its owner now and hereafter. If that income is cut down one-third per cent. permanently either the value must decline or the security must become more safe or more marketable. Real estate is no exception to the rule of investments. Safety, income and marketability being the same, real estate value keeps in step with other kinds of investments.

"If real estate were a liquid security, broadly dealt in on the stock exchanges, as it should some day be, the elements depressing it would have been: The anticipation of increased taxes, now partly materialized; the downward trend of other securities in competition with Government's loans at rising rates of interest; hostile proposed legislation, aiming to benefit tenants at the expense of landlords; increased cost of maintaining buildings; liability to immeasurable loss through constantly changing laws and ordinances, and the activities of Labor, Fire and Building Department inspectors, and the scarcity and diminished efficiency of labor and the scarcity and soaring cost of materials, as hindering the improving of vacant land. While the elements tending to enhance such a security would have been: Higher and yet higher rents through a sustained and substantial excess of prosperous demand over supply until such heights were reached that vacant land could be profitably im-

MEASURES AFFECTING REAL ESTATE

Bills Which Have Been Approved or Disapproved By Committee Appointed By Real Estate Board of New York

AMONG the bills considered by the Joint Committee on Legislation and Taxation of the Real Estate Board of New York, at its weekly meeting, Wednesday, March 6th, were several bills by Assemblyman Bewley, which would make unnecessary and unwise amendments to the Labor Law.

A bill by Senator Walters adding new Section 45 to the Workmen's Compensation Law, was approved insofar as it applies to the inclusion of longshoremen and other dock workers in Group 42, but disapproved as to the other amendment which would include in Group 45 practically all kinds of employees. The detailed action of bills was as follows:

Senate Int. 584, Slater. (Same as Assembly Int. 732, Lown.) To amend the Real Property Law, in relation to the sale, lease, or mortgage of real property under certain conditions.

This bill is approved. This is an effort to amend Sections 67, 69, 70, 71 and 107 of the Real Property Law. The amendments are intended to remove the difficulty met in the sale of real property in cases where an estate is granted for life with contingent remainder or remainders over to persons the identity of whom cannot be definitely and presently ascertained, and where a power of sale is given to be executed after the termination of the life estate. They are perhaps suggested by the decision of the Court in the matter of Callahan relating to an application under Section 67, 96 Misc. 74 affirmed 220 New York. The amendment of Section 107 is intended to cover also the case of persons who cannot be ascertained at the time the application is made and to whom notice is required or has been required to be given. There seems to be no reasonable ground for objection to these amendments, although it is possible that the Courts will be required to construe them before it can be definitely determined that they accomplish the purpose for which they are intended.

Senate Int. 389, Farrenkopf. (Same as Assembly Int. 463, O'Hare.) To amend the Code of Civil Procedure, in relation to actions to compel the determination of a claim to real property.

This bill is approved. It provides that the people of the State can be made a party defendant in such action. The amendment is made applicable to actions affecting property situate in cities of the first and second class. It would be just as well to make it apply to property anywhere in the State. There are errors in the text which should be corrected. (See lines 15 and 16, page 2.) The bill also substitutes the following sentence in Section 1638: "But this section does not apply to claims for vested dower" for the sentence, "but this section does not apply to a claim for dower." If the sentence, as amended, were omitted, Section 1638 would apply to any claim for dower either choate or inchoate. Such an amendment might be desirable.

Senate Int. 602, Walters. (Same as Assembly Int. 690, Pratt.) To amend the Workmen's Compensation Law, generally.

This bill is disapproved in part. It amends the Workmen's Compensation Law by making Group 42 include theatrical stage carpenters, property men, electricians, stage hands, lamp and moving picture operators. This is probably a reasonable extension of the Workmen's Compensation provisions, and is not opposed by the Board. The Board, however, is strongly opposed to the proposed amendment which would add a new Group 45 to include "all employments not included in other groups where four or more workmen are regularly employed in the same business or establishment, except farm laborers and domestic servants," and other changes. The effect of this would be virtually to extend the Workmen's Compensation to practically every kind of employment except farm laborers and domestic servants, an extension which it is believed is both unnecessary and burdensome.

Assembly Int. 726, Feigenbaum. To amend the General City Law, enabling cities of the first and second class to acquire land by purchase, condemnation, and in other ways; and for the erection of dwellings to be rented to the inhabitants thereof.

This bill is disapproved. It authorizes first and second class cities to acquire land by purchase or condemnation and erect dwellings or apartment houses thereon, according to the style of building prevalent in the particular section, and rent the same to inhabitants at cost. There is to be a dwelling commission in charge of a commissioner elected at the November election for the same period as the mayor to carry out the provisions of this act. While it is possible that Assemblyman Feigenbaum takes his bill seriously, the Board believes that the Legislature will not indorse a plan for the wholesale condemnation of vacant land and the construction of municipally-owned houses. The Board records its objection without believing it to be necessary to go into extensive arguments as to why such a bill should not be passed. It may be sufficient to point out that to cause the taxpayers to pay for condemned land, the houses erected upon which are to be rented at cost, would be to contribute to a certain portion of the community the property of other members of the community.

Assembly Int. 781, Quackenbush. To amend the Decedent Estate Law, in relation to courtesy.

This bill is disapproved. The act proposes to amend the Decedent Estate Law, in relation to courtesy, by adding a new section thereto designated "Section 100-a." Under the law as it exists the right of courtesy is an estate for life to the husband in the lands and tenements of which his wife died seized without having disposed thereof by will or otherwise, provided there had been issue of the marriage born alive. The proposed amendment provides that "courtesy of a husband shall hereafter attach to lands of which his wife died seized of an estate of inheritance whether or not issue was born alive to said husband or wife." The right of courtesy is a relic of feudalism, and has no place in our modern system of property and estates. We should look with favor upon legislation favoring the abolishment of this right, rather than extending and amplifying it.

Assembly Int. 765, Ames. To amend the General City Law, in relation to the powers of cities.

This bill is the same as one introduced by Senator Wagner last year, Int. 1086 (Assembly Int. 1279, Goldstein). The Real Estate Board has repeatedly expressed its disapproval to the principle of Municipal Ownership, and to the enactment by the Legislature of measures providing for Municipal Ownership, believing that it would result in an enormous increase in the taxpayers' burden. Therefore, the bill is disapproved.

Assembly Int. 711, Bewley. To amend the Labor Law, in relation to definitions.

This bill is disapproved. It amends Section 2 by changing the definition of the word "factory." It eliminates the word "making" and adds to the occupations already included as constituting factory work, "printing, multigraphing, packing, photographing blueprints, mechanical drafting, sorting and baling of paper," and when specifically enumerating these functions changes the definition of "tenant-factory" to mean "a building, separate parts of which are occupied and used by different persons, companies or corporations, and one or more of which parts is so used as to constitute in law a factory." The effect of these amendments would be to make a factory of every office and business building in the city and State. It would affect stenographic offices, private concerns where any multigraphing is done, architects and engineering offices, etc., where any drafting is done. Any building where newspaper is gathered and baled would be a "factory." This is obviously an absolutely absurd proposal as it affects paper, rags, etc. This is at present covered by the jurisdiction of the Fire Department, and quite completely in the city, by requirements of Chapter 12, Article 2, Section 24, etc., Code of Ordinances.

Assembly Int. 712, Bewley. To amend the Labor Law, in relation to inspection of scaffolding.

This bill is disapproved. It ostensibly amends the Labor Law relative to the inspection of scaffolding but it also adds a new Section 20-d relating to ammonia tanks. These are to be inspected by the Industrial Commission throughout the State. The amendments apply to all ammonia tanks used for generating cold storage in all factories and mercantile establishments in the State and making rules for the same. The subject for refrigeration inspection and the entire subject of explosives is, for New York City, quite covered in Chapter 10, Article 18 of the Code of Ordinances, and further restrictions along these lines would make for unduly burdensome regulations and unnecessary expense. The bill is disapproved at least as to the proposed Section 20-d.

Assembly Int. 712, Bewley. To amend the Labor Law, in relation to mercantile and other establishments.

This bill is disapproved. It makes various changes in the working hours of women and minors. Some of these provisions are reasonable. However, the amendment to Section 171 should be vigorously opposed. Where the present law safeguards the employment of women and children in basements of mercantile establishments, the amendment would have it that "no person shall be employed or permitted to work in a basement of a mercantile establishment without the sanction of the Department of Health in towns and villages and the Industrial Commission in cities. The Board of Health in New York City now has ample jurisdiction. The Industrial Commission has held that even engine rooms and boiler rooms are mercantile establishments, and as they have been using orders against such places this would prevent engineers, firemen and all others associated with engine room work from working below the sidewalk except by permit. It is a measure too restrictive and should be disapproved.

Senate Int. 11, Cromwell (Amended) (Same as Assembly Int. 43 Sesselberg). To amend the Greater New York Charter in relation to the modification or reduction of assessments by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

This bill adds a new section, 1019-b, to the Greater New York Charter. In its original form it provided that when, in the opinion of the Board of Estimate, the combined assessments for public improvement, confirmed after January 1, 1908, against any parcel of real estate shall in any two consecutive years exceed 60 per cent. of the valuation the Board of Estimate may, upon the certificate of the comptroller, direct the modification of the assessments. The bill, however, also provided that if "any person or persons shall have paid any such assessments or any part thereof in excess of the amount to which the same shall be reduced by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment the Comptroller of the city of New York is hereby directed to refund and pay to such person or persons, in interest as may appear entitled thereto, the amount of such excess," and provided for the spreading of the assessment for the sum to be refunded either upon the city or the borough affected. The Real Estate Board acted upon this bill several weeks ago, and while it approved the proposal for the modification of the obviously excessive and unfair assessments it seriously objected to the provisions for the refund. After a conference with Senator Cromwell the refund provision has been taken out of the amended bill, and the bill is approved.

Utmost Efficiency Essential.

In order for us to fully comprehend what the World War has cost civilization from a physical and economic standpoint it would be necessary to compile a vast mass of statistics covering the period of the war and including all phases of military and industrial activity. Statistical data is not required, however, to prove that the closest harmony and most complete coordination of industrial and commercial endeavor is needed at this time to enable the Allies to bring the conflict to a speedy conclusion. Only through the utmost efficiency in military, naval and industrial pursuits can the war be successfully waged. The requirements will fall with the greatest weight upon those of us who have been left at home to bear the burden of maintaining economic stability and at the same time provide for the wants of our field forces, and feed our Allies.

The war has diverted the useful efforts of more than one hundred million men from productive to destructive pursuits. Furthermore, it has imposed a heavy burden upon the remaining producers to supply the wants of civilization and at the same time restore the increasing waste of the war. A number of men greater than the total population of the United States has, during the past four years, been withdrawn from the ordinary employments of peaceful times and the whole world, while undergoing a vastly greater mental and physical strain, has an infinitely decreased ratio of production. Thus, even under a return of normal conditions, there would still be a scarcity of actual necessities.

To counteract the effect of the conditions now confronting industry it is therefore necessary to develop the highest efficiency along all lines of endeavor. Obstructionists, those not willing to assist in advancing the efficiency of their labors to the highest degree, or those who deliberately hold out for higher wages, concessions in working hours, or other forms of hindrance are slackers to the fullest meaning of the term and should be summarily dealt with both by the authorities and their friends.

Political economists have virtually conceded that the forces of labor and industry will, in a large measure, be responsible for the ultimate winning of the war and the restoration of democracy to the world. Involved nations have been quick to recognize the value and necessity of having these economic factors fully allied with them. The best and surest results can only be obtained, however, after the closest cooperation between the commercial, industrial and labor agencies has been attained, and then coordinated with the administration and military program. This means efficiency in the broadest conception of the word. Nothing less than such a conception can be accepted in these times of stress.

Doctrine of Labor and Materials.

The present business of the United States is war—war to exterminate autocracy and unrighteousness and to establish peace among the nations of the world.

The President has stated that the war can be won only if all the people of the country unite in a common purpose to defend our shores from aggression. No one group of people, or two groups, or three groups can win the war. It can only be won by the united and continuous cooperation of every man, woman and child. The two Liberty Loan campaigns have demonstrated the willingness of our people to reach down into their pockets and lend their dollars to the Government. A plan has now been perfected which will enable all our people, without exception, to lend their money to the Government.

The plan proposed has, however, an object even more important in the present crisis than the actual money which it will produce. It is based on fundamental principles so simple and so direct in their appeal to our people that they cannot fail to meet with enthusiasm and universal response. These principles involve the saving of life. They involve pointing out to the citizens of the country that we cannot support a vast army in the field and a great navy at sea and at the same time spend the same amount of money we used to before the war, for all manner of articles which may be perfectly proper to buy in times of peace, but which are not necessary to the carrying on of the great war which we are now fighting.

We have got to get behind the Government, which is devoting its entire energies to waging a great warfare for freedom. This warfare requires putting men in the field and keeping them fed and clothed. It requires the production of ships, and shells, guns and rifles, motor trucks, horses, saddlery, aeroplanes, hospital supplies, food and a great variety of goods the production of which calls for vast industrial plants from one end of the country to the other, manned by millions of men and women who serve their country as effectively as our soldiers and sailors.

Our fighting forces are formed of companies of soldiers and sailors banded together to serve their country. War Savings Societies will be formed of companies of savers banded together to save their country. For the success of our army and navy every company of soldiers in France, the crew of every ship, should have back of it, at home, a company of savers. As a united people, consecrated to the great task which lies before us, we cannot fail.

Moving Clocks Ahead.

Fifty-two important reasons for the prompt passing of the Daylight Saving Bill were given Congress last week in the report of the Committee on Daylight Saving of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

All along the line daylight saving means increased efficiency in the improvement of the health, morals and social welfare of the twenty million workers of the country. Briefly sketched as they are, there will be seen in these things a far-reaching step toward the solution of many of the causes of labor unrest, and a practical constructive effort toward securing the full cooperation of labor in prosecuting the war.

Daylight saving means also an immediate reduction in the use of light and heat, with its attendant conservation of coal. More than 1,500,000 tons of coal a year is the estimated saving, even if the measure is in effect only for the shortest period that has been suggested; and the saving in fuel oils is equally impressive.

The savings would occur in both direct and indirect ways. The amount of coal that will be saved if the clock is moved ahead one hour would differ with the method in which daylight saving is used. Calculations computed for different periods based upon the actual British experience in the summer of 1916, and modified by allowances for differences in latitude give the following savings in coal for the United States:

(1) Saving of 150 hours of a yearly average of 1,320 per year requiring artificial illumination in the U. S. (i. e., by daylight saving between second Sunday in April and last Sunday in September) according to the Calder Bill—S. 1854—now before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce:

Tons Coal.
In electricity for lighting....	660,000
In gas for lighting.....	144,000

(2) Saving of 190 hours from the yearly average (i. e., with clocks moved ahead one hour between April 1 and November 30):

Tons Coal.
In electricity for lighting...	836,000
In gas for lighting.....	183,000

(3) Saving of 198 hours from the yearly average (i. e., with clocks advanced one hour throughout year):

Tons Coal.
In electricity for lighting....	871,000
In gas for lighting.....	190,000

The saving in coal for these purposes could be represented approximately by the following percentages:

(1) With saving of 150 hours:

Tons.
Amount of coal used for lighting through gas and electricity, approximately.....	15,750,000
Amount saved.....	804,000
Percentage saved, 5%.

(2) With saving of 190 hours:

Tons.
Amount of coal used for lighting through gas and electricity, approximately.....	15,750,000
Amount saved.....	1,019,000
Percentage saved, 6.5%.

(3) With saving of 198 hours:

Tons.
Amount of coal used for lighting through gas and electricity, approximately.....	15,750,000
Amount saved.....	1,061,000
Percentage saved, 6.6%.

These figures do not include the saving which would be obtained at isolated plants and at electric power plants which sell current for lighting. To be borne in mind, too, is the fact that the estimate has been made on a basis which assumes the use of electric energy and gas for lighting is spread evenly over the country, whereas as a matter of fact fifty-seven million electric lights out of a total of seventy-six million in the country are in New England, Middle Atlantic and Northern Central States, where the advantages of daylight saving will be most striking.

The saving of coal through substitution of a morning hour of moderate illumination for an evening hour of maximum use of electricity and gas illustrates ways in which important savings in coal would be obtained.

Supporting the daylight saving measure are the President of the United States, Herbert C. Hoover, the United States Food Administrator; Dr. Harry A. Garfield, the United States Fuel Administrator; E. N. Hurley, Chairman of the Shipping Board; the Council of National Defense, literally scores of State and municipal civic bodies and the more than one thousand chambers of commerce and commercial organizations comprising the membership of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Fixing Building Responsibility.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

A review of the building accidents and collapses that have occurred in New York calls to mind the insistent cry following each, that responsibility be fixed and some one be held accountable. Almost without exception, however, the process of what is technically known as "passing the buck" has completely frustrated such attempts—no one is to blame.

It seems high time therefore that some method should be devised whereby it may be possible to hold some definite person criminally responsible for loss of life and limb. It is quite evident that the lack of this has encouraged slipshod construction and careless superintendence or no superintendence at all in the very buildings where greatest danger exists. The first requisite of any provision to this end must be applicability to any and all kinds of building construction.

Now there are two distinct stages in any building operation. First, the preparation and filing of the plans, and, second, the actual work of construction. There can hardly be any question that responsibility for the adequacy of the plans should be fixed upon the author of such plans, be he architect, engineer, builder or owner. Present laws provide for this so that practically in every case the responsibility can be definitely located and fixed upon a single person.

In the execution of the work, however, it would seem that there are three likely to be connected with the operation, upon one or more of whom the responsibility might rest. In case the architect (meaning by "architect" the one who makes and files the plans) superintends the execution of the building, there is opportunity to fix upon him the responsibility, but in many cases the architect is not so concerned. The builder is another who might be held to accountability, but in many cases there is no single builder; often there are a number of subcontractors engaged to do the work, or frequently the work is executed largely by individual workmen employed by the owner. It would then seem that the owner is practically the only one connected with building operations that surely must be concerned in all building work.

A difficulty here arises, however, in attempting to place responsibility on the owner. He is usually a man of no technical knowledge or building experience, and if it were mandatory that he should bear criminal responsibility for any or all accidents that might occur in connection with his operation, many "owners" would prefer to invest their money in some less hazardous enterprise.

Of the three possible interests mentioned—the architect, the builder, the owner—it would seem that as the owner is the only one of necessity connected with every building operation that responsibility must in some way be fixed on him or through him. In case he employs the architect or the author of the plans as superintendent for the execution of the work, which assuredly is the best procedure, the owner should be allowed to name such architect who would bear the responsibility for the safety of the construction. If the architect is not so employed and there is a general builder, the owner could well nominate him the responsible party. In case the architect is not employed to supervise, nor yet is there a general contractor or builder, it would seem that the owner should have means of employing some one competent to supervise and take the responsibility. In case he himself wishes to assume the responsibility, to avoid the necessity of an architect or builder or a supervisor, he might have the right to make himself the party of record.

Having thus located the supervising function on a single designated party, it would be important that such party should be registered with the Building Department, after having shown that he has sufficient ability and sufficient experience to warrant his assuming such a function. It would hardly seem necessary to create a special Board to determine the fitness of such persons, for this could be taken care of by the Building Department, which could without difficulty pass upon the facts relative to the availability of the candidate. It would be wise to exempt from the above provisions any work which did not involve structural changes.

The owner would then have the option of nominating his architect or his builder (if a single builder is employed) or a competent supervisor, as the superintendent or supervisor of record, with the object of fixing a definite source to whom the authorities may look in case of building accident. The other alternative would be for him to register with the Building Department and declare that he would himself assume all responsibility.

State Supervision of Cities.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

We have in this city become so accustomed to a popular clamor for home rule as against any interference by the State in our municipal affairs that the recent action by the Provincial Government of Quebec relative to the municipalities within that province comes with something of a shock to us.

Into the Legislature of that province a bill has been introduced, and has every prospect of becoming a law, under which a department, to be known as the Department of Municipal Affairs, is being created, with a wide field of operations. The plan and scope of the new department is well stated in the Monetary Times of Canada (March 1, 1918):

"As the new system of controlling municipalities is found to meet with success the ultimate result, according to what has been said in the Quebec Legislative Assembly, will mean that it will no longer be possible for a municipality, civic or scholastic, to commit acts that affect it badly in the money market. An almost complete control of civic finance is provided in the new bill, or rather series of bills on the same subject, that were taken up in the course of a protracted sitting. The manner in which municipalities are to issue their loans, obligations on the municipalities to provide sinking funds each year, and a number of other matters very directly affecting all matters of municipal finance, even to the control of the bookkeeping, are included in the new legislation.

"It will be the aim of the Government to see that the municipalities issue serial bonds for obligations. Each year the coupons, when paid, will pay not only the interest, but also the year's proportion of the capital, so that at the end of the term on which the bonds are issued the principal and interest will both be extinguished."

The general purpose of the new legislation is to prevent municipalities from entering into adventures which will harm their credit in the money markets of the world.

The power of the "Minister of Municipal Affairs" seems to be limited to an approval or disapproval of proposed municipal activities that involve the financial credit of the localities in ques-

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 306.—A places in B's hands, the latter being a real estate broker, a piece of property, and fixes a price at which the property is to be sold. B sells the property, and A refuses to pay the commission, alleging that he had negotiated with the buyer ten years before, but was unable to close with him. The buyer made affidavit that it was through the persistency of B that he was finally induced to buy. Can B legally compel A to pay him his commission? F. K.

Answer No. 306.—Yes.

Question No. 307.—A lease was made some time ago which called for the lessee paying all taxes, etc., imposed by the city, county, state or national authorities. It was the intention of the lessor that he receive a stipulated amount net. At that time there was no thought of the tax on excess profits. Who should pay this tax? Is the lessee obligated to pay the surtaxes as well as the normal taxes? A. E.

Answer No. 307.—Very hard to answer without reading the lease, but responding duly to the inquiry just as it is: Lessee should pay.

tion. He will possess largely the power to veto any matter that involves an expansion of the municipal credit, and he may dictate the terms as to sinking funds, etc., necessarily to be created as a condition precedent to the operation. He will act substantially as a check upon the ambitions of municipal administrations who seek favor with the multitude as distinguished from those who pay the bills. Such a check seems to be essential in communities where there is a dominating desire on the part of many to spend the money of others.

A department with the powers of that now being created in Quebec would have been a saving grace in this State so far as this city is concerned.

WILLIAM B. ELLISON.

American Business to Confer.

Business readjustment to war will be the dominant note of the Sixth Annual Meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, it was announced at the conclusion of the meeting of the Board of Directors of that body.

The four critical questions of the day—financing the war, railroads, centralized control of industry, and shipping—will be considered from the twofold point of view of filling the Government's requirements, but with the minimum disturbance to private industry.

More than 500,000 business men will be represented at the meeting in Chicago, April 10, 11 and 12. Delegations will be there from every State in the Union, from large cities and from small. There are more than one thousand local chambers of commerce and commercial organizations comprising the membership of the National Chamber of Commerce, which includes even such distant bodies as the American Chambers of Commerce at Shanghai, the Philippines, Alaska, Hawaii, Buenos Ayres, Rio de Janeiro, London, Paris and some half-dozen other cities abroad, and each of the 1,000 local members will be represented at Chicago by duly authorized delegates. The resolutions of the meeting may truly be said to be an accurate and authoritative expression from American business, and the fullest possible measure of cooperation between business and the Government may be expected to result. As in the past, the speakers will be men of National prominence.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

New Tax Rate Fixed for Five Boroughs—

Boylan Flat Rate Bill Will Be Amended

THE fixing of the tax rate by the city authorities was the most important happening of the week. The increase of about thirty points did not come as a surprise, for it was forecasted in the Record and Guide two weeks ago. Nevertheless there was some disappointment that such extremes had to be resorted to, for many owners were firm in the belief that the new administration would find ways and means to curtail expenses, and even if a lower rate was not possible at least that the increase would only be nominal.

The hearing at Albany this week on the Boylan Bill was another matter important to property owners. There is but little likelihood that the bill will pass in its present form. Nevertheless within a few days an amended measure will be prepared which will have a better chance of passage. There is but little doubt that a campaign of education is necessary before the flat rate is adopted. Other means for the raising of moneys by the city must be found and proved practical.

The collecting on personal property has never been successful, but that does not mean that the principle is wrong. It is only in its application that the mistakes are made. The fault does not lie alone in New York City, but reaches out throughout every city and town in the state and the nation. There is not any reason why personal taxes should not be collected any more than that income taxes are unobtainable by the Federal Government. Patriotism does not enter into the question. It is simply that every one is afraid not to make a report to the Government, for it is known that failure to do so will bring severe punishment. Were the same fear to exist in New York City those who should pay would do so, and real estate would only be compelled to meet its fair and equitable share of the administrative expenses.

The introduction of the bill at Albany, making it practicable to convert four-story houses for the occupancy of three families, is another step made as the result of the passing of the Lawson Three-Family House Law during the last session of the Legislature. The bill is a good one, and will do much to relieve the owner of this class of house, as additional income could be obtained.

It is fitting that this bill should become a law at this time, for it is difficult to erect new multi-family structures on account of the shortage of money, the scarcity of labor and materials. The passage of this bill would bring into the market hundreds of old buildings, which could be converted for a few thousands of dollars and relieve the shortage of rentable space, in addition to increasing the income return to the owner of this class of property, which at the present time is not a remunerative investment.

CITY TAX RATE.

proved notwithstanding the high cost of construction.

"I started to say that the one-third per cent. loss of income through the increase of taxes had not resulted in a decrease in the market value of New York's real estate to the extent of $280,000,000 for the reason that it is offset by the anticipated increase of rents. The increase of one-third per cent. just puts off by that much the day when it will pay to improve vacant land, for none of it will be improved until it does pay. The safety valve for high rents is set at the point where money for new construction is attracted from other investments when increased accommodations relieve the competitive pressure by which rents have been raised.

"In other days, when the supply of building accommodation exceeded the demand for space, an increase in the taxes of one-third per cent. would have come wholly out of the owner. Under present circumstances the added tax will be distributed quickly to the public, which mainly benefits from the things for which the tax money is spent by officials they have elected, as a necessary and to be expected part of the high cost of living."

Cyril Burdett, of New York Title & Mortgage Company, speaking of the new rate, said: "We have scarcely recovered from the shock the announcement of the new rate has given us. Of course we expected a high rate, but not so high as they gave us. What can we do about it but pay it? Next year, we are told, the rate will be higher than this year. Maybe it will, but if the Boylan Bill passes it will have a bearing on next year's rate. Our taxes are very high today and we could ill afford an increase. Taking for general comparison this building, 135 Broadway. In spite of the fact that the value and rentals have decreased we paid $6,000 more last year than we did in 1905. Year after year sees the valuation of this building decreasing, yet the amount of taxes we are called upon to pay increases each year.

"We are asked to compete with other office buildings downtown, more modern than this, and we cannot hold our tenants with what we have to offer them unless we lower the rents. The new buildings have more to offer, and we must be the sufferers, yet our taxes go higher and the valuation goes lower. We have an action in certiorari pending against the city on this reduction of valuation, and propose threshing out the whole business of reduced values and increased taxes. In the meantime the new tax rate is law, and we must obey it until we get legislative relief, and that soon."

Walter Lindner, of Title Guaranty & Trust Company: "What is there to be said about it now? It is law, and we must abide by it. It is claimed that the new rate is necessary, and to refute this means a review of the financial history of the city. I don't want the job, but have no doubt it will be undertaken by some one. The rate is high—the highest, we are told, in the history of the city. Next year, we are told, it will be even higher, so we must obey the law, pay the tax and think as we will about it. There is nothing else I can say at this time."

Record and Guide Quarterly.

Attention is called to the users of the records, published in the Record and Guide, to the Record and Guide Quarterly, which is just off the press. The Quarterly is published every three months, the final installment being combined with the three preceding ones, making, in one compact volume, a complete transcription, in digest form, of all conveyances, mortgages, assignments of mortgages, satisfied mortgages, leases, real estate appraisals, auction sales, wills, new buildings and alterations.

These records are arranged geographically, chronologically and alphabetically so that the subscriber may, at a moment's notice, find the desired information.

In order to make these records more complete the attorney's name is inserted in all mortgages and a geographical cross reference to the real estate appraisals is given. This permits the user in searching for the appraised value of a given parcel, and not having the name of the deceased, to obtain the information instantly.

Years of experience has demonstrated that by using the Record and Guide Quarterly time and annoyance are saved. It is equally valuable to the broker who maintains an elaborate system of keeping records, or the man who must condense his plant.

IT IS NO LESS TRUE OF AN ORGANIZED BODY, THAN OF THE INDIVIDUAL, THAT THE MEASURE OF EFFICIENCY IS DETERMINED BY THE CAPABILITY TO CONTEND SUCCESSFULLY WITH SUDDEN AND UNEXPECTED EMERGENCIES.

When property owners and tenants were unable to obtain coal during the recent long period of zero weather, we were called upon to furnish a world record-breaking amount of Gas.

On February 5 last the output of Gas in Manhattan, The Bronx and Long Island City was the world record for twenty-four hours--

150,537,000 CUBIC FEET

Gas Companies throughout the Country when drawn upon heavily for a supply of Gas for Heating were compelled to stop the sale of Gas Heaters and other Gas using appliances. Not so with us. We had prepared ourselves and had a large stock of Gas Heaters on hand. When our supply was nearly exhausted we went into the market and purchased more—but only those of the highest standard of make.

Hundreds of thousands of persons depended upon Gas for Cooking and Heating. They could not be and were not disappointed, for our immense manufacturing plants were operated with the greatest efficiency. An emergency confronted us, and because ours is a real Public Service, we successfully met it.

"The Right Way Is the Gas Way."

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Agreement to Pay Appraised Price.

A LEASE granted the lessee the privilege or option to purchase the property after 10 years at a value to be determined by "appraisal," and provided that the decision of any two of the three appraisers should be binding on the parties. The Washington Supreme Court holds, Martin v. Vansant, 168 Pac. 990, that the arrangement to have the value of the lots fixed by appraisers was not an agreement to submit to arbitration, revocable by the lessee, but an irrevocable agreement, made before controversy, to leave the incidental matter of price to appraisers or referees, and sublessees having refused to abide by the decision of two appraisers, after exercising their option to purchase, could be compelled to perform by bill for specific performance.

Rent, When Payable.

The New York Appellate Division holds, Milton-Alvin Holding Company v. Williams, 168 N. Y. Supp. 171, that where a lease was complete in all its terms and specific as to the time and the property covered, it did not create a partnership and limit the landlord to an action for accounting, or prevent him from maintaining a summary proceeding to recover possession for nonpayment of rent because it provided that after the first two years the rent should be a sum equivalent to one-half of the rental or income received by the tenant from subtenants. The lease required the tenant to erect a number of bungalows, and after the first two years to pay a rental equivalent to one-half of the rental or income received by the tenant from subtenants, and provided that such rent should be paid in each year as soon as it had been collected by the tenant for each year from the occupants of all the bungalows, and that the tenant might pay taxes and assessments, and deduct them from the rent upon the landlord's failure to pay them. It is held that under these provisions one-half of the rents as collected by the tenant was due the landlord as soon as collected though the entire sum from all the subtenants had not been collected, there being no default on the part of the landlord authorizing any deductions by the tenant.

Action for Deposit.

Where a lease provided that a deposit by the tenant might be retained by the landlord and applied on the rent for the last two months of the term, and that in case of reentry by the landlord he should have the right to relet the premises as the tenant's agent, and the tenant should remain liable for any deficiency the New York Appellate Division holds, Markman v. 451-455 Grand St. Corp., 168 N. Y. Supp. 522, that an action brought by the tenant, after being dispossessed in summary proceedings, but before the end of the term, to recover the deposit was prematurely brought, since, while the issuance of a warrant in summary proceedings ordinarily terminates the lease, and the deposit becomes immediately payable, if the lease contains covenants which by the express terms of the lease are intended to survive a reentry the deposit may be held by the landlord until the term demised has expired.

Acceptance of Assignee.

In a suit against a lessee and an assignee for rent, it is held, Wells v. Warlick, 198 L. W. 1121, that evidence that when the lessee told the landlord that he had a chance to sell out if he could turn the building over to the assignee the landlord said that all he wanted was the rent, and that it was perfectly satisfactory to him to turn the lease over to the assignee, warranted a finding that the landlord discharged the lessee as a tenant under the lease and accepted the assignee in his place.

Important Decision.

The Court of Appeals has just decided an important question relating to the time when assessments become a lien between buyer and seller in this city. Some time ago the Supreme Court in Kings County decided, in the case of Doonan v. Killilea, that such assessments became a charge immediately upon confirmation, irrespective of the time of entry of the assessment in the city records. This was affirmed by the Appellate Division, Second Department, but has now been reversed by the Court of Appeals.

In view of this decision a statement has been prepared by Walter Lindner, of the Title Guaranty & Trust Company, for the guidance of its searchers and closing attorneys on this subject, which statement is as follows:

"The court holds in effect that all taxes, assessments and installments of assessments, unless otherwise provided by contract, become charges between the vendor and the vendee at the same time that they become liens on the real property; that they become liens only upon the dates or at the times specified in the laws, pursuant to which such taxes or assessments are confirmed.

"Annual real property taxes in the City of New York become charges and liens, one-half on May 1 and one-half on November 1 in each year. Ordinary assessments imposed pursuant to the Greater New York Charter become charges and liens ten days after the same are entered in the office of the Collector of Assessments and Arrears. Installment assessments under Section 1019-a of the Charter become charges and liens as to each installment on the annual anniversary of the date of entry of the assessments. Care in closing titles should be had to see whether this rule as to installment assessments has or has not been changed by the contract. In cases where assessments or installment assessments have been entered under special laws the question of when the same become liens must be determined upon a consideration of the special Act under which the assessment is had."

New Bills Introduced.

Senator Dowling has introduced an amendment to the Tenement House Law, making provisions relative to three-family tenements and three-family converted dwellings applicable to four-family tenements and four-family converted dwellings.

Senator Ottinger has a bill which provides that an agreement for the occupancy of real estate in New York City shall create a monthly tenancy unless the duration of the occupancy shall be specified in some note or memorandum in writing, and subscribed by the parties or their agents.

The State Conference of Mayors has approved the Wagner-Donohue municipal ownership bill, recently introduced in the Legislature. At the same time the conference disapproved the Amo Bill, providing for a referendum on municipal ownership.

Assemblyman Clarence F. Welsh of Albany has introduced a bill providing that all municipal bonds heretofore or hereafter issued maturing in serial installments shall be paid at maturity and no statutory limitation of the taxing power shall operate to prevent such payment. For bonds heretofore issued not maturing in installments, for which no sum is required to be raised annually by statute, there shall be raised hereafter annually at least 2 per cent. of the principal unless a smaller sum, with accretions at 3 per cent., is sufficient to pay the same, provided total amount required by way of sinking fund for such bonds need not under foregoing provisions exceed in any year one-tenth of 1 per cent. of assessed valuation of taxable property.

Riviera Realty Company, Max Ash, Henry and Hyman Sonn, and Max Marx, sold the Riviera apartment house, a thirteen-story structure, occupying the block front on Riverside drive between 166th and 157th streets, measuring 234.9 feet on the drive, 185 feet in 156th street, and 100.10 feet on 157th street. The city assesses the property at $1,500,000, of which $300,000 represents land value. The house was built about ten years ago at an estimated cost of $1,700,000 from plans by Rouse & Goldstone, architects. According to reports, William H. Barnard, treasurer of the International Salt company, is the new owner. Title will be taken in the name of the newly-formed corporation, known as 790 Riverside, Inc., capitalized at $500, with William H. MacIlroy, Hervey J. Osborn, and Joseph Pramutolo, as directors. These people are also directors in Whitehall-Aiken, Inc., formed at Albany last Thursday. The Riviera contains suites of from five to ten rooms, and under the old schedule of rentals range from $650 to $2,000. Mr. Barnard owns and occupies the residence at the north corner of Riverside drive and 89th street, formerly the home of the widow of Bishop Henry C. Potter.

Roxborough in New Hands.

Sharp & Company sold to the newly-formed Roxborough Holding Company, represented by Joseph A. Wolf, as attorney, for the New York County National Bank, the Roxborough apartment house, at the northwest corner of Broadway and 92d street. The building was held at $1,500,000. The Roxborough is twelve stories in height, and has a mortgage for $725,000, held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The property measures 107.4 feet on Broadway, and extends 125 feet in 92d street. It was erected in 1911 by Isaac and Herman Mayer, who bought the site from Franklin Petit. The late Col. Francis S. The house just sold has fifty-seven apartments and seven stores. Sharp & Company have been appointed agents.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

THE local building situation was noteworthy during the past week on account of the fact of the great mass of small projects at present active. The movement involves the planning of new structures of many different types, costing between $10,000 and $50,000, and includes a large number of interesting alteration jobs. The latter phase of the work is important, and call for the expenditure of considerable money. Another type of building activity that is demonstrating additional life is the construction of garages, both for public and private use. At the present writing there are more garage projects under construction and in contemplation than ever before, and according to the outlook the automobile interests are on the eve of one of the busiest seasons in the history of the industry.

Large individual building operations have fallen off to a considerable extent, although there are a number of recently planned buildings that undoubtedly will proceed during the year. The chief reason for the withholding of large structures from immediate start is the high levels of material prices and the extreme difficulty of obtaining even reasonably prompt deliveries on the jobs. Just as soon as it is possible to obtain structural steel and other essentials without waiting for many months the building situation will greatly enliven. The demand for rentable space continues—for apartments, small dwellings and office and store accommodations. New structures are badly needed in many sections of Greater New York and the adjacent towns, but no great volume of new activity is possible while there is a scarcity of materials, caused by congestion and embargoes.

The building outlook is generally considered favorable. The most prominent contracting firms are busy to capacity, many of them devoting almost their entire facilities to rush construction for the Government. This type of work has not abated during the last few weeks. In fact, there are announcements almost daily of entirely new projects affecting practically all parts of the country. The immense volume of Federal work that is now under way or soon to be started is likely to tax the facilities of the building industry for months to come.

The markets for building materials and supplies are slowly responding to the improved building situation. The moderated weather has been in a large measure responsible for the change, as it made possible the start of a number of operations temporarily held in abeyance. Orders are coming in more freely, and current inquiries for future deliveries are much more frequent than they were two or three weeks ago. With freight congestion relieved and embargoes lifted there is little doubt but that interest in building construction of a private nature would materially increase.

Building material prices are unusually firm, with tendency toward further increases all along the line. The only exception is in those commodities that have been controlled in output and price through Governmental action. During the last week or so there have been many announcements of new prices, all of which have been advances over the old schedules. In those lines that already have not revised price lists there are persistent rumors of advances, and the building trades need not be surprised by an early announcement of substantial advances. Practically all material producers offer similar excuses for their increased price levels. The scarcity of skilled labor and the extremely high rate of wages paid, fuel shortage and transportation difficulties are the prime causes. These factors have contributed in increasing manufacturing and handling costs, so revised schedules were necessary.

brick interests are greatly hindered in bringing their product from plant to job by the existing railroad freight congestion and the embargoes that are still effective. There is also a scarcity of labor and fuel required in manufacturing. Face brick prices are firm and only slightly advanced.

Lumber.—There has been no unusual activity in the wholesale lumber market during the past week. The more favorable weather has improved transportation facilities to some extent and has been responsible for effecting a slight measure of relief to dealers that were in need of new lumber supplies in order to carry on their business. There is only a moderate volume of business emanating from building sources, but the manufacturers and dealers are looking ahead to better times, as there recently has been a satisfactory amount of new construction announced to the building trades. Manufacturing consumers are prominent factors in the market, and the Governmental demands continue to predominate all other phases of activity. Prices are firm and steadily advancing.

Window Glass.—Business is extremely light for both plate and window glass, with the trade buying only for actual needs. It is predicted that the production for the year ending December 7, 1918, will not exceed 5,500,000 boxes as against double that amount for last year. Although increased prices recently were made effective the trade would not be surprised if the glass prices sustained further advances in the near future.

Structural Steel.—Although there have been no noteworthy transactions in the steel market during the week the situation has somewhat improved, and better conditions are expected. There is still a serious congestion at the mills, and fabricators are unable to operate to their fullest capacity owing to the railroad congestion and fuel shortage. The steel contractors in the Metropolitan district report that considerable new business has been presented for estimates, and with the Government work the balance of the season should be exceptionally busy. There is no change in the quotations for mill shipments of fabricated material.

Cast Iron Pipe.—There is a satisfactory volume of business from private sources, but up to the present time municipal buying has been slow. There are prospects of considerable tonnage demands from the latter interests, as plans have been prepared by town and county engineers for numerous improvements, many of which will represent large expenditures of public funds. Government control prices still maintain, and estimates are based upon the following quotations: 6-in., 8-in. and heavier, $55.35 per net ton, New York, and 4-in., $58.35.

Nails.—Although there is but little new demand for wire nails the manufacturers are for the greater part sold up for months ahead, and are behind their deliveries to jobbers. The base price on wire nails has not changed, and will remain effective until April 1. The demand for cut nails has fallen off materially, owing to the decreased volume of construction work throughout the country. Cut nails, in carload lots, are quoted at $4 base per keg, f. o. b. Pittsburgh, and it is not believed that this figure will be revised.

Sand and Gravel.—The favorable weather of the past week has made considerable difference in the output of sand, and as the ice in the bays is gradually breaking up there is a strong possibility of barges being able to come through in a short space of time. Wholesale prices of sand are unchanged. The gravel market is practically dead. No quotations are being made because of the Governmental requirements that include all available supplies for the present.

Linseed Oil.—The difficulties of transportation have been responsible for a further strengthening of the wholesale price of linseed oil. There has been an advance of 5c. a gallon over the level of one week ago, and predictions are being made that the top figure has not yet been reached. Transportation conditions are unsatisfactory, and there is practically no signs of improvement in sight. The demand from consumers is light.

White and Red Lead.—The general tone of the market has been firm, but prices have not advanced, even with the increased cost of metal lead. Prices for basic carbonate white lead, in linseed oil, range from 10 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. to 11c., in large lots, and in containers of not less than 100 pounds, with the usual advances for smaller quantities and packages. Red lead in oil is quoted at 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ c. to 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. for large lots for immediate delivery.

Portland Cement.—There has been no particular change in the cement situation. The demand is light for current business, but the outlook for the future is promising. Portland cement prices are unchanged. The producers are generally formulating their plans for the season's manufacturing.

Rosendale Cement.—The market for this commodity is quiet, with few sales and infrequent inquiries. Prices are unchanged and firm. With a period of favorable weather building activity will undoubtedly increase, with a consequent strengthening of the market situation.

Common Brick.—The market for Hudson River common brick is quiet, with prices unchanged and what little building activity current effectually stopped by the strike of the building laborers. Two barge loads of brick were taken out of the wholesale market during the week. There are rumors current that the Government will be in the market for an immense number of common brick. At the present writing there is no confirmation and it appears, according to prominent dealers, as though the Federal authorities had sufficient brick available for their immediate needs. Last autumn about seven million common brick were contracted for by the Government for use at various points. According to reports only approximately two million have so far been used, leaving a balance of five million available for military construction within the Metropolitan zone. The Raritan situation is unchanged since the last report. The market for second-hand common brick is very slow. Prices have dropped and are now ranging in the neighborhood of $6 a load of 1,500 at the wrecking job, with an additional charge for hauling.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, March 8, 1918. Condition of market: Demand better; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10.25 to $10.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none; sales, 2. Distribution: Brooklyn, 1; Flushing, 1.

Face Brick.—Manufacturers and dealers in face brick report that there is a satisfactory volume of new business in sight and that the next few weeks should witness a marked improvement in the building situation. There are numerous high-class operations on the verge of starting, and these will employ face brick to a large extent. The face

STATISTICS OF NEW BUILDING

COMPLETED ON LONG ISLAND

Long Island Railroad Company Prepares Summary

STATISTICS showing building activities in the various communities on Long Island have been prepared by the Long Island Railroad. Comparative figures for the past thirteen years are also given. It will be seen that there is a decided falling off in new work on the island, due to many reasons, principally the increased cost of construction, scarcity of labor and difficulties experienced in obtaining deliveries.

Long Island suffered last summer from the scarcity of labor in all branches, primarily due to the activities of the Government at Yaphank and Mineola. There was a time when practically all the available artisans were employed at these places. The years 1915 and 1916 were on a par, there being practically no difference in the total volume of work completed, though, while the costs are not given, nevertheless there was more money expended during 1916 than in the year previous.

The high mark for construction activity was reached in 1912, which year marked the greatest number of residences erected during any twelve-month period. When considering the figures for 1917 it must be borne in mind that the construction work at Yaphank is only indicated as three operations, while a tremendous sum was expended in creating housing facilities for thousands of men, in addition to the building of roads and the installing of other improvements which created a new community out of virgin territory. The summary follows:

Office Building Contract Placed.

Charles A. Cowen & Company, 30 East 42d street, has obtained the general contract for the construction of the eight-story office building to occupy the block front in the north side of West 25th street, between Fifth avenue and Broadway. This building is for the Stephenson Estate, care of C. S. Stephenson, 27 Cedar street, and will be leased by the Thomas Cusack Company, Chicago and New York. The structure is to be erected from plans prepared by Zimmerman, Saxe & Zimmerman, Chicago, Ill., and Buchman & Kahn, 30 East 42d street, Manhattan, associated architects, and will have frontage of 86 feet in 25th street, 30 feet on Broadway and 28 feet on Fifth avenue. The floor construction will be of reinforced concrete and the facades will be of face brick and terra cotta.

Contract for Jersey City Factory.

Isaac Hopper's Sons, Inc., 15 East 40th street, Manhattan, have recently obtained the general contract for the construction of a new four-story factory building, 50 x 100 feet, and an addition to the present two-story factory building, located at the northwest corner of Lincoln street and Hudson Boulevard, Jersey City, N. J. The plans and specifications for this operation were prepared by De Rosa & Periera, architects, 150 Nassau street, Manhattan. The contract includes all work, and will involve approximately $100,000.

Architects for Hoboken Factory.

Ballinger & Perrot, architects, 17th and Arch streets, Philadelphia, Pa., and 1328 Broadway, Manhattan, have been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for the new chocolate factory to be erected at the southeast corner of Clinton and 12th streets, Hoboken, N. J., for the Chocolate-Menier Company, Paris, France, and 1127 Clinton street, Hoboken, owners. J. Van Lierde is the resident manager and in charge of this project for the owners. No plans have as yet been started and it will probably be some time before the details of construction are available.

Obtains Large Slate Contract.

E. J. Johnson has obtained the contract for all the roofing slate to be used on the Newark Cathedral, Newark, N. J., of which E. F. Ditmas is the architect. This is one of the largest roofing slate contracts awarded in this vicinity for some time. The slate to be used will be a combination of purples and greens from the quarries of the E. J. Johnson firm.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Conklin & Convery, architects, have moved their offices from 665 Broad street to 28 Central avenue, Newark, N. J.

Jensen & Brooks, architects, have recently moved their offices from 196 Smith street to 174 Smith street, Perth Amboy, N. J.

Hugo Taussig, architect, formerly at 1476 Broadway, is now located at 507 Fifth avenue, in the offices of James Riley Gordon.

W. P. Davenport, secretary of the William H. Page Boiler Company, 141 West 36th street, is in the South for a winter vacation.

Samuel Katz, architect, 405 Lexington avenue, has discontinued the practice of his profession for the period of the war. He has entered the service of the Government.

M. G. Tuzik, architect, 175 Smith street, Perth Amboy, N. J., has discontinued his offices and the practice of his profession for the period of the war, and has enlisted for service in France.

Public Service Commission for the First District is entitled to display a war service flag containing about two hundred and sixty stars, including a large number of commissioned officers. Many of the men are already serving abroad.

Carl L. Otto, architect, announces that owing to the fact that the United States Government has taken over the offices he has occupied in the Hamburg-American Building, at 15 Broadway, he has moved to the Park Row Building, 13-21 Park Row.

Stephen A. Steege, consulting hydraulic and electrical engineer, has announced the dissolution of the firm of Steege & Dewey. Mr. Steege will continue the practice as consulting engineer, with offices in the Light & Power Building, Watertown, N. Y.

has been serving in an advisory capacity in equipping the new artillery ammunition plant at the Rock Island Arsenal, has opened offices in the Equitable Building, 120 Broadway, under the firm name of Uldric Thompson, Jr., Inc., consulting and industrial engineer.

Roy Taylor, who is a son of Ronald Taylor, has recently been commissioned captain in the Quartermaster's Department, U. S. A. The commission is the direct result of a special cabled request from General Pershing, asking for his appointment, coupled with the request that Captain Taylor select six others whom he could recommend as aids to work under him, and asking for his immediate departure for France. Captain Taylor has never met General Pershing, but his work in connection with the Shipping Board in Washington made such an impression that his services abroad were desired. No doubt Captain Taylor will shortly join the American forces "over there."

Sixty-three Wise Men

This was the number of building owners who changed over to Edison Service in 1917. The abandoned plants represent 18,500 horse-power

In each of these cases the change was made because better and cheaper service could be had from the Central Station. The plants, no matter how well equipped, could not compete with the equipment we have at Waterside

These sixty-three close-downs prove the superiority of our service for buildings of all kinds. Whatever your property, ask us for a survey and estimates

NEW YORK, MARCH 16, 1918

THE TORRENS LAW AND PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

Legislation Pending at Albany Relating to the Assurance Fund—Some Objections Noted

By CYRIL H. BURDETT, Vice-Pres., New York Title & Mortgage Co.

AT the present time there is considerable agitation relative to the Torrens System of Land Registration, and amendments have been introduced in Albany. The present Torrens Law contains the following:

Sec. 426. Assurance Fund: Upon the original registration of real property there shall be paid to the registrar one-tenth of one per centum of the value thereof, which value shall be determined by the registrar, but shall not be less than the amount of the last assessment for local taxation. All moneys received by the registrar under the provisions of this section shall be paid to the treasurer of the county (in New York City to the City Chamberlain) as an assurance fund for land registered in his county and shall be treated in the same manner as are other funds received for local taxation or for the reduction of the county or city debt. * * *

Sec. 427. Compensation from Assurance Fund: Any person who, without negligence on his part, sustains loss or damage or is deprived of real property, or of any estate, right or interest therein because of the registration of another person as owner of such property, or of any estate, right or interest therein, through fraud, or in consequence of any error, omission, mistake or misdescription in any certificate of title or in any entry or memorial in the title book, shall have a cause of action against the County Treasurer (in New York City the City Chamberlain) to recover compensation for such loss or damage.

Section 428 provides that any allowed claim shall be paid in the same manner as other claims against the county; in the City of New York, a claim to be passed upon and approved by the registrar and the corporation counsel before payment is allowed. If the amount credited to the assurance fund is insufficient to pay the claim, then no payment shall be made until there is enough money in the fund to cover the amount necessary.

The Burlingame bill (Senate Int. No. 151, Pr. No. 937) and the Youker bill (Assembly Int. No. 9, Pr. No. 1065) strike out from Section 428 the clause with reference to the limitation of the amount remaining to the credit of the assurance fund, thus making the county absolutely liable to the full extent of the claim.

While, by some, the indemnity fund is considered one of the essential requirements of the Torrens System, in this country its constitutionality has been vigorously attacked, and in Ohio it has actually been held to be unconstitutional. Hardly any two jurisdictions, however, have the same provision with reference to those persons who can recover on claims against it.

It will be noticed that the present law of this State limits recovery to a person who is deprived of any estate, right or interest, through fraud or an error, omission, mistake or misdescription in the certificate. Some States, to be sure, have a much broader provision, giving right of recovery to any person deprived of an interest under a proceeding of which he had no notice, and this is the provision as set forth in the American Uniform Land Registration Act. The bill as now pending in the Judiciary Committee of the Senate and reported by the Committee on General Laws of the Assembly has amended Section 427 to read as follows:

"Any person who had no actual notice of any registration under this chapter by which he may be deprived of any estate or interest in land, and who is without remedy hereunder, shall have a cause of action against the County Treasurer (in New York City the City Chamberlain) to recover compensation for any loss or damage to which he may be entitled by reason of such deprivation."

This is much more liberal even than the provision in the Uniform Act, for it limits such right of recovery to two years, whereas it will be noted that in the proposed amendment there is no time limit fixed for the bringing of the action.

It does not appear why any one over whom the court has obtained jurisdiction in a Torrens registration suit should have rights, either against the subject-matter of the suit, or against the assurance fund, any more than a person who has been cut off as owner of the fee or an interest in the fee, in a foreclosure or a partition suit, should have any such right. No one would think of giving a defeated litigant, in either case, when the court had obtained jurisdiction over him as a defendant, the right to sue the State. Why then should the right be given him in the case of a Torrens suit?

Serious Character Manifest.

The serious character of this amendment is only too manifest when we examine the method by which the court is to obtain jurisdiction over the parties in the Torrens proceeding. All the safeguards thrown around the present administration of the law are ruthlessly set aside.

Under the present law, notice of the pendency of the suit must be posted upon the land forty days before the return day of the summons. Under the amendment, this period is reduced to fourteen days.

Under the present law, publication must be made once a week for four weeks in one newspaper, although in all other actions publication against unknown defendants must be made once a week in two newspapers for six weeks. The amendment would reduce even this short period to one publication in one newspaper.

Service by Registered Letter.

But the most serious objection of all is the following:

Under the present law notice must be served upon all parties known to the plaintiff by some person who knows the person so served and knows him to be the person described in the complaint. Under the proposed amendment this service can be made by registered letter, calling for a signed receipt, and no proof is required that the person who signs such receipt is the person described in the proceeding.

With this slipshod and haphazard method of making service, there is no assurance that the court will obtain jurisdiction over all the necessary parties to the proceeding, and all persons who do not actually receive such notice are given the right, not to set aside the suit, but to sue the State for the recovery of damages. It would seem a wise policy, if the State is going to give access to the assurance fund on the part of persons who have received no notice, that at least those safeguards the necessity for which has been demonstrated by actual experience in the administration of the law should be retained, but the advocates of this bill apparently are determined to pursue exactly the opposite course. They abolish the safeguards with reference to service and parties and then mulct the taxpayers by making the county responsible for these methods which they allege simplify the Torrens Law and make it more workable. Is the Legislature justified in acceding to their demands and thereby imposing a potential burden upon the counties composing the City of New York, the ultimate cost of which no one can predict?

By shortening the time, and radically changing the method of service in a Torrens proceeding, as provided in the proposed amendments, it would be furnishing an easy opportunity for the perpetration of all kinds of fraud and actually would be placing a premium upon carelessness and incompetency in the conduct of the suit.

It is within the experience of everyone that registered mail is not always received by the person to whom it is addressed. Many people, as well as corporations, have given authority to certain individuals to sign such receipts for them. Addresses are frequently faulty, and registered mail is delivered to the wrong person. There is nothing to show, when a receipt is returned, that the person to whom it was addressed actually placed his signature upon the receipt, so that a person may be deprived of his interest in the land without any knowledge of the suit. In such a case the proposed amendments give him recourse to the assurance fund.

The inadequate publication against unknown defendants does not conduce to the publicity of the pendency of the suit, to say nothing of the shortness of time required for posting the notice on the land, and it may well happen that, whereas now the time of service, if retained, might give a party to a proceeding notice of the pendency thereof, the cutting down of this time in the manner contemplated in the amendment would prevent such notice coming to his attention.

If the advocates of this bill had definitely in mind the idea of making easy the cutting off of interests in the land, for the purpose of devising a claim against the county, they could have resorted to no more successful method.

Our present law goes sufficiently far, even if not too far, for a person deprived of an interest through fraud can have access to the assurance fund where there is any balance in the treasury. Reference to the Law Reports in other jurisdictions will show where such recourse has been had, and also will show cases where attempts have actually been made to steal land from the real owners, under the guise of Torrens Title Registration, but where the courts have held that, the title still being in the hands of the perpetrators of the fraud, the proceedings were null and void.

In New Zealand the owner of a piece of land died intestate. One of his sons, representing himself as the sole owner, fraudulently brought the land under the provisions of the Torrens Act. He mortgaged the title and failed to make his payments under the mortgage. The land was thereupon sold under foreclosure. All these transactions were without notice of the fraud. Subsequently, some four years after the death of her husband, the widow of the original owner took out letters of administration and brought suit against the assurance fund.

DIGEST OF RECENT LEGISLATION AT ALBANY

Status of Bills Affecting Real Estate and Realty Interests—Current News and Gossip at the State Capital

Albany, March 14.—Developments are shaping themselves daily in the Boylan Bill, limiting the realty tax rate in New York City to $1.75 a hundred. Senator Cromwell, Chairman of the Committee on New York City Affairs, stated today that Tax Commissioner Cantor had promised to forward him information affecting the personalty provisions of the measure which would guide the Committee in its action on the measure.

At a hearing given this bill on Tuesday, suggestion was made that the personalty provision be amended, so as to provide for a levy of 50 cents a hundred value, instead of 25 cents as provided originally. Another amendment suggested would provide for the taxation of personal property of non-residents in New York, and the adoption of some plan providing for the registration of personal property in order that this type of holding might assume some of the burden now carried by realty.

Edward P. Doyle and Stewart Browne appeared in the interest of the bill at this hearing. They urged the initiation of a plan to list all personal property in order that it might be equitably taxed as is realty. Joseph S. Schwab, former State Tax Commissioner, also gave his support to the measure. Both Mr. Browne and Mr. Schwab augmented the arguments in favor of the bill made by Mr. Doyle. Their arguments had to do with the rapidly jumping tax rate. They pointed out that at the present time the rate in Richmond is within 24 of the constitutional limit of 2 per cent. exclusive of debt service.

When that limit was incorporated in the Constitution, Mr. Browne declared, real estate in New York city was assessed at only 60 per cent., while now the assessment is based upon full valuation.

The supporters of the measure declared that some curb should be placed upon the extravagance of the city as evidenced by the inauguration of social welfare schemes which have burdened real estate to the breaking point.

Senator Elon R. Brown, who is familiar with New York City's financial system, pointed out to the Committee what he believed was one of the reasons for the jumping tax rate, unreasonable expansion of municipal activities without regard to the consequent expense and burden upon the taxpayer. From his report he culled a paragraph which showed that in the past five years 800 new employees had been added to the Department of Health, 405 employees to the Department of Charities and 5,000 employees to the various so-called uplift or welfare branches of municipal administration.

Comptroller Craig and the officials of the Tax Department are expected to assist in the preparation of a personal property amendment which will aid in the solution of the problem. They agreed to do this after entering their opposition to the provisions of the Boylan bill which would limit the real property tax rate.

Other important measures which came up this week included the Municipal Ownership Bill and the ratification of the Federal Prohibition Amendment. The latter, if ratified, would mean a depreciation in real estate values in the Metropolis, estimated at upwards of $275,000,000, as well as a net loss in revenue from excise certificates of $6,086,072, more than half of the excise revenues credited to the State municipalities.

Tax department experts confessed that attempts so far made to estimate cost of taking over public utilities by New York City as provided by the Wagner-Donohue, the Thompson and other municipal ownership plans were absolutely futile. They would not venture even the broadest estimate of the expense that would be entailed by the adoption of the municipal ownership plan in New York City.

The consensus among legislators is that New York City will have nothing to concern itself about in the matter of municipal ownership this year. Senator Elon R. Brown indicated this before the municipal ownership hearing held on Tuesday, when he urged on the floor of the Senate the creation of a Commission to investigate the problem of municipal ownership in its relation to municipal finance. The hearing developed nothing favorable; rather the impression of those present was that the advocacy of the plan by Mayor Hylan and other supporters gave the leading Republican legislators the opportunity they were seeking to direct the funeral of this legislation.

The Real Estate Board, through Edward P. Doyle, registered its opposition to the plan. Mr. Doyle declared that the Board believes that the city has at present no actual debt-incurring power. He gave the legislators a lesson in tax arithmetic by explaining that the present tax rate, in Richmond for instance, excluding 70 points for the debt service, is 176, or within twenty-four points of the constitutional limit of taxation. Facing deficiencies left by the last administration, which Comptroller Craig believes will raise the rate ten points more next year on present valuations, he pointed out that the rate then would be within fourteen points of the constitutional limit.

Mr. Doyle declared that unless something is done to curb the expensive activities of the city he could see nothing in sight for the property owner but default. In the last seven years the agitations carried on by various civic organizations for the amelioration of conditions on the East Side have resulted in an expenditure of $30,000,000, all of which was added to the burden of the taxpayers, he said.

Mayor Hylan, who entered the hearing while Mr. Doyle was attacking his municipal ownership plan, simply renewed his campaign arguments in its favor. He declared that the public utilities in New York City at the present time are controlled by a group of ten or a dozen men who are reaping magnificent profits from them. He offered as a reason for the adoption of municipal ownership the expenditure by the city to date of $250,000,000 in subway construction work. He also said that contractors who had agreed to undertake subway construction at a time when labor and materials were cheap were now abandoning their contracts for more profitable work. He said the city would be in a position to compel the fulfillment of these contractual obligations under a municipal ownership plan.

Senator Elon R. Brown first gave his views on municipal ownership when the question of reference to a Committee of the municipal ownership bill introduced by Senator George F. Thompson of Niagara came up. This new bill, similar to the Wagner-Donohue measure, was literally being "kicked" from committee to committee when Senator Brown expressed himself on this important question.

The ratification of the Federal prohibition amendment, which was given a serious setback when emasculated by the Assembly by the attachment of an amendment submitting the question to the people and the conversion of the amendment into a legislative bill which must be passed upon by Governor Whitman as any other ordinary legislative enactment, is still problematical.

At this time the Federal amendment containing a section which would give the people the say whether or not the Legislature should ratify it is on the order of second reading in the Assembly, virtually the general order calendar, and scheduled to come up for action on Monday night in the Assembly.

After the Assembly passes upon the measure the Senate must have its fling and indications now, Senator William H. Hill of Binghamton, the leading dry exponent to the contrary notwithstanding, are that it will meet the stiffest opposition in this branch of the Legislature.

Governor Whitman, who is bending his energies to have the Federal amendment ratified in its original form, without trimmings that would submit the question to the unbinding vote of the people, is prepared to send a strong message to the Legislature urging ratification. This message is scheduled to go to the Assembly on Monday night when the discussion of the amendment will be renewed. The effect of this message cannot be gauged. Neither can the vote on the Machold amendment which would send the question of the ratification of the amendment proper to the people.

Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet indicated that he was prepared to lend his support to the ratification of the Federal prohibition amendment in its undiluted form. His support is another matter which must be counted upon.

It is quite generally believed, however, that the upshot of the prohibition agitation will be the reporting out of the State Constitution Prohibition amendment by the Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment of the Senate, of which Senator James A. Emerson is chairman. This committee has already made its report in favor of the submission of the State Constitution amendment. This amendment, however, must be passed by the present Legislature and the new Legislature which will be elected next autumn. If passed, the amendment would be submitted to the voters in the fall of 1919.

The question of excise revenue seems to have been lost in the ardor which characterized the fight over prohibition. The adoption of either the Federal or the State amendment would mean a loss in Federal revenue of $30,000,000 annually, in State revenue $12,000,000 annually and to the municipalities of the States $12,000,000 annually. New York City alone would stand to lose $6,086,072.

Hearing on the Davies bill, which would prevent any person not admitted to the bar from examining abstracts of title and from drawing up of deeds, mortgages and other instruments affecting real estate, wills and the like was postponed today until Wednesday next at 12 o'clock noon. Some opposition to this measure is developing in the Legislature by reason of the influence of the rural members who oppose it on the ground that in the country districts lawyers are not always available for the draft of instruments affecting exchanges of property. The bill in its present form excepts from its provisions employees of a County Clerk of Register who are making searches.

Another Home Rule amendment was introduced in the Senate this week by Senator Elon R. Brown. This amendment would so amend the Constitution as to authorize the Legislature by general law to delegate to cities such powers over local affairs as the Legislature deems expedient. The amendment on its face contains nothing that would distinguish it from the Brown amendment of last year.

The establishment of a department of purchase in New York City is provided for in a bill introduced by Assemblyman McKee. The bill calls for the appointment of a Commissioner by the Mayor. The salary for this place is $15,000 a year. The Commissioner is to have a Deputy at $7,500; a Director of Purchase at $6,000 and a Secretary at $5,000. The bill is designed to centralize purchases by the city.

MEASURES AFFECTING REAL ESTATE

Bills Which Have Been Approved or Disapproved By Committee Appointed By Real Estate Board of New York

AT its weekly meeting, held on Wednesday, March 13, 1918, the Real Estate Board's Joint Sub-Committee on Legislation and Taxation and Real Estate Laws, passed upon the following bills:

Senate Int. 776. Pr. 899. Dowling.

This bill was drafted by the Real Estate Board and introduced at its request by Senator Dowling. Its purpose is to amend the Tenement House Act so as to include many dwellings that may be altered for multi-family occupancy. Included are four-story and basement brick and stone houses of a depth not to exceed sixty feet, exclusive of bay windows and existing extensions. It applies to cities of one million or more population and to houses erected prior to April 10, 1901. Proper provision is made for fireproofing, for air shafts, for lighting and ventilation and for other details. The experience of a year has shown that the Three-Family Bill of 1917 was not sufficiently inclusive and the Real Estate Board believes that it is a part of practical common sense to try to so amend the law as to include the thousands of houses which in their existing condition are useless as dwellings and bring no revenue to the owners, and no adequate tax revenue to the city. It is believed that the proposed amendment will not be opposed by the Tenement House Department, and the affect it would have in their bringing to use dwellings substantially constructed, but now practically useless, will give this bill the general support of taxpayers, organizations and property owners who have for years been carrying these houses at a loss. It is believed that particularly at this time when construction of every character has practically ceased and housing shortage is imminent, if it does not already exist, that an alteration such as the one suggested would be welcome to thousands of tenants who would prefer to live in properly altered homes of moderate height rather than occupy the conventional large tenement or apartment house.

Assembly Int. 861. Pr. 976. A. E. Davies. To amend the Penal Law, in relation to attorneys.

This bill is disapproved, and should be vigorously opposed. No such drastic legislation as it proposes should be enacted. The purposes of the bill are threefold. It is proposed to (1) amend Section 270 of the Penal Law as amended by Chapter 783 of the Laws of 1917. (2) To amend Section 271 of said law as amended by Chapter 327 of the Laws of 1910, and (3) to create an additional section to said law to be known as Section 271-a. At present Section 270 as amended in 1917 makes it unlawful for any person not duly admitted and registered to practice as an attorney or a counselor at law in any Court of Record in the State or in any court in the City of New York, or to make it a business to practice for another in any of said Courts, or to hold himself out as an attorney or counselor or to render legal services of any character. The amendment extends the prohibition to any court in the State, and prohibits such person giving the impression that he is competent to give advice on legal matters, or to give such advice. At present Section 271 as amended in 1910 forbids persons asking or receiving directly or indirectly any compensation for appearing as attorney in a Court or before any magistrate in any city of the first or second class. The amendment extends this prohibition to all Courts in the State. The foregoing so far as New York City is concerned makes practically no change in the existing law, simply making effective in other portions of the State the law that is now effective in this city. The provisions of the proposed new section (271-a) are, however, more drastic, and provide that no person who shall not have been regularly admitted to practice in the Courts of Record of this State shall draw any instrument relating to the lease, sale, exchange or placing of any lien or encumbrance upon any real or personal property or to the discharge or assignment of any lien or encumbrance upon such property, any will, petition, pleading, paper or instrument required by the rules or practice of any court, examine any abstract or title or pass upon the validity of any title to real estate for or on behalf of another as agent or otherwise (unless he be a Court Clerk or Register or regular employee of such officer) or ask or receive any compensation directly or indirectly for giving any legal advice. A person violating these provisions is guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month or by a fine not exceeding $100 or more than $200, or by both such fine and imprisonment. The only exceptions are that a person may draw an instrument relating to his own property, his own will, or a paper in an action or proceeding to which he is a party, nor does it affect any claim or case involving the workmen's compensation law. At present it is the common practice for real estate agents, brokers, and notaries public to prepare papers in the foregoing list. The enactment of this law will prohibit the continuance of this practice so long in vogue, and would seriously hamper those engaged in such business, requiring them to call in the services of a lawyer in every instance where any paper of the character of those above set out is required. From the standpoint of a real estate broker or agent the amendment so far as this new section is concerned is decidedly objectionable, burdensome and expensive.

Senate Int. 717. Pr. 841. Carson. (Same as Assembly Int. 720. Pr. 795. Beuley.) To amend the Labor Law, in relation to the organization of the Bureau of Statistics and Information.

This bill is approved. It relates to the organization and duties of the Bureau of Statistics and Information of the Labor Department. It repeals the ridiculous provision of Section 64 of the Labor Law, which requires the owners or proprietors of factories and other business establishments, and their agents and employees, to make any report concerning their plant and its operations which may be required by the Labor Department.

Senate Int. 184. Pr. 785. Downing. To abolish the Court House Board of the City of New York, to transfer its powers and duties to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of such city and to provide for the disposition of the property heretofore controlled by such court house board.

This bill is approved. It would abolish the Court House Board and transfer its functions to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, with power to abandon the existing courthouse site, as such, and make such disposition of the lands, etc., comprised therein as the board sees fit. In its original form, this measure was defective in several minor particulars, which were pointed out by counsel for the Real Estate Board, at the hearing before the Senate Committee on February 26. These objections have been removed in the reprint of the bill (Pr. 785). Further proposed amendments which would substitute the Sinking Fund for the Board of Estimate in the provisions of the bill are approved.

Senate Int. 775. Pr. 898. Farrenkopf. To grant and release to the City of New York certain lands under water in the Atlantic Ocean in the Boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens, to provide for the protection of adjacent uplands, the improvement of such lands under water and uplands and the acquisition of property for any such purpose, by such city, and to prescribe the methods for defraying the cost.

This bill is approved. It is an act to grant and release to the city certain lands in the Atlantic Ocean between the westerly boundary of Nassau County and the westernmost point of Coney Island and to provide for the protection of adjacent uplands and for the improvement of such lands under water and uplands. The bill confers sweeping powers upon the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, looking to the development and improvement of the ocean front of Long Island and Coney Island, within the city limits. Any work done under this authorization is to be regarded as a local improvement the cost of which may be assessed upon property deemed benefitted thereby. The measure contains no mandatory provisions and the grants of lands under water to be made to the city by the State under the bill may be of great value in the future, particularly along the shore of Coney Island. It is possible, of course, were the bill enacted and the Board of Estimate become obsessed with the idea of rivaling the Seaside Park (Rockaway) extravagance, that ruinous burdens might be placed upon the city or upon property owners within a designated area of alleged benefit, but this seems hardly probable.

Senate Int. 812. Sheridan. To amend the Tax Law in relation to the recording tax on mortgages.

This bill is approved. It proposes to amend Section 293-a of the so-called Mortgage Tax Law. This section as at present constituted allows the record owner and holder of a mortgage which was recorded prior to July 1, 1906, to pay to the recording officer of the county in which the mortgaged property is situate the recording tax and thus exempt the mortgage from further taxation. The proposed amendment gives a similar privilege to the owner of the real property on which the mortgage is a lien and upon his exercising this option the mortgage becomes tax free. This legislation will be to the benefit of the owner of the property.

Senate Int. 811. Pr. 970. Sheridan. To amend the Real Property Law in relation to discharge of mortgages in counties embraced in cities of the first class.

This bill is approved. It proposes to amend the Real Property Law relative to discharges of mortgages in counties embraced in cities of the first class. The present law provides that where the original mortgage cannot be produced at the time of tendering the satisfaction for record the mortgage shall not be discharged until a certified copy of an order made by a Justice of the Supreme Court or the County Judge of the county in which the property affected by the mortgage is situated. This order is obtained upon a petition duly verified containing the name and address of the owner of the property and of the owner of the bond and mortgage, a full description of the mortgage and of any assignments thereof, that may appear upon the record, including the names of the mortgagor, mortgagee, assignor, assignee, date, amount, and the place, book, page and time of record of said mortgage. The proposed amendment appears to strike out from the last above list the words mortgagor and assignor. There can be no objection to legislation of this kind. Where the mortgagor is no longer the owner of the property or the assignor has no longer an interest in the mortgage, no good purpose can be served by making them parties to the proceeding to obtain an order directing cancellation of the mortgage.

Assembly Int. 885. Pr. 1013. Donohue. To amend the Tax Law in relation to appearance of the Tax Commission by counsel in proceedings for review of assessment of a special franchise.

This bill is approved. It amends the law so as to provide that in any proceeding to review an assessment of a special franchise tax the Tax Commission is authorized to appear by the Attorney-General of the State of New York, instead of by private counsel as

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule LXXXVI of the Supreme Court General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

Thrift Stamps.

The Thrift Stamp is the smallest unit in the Government's war revenue producing plan. It is so small as to be almost insignificant to the individual, yet in the aggregate the total will reach enormous proportions.

But with it you can stand at the corner of Broadway and Wall and in five seconds plunk a hundred cartridges out of a Browning gun into the Huns.

Twenty stamps buys 100 cartridges.

With Thrift Stamps instead of theatre tickets you can put a gas mask on a boy in the trenches who otherwise might be slowly tortured to death while you, comfortably seated, are enjoying yourself.

Thirty-six stamps buys his gas mask.

With her fifteen dollar salary put into Thrift Stamps, a dollar a week for fifteen weeks, or fifty cents for thirty weeks, any stenographer can induce these nimble little thrifty "pieces of paper" to turn out an overcoat for one of the boys who has given up dances and the moonlight walks with her to do a real man's work "over there."

Sixty stamps buys his overcoat.

Which would you rather have, an Easter hat and shoes or own one of those Springfield-Enfield rifles, the most deadly single-shot fighting arm in the hands of any fighting men in any army today? Our boys are on the firing line. Own a rifle on the Flander's Front!

Seventy-eight stamps pays for a Springfield-Enfield.

Let Thrift Stamps give your automobile a brief rest in the garage—the price of a couple of new tires will outfit one of the boys who is going "over the top" for you from his helmet to his hobnail shoes.

Six hundred and twenty-four stamps completely outfits a soldier boy.

All around you the best boys in the land are quietly stepping out of their accustomed places here and showing up "over there." They don't look back—there's no furs or feathers where they go.

You are older and bigger and stronger than they are, because when all's said they're only kids in men's clothes. But they fill the clothes and they are going to do the biggest thing the world has ever had to do. What are you going to do?

May Day is to be observed as Thrift Stamp day this year. Twine a wreath of Thrift Stamps around the old Liberty pole.

The Zoning Law.

Comptroller Craig's statement that "No change should be made in the Zoning Law except upon proof that conditions have changed in a particular locality" was meant to thoroughly reassure real estate interests as to the policy of Mayor Hylan's administration relative to the law. The Comptroller has also said that the only other exceptions that may be granted are in cases where the original provisions of the law are clearly wrong, but that in regard to any applications for modifications the Board of Estimate would have to be shown conclusively that the character of a neighborhood had radically changed or that the law or the rulings of the former city officials were essentially faulty before any relief would be granted.

It is undeniable that following the resignations of Mr. Bassett and the other members of the Commission on Buildings, Districts and Restrictions, which had framed and obtained the passage of the Zoning Law, and the decision of the new Board of Estimate not to continue that Commission, but to take over the functions, there was considerable uneasiness among the friends of the Zoning Law as to the effectiveness with which its provisions would be carried out in the future. So pronounced was this feeling that several members of the Board who are in a position to ascertain the views of those interested in real estate expressed the opinion at a meeting of the Board at which the question of the Zoning Law first came up, that some action should be taken to dispel the somewhat prevalent idea that the law was to be swept out of existence.

Every member of the Board of Estimate declared himself in favor of continuing the operation of the law and of giving it the fair test that a rigid compliance with its letter and spirit alone could give. It was the unanimous opinion of the members of the Board that the real estate interests of the city should be fully protected. If any further assurance is needed of the attitude of the administration towards the law it may be had from the action taken at the meetings of the Committee on City Plan of the Board of Estimate, of which Borough President Dowling is Chairman. This Committee consists of all the Borough Presidents, the Comptroller and the Mayor, ex-officio, and is therefore fairly representative of the Board itself.

A large number of applications for modifications of the law have been filed with the Committee, many of which had been denied by the former administration. In each one of these cases the applicant was obliged to prove a radical change in the character of the neighborhood or a mistake in the restrictions placed upon the property under the original provisions of the law. Of the numerous applications five have actually been decided, and in each of these the request for a change in the law was denied. Several of these cases had been decided in the negative by the former Board, and the action of the present Board was in exact accordance with the former decision. The location of these cases was widely scattered. In 179th street, between St. Nicholas and Audubon avenues, it was desired to build a garage in a residence district. On Westchester avenue, between Jackson and Forest avenues, the change asked for was from a business to the unrestricted class. On Ditmas avenue, near Gravesend avenue, there was a demand for a business house in a residence district. Between Eighth and Ninth avenues in West 27th street, the Committee declined to change the business restrictions and made it an unrestricted block. And in 97th street, between Broadway and West End avenue, an application to build a business structure in a residence block was denied.

The Committee officials point out that the provision of the law which makes it necessary to have the unanimous approval of the Board of Estimate to effect any change in its operation whenever twenty per cent. or more of the property owners of the frontage proposed to be altered, or twenty per cent. of the owners of property immediately in the rear or of twenty per cent. of the frontage directly opposite shall present a duly signed and acknowledged protest against the alteration. As public notice and hearings are also provided for before any action can be taken, it is practically certain that whatever might happen it is unlikely that any radical change in the provisions of the law can be made unless the great majority of property owners are in favor of it unless the law is allowed to become a dead letter, or repealed, neither of which consummations is probable.

It is gratifying to know that the law is not dependent for its enforcement upon its own compelling provisions, but that it is receiving the hearty support of the members of the Board of Estimate, who are continuing it in effect because they recognize its great usefulness in preserving the value of the property from which the city derives ninety per cent. of its revenue.

New Officials on Probation.

The reorganized Board of Standards and Appeals is now on probation in the minds of the property owners and the allied real estate interests of Greater New York. These will not judge quickly nor harshly, but they certainly will be guided to a great extent by the high standards of service and efficiency that were so firmly adhered to by those members who recently relinquished their connection with this important administrative body. The initial meeting of the reorganized Board has occurred and the individual members have had an opportunity to become acquainted with each other. It now remains for them to familiarize themselves with the needs of those who will appear before its meetings and to perfect plans for the rendition of equitable justice to those appellants seeking for relief from seemingly drastic legislation.

The progress of this body will be closely watched by thousands of interested property holders and their representatives. Not only those who attend the meetings of this body will sit in judgment, but the combined forces of the real estate and owning interests of the city will be impatient for results. Nothing less than service equal to the former body can be accepted.

John P. Leo, the new chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals, has announced that he will take a determined stand to the end that the labors of the organization shall be wholly in the interests of the city and the property owners. All will be the recipients of just and equitable treatment. Equal justice will be the keynote of all Board deliberations and every effort will be made expedite the work of the office that is compatible with efficient and thorough administration of the code.

Until the reorganized Board shall have proved itself capable of handling the problems that are presented for decision, the body must be on trial. This probationary period, while purely in the minds of those who are forced to come before it in the transaction of the regular affairs of the day, and of no political significance, will react, however, for good or evil upon the entire city administration. The probation term will be of sufficient duration to demonstrate whether results are possible or not and it is impossible to obtain, the allied property interests that are the prime reason for the existence of the Board will surely take a determined stand and make a concerted effort to obtain a proper measure of relief.

The efficiency and dispatch with which the future business of the Board is transacted, the measure of equitable justice meted out to those appearing in search of relief, and the general satisfaction that is rendered will be the basis of judgment and the measure of the confidence of the real estate interests of this city.

The former Board rendered its services to the complete satisfaction of all concerned. True, there were complaints from time to time, but these were usually made by some one whose application had been overruled by the Board as being contrary to the letter or intent of existing legislation. Considered as a whole, however, the old Board held strictly to the middle ground, performing its functions in upholding the laws of the city and allowing such modifications as were in accord with the intent of the letter of the law.

From the standpoint of the realty interests of the city, the announcement that Mayor Hylan contemplated a reorganization of this important body was looked upon with considerable trepidation. There was a feeling prevalent that it would be a matter of extreme difficulty to replace the members with others of similarly high technical qualifications and general all-around capabilities. It is sincerely to be hoped that the new members of this body will omit nothing in their administration of the affairs of office that will deplete the efficiency of the organization or lower the existing high standards of the Board. Strong interests will watch, and while these will not be hypercritical during the period of readjustment, direct result and improvements will be anticipated. This city must not be disappointed in the record of this most important adjunct of its administration.

Moratorium on Rents.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In the newspapers of March 5 there appeared reports of the passage of a bill to protect soldiers' civil rights, so soldiers' families cannot be compelled to pay rent during the period of the war.

As it is important that all people of the country should feel that they are being treated with equal consideration and fairness in order that they may be satisfied that our Government is really acting in a democratic way, I would like to ask about a matter that is troubling me very much. I cannot see that this provision is fair to real estate owners.

I have a house in Jersey City occupied by seven families and three stores. Nearly all of the men of the families have been drafted and all will probably be in the war before July 1. The class of tenants is such that they will not be able to pay their rent, as they probably have no accumulations.

I have a mortgage of $10,000 on the property and have to pay taxes amounting to about $400 and water to about $200. There is no moratorium on my mortgage or my taxes and I will lose my property if I cannot pay, and I cannot pay if my tenants are all in the army and I cannot collect from them. Only in January I had to pay $1,000 off on the mortgage because the party made me, and I had to borrow that. What am I going to do?

My neighbor, who has $100,000 invested in bonds that are free from taxation, does not have to contribute anything, and I have to pay on my income over $2,000.

I am not a pro-German, but have bought Liberty Bonds, supported every call that has been made both with money and time in my community, and have a son in the army who enlisted.

As a taxpayer I have to make up and pay all public officials, policemen, etc., who go into the army, while my son from private life loses the difference between what he was making and is now getting. Maybe I am particularly unfortunate, but I think there must be a great many more like me.

I want to feel right toward the Government, but it does not seem right that I must furnish rooms to soldiers' families while the butcher, baker and grocer do not have to furnish any goods at all. If they do furnish them they may not be able to collect.

The trouble with most people like myself is that the tenants are already in the houses and I cannot get them out. Do you not think that the Government should pay the rent or make a moratorium for everybody?

I am willing to do my share, but I cannot carry more than my share and I may be wiped out if this law goes into effect without some relief for me.

I cannot see why I should pay the soldiers' rent because I have a house when my neighbor has just as much income as I have and does not have to pay anything. What do you think about it?

JAY MACE.

Sixth Avenue Improvement.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

As a large owner and holder of real estate in the midtown section, I am deeply interested in the development of the district in the neighborhood of Sixth avenue, between 34th and 59th streets. I have held certain views for some years relating to the improvement of traffic conditions in that portion of Sixth avenue.

Those views were pointed out by me to the late Mayor Gaynor, who was much interested therein, but, unfortunately, the assault upon him which occurred almost immediately after, put an end to any practical consideration of my suggestions. These involved the widening of Sixth avenue, by the taking of lands on the east side from 34th to 59th streets. You are aware that with few exceptions, this side of Sixth avenue is covered with old buildings, and Bryant Park belongs to the city. These circumstances would lessen the cost of improvement far below what it would take to cut a new street between Fifth and Sixth avenues. I need scarcely point out the availability of connecting this improvement with the Hudson tunnel and the Pennsylvania Railroad station, and with the Grand Central Terminal through, over, or under Bryant Park.

Heretofore, certain influences have been exerted on behalf of the East Side and the New York Central people in particular, but I feel that the Pennsylvania interests, the McAdoo tunnel, 34th street, the West Side between 34th and 59th streets, as well as Broadway, Central Park West, West End avenue, Riverside Drive and beyond, in fact, as far north as Yonkers, with the theatres, hotels and dry goods houses, should be taken into consideration. It should be taken up with the McAdoo interests and the elevated railroad might even be altered on Sixth avenue, so as to have central pillars in the middle of the roadway, instead of the present double set of columns on either side of the trolley lines.

The increase of taxable values on these streets and others in the neighborhood, would pay for the entire improvement in an incredibly short time, without putting any additional burden upon the city.

I should be pleased to assist in carrying out such plan as may lead to the improvement of the real estate in this neighborhood and of the relief of the constantly increasing traffic therein.

WM. SITTENHAM.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 308.—If a husband and wife enter into a contract with two other parties to sell a piece of property and accept a deposit, and the wife dies before the date set in the contract for title to pass, is the husband legally bound to carry out the terms of the contract?

Answer No. 308.—Any person is bound in law to carry out the terms in his contract. If title was in the husband's name the death of the wife will not be an obstacle in the way of consummating the contract. If the title was in the name of the wife, her executors or administrators may convey under authority of the Surrogate's Court, or an action or a special proceeding may be brought by the proposed vendee to compel a conveyance of the deceased wife's interest.

Question No. 309.—A landlord wants $15,000 per annum for a portion of his store, premises being a department store; the tenant and landlord agree on a 10% commission basis instead of a flat rental, the term being five years. The landlord claims he has taken in on an average $100.00 a year himself, and expects the tenant, my client, to do better. I have never had a deal on like this before, and I am at a loss how to collect.

Question No. 309.—The facts here are not sufficiently stated. The broker, in any event, knows the amount he can collect on the ten per cent. basis, and the amount he would collect on the ordinary commission basis. It seems entirely a matter for himself to decide.

Activities of Brooklyn Board.

At the meeting of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers held Wednesday, the Board went on record opposing Assembly Int. 861, An act to amend the Penal Law in relation to attorneys. The Board also went on record in favor of the bill granting permission for Sunday baseball.

The following associate members were elected: Frank H. Quinby, 99 Nassau street, N. Y., and William L. Andrews, 642 Broadway, Brooklyn.

The Board received a request from the Liberty Loan Committee who desire to secure locations as headquarters for the coming Liberty Loan in the different police precincts of Brooklyn. The Board voted in favor of notifying the members, asking them to cooperate.

A brief report was received from the Transportation and Subways Committee, in regard to Senate 268, Assembly 335, for the purpose of providing a new Commission to have jurisdiction over terminals in the City of New York. The Chairman stated that a meeting of the Committee would be held within the coming week when the Committee would be in a position to make an intelligent report on the situation.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Important Legislation Pending—Suburban Market Improving—Money Market Still Tight

IMPORTANT legislative matters, of vital interest to real estate owners, came up for consideration at Albany this week, the flat rate tax measure, municipal ownership of public utilities and prohibition being among the most important. Actions taken on these bills is reported in another column of this issue.

The appointment of a new Chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals is another matter which is of intimate concern to the real estate market. John P. Leo, the new appointee, is experienced in the building field, but he is handicapped by the fact that his predecessor set such a high standard to follow. Architects and builders will not be satisfied with a lowering of this standard and therefore the future work of the Board will be watched with more than passing interest.

There were a fair number of sales and leases reported by brokers. Several deals of importance were included in the budget. It has been noticeable during the past week that many properties have changed hands without the element of trade. This fact is one of the encouraging features of the present-day market. To be sure the actual cash involved in the transactions is, as a rule, not as large as during times when a broader market exists, but still the fact that a new clientele is purchasing, should be the forerunner of a broader market.

The tightness of the money market is still a dominant factor in the restriction of trading. It will be some time before this condition is changed. The institutions are still conserving their resources, and these have been placed at the disposal of the Government.

Practically no speculative building is now going on in Manhattan, though there has been an increase in the number of operations in the outlying Boroughs, and just over the line. These operations are the result of real estate sales made to professional builders, though there is a considerable number of private dwellings being erected for private occupancy.

The suburban market for improved properties is strong. The demand is better than for years. The vacant land, however, is hard to sell and finance. The activity in dwelling houses in these sections is directly traceable to the fact that no building operations have been completed wherein a considerable number of families could be housed. The income return from these properties is large, and there is but little doubt but that this condition will maintain for some time to come.

Many brokers contend that the opening of the new subway lines has not produced the purchasing activity that was anticipated. They look for a better market from now on, due to the milder weather. The out-of-town brokers are dependent upon good weather, for first impressions on prospective clients are lasting ones. The severe winter weather discouraged "shopping" out of town. At the present time there is a distinct shortage of dwellings which rent for less than one thousand dollars a year.

NEW YORK BUILDING MANAGERS

REPORT ON PENDING MEASURES

THE following report has been made by the Legislative Committee of the New York Building Managers' Association: Hearings have been held before the Public Service Commission in the matter of charges made by the New York Steam Company, H. H. Whitman appearing for the New York Steam Company, H. J. Hemmens for the New York Edison Company, and Godfrey Goldmark and Robert J. Farrington, assistant counsel, attending for the Commission. The Commission was of the opinion after the proceedings that the act of the New York Steam Company in canceling by its notice of May 28, 1917, contracts made with it in conformity with its schedule effective November 1, 1916, was unjust and unreasonable and that the schedule of the company effective June 1, 1917, is unjust, unreasonable and unlawful in so far as it does not provide a separate classification for contracts in force on that date and made in conformity with the said schedule effective November 1, 1916.

It was ordered that on or before March 5, 1918, the New York Steam Company shall issue, file and post a supplement to its schedule of June 1, 1917, which supplement shall provide that all contracts made in conformity with the schedule of the company, effective November 1, 1916, and outstanding on June 1, 1917, unless thereafter canceled by mutual consent, shall be in full force and effect.

It was further ordered that this order shall take effect immediately and shall continue in force until changed or abrogated by further order of the Commission. This order, however, is made without prejudice to further hearings and proceedings in the matter with respect to the reasonableness generally of the basic rates and charges set forth in the schedule of June 1, 1917, and supplements, and no determination is made. On or before March 2, 1918, the New York Steam Company shall notify the Commission in writing whether the terms of this order are accepted and will be obeyed.

One way that real estate offices can assist the Government at this time is to sell Thrift and War Saving Stamps. If real estate men tried undoubtedly many of the employees in offices and buildings would take at least one Thrift Stamp each week, and in offices where tenants pay rent at the office in cash they would accept one or two Thrift Stamps with their change. While the money so received would amount to a modest sum total, the securing of the interest of the stamp purchasers would be of great benefit. The rent collectors when visiting the building could also carry stamps and sell them to the tenants. Cooperation of all kinds is necessary at this time and we know our members will not be slackers if their attention is called to the opportunity.

The new schedule of coal prices is expected about April 1. Dr. Garfield states that steps are being taken to prevent the shipping of dirt, slate, refuse, etc., with the coal, as was done last winter. The protest of the association on this point has met with favorable consideration.

The situation continues to improve both as to quality and quantity. The future of the coal situation is now foremost in all minds. Additional methods of taking care of future conditions have been suggested as follows:

Building of additional bunkers and storage yards and filling these and all other space to their capacity.

The further curtailment of non-essential industries and luxury products.

The use of the New York State Barge Canal and the revival of unused canals.

The elimination of isolated and non-economical private electric power and heat plants and the use of large central stations.

A better supply of cars.

Further reduction of artificial illumination in the day time.

Inspection at mines of the quality of coal to prevent shipment of grades not suitable for ordinary consumption.

heretofore, the proper expenses to be a charge against the State and not against the Tax District. By ordering appearance by the Attorney-General, it will save the money on frequent occasions wanted in the employment of special counsel to represent the State and it is proper for the State both to be represented in all such proceedings by its own officer or his deputy and to bear the expense of defending the assessments of its Tax Commissioners.

Assembly Int. 884. Pr. 1012. Curley. (Same as Senate Int. 714. Pr. 836. Murphy.) To amend the Greater New York Charter in relation to the issue of corporate stock notes.

This bill is approved. The Comptroller is authorized to issue from time to time bills or notes known as corporate stock notes to mature within a period not to exceed one year. Under the present law he can only renew one-half of these. This authorizes him to renew four-fifths. There is probably some necessity for this law at this time on account of the difficulty of the city's borrowing money, and existing law should be modified to meet the situation.

Senate Int. 611. Pr. 698. Sage. (Same as Assembly Int. 760. Pr. 866. Machold.) To amend the State Finance Law in relation to creating a central supply committee for the state and prescribing its powers and duties.

This bill is approved as being in the interests of economy and sound policy for the State. It proposes an amendment to the State Finance Law to create a Central Supply Committee, composed of seven members, to wit, the State Comptroller, Commissioner of Education, Superintendent of Public Works, Secretary of Trustees of Public Buildings, Chairman of Hospital Commission, Fiscal Supervisor of State Charities and the Superintendent of State Prisons, all required to serve without extra pay; the work of the Committee to be handled by such existing subordinates as the Committee directs and without extra compensation; regular monthly meetings are to be held at a stipulated time; the Committee to have power of subpoena and to hear testimony, etc., and to examine all records of any state department or institution. The Committee is required to investigate the State Departments, Boards, Institutions, etc., with a view to a systematic organization and consolidation of the purchasing of materials, supplies and furnishings for the entire state by joint contract duly advertised. The Committee is to make a classified schedule and specifications of all materials and supplies. Bids to be let to lowest responsible bidders. The various departments and institutions of the State are to make all purchases from the successful bidders at the contract prices.

Assembly Int. 915. Pr. 1055. Bewley. To amend the Labor Law in relation to floor area and required exits, stairways, notice of issuance of permits for building construction, fire alarm systems and fire drills, smoking and cleanliness in factories.

As hereafter indicated this measure is in some respects salutary, but it also contains several vicious provisions and numerous defects in form and phraseology. It is unsatisfactory as it stands and is disapproved. This measure proposes the following changes in the Labor Law: (1) Prohibits in buildings erected after July 1, 1918, the increase of occupancy, heretofore allowable under Section 52-a (Sub-Division 2, Section 79-a). (2) Repeals the requirement for an additional means of exit where the floor area exceeds 5,000 square feet (Sub-Division 2 of Section 79-a). (3) Permits stairways and landing inside an exterior enclosed fireproof stairway, not exceeding 100 feet in height, to be constructed of other than incombustible material, such other material to be approved by the Commission (Sub-Division 3, Section 79-a). (4) Prohibits the acceptance of stairways containing "winders" as required means of exit (Sub-Division 3, Section 79-a). (5) Modifies the requirement that the fireproofing of a stairway shall extend to three feet above the roof slabs, when the fireproofing may terminate at the underside of such slab (Sub-Division 3, of Section 79-a). (6) Permits the ventilation of stairway enclosures by windows in exterior walls, but requires such windows to be fireproof when they are within 25 feet of a non-fireproof structure (Sub-Division 3, Section 79-a). (7) Requires skylights over stairway enclosures to be placed in metal frames with fixed or movable louvers or ventilators, and unless the skylights are of wire glass they must be protected on the inside by a shield of wire mesh (Sub-Division 3, Section 9, 79-a). (8) Modifies the requirement that stairways shall be extended to the roof by giving it an application only where safe egress may be had from the roof to the roof of an adjoining building, but provides that this modification shall not apply to building more than five stories in height (Sub-Division 3, Section 79-a). The limitation of this amendment is destroyed by the proposed amendment of Sub-Division 1 of Section 79-c, that, "whenever safe egress may be had from the roof to an adjoining or nearby structure, all stairways serving as required means of exit that extend to the top story shall be continued to the roof."

(9) Authorizes the Commission to dispense with fire alarm systems and fire drills in buildings equipped with automatic sprinklers having one adequate source of water supply, approved by the authorities having jurisdiction, and in which the maximum number of occupants on any one floor does not exceed by 50 per cent the capacity of the exits as prescribed by Section 79-e (Sub-Division 1, Section 83-a). The amendment proposed is repeated in the succeeding sub-division of Section 83-a relating to fire drills. Were it added as a third sub-division of the section, its inclusion in both of the preceding sub-divisions could be avoided. (10) Extends the authority to permit smoking in factory buildings to those having special occupancies; in which supposedly the prohibition against smoking shall be inapplicable, generally (Sub-Division 3, Section 83-c). (11) Requires that factory buildings shall be kept in "proper repair," as well as clean and sanitary (Sections 84-84-a).

THE TORRENS LAW.

for the recovery of the value of the land, and it was held that she was entitled to recover. The registration of the land vested the title in the son, and the innocent incumbrancer took title in satisfaction of his debt. See Anderson v. Davy, 1 N. Z. S. C. 302.

A. applied for the registration of certain land. His supposed deed from B., under which he claimed title, was a forgery, but he did not know this when he was registered. It was held that his certificate gave him an unimpeachable title as against B. See Coleman v. Riria Puwhanga, 4 N. Z. S. C. 230.

These two cases, although the scene is laid in New Zealand—we go so far afield because the Torrens Act was born in Australia—are typical of what has happened in other jurisdictions; of what might occur in New York under the Torrens Law, and of what occurs, not infrequently, under the present recording law, as title insurance companies have reason to know. Anyone with criminal intentions may forge a deed of a piece of vacant land, and especially with the short period of service and the inadequate methods of service provided for by the Torrens amendments, now proposed, obtain registration of the title. An innocent mortgagee, making his loan relying upon the certificate, gets an absolutely good title as against the real owner, who is relegated to the assurance fund. His recovery is as to the assessed value of the land at the time of the registration, and under the amendments proposed in the Sheridan-Coles bill the county must pay him such value, irrespective of the amount which may be in the county treasury to the credit of the assurance fund. Any deficiency in the fund must be made up by tax levy.

The difference between the liability of the State, in the case of Torrens registration, and the liability of a title insurance company, under the present recording laws, is plainly marked by the above transactions. The State having declared that a Torrens certificate is incontestable does not return the title of the land to the true owner, but compensates him by a cash payment. Under the recording law, no title passes out of the true owner by the forged deed, notwithstanding the fact that it was recorded, and the title company who might have insured the mortgagee under the above transaction would have to reimburse him the amount which he advanced on said mortgage, relying upon the genuineness of the deed. This would seem to be much the fairer method of adjustment.

The experience of other jurisdictions as to losses paid by the State under claims arising under Torrens Acts is no criterion of what would take place in New York. The opportunities are so numerous under the Torrens Law and so many of the unscrupulous are here congregated that there is sure to be an unprecedented number of claims arising in the course of the administration of the Act, provided the bars which now prevent them from taking advantage of its provisions are let down.

It behooves the Legislature to preserve carefully every protection with which the administration of the law has been surrounded, and it is also doubly important in these days of excessive tax charges on real estate that additional burdens shall not be imposed upon the community in an attempt to supplement the seeming unfair working of the Torrens Law by compensation out of the taxpayers' money—a provision which may be held to be unconstitutional, when a test of the question has been properly made.

TALK ON TAXATION.

William R. Burling Shows How Unnecessary Expenses are Incurred.

WILLIAM RAYMOND BURLING, Chairman of the Taxation and Legislation Committee of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, was the spokesman for Brooklyn taxpayers at the public hearing before the Mayor's Committee on Taxation and Investigation of Mortgage Loans, held recently at the Hotel Majestic. Landlords, builders and real estate brokers from all parts of the city attended the meeting and aired their grievances.

"May I refer to the following excerpt from the 'report of the Mayor's Advisory Commission on Administration of the Tax Law, City of New York,' submitted to Mayor Mitchel on December 20, 1917," said Mr. Burling:

"Throughout the country real estate taxes produce 75 per cent. of the revenue, and in New York City about 80 per cent. It is well known that the average net return to the owner of such property here has become so small as to depress the market. Should depreciation become general and confirmed the debt margin also would be injuriously affected. Even if a much higher tax rate were not economic suicide it would be illegal, for the constitutional limit of 2 per cent. is not far away. A higher general standard of assessment is clearly out of the question. The conclusion is inevitable that larger contributions must be received from other sources.

"As for the attempt to tax all personality at the real estate rate, its hopelessness is demonstrated every day and everywhere. Its severity condemns it to failure. A tax that would absorb, on the average, from 30 to 50 per cent. of income is too close to confiscation, not to be evaded by all honest and some dishonest means. Securing immunity from personal taxation is almost a science, and wealthy corporations and individuals find it profitable to secure expert legal advice on the subject.

"Let us supplement this statement by an official committee with the fact that in 1898, the first year of consolidation, the budget was $77,473,084, or a per capita cost of $23.80, and that in 1918, the present year, the budget is $278,123,759, or a per capita cost of $40.96. This shows an increase of $141,000,000, or over double the amount of the budget itself twenty years ago, with about a $17 per capita increase.

"This condition, in our opinion, can be rectified by the establishment of a maximum limit of the tax rate on both real estate and personal property. By limiting the real estate rate stability confidence will be restored and values sustained. By limiting the personal tax to a moderate rate the incentive to swear off illegally will be removed and a vastly increased income will be derived."

"In 1917," continued Mr. Burling, "personal property to the amount of $419,156,315 was taxed, and when it is figured that the actual personal property in the city is valued in billions and not millions the amount to be obtained under a reasonable rate is apparent.

"The Brooklyn Board has gone on record strongly in favor of Boylan Bill No. 89 and Sesselberg No. 613, affecting the tax rate and also other amendments in the law to allow of taxing property where located.

"The apparent necessity for the Tene-ment House Department in 1901 has been amply, if not excessively, covered by this and subsequent legislation, and we believe that it would be greatly to the advantage of the taxpayers and the city to abolish the Department and have the law administered by the Building Department, with certain features taken care of by the Fire and Health Departments. The taxpayer would in this way be saved from duplication of departments' control, and the city would be benefited to the extent of $642,807, figures from 1918 budget.

"Two other departments whose work come close to the same fields are the Dock Department and the Department of Plants and Structures. In the 1918 budget the Dock Department is accorded $2,082,324.91, and the Department of Plants and Structures $753,072.07. If consolidated in the Dock Department the $753,072.01 should be largely saved to the city.

another needless office, in our opinion. This should be abolished and its functions turned over to the Department of Finance, and the $59,227 saved from the Budget.

"May I also call your attention to a policy which rests largely with the administration without legislative enactment? This is the sale of all city owned real estate for which there is no present or prospective use. If it is good law and good business that a savings bank, to protect its depositors, shall not own longer than a given time realty which it does not use for its banking home, is it not equally as good that the city should follow the same procedure to protect taxpayers?"

"In our opinion the question is not one that is solely dependent on the condition of the market, for the price obtained is not the greatest consideration of the city. So long as a fair marketable price is obtained the placing of the property on the tax rolls and the improvement of the property, for the unused city property is reasonably well located, which would promptly be improved by private parties, and so would improve whole neighborhoods, with consequent reflected assessed valuation enhancement, as well as increasing the borrowing capacity of the city.

"The city is the only seller of real estate that not only has the price obtained free for use or investment, but in addition gets an annual income from the property so sold and also on all improvements."

Mexican Telegraph Company Buys.

Charles F. Noyes Company sold for the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, trustees, to the Mexican Telegraph Company, the block front in the east side of Broad street, from South William to Stone streets, and the adjoining building, 43 South William street. The property comprises about 3,100 square feet, with frontages of 70 feet in Broad street, 32 feet in South William street, and 47 feet in Stone street. Announcement was made that the new owners will erect, at a relatively early date, a modern fireproof office building, for the exclusive occupancy of the purchasing company. The ground is valued at about $150,000, and it is expected that the total operation may involve about $400,000. The purchasing company, of which James S. Crymser is president, is the northerly connection of the South and Central American Telegraph Company, and operates the "All American Cable." This deal is the most interesting of the many deals that have been closed in the Broad street section. The plot is one of the most unique along Broad street, being at the widest portion, and with remarkable street frontages and great prominence. In the neighborhood there are a number of individual buildings occupied by owners such as the Bush Terminal Building on the block front from Pearl to Bridge streets; the American Bank Note Company building in Broad street, from Beaver to Marketfield; Fraunces' Tavern is located two blocks away, and the New York Telephone Co. has just improved the block front in Broad street from Water street to Pearl, three blocks further east. The Consolidated Stock Exchange, Exchange place, is one block north, and

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

LOCALLY the building situation is quiet and although all signs point to considerable new construction work during the spring and summer months there are at present a number of factors that might operate to prevent the expected volume of activity. The strike of the building laborers is still unsettled, and although Government projects will proceed without hindrance, private building operations are effectually held up until some agreement is reached between the organization and the workmen.

One of the most gratifying features of the situation at this time is the growing number of apartment house projects that are rapidly developing. While Manhattan and Brooklyn are as yet unaffected by this movement, there is considerable new activity in Jersey City, Hoboken, Newark, East Orange and other New Jersey towns, and in Yonkers, Mt. Vernon, Long Island City and Jamaica. The plans for a large number of entirely new projects are well advanced and many are already started. The demand for rentable space in modern apartment houses in the suburban sections has been insistent and those in back of this construction movement will surely reap large benefits from their decision to supply this want.

Housing projects for workers in the shipbuilding plants and munition factories are prominent among the current operations. Some of these operations are of immense magnitude and will provide labor for thousands of mechanics and tax the material producers to a de-

Common Brick.—During the past week the market for Hudson River common brick indicated renewed signs of life and the manufacturers and dealers are more hopeful for the future. The sale of three barge loads of brick were announced, and, as they were widely distributed, a revival of activity throughout the local territory is anticipated. Prices are firm at the level that has now maintained for the last two weeks and no further increases are looked for at this time. The ice in the Hudson has broken up and with the exception of some small fields, the river is open to navigation to Newburgh. It is expected that a tow of barges will start northward from this city to Haverstraw, and as soon as these are docked, loaded barges will be started toward the city. Although it is not expected that brick will come down in any great volume for the next month or six weeks, the arrival of new supplies might have a tendency to weaken prices to some extent. Raritan brick are practically out of the market. There are no reserves at the plants and the manufacturers cannot proceed until there is an adequate supply of fuel available and the labor scarcity is relieved. No quotations are being made on Raritan brick.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, March 15, 1918. Condition of market: Demand improved; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10.25 to $10.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none; sales, 3. Distribution: Manhattan, 1; New Jersey points, 1; Flushing, 1.

Sand and Gravel.—The demand for sand has improved to some extent and although the market is not active there is a better feeling than has maintained for some time. Sand prices are holding firmly to the $1.25 level. Sand scows are now coming through in a satisfactory manner and there will be a sufficient amount soon available for all demands. The gravel situation is unchanged. No quotations are being made owing to the Government's recent action in commandeering the output of the local producers.

gree to supply the demands for materials. The brick dealers and manufacturers are watching with particular interest the progress of the gigantic housing project designed to provide living accommodations for the workers at the Hog Island, Pa., shipbuilding plant. William Crawford has the contract for this work and it is said that the first group of structures will provide for about four thousand people. This operation will require in the neighborhood of sixty million brick, fifteen million face and forty-five million common. The total is approximately the entire output of any one of the leading brick manufacturing plants of the country, and as the whole quantity has to be supplied in less than four months, the producers will have considerable of an order on their hands.

The material situation is substantially unchanged. Prices are generally steady although with a trend toward further advances. Although the demand from building sources has not been heavy, the inquiries for future deliveries are increasing to some extent and the fact that supplies in the hands of the dealers are almost without exception low, the high levels have, and will certainly remain for some time to come. A sudden increase of structural activity will have a tendency to further reduce the available supply of structural essentials, and unless the manufacturing conditions are improved, and transportation facilities relieved of congestion and embargoes, the producers and dealers are likely to be in a bad position when endeavoring to fill their orders.

Structural Steel.—Although the number of incoming inquiries for steel to be used in building projects throughout the Metropolitan district have materially increased and deliveries have improved, the situation is quiet and no important change is immediately expected. There is a fair volume of small operations on the market, but the large structures, for which plans have been prepared, are temporarily held in abeyance because of the difficulties of financing them. Deliveries of fabricated material to the jobs are now fairly satisfactory. Generally about five months is required, but this is considered good when compared to the conditions that existed last year at this time. Although the base price for fabricated material is stable by virtue of the Federal action, the shop and field costs, insurance, and contractors' overhead expenses have all increased the cost of the commodity to a remarkably high level. Government business continues to be the most important factor in the steel situation. The mills are devoting an important percentage of their capacity to turning out materials for Federal construction and shipbuilding, and the contracting interests are looking more and more to this phase of construction as their salvation pending a revival of general building activity. Mill base prices of fabricated material are unchanged.

Linseed Oil.—Notwithstanding the fact that the consuming demand is comparatively light even for this season of the year, linseed oil prices are steadily advancing. There has been an increase of 10c. a gallon over the figure quoted one week ago, and there is no present indication that the high level has been reached. There is practically no flaxseed available for the Eastern crushers, the mills in the Western territory taking what little seed is grown in the section. There is much depending upon an early receipt of seed supplies from Argentine, but the difficulty of securing tonnage for this purpose leaves but slight hope from this direction.

Cast Iron Pipe.—There has been a most satisfactory improvement in the cast iron pipe market with private interests buying more freely than they have lately and public business developing rapidly. There is also a manifestly increased demand for this commodity from Government sources which is largely for material to be used in extending the pipe lines at the various cantonments and other training bases. The manufacturers are experiencing considerable difficulty in obtaining the volume of labor required for capacity production. There is no change in prices, Government figures continuing to rule all quotations. New York prices are as follows: 6 in., 8 in., and heavier, $55.35; 4 in., $58.35.

Portland Cement.—The situation in the cement market is quiet and no new business of any consequence has developed during the past week. Prices are firm at the $2.15 level, for orders of 1,000 barrels or more, f. o. b. New York. Existing mill base prices are as follows: Lehigh Valley, $1.50; Hudson Valley, $1.60. The Government is taking a considerable amount of Portland cement in furthering its military plans and the manufacturers anticipate that these interests will be exceptionally active for the balance of the present year. There are indications of a movement toward the revival of private construction, but as yet no increase in actual orders has resulted.

Lumber.—Short stocks and transportation difficulties remain as the predominating features of the local lumber situation, yet prices are remarkably firm with a continuing rising tendency. Governmental demands are heavy and rapidly growing in volume and the interests are likely to be taxed to the utmost for the balance of the year in filling the orders for Federal construction, both for ships and in the erection of military and naval buildings. Although there are indications of increased private construction, business from this source has not as yet developed to an extent that has affected the market.

Window Glass.—There is almost no activity in this line, partly for the reason that building construction has fallen to the extent it has and also by virtue of the shortage of labor and raw materials at production points. Prices remain remarkably firm in spite of the slow demand and the decreased volume of construction work. Production costs for both plate and window glass are steadily increasing, and this fact alone will tend to hold prices at their present high levels, if not cause further advances. There has been no change in the schedule of manufacturers' discounts.

Hydrated Lime.—The market is quiet and will remain in this condition until there is a general resumption of structural activity. Available supplies of both finishing and common are low; in fact, the market is to all intents and purposes cleaned out. Furthermore, with the existing railroad congestion and embargoes, the delivery of new stocks to the local dealers is a matter of doubt. Prices are well sustained and no revision is anticipated.

Face Brick.—Although there is considerable new business in sight for the face brick interests, manufacturing difficulties are hindering production and railroad embargoes continue to make deliveries of the finished product next to impossible. There is still an extreme shortage of coal and labor at practically all of the plants making face and fancy brick and the outlook is not especially bright. Manufacturers are unable to take new orders owing to the fact that they cannot promise exact deliveries. Prices are firm.

BETH MOSES HOSPITAL IN BROOKLYN

Project Costing $300,000 Favorably Commented on by State Board of Charities

ONE of the outstanding facts in connection with the existing building situation is that the present depression that has so adversely affected structural operations as a whole has, to a great extent, failed to influence the erection of educational, religious and charitable institutions. During the past year projects of this type ranked next in importance to the Government building and industrial work, and represented a large expenditure of money. At the present time there is considerable work of this character under way, and a number of entirely new projects contemplated for an early start. Owing to the steady demand from the war and allied charities, people have been trained in giving freely. Many institutions profited, and improvements to their plants have been made possible even during these tense times.

A building project of this general

The basement will contain, in addition to the mechanical equipment, power plant and coal storage, the general kitchens and pantries, locker rooms for outside help, disinfecting room, storage rooms, accident room, laboratory, dining room for help, toilets and lavatories, X-ray room and morgue.

Upon the first floor will be located the main entrance from Hart street, by way of an exterior court 65 feet in width, and auxiliary entrance on Stuyvesant avenue. This floor is almost entirely given over to the administration offices and staff headquarters, dispensary, dining rooms for staff, internes and nurses, with their necessary accessories. The second and third floors are wholly devoted to wards, one floor for male and the other for female patients. These wards, while of good size and lighted from three sides, are small enough to be handled with the maximum of efficiency. These floors also nature, claiming considerable attention at the present time, is the new hospital building, to cost $300,000, soon to be started in Brooklyn. This operation is for the Beth Moses Hospital, and will be located at the southwest corner of Stuyvesant avenue and Hart street. It is to be constructed from plans and specifications prepared by Henry J. Nurick, architect and engineer, 957 Broadway. Isaac Levin is the president of the institution and the chairman of the Building Committee.

The new hospital will be five stories in height, with basement, fireproof throughout, and will provide accommodations for approximately two hundred and fifty patients and about fifty nurses. The structure has been designed in the Renaissance style and the facades will be constructed of tapestry brick, limestone and terra cotta. The planning of this institution is unusual in a number of respects, so much so that the Secretary of the State Board of Charities made the following statement to the owners after approving the plans: "Permit me to express the appreciation of the State Board of Charities with reference to the general excellence of the plans and with regard to the important addition to the charitable institutions of New York City, which you are intending to provide."

The building will have a frontage of 90 feet on Stuyvesant avenue and of approximately 200 feet in Hart street.

contain diet kitchens, nurses' rooms, linen rooms, bath rooms, and other essential hospital features. The fourth floor will be entirely devoted to private patients, in single and double rooms, with separate diet kitchens, private baths, and the usual accessories.

J., seventy-two years ago and was the descendant of an old Dutch family that came to America from Holland in 1644. One of the most prominent of his ancestors was Major Johannes Hardenbergh, born in Albany in 1670, and the owner of the famous Hardenbergh patent granted by Queen Anne. His great-great-grandfather was the Reverend Jacob Rutsen Hardenbergh, who founded Queens College, now Rutgers, at New Brunswick, N. J.

During his years in school Mr. Hardenbergh devoted much time to designing, and after his graduation studied architecture under Detlef Lienau for five years, from 1865 to 1870. He commenced to practice his profession in 1871. Mr. Hardenbergh was probably best known for his designs of some of the leading hotels in the United States, although he applied himself to designing many other types of structures, some of considerable note. He planned and superintended the construction of a library and chapel for Rutgers College and later designed the first apartment hotel to be erected in this city, the Vancorlear, at Seventh avenue and 57th street. He also prepared the plans for the Dakota Apartment on Central Park West and 72d street.

Among the most notable projects from the designs of this architect are the Waldorf-Astoria in New York and the New Willard in Washington. At the time of their construction these hostelrys were considered among the finest in the world. He also planned the Plaza in this city and the Copley-Plaza Hotel in Boston. Prominent among the other hotels and buildings from the plans of Mr. Hardenbergh are the Windsor Hotel in Montreal, the Hotel Raleigh in Washington and the Physical Laboratory at Princeton University.

H. J. Hardenbergh was one of the founders of the American Fine Arts Society and was the president of the Architectural League of New York from 1901 to 1902. He was a member of the Century, Riding, Grolier and Church Clubs, the American Institute of Architects, and the Sculpture Society.

NEW YORK, MARCH 23, 1918

VAST GOVERNMENTAL WORKMEN'S HOUSING PLAN

Outline of the Great Machine Being Organized to Carry Out the Work—How the Projects Will Be Financed

CONSIDERABLE confusion exists in the building fraternity as to the Government's plans for the housing of labor at shipbuilding plants, munition works and other centers of war activity. This is natural, because the various building projects are the result of different conditions in each of the places where living quarters must be provided for workmen. They are under the direction of different departments of the Government, owing to the character of the manufacturing to be done at the plant, and are financed in different ways, although most of the money comes from the same source—the people of the country, through the Government.

In a general way there are three channels through which the Government is working, or will work, to supply housing accommodations for the many thousands of workers who are or will be engaged in war manufacturing. First of these, because of its clearly defined character and the fact that the money is in hand with which to prosecute the work, is that of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, of which J. Rogers Flannery is chief of the Housing Division, which has an appropriation of $50,000,000 with which to build houses for shipyard workers. Mr. Flannery's New York representative is G. Richard Davis.

Then there are the building operations of the War Department, covered by appropriations for supplying specific articles of war. Under the rulings of the Department these appropriations cover the cost of anything necessary to the production of these articles, and the prime necessity in manufacturing is labor. If labor cannot be had, unless houses for the laborers are built, then the appropriation must be made to cover the housing cost. In this way a vast amount of money not explicitly appropriated for the building of workmen's homes has been properly diverted to that purpose.

Lastly is the program for the building of homes for workers in other than shipbuilding plants, for which a bill appropriating $50,000,000 is before Congress, and, it is believed, will soon pass. If it is the money will be expended through the Department of Labor, and Otto M. Eidlitz has been selected as general manager of the Department's building program. Mr. Eidlitz has been handicapped in his work because of the lack of funds with which to carry out any program that had been determined on.

For the present, Mr. Eidlitz and the other members of his Committee, who were originally appointed by the Council of National Defense, are acting as advisors to Mr. Flannery, Director of Housing of the Shipping Board. The latter has recently announced the appointment of W. C. Luce as Superintendent of Construction and Morris Knowles as Engineer in charge of sanitation, street construction, etc.

With Mr. Eidlitz are such well-known experts in their various lines as Joseph D. Leland, 3d, of Boston, of the firm of Loring & Leland; I. N. Phelps Stokes, and it is understood soon, Burt L. Fennel, of McKim, Mead & White, archifects; Frederick Law Olmstead, landscape architect and engineer; Mr. Comeys, and Mr. Hubbard, of Hubbard & Pray, town planning experts, and A. M. Bing, of Bing & Bing, in charge of real estate and welfare matters.

Further manifestations of the Government's building schedule appear in studying the operations of the War Department. Without attempting to outline the entire activities of that Department it may be pointed out that construction work has been undertaken by the Quartermaster's Department, the Ordnance Department and the Engineering Corps. Of these three bureaus probably the most important work has been done by the Ordnance Department, for which Mann & MacNeille are the consulting architects, which naturally has to provide housing for munition workers.

Consolidation of Work.

The work of the War Department has recently been consolidated by the creation of a Construction Division to handle all building contracts at National army camps and other work incidental to the needs of the army. This Board is under the immediate direction of Gen. March, Chief of Staff, and is headed by Prof. A. N. Talbot, of the University of Illinois, President of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and includes John Lawrence Mauran, President of the American Institute of Architects; Charles T. Main, President of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; E. W. Rice, President of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers; Frederick L. Cranford, President of the Contractors' Association of New York; R. W. Rhett, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S.; Oscar A. Reum, representing the Building Construction Employers' Association, and John R. Alpine, representing the American Federation of Labor.

Large Program of Construction.

The membership of this Board is representative and qualified and will undoubtedly promote efficiency in the conduct of one of the great problems of the war. It will have charge of the work already under way at the cantonments and the additional construction which is planned for the army camps. There are eighty-five jobs in the first class, aggregating $205,000,000, with 120 more to cost $278,000,000 in prospect and forty proposed barrack jobs for troops, aggregating $390,000,000, and a number of hospital buildings, to cost $10,000,000. This program includes such widely different classes of work as storage terminals, ordnance depots, repair shops, office buildings, and gas-making plants.

As evidence of the Government's solicitude for the workmen and to ensure the proper regulation of the housing program after the houses are actually built may be cited the appointment of Allan Robinson to prevent extortionate rentals, look after the careful upkeep of the buildings and to take such other measures as will insure the comfort and health of the workers. Then there have been some developments made by the Navy Department in accordance with the needs at naval stations and air fleet training fields.

Another large factor in the building business of the Government is the work under the direction of the War Industries Board, of which Major W. A. Starrett is chief of the emergency construction committee. This Board will expend about $300,000,000 this year. Of this amount $100,000,000 will be used for the construction of 31 large storage warehouses; a similar sum will be expended on terminals at seaboard cities and the remainder on powder, gas and high explosive plants.

These are, perhaps, the chief channels through which the Government is working to supply the imperative demand for the comfortable shelter of the men upon whose work depends in large measure the success of the war.

But if the plans of high Government officials and their advisers from civil life are carried out the larger part of the new construction work will in the future be handled by the Department of Labor. This depends upon the passage of the bill now before Congress appropriating $50,000,000 for housing employees at other than shipbuilding plants. This bill admittedly will only cover a small part of the cost of the work necessary to provide homes for workers in Government service, or on Government contracts. Those who are best able to judge of the actual necessary construction work of this character estimate that it will take from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 to build all the houses required in the new centers of industry.

What a little way the appropriations so far made for workmen's houses will go in meeting the emergency is proved by figuring how many buildings of the class which will fall within the Governmental requirements can be built with $50,000,000. The general estimate of cost of each house for a workman and his family is about $2,500. At this rate the money on hand will build homes for only 20,000 men, while the number of workmen who will be employed in plants where there are now no housing accommodations or are not within easy transportation distance of cities where they can live runs into hundreds of thousands.

The great demand for these houses is occasioned by this very fact that in the majority of cases the war activities are carried on in places where heretofore there have been no living accommodations or where these accommodations have been limited to the actual needs of normal times. Munition plants have been located in small towns where there were only a few buildings. Plants that were small before the war have been enlarged many times without any corresponding increase in the number of dwellings and the municipal authorities have rushed to Washington demanding that accommodations be provided for the workmen and their families who were willing to work if they could find places to live. Shipbuilding plants have been built in half-submerged meadows and on waste lands where it was almost impossible to build satisfactory houses. And many big factories have been erected where there were neither sufficient provisions for workmen's homes or adequate transportation to nearby cities, where they could live.

Offers by cities to cooperate with the Government in building houses for workmen have frequently been coupled with conditions that the Government has not been able to accept. The same thing is true of offers by private individuals or corporations to build blocks of houses, running up to 500' or a 1,000 each. These offers have frequently been predicated on Governmental financing to a certain per cent. of the total cost, but interposed the objectionable feature that the individual or corporation should be unrestricted as to the amount of rental which might be collected, to which provision the Government, of course, could not assent.

In a general way it has become necessary that the Government should formulate a policy with respect to this class of proposals so that conflicting interests might be harmonized and jealousies avoided. This is difficult because the living conditions in different communities are so varied that a plan which might work satisfactorily in one locality would be entirely unsuitable to another. The Government has called upon a large number of architects, building constructors and engineers, transportation experts, and other qualified persons for advice in the attempt to work out plans which would coordinate all the building activities. The result has been a mass of expert testimony and a flood of plans. In the realm of housing there have been presented hundreds of architects' drawings and specifications, out of which some 25 or 30 have been selected from which to lay down a general plan of operations.

General Outline Formulated.

All that can be said on this subject is that the result of the study of these plans has been to formulate a general outline of the requirements to which any individual plan must conform. These specifications relate almost wholly to the sanitary conditions, air space, lighting, heating, sewage disposal, etc.; with the attendant features of width of streets, alleyways and other protective measures. The number of rooms ranges from four up to six or seven; one and two-story houses, with the preference given to full stories rather than half-stories; and in general to buildings and developments that will be of value after the war is over.

With respect to this last aspect of the problem it may be stated that the early proposals of the Government suggested construction of a temporary character, and the barrack style of building was favored in many localities because of rapidity of construction, smaller cost and comparatively greater capacity. But it soon became apparent as the work was developed that this class of dwellings was extravagant in that it involved a total loss of the money expended when the end of the war came.

Permanent Structures Required.

Workmen, it was found, would not live in barracks. It had been felt that as they were engaged on war work they could hardly expect to be treated any better than the soldiers at cantonments. But a more consistent view was that while the soldiers were of necessity separated from family ties and must equally be held in close formation even when not on duty, that workmen in factories without the excitement of camp life and the patriotic incentive of actual enlistment under the flag must be kept contented by giving them adequate provisions for their families.

It was also developed that a considerable saving to the Government could be effected by building permanent houses as a permanent contribution to the industrial efficiency of the country and including in the contracts provisions for the sale of the houses to tenants after the war. With operations on the scale suggested it is apparent that they should be centered under one management as much as possible in order to prevent waste, extravagance and possible profiteering.

The Government's policy respecting the financing of the housing projects is embodied in a statement made by Mr. Flannery. Loans will be made to the shipbuilding companies to defray the actual cost of construction. These loans will bear five per cent. interest and be amortized over a period of two years, secured by a first mortgage upon the real estate upon which the development is made. A subsidiary company will buy and hold the real estate, and have charge of the maintenance, renting and sale of the houses. It will be restricted as to dividends, salaries and other expenses until the loan is repaid. The Fleet Corporation will control rentals and sale values, and provisions will be made for facilitating the sale of the houses to workmen on reasonable and easy terms.

Even with the general lines laid down there still exists a great variety of development due to the conformation of the ground, the character of the manufacturing plant or the local conditions prevailing in the community where the emergency exists. One of the largest of the building contracts is that for the powder plant and housing for 25,000 workmen which is well under way at Charleston, W. Va., under the direction of Ernest R. Graham, of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White. The nature of the business to be done at this plant necessitates temporary construction, but the large number of buildings, of which there are 3,500, the variety of housing construction due to climatic and racial conditions, and the nature of the ground selected for the site involved engineering problems of considerable difficulty.

A Typical Housing Problem.

An entirely different class of buildings is that at the Bristol, Pa., shipbuilding plant, under the supervision of Mann & MacNeille. This work was started before the Emergency Fleet Corporation was formed, but it is typical of a number of the housing developments. The entire plant covers 265 acres, of which the shipyard occupies the strip alongside the river for 3,600 feet, twelve ways being built on the river front, while the factory buildings extend back 1,500 feet from the river. The industrial town lies between the shipbuilding yard proper and the Pennsylvania Railroad. It consists of well-planned city blocks. On some of these are groups of bachelor quarters, with boarding houses at the end of each block. Apartment houses are provided for small families, group houses for larger families and single detached houses for those who desire them. The interiors of the houses, both detached and group, are similar, but there is a pleasing diversity in the architectural treatment of the exterior. It is expected that 3,000 men will be employed at this plant.

Another variation of the housing problem, and one of the greatest, is the undertaking at Philadelphia for the accommodation of the workmen at the big shipbuilding plant at Hog Island. This development is planned by Owen Brainard, of Carrere & Hastings. Mr. Brainard is, however, prosecuting this work in his individual capacity and not in connection with the firm of architects of which he is a member.

The Hog Island Development.

The Hog Island workers will be housed on the mainland in Ward 40 of the City of Philadelphia. The plot selected covers 240 acres, and the type of houses will be similar in appearance to those familiar to Philadelphians. The interior design, however, is a distinct improvement over the prevailing plan, one of the greatest of these being the arrangement of the floor plan so that every bathroom has direct light and air through an outside window, instead of by skylight or court, as is customary in Philadelphia houses. The only share that the City of Philadelphia will have in this development will be in whatever expense is necessary for the usual street improvements.

Many difficulties have arisen in connection with the prosecution of this work, but these are steadily being overcome. The financing of this undertaking is entirely through the American International Shipbuilding Corporation, which has the contract for the Hog Island ship yards. These buildings are of substantial construction and are planned with the distinct purpose of being in such condition after their use by tenants during the war to be readily sold at good prices when peace comes. There will be about 2,000 houses, designed for one family each, of from four to seven rooms each, in the development.

Of almost equal importance is the shipbuilders' town being designed by Electus D. Litchfield, near Camden, N. J., for the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, which will comprise about 1,000 houses in the initial development.

At Newport News, C. A. Joannes is in charge of the construction of five hundred houses, and Frederick L. Palmer, Jr., of Baltimore, has in hand the proposed construction of five hundred houses in connection with the shipyards at Sparrow's Point, Md. There is also the large housing development in connection with the air nitrate plant, which is under the direction of Ewing & Allen.

Projects of Local Interest.

While much has been accomplished, some of the proposed housing plans that are of more than local interest have been held up pending a thorough investigation of the conditions at these places. Two of the most important to New Yorkers are the projected improvements on Staten Island and on the Newark meadows. It can be stated authoritatively that no decision has been arrived at with regard to either of these projects, but every phase of the subject is being gone into with great thoroughness. It has been suggested, among other things, that instead of building workmen's houses near the plants at these places, which might become valueless after the war, that desirable tenements be erected in upper New York or Queens, and that fast steamboats on the Hudson and East Rivers should convey the workers to and fro.

Respecting the development of housing accommodations near large cities the Government has laid down the general principle that whenever the situation can be relieved by the adoption of improved schedules for transportation companies, or the enlargement of the services of these established lines, so that workmen can find lodging in houses already built, that this measure of relief will be adopted both as a matter of economy and rapidity in solving the housing problem. Due regard will be had to the cost and time of transportation.

Inevitable Confusion and Delay.

The multiplicity of control and management of the housing program has led to endless confusion and unnecessary and vexatious delays. This was inevitable because the great majority of the Government officials, either in the army or in other departments, have had no past experience in handling the tremendous problems that are involved in the enormous program that the war made necessary and which were of such importance that they could not be "worked out," but must be solved instantly by men of practical experience. It is to obviate any further working at cross purposes and consequent delays that the highest Government officials and their civil advisers desire to have the housing program placed under one management. That the Labor Department is the proper one to have charge of the work seems to be the almost unanimous opinion of those interested, because of the knowledge of the needs of workmen and because this department is less clogged up with war work than almost any other and can give to the vast housing program more attention to detail than the War Department or any other branch of the Government could do.

With the activities of the Government centered in one Department the next reform that would ensure rapidity and economy would be the enrollment in this work of the men who are best fitted by experience and executive ability to undertake it. There are plenty of men who will gladly give up their own business if they are called on to work out the housing program, provided they are allowed to conduct the business as they would if it was a personal undertaking. These men are too big to be hampered by bureau red tape. They may make mistakes, but they can get the work done, and unless the work is done the war will be lost.

DIGEST OF RECENT LEGISLATION AT ALBANY

Status of Bills Affecting Real Estate and Realty Interests—Current News and Gossip at the State Capital

Albany.—A comprehensive program of legislation designed to increase the revenue from personal property in New York City and accordingly lighten the burden on realty has been submitted to the Legislature in a series of bills introduced by Senator Boylan and Assemblyman F. A. Wells. This legislation is the outgrowth of the series of discussions of the so-called Boylan Bill, which would limit the tax rate on realty to $1.75 per $100 of value and impose a tax of 25 cents on every $100 of personal property.

The bills were prepared by the Corporation Counsel's Office and were brought to Albany by Chairman Cantor of the City Tax Department, who promised at a hearing before the New York City Affairs Committee last week that he would cause to be drafted amendments providing a scheme for the taxation of personalty. The sponsors of the bills claim they will operate to add millions to the revenues of New York City.

Summaries of the bills follow:

1. To amend the Tax Law in relation to the taxation of capital stock of corporations. Such amendment is to eliminate from Section 12 of the Tax Law, the provision that the surplus profits or reserve funds of a corporation "exceeding ten per centum of its capital" should be assessed together with the capital of the corporation not exempt by law and also to eliminate the provision of the section excluding from assessment "all shares of stock in other corporations actually owned by such company, which are taxable upon their capital stock under the laws of this State." The effect of the amendment would thus be to permit the inclusion in the assessment of all the surplus profits or reserve funds of a corporation, and also to provide that a corporation owning shares of stock in another corporation would be assessable thereon even though such other corporation were taxable on its capital.

2. To amend the Tax Law by repealing the exemption of stock in an incorporated company owned or held by an individual.

Such amendment is to repeal subdivision 6 of Section 4 of the Tax Law, which grants exemption as follows: "The owner or holder of stock in an incorporated company liable to taxation on its capital, shall not be taxed as an individual."

3. To amend the Tax Law in relation to the place of taxation of property of residents.

Such amendment is to insert in Section 8 of the Tax Law after the provision therein that every person shall be taxed in the tax district where he resides when the assessment for taxation is made for all personal property owned by him or under his control as agent, trustee, guardian, executor or administrator, the following provision: "But the owner or holder of tangible personal property shall be assessed for such property in the tax district where such property is located and such owner or holder shall, for the purpose of taxation thereof, be deemed to be a resident of such tax district and assessable therein for such property."

By such amendment there would be jurisdiction to assess a resident of the State for tangible personal property in every tax district where tangible personal property owned or held by him is located, as if he were a resident of such tax district.

4. To amend the Tax Law in relation to the place of taxation of property of corporations.

Such amendment is to insert in Section II of the Tax Law, after the provision therein to the effect that all the personal estate of every incorporated company liable to taxation on its capital shall be assessed in the tax district where its principal office or place of transacting the financial concerns of the company shall be, or if it has no such principal office or place, then in the tax district where the operations of such company are carried on, the following provision: "But the tangible personal property of every such incorporated company shall be assessed against such company in the tax district in which such property is located."

By such amendment there would be jurisdiction to assess a domestic corporation for tangible property in every tax district where tangible property of the corporation is located, whether or not the principal office or place for transacting the financial concerns of the company is in such tax district.

5. To amend the Greater New York Charter in relation to furnishing statements to the Department of Taxes and Assessments by individuals and corporations of personal property for the purposes of taxation and fixing the taxable status date of assessing personal property, as of July 1 in each year.

Such amendment is to insert in the charter a new section, to be numbered Section 889-b, requiring the filing with the department by individuals and corporations of statements of personal property owned or held on July 1 in each year, and to amend Section 892 of the charter as to the title of the assessment books, and to provide that the taxable status date of personal property be fixed for each year on July 1 of the preceding year.

Such new Section 889-b requires that the statement be filed where the personal property is $5,000 or more; that it be under oath and be filed during the month of July, and that it set forth the personal property and any debts or other deductions. It provides for such statements as to personal property of residents, agents, etc., corporations and non-resident individuals and corporations taxable on personal property in the city of New York. It permits the department to prepare blanks for such purpose, and provides for penalty, for failure to file statements, of $100, with $10 for each day such failure continues and for no review by certiorari where there is such failure. It further provides that the commissioners may require persons furnishing such statements to appear for examination with respect thereto, and states that for failure to appear there shall be no review by certiorari of any assessments for such year.

The amendment of Section 892 eliminates the provision that the books are to be called "The Annual Record of the Assessment Valuation of Real and Personal Estate," and in place thereof inserts that such books are to be called the annual record in which the assessed valuations of real and personal estate are entered; and it changes the taxable status date of personal property from October 1 in each year for the succeeding year to July 1 in each year for the succeeding year.

6. To amend the Greater New York Charter by repealing Section 889-a, which provides that certain buildings in course of construction shall not be assessed.

By such amendment buildings in course of construction would be assessable as they were prior to the enactment of the section in 1913.

The Davies Bill, which would bar anyone not a regularly admitted attorney from drawing up any instrument relating to the lease, sale, encumbrance or exchange of real estate and examination of abstracts of title, was given a hearing before the Assembly Codes Committee this week. Assemblyman Davies has agreed to amend the bill in some respects to make its provisions less stringent. These amendments, the exact nature of which cannot be ascertained until a further conference is held on the measure by Assemblyman Davies and some of its supporters, may result in a favorable report on the measure.

Refusal of the State Senate by a vote of 25 to 24 to discharge the Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment from further consideration of the Hill McNab resolution to ratify the Federal Prohibition Amendment would indicate that the Federal issue is dead in this State for a year. The prospects, as indicated in these reports a week ago, are that the State Prohibition Amendment and the bill referring the question of ratification of the Federal Amendment to the people for the sole purpose of obtaining the sentiment of the voters upon the latter proposition will be passed by the Legislature.

Governor Whitman has indicated that he will veto the referendum on the Federal Amendment, or rather the bill which would authorize this referendum. This contemplated action by the Governor would make it appear that the only question to be submitted to the voters will be the Prohibition Amendment of the State Constitution in 1919, as an amendment to the State Constitution must be passed upon by two Legislatures before the people act. The passage of the State Constitution Amendment this year and next when a new Legislature will be in session here would enable the people to express their views on the liquor question in November, 1919.

It is almost a certainty that the action of the Senate in refusing to compel the Taxation Committee to report out the Federal Amendment resolution will stiffen the opposition of the Assembly to this measure.

Assemblyman O'Hare has a bill which provides that an action cannot be maintained to redeem real property from a mortgage if the mortgagee or one claiming under him has been continuously in possession for twenty years after the breach of a condition of the mortgage, instead of in "adverse possession" continuously as at present.

Owners or mortgagees of land in Richmond County purchased by the State at tax sales may redeem the same on payment of the amount bid by the State with interest, if a bill fathered by Assemblyman Seesselberg passes.

Another amendment to the Real Property Law, Section 233, by Assemblyman McKee, prohibits the increasing of the rent of a monthly tenant except upon written notice in writing at least thirty days prior to the increase.

The hearing on the Dowling Bill, which would permit thousands of four-story dwellings in New York City now lying idle to be converted into tenements, has been postponed for a week. The enactment of this bill would bring a large volume of revenue to the city as well as to the owners of such property. Senator Dowling expressed the opinion that the bill would be given favorable consideration in Committee. It is now pending for the New York City Affairs Committee.

Edward P. Doyle, representing the Real Estate Board of New York City, and George A. Wheelock, of the United Real Estate Association of New York City, appeared in favor of the Sunday Baseball Bill, introduced by Senator Lawson at a hearing before the Joint Codes Committee this week.

Hearings were held this week upon the following bills:

Assembly Cities Committee — The Amos Bills, one providing for the determination by referendum of the tax rate of cities, the subjects of taxation and the classes of property to be exempted. The petition for a referendum under the first bill must be signed by two per cent. of the voters and the referendum must state the tax rate, the subjects of taxation and the classes of property to be exempted. The second Amos Bill authorizes cities to levy upon the assessed value of land exclusive of improvements to meet the budget increase over the year of 1917, including the city's share of the direct tax.

General Laws Committee of the Assembly—The Ellenbogen Bill amending Section 232 of the Real Property Law by providing that an agreement for the occupation of real estate in New York City shall create a monthly tenancy, unless the duration of the term is specified in a memorandum subscribed by the parties.

Senate Judiciary Committee—The Burlingame Bill affecting the registration of titles under the Torrens Law by official title examiners. Under this measure official title examiners would be placed in the classified civil service and only duly licensed attorneys may be such examiners.

Senate New York City Affairs Committee—Boylan Bill abolishing New York City Board of Water Supply and transferring its duties to the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. The bill would curtail the power of the Water Supply Board to enter into contracts by requiring the approval of the Board of Estimate.

"Real Estate Accounts."

The Ronald Press has published a book by Walter Mucklow, a member of the American Institute of Accountants, entitled: "Real Estate Accounts." The author in his preface draws attention to the fact that there is but little literature on the subject of real estate accounting, either here or abroad. He contends that one reason for this may be found in the fact that until recently we have been almost entirely dependent upon England and Scotland for our accountancy literature.

While the author believes that the theories presented, and the practice outlined in the present volume, are sound, he believes that his readers will discover matters of importance which have been omitted. Nevertheless, the volume contains much valuable information for those interested in the management or ownership of real estate.

MEASURES AFFECTING REAL ESTATE

Bills Which Have Been Approved or Disapproved By Committee Appointed By Real Estate Board of New York

THE Real Estate Board of New York is again urging its members to write to Senator Dowling approving the bill introduced by him (Senate Int. 776, Pr. 899) in relation to four-family and basement brick or stone dwellings to be altered for occupancy by not more than four families. Senator Argetsinger, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Affairs of Cities, should also be written, asking that the bill be reported out of the committee. In spite of slight criticism of this bill, most of it obviously not based on a knowledge of what the bill contains, it is thought that the measure will be passed.

Senator Boylan's Bill, Int. 621, Pr. 708, for a 17½ mill fixed tax rate on real estate, continues to attract an unusual degree of attention, and it is hoped that this bill, with some amendments, will be reported favorably and passed. Other bills along the same line have been introduced. In any event the Real Estate Board feels that the agitation for a limitation on the tax to which real estate may be subjected will have good results at this session.

The action on bills in detail by the Real Estate Board's joint Sub-Committee on Legislation and Taxation and Real Estate Laws, at its meeting, held on Wednesday, March 20, was as follows:

Assembly Int. 1082, Pr. 1263, Shipplacoff. To amend the General Cities Law in relation to the establishment of Municipal Day Nurseries and their control and management.

This bill is disapproved. It may seem to have a worthy object in view, but the rapid extension of municipal activities in the field of what has heretofore been that of organized charity is putting too great a strain on the finances of the city, already overtaxed by the great extension of municipal activities in this direction. Certainly at this time, when the tax rate is mounting so rapidly, and the taxable base, real estate, so depressed, it would be very unwise to encourage further municipal activities along the lines of this bill.

Senate Int. 787, Pr. 1138, Ottinger (Same as Assembly Int. 928, Pr. 1077, Ellenbogen). To amend the Real Property Law in relation to certain agreements for the occupation of real estate.

In its original form, Pr. No. 910, this bill was designed to do what practical experience indicates ought to be done—namely, to amend the Real Property Law in relation to certain agreements for the occupation of real estate; that is, such occupancies should "create a monthly tenancy unless the duration of the occupation shall be specified in some note or memorandum thereto in writing and subscribed by the parties thereto or by their lawful agents." The amended bill, however, provides that such agreement may be from "month to month" and "orally or in writing by the parties thereto or by their lawful agents." It is felt that the insertion of the word "orally" makes no appreciable improvement on the existing situation, and for this reason the bill cannot be approved.

Assembly Int. 1115, Pr. 1312, Kiernan. To amend the Greater New York Charter in relation to the construction of a recreation pier on the East River, at the foot of East 96th street, Manhattan.

This bill is disapproved. It is exactly similar to a bill by Assemblyman Kiernan—Int. 888—introduced last year, when it was disapproved by the Real Estate Board. This disapproval is on the ground that it involves a considerable expenditure of money, which the city cannot afford at the present time; that it is mandatory legislation, and that it is unnecessary. At present there is a very good open pier at this place, used for commercial purposes. The neighborhood does not, from the character of its occupants, particularly demand a recreation pier any more than it might be said that such a pier was needed in innumerable other places along the waterfront. There is a park on the river front, running from 84th to 89th streets. This is a pretty park, is quite commodious, and those people who might use the recreation pier in the 96th street neighborhood have the use of the park.

Senate Int. 806, Pr. 944, Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment. (Same as Assembly Int. 966, Pr. 1070, Malone.) To provide for submission to the qualified electors of the State at the general election in the year nineteen hundred and eighteen the question, "Are you in favor of ratification by the Legislature of the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States, prohibiting the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes?"

This measure is disapproved. The Real Estate Board is on record as having disapproved the Federal Amendment at Washington for National Prohibition on the principle that prohibition should be a matter of State control. It has also disapproved Assembly Int. 29, Pr. 29, McNab. (Same as Senate Int. 21, Pr. 21, Hill) for ratification of the Federal Amendment. It has approved the bill of the Taxation and Retrenchment Committee, Senate Int. 549, Pr. 802, providing for a referendum of the question of prohibition to the people of this State, and logically it has disapproved a bill by the same Committee, Senate Int. 550, Pr. 803, for prohibition of intoxicating liquors for the period of the war. Consequently it disapproves this latest bill by the Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment for the submission of the Federal Amendment to the people of the State. The principles upon which the Real Estate Board proceeds being that the people of the State of New York should themselves decide whether or not prohibition should be adopted in this State.

Assembly Int. 1050, Pr. 1229, Youker. To amend the Labor Law in relation to manufacturing in tenements.

This bill is disapproved. During the last session of the Legislature a number of bills were introduced designed to either abolish entirely or curtail the manufacturing in tenements. This bill would add to the existing number of things not permitted to be made in tenements—toys and parts of toys and all wearing apparel. These bills have all been disapproved by the Real Estate Board on the ground that manufacturing in tenements is now already sufficiently controlled by existing law and by the supervision of the Labor Department, and on the further grounds that this sort of light manufacturing, now permitted by law, is done by skilled workers in their homes, by which means these workers provide a necessary addition to the incomes of their families. The passage of the bill would deprive these persons from a source of income which it would be practically impossible for them to replace.

OPPOSES ASSESSMENT.

Meeting at Real Estate Board Rooms Held to Seek Relief.

AS A result of a call issued by the Real Estate Board of New York, through Laurence McGuire, President, to discuss the subject of assessments for the extension of Seventh avenue and the widening and extension of Varick street, about one hundred persons met at the Board's offices last Thursday afternoon. Many of those present represented from two to one hundred persons, so that the number of persons actually represented was very large.

Edward P. Doyle presided at the meeting. Before the meeting adjourned two important steps were taken. A Committee of Five was appointed, with Mr. Doyle as Chairman, to draft a bill which would readjust the assessment so as to place it either entirely on the city or to readjust it more equitably as between the property owners and the city. A letter was also prepared petitioning the Board of Estimate to hold a public hearing in the week beginning March 25, if possible on Tuesday, March 26, so as to reopen the whole matter and either get relief from the Board of Estimate, if this is possible, or in any event to enlist the aid of that body in behalf of the property owners.

The Seventh avenue and Varick street proceeding would involve an assessment of between nine and ten millions of dollars. It was started about five years ago, the main reason for it being the building of the Seventh avenue subway line. It is felt that for this reason, as a matter of common justice, the property owners in the affected district should not bear the expense, certainly not all of it, but it should either be made a matter of general assessment as a subway charge or should be borne in the main by Manhattan.

Since the work was started five years ago properties have been taken by the city, many buildings have been demolished and some parcels greatly reduced in size. The streets have been torn up and some properties have remained untenanted and some partially ruined by hoodlums. In the meantime the owners have received nothing from the city.

The situation is complicated by the fact that Jacob A. Cantor, the new President of the Tax Board, recently resigned as Condemnation Commissioner, leaving one less than the three required to carry on the proceeding. If some way cannot be found to permit the completion of the examination by the remaining two Commissioners, another year or more may lapse before this part of the work is finished.

It is for these reasons that the Committee appointed plans to move both upon the Legislature and the Board of Estimate in an effort to secure relief as speedily as possible.

The Committee consists of Edward P. Doyle, Chairman; Laurence McGuire, President Real Estate Board, ex officio; Adam Weiner, William L. DeBost, J. Irving Walsh and Charles E. Duross.

The following signed a letter to the Board of Estimate asking that body to consider the matter:

ENTIRE METROPOLITAN DISTRICT SHOULD BE ONE INDUSTRIAL UNIT

By ROBERT H. WHITTEN

NEW YORK'S supremacy depends on its primacy as a market—a market for goods, for money and for labor. Industries alone do not constitute a great city. Population alone does not constitute a great city. If, however, with the growth of industries and population there is developed a great market for goods and money and labor, that which would otherwise be a mere aggregation of factories and people becomes a true city.

The primacy of New York in commerce, industry, finance, wholesale trade and population is protected not only by its admirable natural location, but by the lead already gained. The city's greatness in any one of these fields is of advantage to its primacy in every other. Its growth in commerce is an aid to its growth in wholesale trade, in finance, in population and in industry; and its growth in industry is an aid to growth in each of these other directions. Moreover, it is peculiarly true as regards leadership in commerce, finance or wholesale trade that mere bigness is an asset. The city with the largest commerce has a decided advantage in attracting to it additional commerce.

But this undoubted economic advantage attaching to mere bigness can only be realized to the extent that the entire urban or industrial district is actually so organized that it is in fact a single economic unit. This is where city planning comes in. A city may be so poorly laid out, so poorly supplied with means of quick transportation of goods and people, that certain sections contribute comparatively little to the life of the whole. This is particularly likely to happen where, as in the case of the New York Metropolitan district, the entire urban district is not under a single governmental control. The separate municipalities give little thought to their physical connection with the adjoining municipalities, that together make up a natural economic unit. Connecting thoroughfares for the accommodation of through trucking and automobile traffic are poorly laid out and inadequate. Transit lines, instead of routing through, stop at the municipal boundaries. Boundary streams or other water-ways are but poorly supplied with bridges or tunnels. The improvement of physical connections between adjoining municipalities is retarded not only because there is no authority whose business it is to plan and provide such connections, but also because of an absurd business jealousy that fears the possibility of outside competition. In this they are oblivious to the great advantages of a big urban market. They lose sight of one of the chief causes that has influenced the development of the entire district.

One of the very great advantages of New York as a factory location is that the immense population within trucking distance of the factory furnishes a market right at hand for the output of the factory. Another great advantage is that the superior rail and water transportation facilities give the factory a direct outlet for its products to every part of the globe. Other advantages are the possibility of securing capital at a lower rate and in larger amounts, because New York is a great money market; the possibility of securing labor of all kinds, because New York is a great labor market. To summarize, the fact that New York is a great market for goods, for money and for labor make it an advantageous location for a factory.

Conversely the fact that New York is a great manufacturing center and has a large population gives it a distinct advantage as a market for goods and for labor. A market is largely dependent on bigness for its supremacy. A market that has the biggest local supply of goods and the biggest local clientele evidently has a great advantage in a contest for primacy.

But this theoretic advantage can be realized only to the extent that the entire Metropolitan district is actually organized as a single commercial and industrial unit.

A glance at the map will show that while lower Manhattan (the commercial and financial center of the New York Metropolitan district) is located on the extreme west boundary of the municipality of New York, it is at the geographical center of the great industrial and residential area that centers about New York Harbor. A careful estimate as to the location of the population and property value centers for the entire Metropolitan district places both such centers close to the intersection of Fifth avenue and 34th street. No plan for the City of New York can be complete or satisfactory that does not take into consideration the linking up of the business center in lower Manhattan with every part of the Metropolitan district.

The commerce of New York Harbor naturally centers about the Upper Bay and the North and East Rivers. Political boundaries should not be allowed to interfere with the unified organization of the rail and water terminal facilities of the entire Metropolitan district. Unless this is done the harbor loses much of the advantage that should accrue from the magnitude of the Metropolitan center and the number and variety of the transportation facilities that the harbor possesses.

The factories of the Metropolitan district are distributed throughout its area, but (aside from the clothing and printing trades) center chiefly around the rail and water terminals. They must, however, be connected not with a single terminal, but with all the terminals. Moreover, they must be connected by convenient trucking routes with the central wholesale and retail market in Manhattan and with all of the sub-centers throughout the entire Metropolitan district.

The population of the Metropolitan district, while centering about the harbor, is also widely scattered in numerous residential communities. Each of these residence sections must be connected by road and by transit facilities with the main business center in Manhattan and with the various industrial sections.

Only by this physical linking up of each individual unit (dock, freight terminal, warehouse, factory and residence) can each such unit be made to contribute its share to the life and drawing power and greatness of New York.

The enlargement of New York's municipal boundaries in 1898 has been of mutual benefit to the boroughs chiefly by reason of the resulting construction of bridges and tunnels and the improvement of transit facilities and of port and terminal facilities. The Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens have been physically united in a way that is of great economic advantage to each and to the great New York commercial and industrial district, of which they are a part.

The political boundary lines of New York City, as enlarged in 1898, do not, however, include much of the area that is an integral part of New York as a commercial and industrial unit. Yonkers, Hoboken, West Hoboken, West New York, Jersey City, Bayonne, Harrison, Kearny, Newark, Bloomfield, Passaic, Paterson, Elizabeth and Perth Amboy are essential parts of the New York commercial and industrial district; and these communities, together with Garden City, Mount Vernon, New Rochelle, White Plains, the Oranges, Montclair, Englewood, Hackensack, and numerous other towns and villages, are an integral part of the residential area tributary to this same commercial and industrial district. The total population of the New York Metropolitan district in 1915 was 7,169,793. Of this total 5,253,206, or 73 per cent., were within the boundary lines of New York City, and 1,916,587, or about 27 per cent., were outside the city boundary lines. Of the approximately 1,000,000 persons employed in manufacturing industries in the New York Metropolitan district in 1914 about 27 per cent. were employed outside the boundaries of the city of New York.

These outside communities are poorly connected with each other and with New York City. This results in economic loss to themselves, to New York City and to the greater industrial and commercial district, of which they are all a part. New York as a great world market is handicapped by this splitting up and disorganization of its harbor, its terminals, its industries and its population. If New York is to make the most of the splendid opportunity now opening before it a way must be speedily found to physically unite and organize into a single economic unit all the areas centering about New York Harbor. Political union is out of the question, and is, moreover, comparatively unimportant; but there must be a physical linking up and organization of the rail and water terminals, markets, transportation system and trucking and auto routes.

Military necessity now furnishes an opportunity for the comprehensive planning and organization of the Port of New York such as has never occurred before and may never occur again. The administration of the entire port has been placed under a single director. Moreover, the taking over of the railroads for operation during the war makes possible a unified administration of freight and passenger terminals. This furnishes a rare opportunity and a practical necessity for a big comprehensive plan for the physical development and organization of the rail and water terminals, warehouses, industries, markets, transportation and highways of the entire Port of New York. Whatever happens at the end of the war the rail and water terminals cannot be returned to their former disorganized and inefficient status. Now is the time for the National Government, with the active co-operation of the state and municipal authorities, to start a careful survey of the entire Metropolitan district with a view to the preparation of a big comprehensive plan that will govern the readjustments of control after the war, and insure the complete and permanent organization of the port as a single commercial and industrial unit.

Proposals Adopted.

For the purpose of expediting the movement of freight through railroad, pier and freight stations on Manhattan Island and to afford some measure of relief from the congestion which prevails at these localities the Merchants Association placed before A. H. Smith, Regional Director of the Eastern Railroads, a number of recommendations for improvement in the methods employed in the receipt and delivery of freight.

The Association is now in receipt of advice from carriers that its recommendations will be adopted and made effective at once. They are as follows:

1. Railroad, pier and freight stations to be opened promptly at 7 a. m. for the delivery of freight. Cashiers and check clerks to be on hand to facilitate deliveries.
2. Special provision to be made (upon application by the shipper) for delivery of carload freight after 6 p. m.
3. Greater effort to be made to receipt and care for freight tendered during the regular hours.
4. Better supervision over the placing and location of inbound freight on pier floor so it may be found when called for.
5. Where notice of arrival is sent and disposition instructions furnished prompt notice to be given of placement of car, where it will be accessible to consignee for removal.

ELECTRICAL DEVELOPMENT IN FIFTY YEARS

Through the Harnessing of this Wonderful Force
Seemingly Impossible Results Have Been Obtained

By F. C. MYERS, Society For Electrical Development, Inc.

THE development in the electrical field during the past fifty years has been the development, practically of all time. Electricity was known, batteries had been manufactured but practical use of this wonderful energy was unknown. Today, electricity plays an important part in the life of every human being. Many people do not realize their dependence on electricity, but the clothes we wear, the things we eat, the magazines we read, the amusements we enjoy, the comforts of home, all of them are influenced by electricity.

Clothing is sewed and cloth is cut by machines driven by electric motors. Cloth is woven by electrically operated machines. Farm products are transported through the country to our tables by electrically operated trains or trucks. Even the farmer may telephone to market for prices before he determines to bring his produce to the city. Magazines are printed on enormous electrically driven presses. The type is set from metal heated in pots kept hot by electric current. The presentations of theatres would be impossible without the liberal and accurately controlled use of electricity. Electric service in the home lightens the labors of the housewife, enables the husband to spend his evening with his paper or book without straining his eyes. It warms the cold corners in winter and cools the entire home during the heat of summer.

Electricity has entered industry to such an extent that many plants would be unable to operate without it. Electricity furnishes power, heat and light. The power operates machinery of all kinds. Heat is used in manufacturing operations that were formerly carried on with coal and gas. Light lengthens the day and enables as efficient operation during the early morning hours and late evening hours as at any time. All night operation is practical with production maintained at about the same rate as during the day time.

Electricity speeds up business, enabling work to be done in minutes which otherwise would require days and even weeks. By using the telephone a man can talk directly to other men within a few feet of him or miles away as clearly as if they were facing each other. The telegraph transmits messages in minutes that formerly required days in the mail. Street cars bring people long distances to work or play in a fraction of the time required under any other system of transportation. Large cities would be impractical without electrical traction, telephones and telegraphs.

In the old days when buildings were only a few stories high the problems of construction were few. Now-a-days, sky-scrapers with their steel and concrete construction demand power for elevating and conveying the material to the upper stories. The transportation of tenants to and from their offices or apartments is solved by electric elevators. Lights are provided by leading a wire through a conduit and they are controlled by the simple turning of a switch or the pressing of a button. Electricity is furnishing the heat for cooking in thousands of places. The fire risk is lowered by the use of electricity and the convenience of living under these conditions corresponds most favorably with the times that are past.

The first real development in the application of electricity was made in 1862 when the first electric arc lamp was installed in a lighthouse at Dungeness, England. A crude electric generator delight than when first introduced. It will be interesting to note here that while the efficiency of incandescent lamps have increased the cost of current has steadily decreased. Just 1.075 percent more electric light can now be obtained for ten cents than for a like sum twenty years ago.

The development of electric power has been equally impressive. From the 1,000 horsepower electric generator exhibited at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893 to the gigantic generators in Brooklyn and Philadelphia central stations which develop 40,000 horsepower, is merely a step toward the realization of 100,000 horsepower locomotives. Already the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. of New York has installed 60,000 horsepower generators.

It is interesting to note that the first central station in America for lighting incandescent lamps was installed at Appleton, Wis. The capacity of this station was only 200 lights. There are more than 5,000 central stations in the United States today. These provide electric energy for light, heat and power. The light loan alone may be estimated from the fact that more than 110,000,000 lamps were sold in this country last year.

Transmitting power through wires from a central station to users was first shown in Vienna in 1873. Ten years later a transmission line carried a single electrical horsepower from a water fall thirty-seven miles away. At the great San Francisco Exposition, which made night like day within 635 acres of grounds, the electric power came from the Sierras, 225 miles away. One company transmits its power at 140,000 volts more than 145 miles. This is one of the highest voltage and the longest transmission lines in the world and was for some time the first. As these transmission lines increase they will girdle the prairies, link up the mountains and cobweb the nation, distributing light, heat and power current to the remotest hamlet in the land.

These illustrations are typical of electrical progress in every phase of life today. One statistician now figures more than 3,000 practical uses of electricity; another finds seventy uses of electricity on an automobile. In the home, upon the farm, in the factory — everywhere, the world is fast becoming electrified. Of the 20,500,000 homes in the United States, one-fourth are already lighted by electricity. At the veloped the power required. The stories connected with this forward step are truly wonderful and many of them deal with witchery and mysticism.

It was not until the Philadelphia Centennial that several arc lamps were operated by one machine. In 1878 the Avenue de L'Opera, Paris, was lighted by arc lamps and this was considered for several years one of the show places of the world. This was before the name of Edison appeared in the annals of electricity. In 1882 at Cincinnati the Edison and Weston incandescent lamps bewildered the public and marked an epoch in electrical history. Today, incandescent lamps give over 2,000 percent more present rate of transfers from steam to electric drive, three-fourths of all America's industries will be electrified inside of five years!

One of the important developments of the year just closed was the big increases in the capacities of central station turbo generators, particularly in cities of an average population of 100,000. The purchase of new generator units of increased capacity indicates an enormous growth in central station service. The transfer of many of the great steel mills from steam to electric drive was another notable step in the electrification of American industry. The sale of apparatus for these mills practically trebled during the year 1916. This was due, in a large measure, to the great boom in the steel business probably stimulated by war conditions abroad.

One of the amazing transformations is the electrical battleship. The new battleship California, whose keel was laid in 1915, is the first electrically propelled battleship in the history of the world. Battleships of the Tennessee type will be provided with 37,000 H. P. of electric energy, enough to furnish electric light, heat and power for cities of more than 200,000 population.

The tremendous size of the Tennessee and the amount of energy required in daily operating the ship may be estimated when one studies the total horsepower used to provide light, heat and power for big cities, as the following table shows:

City	Population	Horse-Power
Louisville	237,000	33,000
St. Paul	215,000	24,000
New Orleans	339,000	15,000
U. S. S. Tennessee.....	1,250	37,000

Instead of the propellers being mechanically connected to the driving engines or turbines, the Tennessee will have two steam turbines, developing more than 33,000 horsepower, driving electric generators which, in turn, will furnish current to four 6,700 horsepower motors, each motor driving a propeller.

In the next twenty years it is only fair to say, that in all probability, central station service will be used for the most arduous tasks of mills and factories just as it will be used to do the chores on the farm and the work in the home. It is difficult to conceive of any labor or any pastime or enjoyment in which electricity will not be used.

The following table tells what one cent's worth of electricity at ten cents per kilowatt hour will operate:

A 16 candle-power Mazda lamp for five hours.

A six pound flat-iron 15 minutes.

A radiant toaster long enough to produce ten slices of toast.

A sewing machine for two hours.

A fan 12 inches in diameter for two hours.

An electric percolator long enough to make 3 cups of coffee.

A heating pad for two to four hours.

A domestic buffer for 1¼ hours.

A chafing dish 12 minutes.

An electric broiler six minutes.

An electric griddle eight minutes.

A radiant grill for ten minutes.

An electric curling iron once a day for two weeks.

It will operate a luminous 500 watt radiator for 12 minutes.

15,000 H. P. MOTOR, LARGEST IN THE WORLD. WILL DRIVE THE ROLLING MILLS IN A BIG STEEL PLANT.

One electric horsepower will do the work of ten men without tiring. That is, one electrical horsepower continuously operated does as much work as thirty men working in eight hour shifts.

There are 5,800,000 electrical lighting customers in the United States. This means the central stations send out 70,000,000 bills per annum. The cost is about 15c. per average bill, including meter reading. This means an ex-adult population, according to Secretary of Interior Franklin K. Lane.

Report of eighty-four manufacturers shows that about 9,000,000 electrical household appliances such as irons, toasters, grills, etc., have been manufactured and sold since this industry started.

That electricity has come to the aid of every contractor and builder is well known. Electricity is used for digging excavations. Conveyors for concrete, bricks and other material are operated by electric motors. Hoists for handling steel are electrically operated.

The following list has been prepared after careful investigation into the contracting field by the Society for Electrical Development. The length of this list is surprising but

using each of the machines listed have been found and the equipment is for sale in the market:

Air compressors, augers, ballast packers, battery charging sets, belt conveyors, blowers, boring machines, cableways, concrete laying machinery, concrete mixers, conveyors, cranes, derricks, dredges, elevators, excavating machinery, fans, ventilating; flood lights, flood lighting systems, floor planers, floor polishers, floor scrubbers, floor surfacers, glue pots, hammers, hoists, illumination, motor cranes, portable drills and grinders, portable hammers, portable incandescent lamps and guards, pumps, riveters, rivet heaters, rock crushing machinery, rock drills, shovels, signals, signs, soldering irons, stone crushers, stone dressers, tampers, telephones, trenching machinery and tunnel excavators.

There are several advantages to be obtained from the use of this versatile power. It is purchased in exactly the quantity wanted and immediately the use is stopped the cost stops. It can be controlled to do the work wanted when it is wanted regardless of external conditions. There is no waste. The electrical equipment is comparatively small and easily protected from the weather. Depreciation is slight because the machinery is operated only when it is used and then under the most favorable conditions. The upkeep charges are reasonable because electrical machinery is simple in construction and of sturdy design.

The special developments in the electrical field during the year just closed seem rather insignificant because many of them have had to do with the war and the work of the Government on land and on sea. Naturally nothing can be published at this time dealing with this work. In other lines there has been some remarkable growth.

In comparison with over 50,000,000 horsepower of locomotives—over 40,000,000 horsepower of automobiles and a total of over 150,000,000 mechanical horsepower. Government reports show that 30,000,000 horses and mules are in service today in the United States.

General Rules of Practice, the

The Record and Guide Celebrates Its Golden Anniversary.

With this issue the Record and Guide completes fifty years of continuous service in the real estate and building realms. It has tried to faithfully record the events of passing moment in the many years since it first came from the press—years which have been crowded with the marvelous changes which have raised New York from a second-rate city to the first in financial importance and the second in population in the whole world.

In this cycle of years there has been accomplished the consolidation of a number of incongruous settlements into a symmetrical city. There has been evolved a system of intrarural transportation, whose unifying ramification brings the market places and the workshops of six million people and their habitations within the circle of a five-cent piece.

The revolution in building construction has given us monumental towers for business purposes and stratified palaces for the human tribe. The changing years have relegated the suspended span that was once one of the Seven Wonders of the Modern World—now only one of many similar structures—to a place where it is no longer even one of the wonders of this "Wonder City."

Through all this progressional epoch, within which these and many other changes have taken place, the Record and Guide has never intentionally deviated from the strict performance of its self-appointed task of presenting the actual conditions relative to the greatest asset the city of New York possesses. How well it has accomplished this duty it is willing to leave to the judgment of its numerous readers.

That they are friendly disposed the Record and Guide has on numerous occasions had conclusive evidence. The expressions of continued respect and cordial appreciation which it has already received in anticipation of its celebration constitutes the greatest pleasure that this newspaper experiences on its golden anniversary.

To all the old and to our many younger readers we extend our sincere thanks for the hearty support and continuous interest that has made the half century exceedingly pleasant and profitable, and we pledge anew our best efforts to further the interests of all those in the fields we have consistently tried to cover.

This number, with its largely increased circulation, comprises three parts—the two regular ones and the special anniversary section.

Trenches in Central Park.

The Committee on City Plan of the Board of Estimate this week favored granting the Liberty Loan Committee permission to construct a series of trenches, fac-similes of those in France, on the North Meadow in Central Park. The plan, in addition to the section of the front line trench, will also include the digging of communicating trenches and the building of dug-outs, relief stations, listening posts, wire entanglements and other obstructions found on the fighting fronts, and the whole will be a graphic portrayal of an actual war terrain. In fact, this project will be an exact replica of a section of the trenches "our boys" are now occupying in France.

The Committee on City Plan approved of this project, as did the Board of Estimate yesterday when it recommended that the Commissioner of Parks grant the request of the Loan Committee. Provisions of the City Charter make it necessary to obtain the approval of the Commissioner of Parks before any project, affecting the various properties under his jurisdiction, can be carried out. The sanction of Carl F. Pilat, Landscape Engineer for the city, is also required. If the use of the park space is considered essential to the success of the Third Liberty Loan in Greater New York there is little doubt but that the Commissioner and the Landscape Engineer will readily approve.

Serious objections to the carrying out of the idea have been raised by a number of prominent individuals and organizations. Dr. Edward Hagan Hall, secretary of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, has made it known that his organization is not in accord with the plan and that every effort will be made to have permission withheld, or to enjoin action by the Liberty Loan Committee from carrying out the proposed plan.

If the success of the coming drive depends, even slightly, upon publicity of the proposed character, private interests should endeavor to conform to what will be the greatest good for the greatest number. If an augmented sale of Liberty Bonds is possible through the construction of these trenches in Central Park, the Record and Guide is heartily in favor of this use of park land, or upon any other public property conveniently located to the greatest majority of the city's population.

While it is manifestly true that other sites for these trenches might have been selected, a number of which offer equal, if not superior advantages of location and scenic adaptation, none are situated so conveniently to the great mass of people that the Liberty Loan Committee is planning to reach through its propaganda for the Third Loan.

Should any part of the success of the forthcoming drive depend upon the publicity possible by means of this trench system, then the idea is an excellent one and should be encouraged not only by the city authorities but by every patriotic individual, taxpayer and all civic societies. Complete military success in this war is as yet altogether too far in doubt to permit anything being left undone that would have even a slight tendency to increase the possibility of ultimate victory.

The material damage likely to be done in Central Park, while costly, is negligible when compared with the broad scope of the benefits to be derived. The damage will not be irreparable, although it might require a year, or possibly two, to restore the North Meadow to its present beauty and usefulness. Yet the cost is relatively small. If the proposed trench system is responsible for an augmented sale of the third issue of Liberty Bonds, to the extent of only a million dollars, then the damage entailed to public property may well be looked upon in the light of excellent business. Furthermore, the Liberty Loan Committee represents the Federal Government in the business of raising war funds and its requests carry considerable weight.

If England was willing to permit the defacement of the Nelson Statue in Trafalgar Square by the posting of recruiting signs and other military advertising, should we, who are supposedly bearing equal burdens in this war, refuse permission to utilize a city park that is the property of the citizens and not of any individual or society? Central Park is not the sacred spot certain interests would have us consider it. Even were it so, is not the winning of this awful war the sacred and solemn duty of every citizen and society represented by this great municipality?

What our Nation needs at this time more than anything else is to be properly and thoroughly aroused. The population will not be awakened by what it reads or hears nearly so much as by the things it is able to see. The psychological effect of this projected system of trenches in Central Park will accomplish more for the success of the Third Loan in Greater New York than tons of printed matter, miles of posters or thousands of street corner speeches. We have to be shown, and an exhibition of this character will be of infinite value in enabling all to visualize something of the conditions under which our soldiers are living, and dying, in France.

War Gardens.

Probably one of the greatest benefits derived from the work of the Citizens' War Garden Committee last year was in its educational aspect. In cooperation with the Park Department more than nine hundred gardens were established on vacant lots throughout the city. At the highest estimate of the food value of the products of these "farms" it is unlikely that the amount of garden truck raised on them would have fed many people for any length of time or have materially reduced the cost of living to the millions of New Yorkers.

But there was much to be learned from these nine hundred object lessons scattered throughout the metropolis, especially by the young people, who are notably observing and quick to make practical application of what they have seen theoretically demonstrated.

Perhaps one of the best lessons brought home to the young farmers and their kin folks was the infinitely greater relish of fresh vegetables to the withered and half rotten variety, previously known to them as vegetating on truck carts and the shelving wastes of the outside displays at groceries and meat markets. Whoever has picked a juicy, ripe tomato in the early morning while the dew is still tangled in the cobwebs on the vines and eaten it out there in the sunshiny garden gets a broader view of life on the spot. Nothing but the best of everything will do for him after that—if he can get it—and he surely is going to try.

There is much to be learned from watching the seeds sprouting and the stalks shooting up and the vines wriggling around on the ground or curling up the supports which a kindly hand has erected for them. These little delicate things grow big and strong and prolific because they have light and air and baths. The garden becomes a University of Sanitation.

It takes time, too, for maturity to come, and the growing things require unremitting care and the constant elimination of the disturbing and destroying Hunnish tribe—the Zeppelin-like worms and the U-bug violators of the vegetable world. There comes to the youthful observer in his unconscious study of these and other phenomena the value, relative and actual, of the food that sustains life. A peck of peas no longer means twenty cents paid over to a fat, green grocer; it means, also, months of labor, digging, planting, training, watering and, lastly, picking and taking home to the family pot, and then the eating with rare gusto because the flavor of fresh peas is good, but, better still, is the savor of things well done.

War gardeners who cooperated with the Park Department last year received free water permits and fire hydrant use, as well as ploughing and manuring advice. There were a good many failures last year because the young farmers were often overzealous and inexperienced. They need the guiding hand of maturity. If every ex-farmer's boy who dropped the hoe and the rake and the three-tined fork and has come into the city to plough up and down Broadway would volunteer to captain a company of these enthusiastic young war-time agricultural volunteers there would not be an empty plot in town that would not be cleared of goats and tin cans and smart-weed and be transformed into a prolific outdoor school, where new and better ideas of right living and fresh and health-giving vegetables would sprout up alongside of each other.

The city gardens might well become the recruiting stations for the country farms.

There will be two demonstration gardens in Union Square and Bryant Park this year, and booklets and plans on gardening can be had at these places or by mail from the War Garden Committee, Room 1000, Municipal Building, Manhattan. Get your permits early, and find out also why you should not plant potatoes, but why you should sow corn and beans, radishes and lettuce, and tomatoes, on city soil.

Every soldier on the Flanders front should have his gardener on a city lot.

Four-Family House Bill.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Permit me to call your attention to certain features of a report of the Real Estate Board in your last issue, referring to the Dowling Bill, which permits old residence buildings to be converted into tenement houses. The report emphasizes only the benefits which it is claimed will result from the passage of the bill. It entirely omits reference to many features of the bill which are of greater importance to the public than those which they cite.

It did not state that no provision was made for the fireproofing of the stairs and stair halls in such buildings. For more than twenty years firemen have constantly pointed out the serious menace to life which exists in this city because of the dangerous construction of stair halls in old-law tenement houses. In most of these houses the stairs and stair halls are of wood enclosed with stud, lath and plaster partitions. The result is that fire starting in the cellar sweeps almost instantly throughout the entire height of the building, cutting off all means of egress except the fire escapes. Hundreds of lives have been lost in this city in recent years because of this dangerous type of construction. This bill proposes to add many thousands of buildings for tenement purposes with exactly the same type of construction. While these buildings may have been considered sufficiently safe for one family, they are deplorably unsafe for the use of four families.

The article made no reference to the fact that as such houses may be sixty feet in depth they will contain a space in the center twenty feet or more in depth for the lighting and ventilation, of which no provision is made. Such a space will, sooner or later, be used illegally for living purposes. It would not be possible for the Tenement House Department, with the numerous other duties it has to perform, to effectively prevent such illegal use.

It did state that: "Proper provision is made for fireproofing, for air shafts, for lighting and ventilation and for other details." How does the Committee reconcile this statement with the facts before mentioned? Is an air shaft containing only twenty-five square feet which may be only four feet wide, adequate for light and ventilation for a building fifty feet in height? It has been pointed out that the proportion which this air shaft bears to a building twenty feet wide and sixty feet deep is the same as that which a postage stamp bears to a large legal envelope.

There are other objections to the bill both as to form and substance which there is not space to develop. These criticisms are made in the interest of such of your readers as may seriously wish to get a fair view of the subject.

JOHN J. MURPHY.

The Housing Problem.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

A challenge not only to the sound judgment, but to the idealism of the American business man, lies in what has come to be called the "industrial housing problem." Behind these matter-of-fact words is a world of vital significance affecting the greater, more efficient, more beautiful America, for which forward-looking men are beginning, in a large way, to plan.

The solution lies neither in sentiment alone nor in unmitigated business sense. It is comprehended, however, in that mixture of the two qualities which makes for the greatest social value and personal success in industry.

The practice of providing suitable homes for workers is in its infancy in America. England has solved the problem with characteristic British slowness and thoroughness. The war, however, has been the "Great Precipitator." The housing problem in the United States has been moved up at least a generation. Where yesterday it was with many industrial organizations a matter of sentiment or casual experiment, today it is a problem of grim necessity.

There is no need to point out the obvious fact that the competition for labor in the United States is stiffening daily. The appeals for conscription of labor, the efforts of manufacturers to prevent competitive bidding for labor, the general but usually mistaken complaint of labor shortage—all bear witness to this fact. Far more practicable than all the solutions thus far offered is proper housing.

Home ties mean contentment. If they do not they are not ties for long. They mean attachment to locality; they mean a vital interest in the community; they mean, most of all, a sense of security, which implies permanence, comfort and enthusiasm in one's surroundings.

The problem of housing, then, is, first of all, one for the employer. It is also one for the community, and particularly for those members of the community who profit most by its healthy, sound and consistent growth.

The new world contact which has been thrust upon us within the last few years brings an obligation to create a new, more beautiful, more efficient, more glorious America. The foundation of that America must be labor—

QUERY DEPARTMENT.

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 310.—Can a man dispose of real property without the consent of guardian, appointed by the surrogate, of minor children?
C. O.

Answer No. 310.—The wording of this question is confusing in its present form and difficult to intelligently answer. If the property intended to be "disposed of" is that of an infant, the statute authorizing the sale of an infant's real property requires the application to be brought upon the petition of the general guardian or guardian of the property of the infant. The court is not bound, however, to appoint such guardian the special guardian to execute the conveyance. C. C. P., Sec. 2349.

Question No. 311.—Is it legal for a notary public, husband of one of the parties in a partition action, to acknowledge his wife's signature on quit claim deed?
F. C. M.

Answer No. 311.—There is no statute prohibiting a notary public from taking his wife's acknowledgment to her deed to which he is not a party, and while sometimes done it is not a practice generally approved by careful conveyancers.

well-paid, contented labor; and only such labor can be depended upon in the period of all-inclusive readjustments and reconstruction, which may be thrust upon us at any time by the end of the world war. Proper housing—housing that, no matter who the laborer or what his habits, creates the permanent home sense—will be an important determining factor in the situation.

We have built our nation by aid to homesteading farmers. One of our chief privileges and obligations today is to apply ourselves to the problem of adequately homing, not housing, labor to the future greatness and glory of America.

Business Readjustment to War.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States will hold its sixth annual meeting at the Congress Hotel, Chicago, Ill., April 10, 11 and 12. The dominant note of the meeting will be "Business Readjustment to War."

The four critical questions of the day—financing the war, railroads, centralized control of industry, and shipping—will be considered from the two-fold point of view of filling the government's requirements, but with the minimum disturbance to private industry.

There are more than one thousand local chambers of commerce and commercial organizations comprising the membership of the National Chamber of Commerce, which includes even such distant bodies as the American Chambers of Commerce at Shanghai, the Philippines, Alaska, Hawaii, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, London, Paris, and some half dozen other cities abroad, and each of the 1,000 local members will be represented at Chicago by authorized delegates.

The resolutions of the meeting may truly be said to be an accurate and authoritative expression from American business, and the fullest possible measure of cooperation between business and the government may be expected to result. As in the past, the speakers will be men of national position.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Seventh Avenue Owners Enter Protest— Important Bills Considered At Albany

INTEREST is being focused on Albany, where a number of important measures are up for consideration. Some of these bills are of a constructive nature, while others, if enacted in law, would work untold hardship on real estate. The question of finding means for relieving real estate of some of its burden is engrossing a good deal of attention at the present time, the flat rate tax bill being one of the solutions and the imposing of a collectable tax on personality another.

Chief Doyle, of the Bureau of Fire Prevention, made a new ruling, which meets the approval of Fire Commissioner Drennan. There has been created within the Bureau of Fire Prevention a separate board, to be known as "The Board of Review," this Board to consist of the Chief of the Bureau of Fire Prevention, Chairman; the Deputy Chief of Department, detailed to the Bureau of Fire Prevention; Deputy Chief, Bureau of Fire Prevention, Manhattan; the Supervising Inspector, and the Secretary to Fire Commissioner.

The duties of this Board are to hear and, if possible, promptly adjust all claims for modification, or, where justified, the rescinding of orders issued by the Bureau of Fire Prevention; to advise and counsel appellants, and thus, where possible, obviate the necessity of petitions and appeals to the Board of Standards and Appeals and the Board of Appeals, and when impossible to grant relief directly on account of the mandatory provisions of law to recommend the conclusions and findings of the Board of Review to such bodies.

As the practice stands now, owners, appellants and other parties affected by the rulings of the Bureau of Fire Prevention have no redress except by appeals to the Board of Standards and Appeals and the Board of Appeals. This appeal to be effective requires in many cases that the appellant be represented before that Board with data and documentary evidence. This appeal necessitates loss of time, as well as money and frequently works a hardship upon the appellant, which it is the intention of the Board of Review to render unnecessary in the great majority of cases.

The Board of Review meets Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week, at half-past two o'clock, to hear complaints, investigate them at once by re-inspection, if necessary, and endeavor to promptly provide relief. The purpose of the Board as created shall be understood as a measure of efficiency, seeking to afford relief in all cases where conditions justify and the mandatory provisions of the law does not prohibit.

Last Thursday, several important properties were put on the auction block. At the stand of Arthur C. Sheridan the Lexington Avenue Opera House was sold to the Manhattan Life Insurance Company on a bid of $450,000. The judgment amounted to about $520,000. The building, which is under lease to the Chicago Opera Association, measures 58 feet on Lexington avenue and 220 feet in 51st street.

At the Vesey Street Salesroom last Thursday a large crowd attended the auction sale of the holdings of the Loretta Corporation, which held title to the property owned by the Jarmulowsky family of bankers. Joseph P. Day conducted the sale. A detailed statement of the result of this sale will be found in the Second Section of this issue of the Record and Guide.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P Goldman, Chairman

Broker's Compensation.

IN a broker's action for the reasonable value of his services in the sale of real estate the defendant defended on the ground that there was an express agreement as to the amount of the compensation. His actual claim was that this agreement was made after the broker had begun to render services under the original contract of employment. The Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors held, Jackson v. Lacy, 162 Atl. 584, that the burden of proof remained on the plaintiff throughout the case to prove by a fair preponderance of all the evidence that at the time of the original employment the parties were silent as to the amount of compensation, but the burden of proof was on the defendant to establish the claimed modification of the original contract; and judgment for the plaintiff was affirmed.

Specific Performance.

An owner by a bond for deed agreed to convey by a good and sufficient warranty deed, with usual covenants, immediately on receipt from the purchaser of the stipulated price, which the purchaser agreed to pay, performance to be on or before a specified date. In a suit for specific performance the Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors, Stierle v. Rayner, 102 Atl. 581, holds that the covenants of each party were mutual and dependent, demanding of each readiness and willingness to perform, and requiring as a condition of judicial enforcement or breach at the complaint of either such readiness and willingness on his part or a showing of sufficient excuse for their absence. "Readiness to perform" on the part of a property owner who gave bond for deed, to entitle him to specific performance against the other party, was readiness to convey an unincumbered title on the date specified for performance, a time which he could not extend.

Purchase at Foreclosure.

The purchaser under mortgage foreclosure sale under power acquires only the mortgagor's estate, which, under a second mortgage, is the equity of redemption; and where the first mortgage is of record, and the second mortgage refers thereto, the purchaser takes subject to the first mortgage. If such purchaser pays off a prior mortgage he cannot credit such payment on the purchase price, and is not entitled to subrogation to the rights of the prior mortgage.—Brunette v. Myette, Rhode Island Supreme Court, 102 Atl. 520.

Recovery of Purchase Price.

In an action to recover a sum paid on account of the purchase price of land it appeared that the defendant agreed to convey a tract of land free from all incumbrances. The defendant's title was subject to a reservation, contained in all the deeds of conveyance since 1805, which excepted out of the tract conveyed a lot, "heretofore given and granted by a former owner of the land, for the purpose of erecting and building a schoolhouse thereon for the accommodation of the neighborhood." The New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals holds, Rentler v. Ramsin, 102 Atl. 351, that this exception was an incumbrance on the land contracted to be conveyed, and that the plaintiff was justified in refusing to accept a deed for the land, to be conveyed subject to the exception, in execution of the contract, and was entitled to recover money paid on account of the purchase price when the contract was made.

George F. Johnson.

George F. Johnson, 77 years old, widely known New York City real estate operator and owner, died at his home, the Chatsworth Annex, 340 West 72d street, Wednesday morning as the result of a fall against a speeding automobile at 63d street and Broadway a week ago. Mr. Johnson was the only son of Frederick Johnson and Margaret Forrest Johnson, and a grandson of Lieutenant-Commander William Johnson, who was active in the war of 1812 as a commander of a United States man-of-war.

The Johnson family has been known for generations as big real estate operators in New York City. The father and grandfather dealt largely in tracts throughout Manhattan Island. Thirty years ago Mr. Johnson saw the coming growth of the city and bought large tracts in the Bronx, developed them and sold them at large profits. At the time of his death he was the president of the corporation which owns the Chatsworth Annex, at 72d street and Riverside Drive. He was associated with the Brady interests and with C. K. G. Billings in building office buildings.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 30 as against 35 last week and 30 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 13 as compared with 17 last week and 10 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 17 as compared with 18 last week and 20 a year ago.

From the Bronx 14 sales at private contract were reported as against 12 last week and 15 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 360 of this issue.

Obtains Option to Buy.

Robert Schalkenbach obtained from 119-125 West Twelfth Street Company and Sidney P. Strongin an option to buy the six-story apartment house, now nearing completion, at that address. Mr. Schalkenbach paid $10,000 on the contract, and title is to be taken any time within two years from the date of the issuance of the final certificate of occupancy of the premises by the Tenement House Department. The agreement stipulates that the buyer advance an additional $7,500 prior to April 15, the total sum of $17,500 to be used for the completion of the structure. The operation was started by William Lustgarten and work was halted on his disappearance last August. Up to that time the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company had advanced $67,000, being part of the building and permanent loan of $95,000 contracted for. The Metropolitan Life Company foreclosed its lien last month, the property being taken over at auction by the present selling company, which, it is said, represents material men. The structure occupies a plot 75x103.3 feet, and replaced the old Second United Presbyterian Church.

Banker Buys on Lenox Hill.

Payson McL. Merrill sold for Daniel F. Kellogg, 54 East 68th street, a five-story American basement dwelling, on lot 20 x 100 feet. The building was erected about five years ago from designs prepared by Donn Barber. Directly opposite is the residence of Percy Pyne, at the northwest corner of Park avenue. It is reported that the structure cost to erect, exclusive of the land value, about $150,000.

Activity in Front Street.

Charles F. Noyes Company sold for Ida B. Harris to Kuhne-Libby Co., 53 Front street, southeast corner of Cuylers alley, a five-story loft building on a lot 22x70. The purchasers obtained through the same brokers a year ago the adjoining property, 51 Front street, and now control a corner plot of about 4,000 square feet at this point. As soon as leases expire the new building will be altered, the space added to the adjoining property and the entire premises used by Kuhne-Libby on account of the expansion of their business during the past few years. Title to 53 Front street has remained with the sellers for more than one hundred years and this is the first transfer of the property during this period. This sale emphasizes the purchasing of buildings by firms who have heretofore leased quarters on the lower East Side. Originally Kuhne-Libby Co. was located at 60 Water street, which building was sold by the Noyes Company to Young & Griffin Co., who afterwards resold to William R. Grace & Co. The transaction is the eleventh sale made by the Noyes Company for occupancy purposes in the same general neighborhood during the last few months. Salter & Steinkamp represented the seller and W. A. Beebe represented the purchasers.

Another Sale in Front Street.

Markham Realty Corporation, Clarence W. Eckhardt, president, bought through Horace S. Ely & Company, from Wolcott G. Lane, the five-story structure on a plot 40x92, at 46 to 48 Front street, located 51 feet north of Coenties Slip. The leases on the property expire next May. A couple of weeks ago the same company bought 128 Water street with an "L" to 81 Pine street; also the two loft buildings at 502 and 504 West Broadway.

Woman Investor Buys.

Fannie Schlesinger purchased from Frederick Brown, 1236 and 1244 Grand boulevard and Concourse, two five-story apartment houses, each on a plot 77.13 x104.8, located 230 feet north of 167th street. Each building is arranged for thirty families, with three, four and five room suites. The houses are fully rented at more than $26,000 a year and were held at $210,000. Herbert Freyman was the broker. This deal completes the resale by Mr. Brown of four similar structures acquired by him last January from Adelstein & Avrutine, the builders. The two other houses at 1220 and 1228 were resold by Mr. Brown on March 9 to the Irwin Realty Company. This deal involved properties in Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Bayshore, L. I., and Deal Beach, N. J.

Trade Involves About $600,000.

Nason Realty Company, Max N. Natanson, sold to Julius Tishman & Sons the northeast corner of Broadway and 83d street, two five-story buildings, and a one-story building, the combined plot measuring 104 feet on Broadway and 114 feet in 83d street. The new owner contemplates the improving of the site with a tall apartment house. The seller bought the corner last September from the Peter Doelger Brewing Company, held at that time at $400,000. In part payment the purchaser gives the six-story tenements with stores at 218 to 220 Division street, southeast corner of Clinton, 90 x 80 x irregular; the southwest corner of Sheriff and Broome streets, a six-story tenement with stores, on lot 25 x 75; also 162 West 80th street, a four-story dwelling, 23 x 100 feet, and 25 West 90th street, a five-story American basement house, 17 x 100 feet. W. S. Baker and H. J. Kantrowitz were the brokers.

Century Building Purchased.

Franklin Pettit bought the Century Building, 74 Broadway, through to 9 and 11 New street, between Exchange place and Wall street, from the Century Building Company, Peter Marie, president, which valued the property at $1,500,000. The structure is twenty-one stories high, and occupies a plot fronting 45.6 feet on Broadway, 44.7 feet in New street, and has north and south lines of 112 and 117.2 feet, respectively. Lewis B. Preston, Inc., was the broker. The selling company erected the building in 1901 from plans by Bruce Price, who estimated the cost at $900,000. The site was obtained in that year from Peter Marie, for $1,100,000. The Title Guarantee & Trust Company made the building loan. Last year the property was assessed for $1,250,000, of which $950,000 was on the land.

Operator Buys in Bronx.

Frederick Brown bought from the Antremont Realty Corporation, representing Theodore T. Wood, the northwest corner of Anthony avenue and 176th street, a five-story apartment house on a plot 98x70x97x81 feet, having accommodations for thirty-two families; also 314 East Tremont avenue, near Anthony avenue, a similar building, with two stores, containing forty apartments, arranged for eight families on a floor. The site measures 66x87x80 x100 feet. The houses were erected by Henry Cleland. They are fully tenanted, the rent roll being about $25,000 annually. They were held at $210,000. Arthur Knox and Julius H. Zeiser were the attorneys. From the Sirius Realty Company, of which Mr. Wood is president, Mr. Brown bought the two five-story apartment houses, occupying the block front in the east side of Faile street, between Westchester avenue and 165th street. The 165th street building accommodates twenty-seven families and contains seven stores, and occupies a plot 82x100 feet. The Westchester avenue building is arranged for twenty-eight families with three stores, and measures 91x100x irregular. The buildings are completely rented, the rent roll aggregating about $33,000. They were held at $260,000. Alexander Selkin and David Mintz were the brokers.

Edgecombe Avenue Deal.

J. J. Schwartz and F. Hauben sold for the Hanover Mortgage Company, 180 Edgecombe avenue, at the junction of Bradhurst avenue and 142d street, a six-story elevator structure, having frontages of 190.4, 20.3 and 188.9 feet, respectively. The north dimension is 72.2 feet. The structure accommodates thirty-six families, and rents for about $21,000 a year. It was held at $190,000.

Dyckman Street Apartment Sold.

Nehring Brothers sold for Virginia S. Haddock to Ennis & Sinnott, 114 and 116 Nagle avenue, a twenty-five family, new-law apartment house with stores, on plot 40 x 130 feet, adjoining the corner of Arden street. In part payment the purchaser gave 303 to 307 West 139th street, three three-story private dwellings, on plot 51 x 100, recently acquired from May McFarland. The Nason Company resold to Jay Herman, 162 West 80th street.

EVERY owner of real estate in New York, every rent payer, has a vital interest in the proposition to charge a six-cent fare for the period of the war on all street railway lines, subway, elevated and surface.

Either the people who ride on the subway and elevated must pay the interest on the City's investment of $250,000,000 in the Dual System, or it must be paid out of taxes.

The Interborough's contract with the City provides that after operating expenses are paid, the Company shall receive its preferential. It is not until this has been paid in full that the City will receive any return from fares to meet the interest charges on its investment. The other contracts the City has relating to the Dual System are on the same basis. A five-cent fare during this period of extraordinary operating costs will defer any return to the City from the operation of its lines.

It is estimated that with a five-cent fare, the City will for a period of from five to seven years face an annual deficit of at least $11,250,000 in the operation of the Dual System. Some people believe that, due to war conditions and the uncertainty of the times, this deficit will reach $20,000,000.

Every $10,000,000 increase in the City's tax budget must mean a five per cent increase in the tax rate. A $20,000,000 deficit will mean a 10 per cent increase in the tax rate.

This deficit of from $11,000,000 to $20,000,000 as variously estimated, can be provided for in only one of two ways; either by putting the burden on the taxpayer in the one case, or on the fare-payer in the other. If put on the taxpayer it will fall on the real estate owners of the City—already bending under enormous tax burdens which have been put upon them to the extent that many of the best-located properties in the City are to-day selling at one-half their assessed valuations.

The real estate owners must, in turn, pass as large a proportion as they can to the tenants occupying their property, with the result that if the burden is put on the taxpayer it will wholly fall on the citizens of New York; who work in New York—who make their living in New York—who spend their incomes in New York—who pay their taxes in New York—the vital members of the community that keep New York alive and growing.

If, however, a policy is determined upon of putting this burden on the fare-payer, it is estimated there are 300,000 strangers from all over the world daily using the transportation facilities of New York, in addition to hundreds of thousands of commuters from nearby States, who make their money in New York, but spend their money outside New York; who pay their taxes outside of New York, and are not an integral portion of New York life.

We have offered to put the Dual System contract into effect simultaneously with the 6c fare. This will preclude the Interborough from receiving one dollar of additional revenue as a result of the bill.

Frankly, our interest in this measure is two-fold:

First, to insure the current payment of the Interborough's preferential, under its contract with the City, which, in any event, would have to ultimately be paid out of future earnings, with compound interest.

Second, to insure sufficient earnings by the surface lines of the New York Railways to keep them out of bankruptcy. Bankruptcy, as you know, would result in splitting up the lines into the original companies, and would abolish transfers entirely.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

ENCOURAGING signs of a revival in building activity have been noted during the past week, and although the major portion of the work consists of relatively small operations the total volume of new construction is important. Furthermore, the situation gives promise of a steady growth throughout the spring and summer months. Undoubtedly the recent favorable weather has had much to do with the increased amount of building placed under contract, and were it not for the serious deterrents to structural work in the form of excessively high material prices, scarcity of labor, and difficulties of transportation there is every reason to feel that the building industry in all of its phases would have prospered.

Quite a large percentage of the new work recently contracted for or for which plans are now being prepared is located in the suburban districts, in close proximity to New York. The outlying portions of the city are also well represented, although not to the extent that was anticipated some weeks ago. In Manhattan there have been some operations of importance lately placed under contract, and others are being estimated upon, but the bulk of the active construction is confined to alterations and extensions to old buildings. However, this character of building represents a large total expenditure, and were it not for them the building trades would be worse off than they are at present.

A part of the structural work scheduled for erection in Manhattan is held up temporarily pending a settlement of the strike of the building laborers. Although nothing definite has been announced there is a likelihood that this situation will be cleared up during the coming week, and a general resumption of work should naturally follow. This strike has tied up practically every brick job in the city with the exception of the Government building projects, and a settlement would be welcomed by all of the building interests.

Common Brick.—The Hudson River common brick market has not been particularly active during the past week. The increase in building construction does not seem to have reached the wholesale dealers as yet mostly for the reason that there is considerable brick in the yards of the retailers about the Metropolitan district. Owing to the lack of demand prices have weakened somewhat, and at present quotations range from $10 to $10.25 a thousand, alongside dock. Four barge loads were taken out of the market during the past week. The first tow of the season arrived this week, with five barges coming down from Haverstraw. Although the Hudson is open to navigation to Poughkeepsie and stone barges are coming through from Clinton Point, it will be a while still before brick is brought in from points north of Haverstraw Bay. The Raritan brick market is practically dormant, and no quotations are being made on this product for New York deliveries.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, March 22, 1918: Condition of market: Demand slight; prices weaker. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10 to $10.25 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots, alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 5; sales, 4. Distribution: Manhattan, 1; New Jersey points, 2; Yonkers, 1.

Face Brick.—Manufacturers and dealers report that there is considerable new and profitable business in sight, but that they are compelled to hold off owing to the manufacturing difficulties and uncertainty of deliveries within a

The situation as applied to the program of Federal housing is slowly developing. This is a task of gigantic proportions, and requires much thought and study. Therefore it would not pay to rush into contracts for this type of work only to discover that the requirements were for structures of a different character and that previous work must be changed owing to plan revision. Some contracts have already been awarded, and these are an excellent indication of the scope of the work involved. The major part of the Government housing is yet to be contracted for, and it will most likely be some time before all of the arrangements are completed.

The program of strictly military construction is rapidly advancing, and the work already contracted for is progressing in strict accordance with the schedule. Almost daily new operations are being announced, and only during the past week an entirely new phase of war construction has been announced. This is the buildings required by the National Red Cross, and consists of a large number of structures, to be erected according to a standardized plan, in various cities. Contracts for these will soon be let.

Through the increase in activity in the suburbs and outlying districts of Greater New York the building material markets and the dealers in supplies have experienced better business during the past week or two. Sales have been somewhat more frequent, and material prices are generally well sustained. Common brick is practically the only building commodity that has indicated any signs of price weakening, and the situation in this market has not been to an extent that will have any effect upon building construction. As a matter of fact there is a general feeling throughout the building industry that practically all material prices will be further advanced as the spring and summer months pass, and that the present time is a most favorable one for the prospective builder to commence active operations.

stated time. Coal is scarce and labor uncertain. Should the face brick industry be relieved from some of these deterrents the outlook for the coming season would be materially brighter. Face brick prices are firm.

Structural Steel.—The steel industry is practically marking time pending the results of the hearings between the manufacturers and the War Industries Board, now being held in Washington. A new scale of steel prices, involving a considerable increase over the current figures, has been asked, effective on and after March 31, when the present scale expires. There has been but a limited amount of new business registered for private construction, although there are a number of important operations out for estimates that, if let soon, will have a tendency to alter the market situation. Government construction remains as the dominant factor in the market for fabricated material, and there are bright prospects of increased orders from this source. The Quartermaster Department is preparing its schedules for material to be used in the erection of a number of piers, storage warehouses and other structures on the Atlantic seaboard, and there is still a considerable amount of tonnage to come from other departments for military and naval building work. According to the report of the Bridge Builders and Structural Society for the month of February 55½ per cent. of the total capacity of the bridge and structural shops of the country was contracted for.

Lumber.—Although there has been a slight increase in the demand for lumber for building purposes, particularly from suburban districts, the volume of business from this source will be much less than in previous years, and the manufacturers and dealers are looking for their market to that form of construction made possible as a result of military maintenance and supply and the work directly under the various Governmental departments. There is a fair amount of alteration and repair work in progress, and the business from this source is considered satisfactory; but there is no bright prospect that this type of activity will last for any great length of time. While the transportation situation is still unsatisfactory there has been a slight improvement in the movement of freight, and there is a good prospect for an enlarged volume of lumber traffic over the rails entering New York. Lumber prices remain firm, with a steadily rising tendency where deliveries can be made. With a reduced output this year, owing to the scarcity of labor, both in the woods and at the mills, there seems to be no possibility of price recessions.

Cast Iron Pipe.—There has been a large volume of Government business recently placed, and the manufacturers are anticipating busy times during the next few months. The most important of the Federal requirements included 5,000 tons of cast iron pipe for the new powder plant under construction at Charleston, W. Va. Although there is a considerable amount of new municipal business in sight cast iron pipe manufacturers are greatly disturbed over the possibility that the Government will regulate the issuance of bonds for work of this character and only permit such improvements as are absolutely essential to the health of the communities. Government prices remain as follows: 6 in., 8 in. and heavier, $55.35; 4 in., $58.35, in carload lots, New York.

Portland Cement.—Probably the most important feature of the Portland cement market situation is the rumored advance in the price of this commodity. There has been a feeling for some time that the steadily advancing manufacturing costs and the increased prices for bags would result in higher prices to the trade. It is now expected that the advance will be in the neighborhood of 40c. a barrel, bringing the price of this material up to $2.55, New York, in lots of 1,000 barrels or more. At present it is indefinite when the advance will become effective, but the announcement is likely to be made at almost any time. There is but slight activity in sales, the bulk of the current business coming from Federal sources.

Wire Products.—There is only a moderate new demand for wire and wire nails, and the outlook for the spring and summer is not particularly bright in these lines. There is a rumor current that unless the demand materially improves there will likely be revision in prices to some extent. The Federal Government recently took bids on 12,000 kegs of wire nails for use in its construction work. Control prices are still ruling all quotations, and these will be effective until April 1.

Linseed Oil.—Although the market situation is quiet and the demand is unseasonably light, oil prices are steadily advancing, the current range being an increase of 5c. a gallon over the figure that maintained one week ago. As the domestic supplies are light and almost entirely taken by the western crushers, and there is extreme difficulty in obtaining bottoms for the transportation of flaxseed from Argentine, there is no great prospect of a recession in prices for some time.

NEW TOWN HALL FOR HEMPSTEAD, L. I.

Structure To Cost About $100,000

MUNICIPAL building construction at present occupies a prominent position among that work active or contemplated for an early start, and some of these projects represent large expenditures of public funds, in addition to being structures of considerable architectural merit. The proposed town hall for the village of Hempstead, L. I., to cost nearly $100,000, stands out prominently in that group of municipal work contemplated for an early start.

Harper Park, in Hempstead, which has been selected as the site of this new structure, contains approximately four acres of land, which will be developed and planted so as to provide a harmonious setting for the building. Working plans are being completed in the office of Steward Wagner, architect, 7 East 42d street, Manhattan, who ment, and tower rising to a height of seventy-five feet above grade. This tower will include a four-dial clock, to be illuminated at night. The facades will be constructed of red face brick, with trimmings of Indiana limestone. The foundations will be of concrete, and all floors and partitions will be of fireproof materials. The building will have a frontage of 125 feet, and will be about 82 feet in extreme depth.

The basement will provide space for the heating plant, coal storage, a group of five cells, men's public toilet and lavatory, storage vaults and extensive unassigned storage space. On the first floor will be the main entrance, lobby and corridor and offices for the Department of Taxes, with separate offices for the Tax Collector, Board of Supervisors, Town Clerk, Board of Audit and three large fireproof vaults for books and was selected as the winner of the competition recently held for the design of this building. The plans have been developed to provide a structure in the Colonial style. This is particularly adaptable to Hempstead, as the village contains a number of buildings—relics of Colonial days—that are of rare architectural beauty. The proposed building will be two stories in height, with base-records. The second floor will contain a large courtroom, judges' chambers, jury room, consultation room, offices for the Department of Highways, Overseers of the Poor, Trustees of the Public Cemetery and women's rest rooms, toilets and lavatories. The working plans for this operation are now being prepared, and contracts will be advertised for during the coming months.

Trinity Ready to Build.

Trinity Corporation has made the announcement that it will consider erecting two or three substantial fireproof buildings in Varick street, adjoining the West Houston street station of the new Seventh avenue subway line, for tenants who will take long-term leases. The corporation will build either office buildings or lofts, and expects to get about $1.10 a square foot for the former and 60c. for the latter space. The widening and extension of Seventh avenue has created a field for operations of this kind to care for the overflow from the financial and commercial sections further downtown. The shortage of space along the various subway lines is acute, the demand being far greater than the supply. The corporation is heartily in favor of any workable plan by which the assessment levied in the Seventh avenue section would be paid by the city, either through the issue of bonds or stock.

The Board of Appeals.

Twenty-five Building Bureau and Fire Department cases were on the calendar of the Board of Appeals when that body met on Tuesday afternoon. Twenty-four of these cases were appeals under the Building Zone Resolution, which prohibits the erection of public garages in a residence district. Six appeals were withdrawn, six dismissed, two granted, two laid over and eight denied. A request for reconsideration was also denied. The Board adopted the policy of dismissing all appeals where appellant fails to appear, and also decided to hold the regular sessions in the morning, at 10:30 o'clock, instead of in the afternoon, as heretofore.

A resolution adopted by the Board of Appeals some months ago, in which it is held that the expression "interior partition wall," as used in §72, subdivision 1, paragraph e, of the Building Code, is not equivalent to either of the terms, "fire wall" or "fire partition," as defined respectively in §371 and §372 of the Building Code, and that such interior partition walls are not required to extend above the roof.

It was not the intention, in the revision of the Building Code, to make the requirements with respect to interior walls in tenement houses (to which this provision especially, though not exclusively, applies) any more severe than the provisions of §31 of the old code (Building Code of 1899) with respect to fore and aft partition walls. It will be noted that the difference in the two terms consists in the use of "interior" for the older expression "fore and aft," which latter expression has lost its significance in the tenement houses of the present day. Incidentally, it may be added that interior walls, referred to in §72, Building Code, are continuous walls, with necessary door openings only, intersecting at both ends with other lawful masonry walls. Isolated sections of masonry walls cannot be properly construed as interior walls.

Architects Hold Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the New York Society of Architects was held last Wednesday evening in the United Engineering Societies' Building, 29 West 39th street. In the absence of the president, Adam E. Fisher, vice-president, occupied the chair. There was a large attendance of members, and several accessions to the membership of the society were announced. The finances of this organization are in a prosperous condition, in a large measure due to the revenue derived from the year book, which is a work of reference and of high value to the profession. John P. Leo, one of the members of this society, was heartily congratulated upon his appointment as the new chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals, and the organization will further recognize this event by a dinner, now being arranged, at which Mr. Leo will be the guest of honor.

Large Newark, N. J., Apartment.

E. V. Warren, architect, Essex Building, Newark, N. J., is preparing the working drawings for a four-story apartment, to accommodate a total of forty-nine families, to be located on Roseville avenue, between Park and Sixth avenues, Newark, N. J. The owner of this operation is Charles Herbert Walker, Union Building, Newark. The ground dimensions of this building are approximately 100x127 feet, and the facades will be face brick with trimmings of limestone. The cost is approximately $150,000.

Plan New Jersey Church and School.

F. J. Schwartz, architect, with offices in the Colt Building, Paterson, has been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for the new church and parochial school to be erected in 8th street, Passaic, N. J., for the Holy Rosary Roman Catholic Church. This operation will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. Definite details are not available at this time, and will be announced in a later issue of the Record and Guide.

Plans for Clubhouse.

James Gamble Rogers, architect, 470 Fourth avenue, Manhattan, is preparing the preliminary sketches for the proposed clubhouse at Bayside, L. I., for the Oakland Golf Club. The structure will be built of stone and brick and will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000. Complete details of construction have not yet been decided upon and it will be some time before the working plans are completed and ready for estimates.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

J. E. Woodwell, consulting engineer, will move his offices, from 8 West 40th street, to 501 Fifth avenue, April 1.

Raymond E. Brown, contracting engineer, has opened an office at 90 West street for Heyl & Patterson, Inc., Pittsburgh, builders of special cranes.

Harry W. Alexander, director of publicity for the Society for Electrical Development, New York, recently resigned to become identified with the American Writing Paper Company. Six-cent Fares or Higher Realty Taxes?

Theodore P. Shonts and Laurence McGuire Outline Serious Condition Which Confronts Property-Owners in the Metropolis.

BY THEODORE P. SHONTS,

President Interborough Rapid Transit Company and
New York Railways Company.

BY LAURENCE MCGUIRE,

President of the Real Estate Board of New York.

EVERY owner of real estate in New York, every rent payer, has a vital interest in the proposition to charge a six cent fare for the period of the war on all street railway lines, subway, elevated and surface.

Either the people who ride on the subway and elevated must pay the interest on the city's investment of $250,000,000 in the Dual System or it must be paid out of taxes.

The Interborough's contract with the city provides that after operating expenses are paid the company shall receive its preferential. It is not until this has been paid in full that the city will receive any return from fares to meet the interest charges on its investment. The other contracts the city has relating to the Dual System are on the same basis. A five-cent fare during this period of extraordinary operating costs will defer any return to the city from the operation of its lines.

It is estimated that, with a five-cent fare, the city will for a period of from five to seven years face an annual deficit of at least $11,250,000 in the operation of the Dual System. Some people believe that, due to war conditions and the uncertainty of the times, this deficit will reach $20,000,000.

Every $10,000,000 increase in the city's tax budget must mean a five per cent. increase in the tax rate. A $20,000,000 deficit will mean a 10 per cent. increase in the tax rate.

This deficit of from $11,000,000 to $20,000,000, as variously estimated, can be provided for in only one of two ways; either by putting the burden on the taxpayer in the one case, or on the fare-payer in the other.

The tax rates in the Borough of Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn for the ten years 1908 to 1918 are given below:

	Manhattan	Bronx	Brooklyn
1909.....	1.67804%	1.67804%	1.73780%
1910.....	1.75790	1.75790	1.81499
1911.....	1.72248	1.72248	1.75502
1912.....	1.83	1.83	1.87
1913.....	1.81	1.81	1.85
1914.....	1.78	1.77	1.84
1915.....	1.87	1.94	1.92
1916.....	2.04	2.09	2.08
1918.....	2.36	2.40	2.40

We have offered to pool the earnings of the existing lines with the new lines as opened, simultaneously with the adoption of a six-cent fare. Our contract does not require this pooling until the lines are ready in the new East River tunnel. This offer is made to give the city at once the benefit of pooling before the new lines are in complete operation, and to preclude any claim that the Interborough will gain any financial advantage from the six-cent fare beyond an immediate instead of a deferred payment of its preferential.

Frankly, our interest in the measure is to secure the current payment of this preferential, and to insure sufficient earnings to keep the surface lines out of bankruptcy.

THERE would seem to be no question that there will be a deficit in the operation of the Dual Subway System with a five-cent fare. Of this we are assured by those best qualified to make an estimate. Nothing can be gained at this time by criticism of the contract entered into as between the city and the operating company. It is, however, fair to state that the city's initial venture into municipal, or semi-municipal operation of transit lines, cannot be used as an argument in behalf of complete municipal ownership and operation. Facing this deficit as we are should be sufficient warning to those advocating municipal ownership. In any event, it should bring forcibly to the minds of real estate owners the necessity for combating further attempts at municipal ownership.

What is of importance at the minute is that there will be a deficit, and that, under the contracts, this deficit must be met by the city and not the operating company as it has a preferential on the earnings. Not only has it a preferential, but its dividends are cumulative. The amount of the deficit has been variously estimated. Assuming that it will be $15,000,000, it must be apparent that if this amount is to be covered by additional taxes on real estate, there will be added from this one source approximately 18 points to the present tax rate.

This means, all other things being equal, that the rate will increase from 2.36 to 2.54. The intolerable burden under which real estate is staggering will thus be greatly increased. It will not be possible for land owners to pass this increased burden to the rent payers. Rentals cannot be advanced with the rapidity at which taxes are mounting. Of one thing we can feel quite sure and that is the owners of vacant or unproductive property cannot pass this burden on to others.

It was stated at the time the city entered into the Dual Subway contracts that the opening of these subways would greatly enhance values in outlying districts and the city, therefore, would enjoy additional revenue through increased assessed valuation. Unfortunately the completion of the tubes coincides with the period of stagnation in building, due to the war. Conditions were not good before the country entered the war. Since, however, the National Government has practically placed an embargo on building operations not essential to the conduct of the war. Those who took on speculative commitments in anticipation of profit through the operation of the tubes will, of necessity, have to contribute a large portion of the operating deficit.

It is a question at this time of the ability of those owning unproductive property to take on any additional burden. Recent city tax sales would seem to indicate that the city itself may become possessed of more unproductive land than it can comfortably carry.

The foregoing and other cogent reasons make it imperative that the deficit should be met without further additions to the now exceedingly heavy taxes. It would seem to me that this might be best done by granting

When in Need, Build

A Constructive Analysis of Secretary McAdoo's Recent Communications

By F. T. MILLER

President of the F. W. Dodge Company

EVERY thoughtful and patriotic citizen supports the Secretary of the Treasury in his desire to preserve the poise of business, conserve capital and resources, and increase the wealth-producing power of the Nation, subject to war priorities, as well as his desire to encourage thrift. But in the heat of the campaigns for raising war loans, encouragement of thrift has naturally been given the greatest publicity.

In his letter of March 15th to Mr. Samuel Gompers Secretary McAdoo writes, "The successful financing of the war depends * * * upon the difference between what is made and what is spent." While in this letter the Secretary emphasizes the importance of saving and does not emphasize the importance of making, it would be only reasonable to assume that he believes the people already understand the importance of making, as money must be made before it can be saved.

The consumption of luxuries, "Business as Usual," on the one hand, and saving to the point of hoarding on the other, have both been widely advocated and as widely disproved. But the investment of the results of thrift in enterprises which will result in increased earning power and enduring wealth seems to be the sane middle ground and might be called "Business to Win."

As examples of extreme points of view, we may note two newspaper articles. One advocates the curtailment of construction of railroads, water power plants and the like, and the other advocates the purchase of diamond necklaces, automobiles, lavish dinners, etc. It is evident that the funds put into the water power plant would be transferred from the bank account of the owner to that of the contractor, his employees, their grocerymen, etc., and, barring hoarding which might occur through fear, the funds would still remain available for Government use; but a newly created factor,—the water power plant,—would also remain as a wealth producer for the community, while it is evident that the money put into the dinner would be transferred from the bank account of the diner to that of the hotel proprietor, his staff, supply dealers, etc., and there would remain to the community no wealth-producing factor.

It is unfortunate that the Secretary's letter to Mr. Gompers does not tell the building industry what to do, but what not to do.

If, rather than a negative, the building industry might place a positive and constructive interpretation upon this letter, then every patriotic man engaged in the building industry should engage in building operations primarily required "to protect the health and provide for the comfortable needs of our people," and in building operations required to facilitate our wealth-producing enterprises; for the making of money is necessary for the successful financing of the war, and money must be made through successful business enterprises.

It is to be regretted that the public statements of the Secretary of the Treasury have been followed by communications from officials of the Treasury and other Departments and from their local committees, which have had a tendency to suppress many wealth-producing enterprises at their source. These do not transmit a well-balanced interpretation of the Secretary's desire to maintain the poise of business, increase the wealth producing power of the nation, subject to war priorities, nor to his statement "that the successful financing of the war * * * depends upon the difference between what is made and what is spent."

Taken as a whole this publicity has given the impression that the war must be financed out of the past wealth and that some Governmental Departments desire to discourage constructive enterprises in order to free labor, material and capital for Government use.

The effect of this publicity upon the building industry which has been producing $2,000,000,000 annually in enduring, productive wealth and which has been gradually checked during the past few years by the increasing cost of labor and materials, until the luxury features have long since been eliminated, has been that building has dropped off fifty per cent. or more. Architects' offices are empty and building labor, except in a few eastern districts, is idle.

If only one-sixth of the building labor of the country is allowed to continue in idleness there is a consumption of the wealth of the country equal to that consumed by a million dollar dinner each day, without any remaining evidence of wealth or wealth producing factor to the community; the loss of wealth which otherwise might be produced for the community is nearly $2,000,000 per day.

This labor is highly specialized and divided into one hundred or more different trades or crafts, each of which requires different experience and mental and muscular development. Many of these men are mature and bound to their homes by family ties, and beyond the age of mental and physical readjustment. Even if this were not so, it would be impracticable to immediately shift this large volume of labor from the entire West to the congested districts of the East. If shifted, it could not be assimilated, because experience has shown that but a small percentage of the labor thus temporarily employed in new war industries can be assimilated. The shift, therefore, must be a gradual one and selective in character.

Surplus labor throughout the country is already more prevalent than is generally appreciated. The employment bureaus of the Labor Department, together with the proposed $250,000 travelling fund, can be depended upon only as a partial solution of the general labor problem in view of the difficulties of selection and assimilation, and particularly if the travelling fund is to be used largely for the transportation of agricultural labor, and if the prospective employer of this labor is to guarantee the repayment of travelling expenses.

In his letter to Mr. Gompers the Secretary of the Treasury writes, "There must be no waste." There can be no greater waste than that of idle labor, and it would seem that idle building artisans might well be allowed employment in producing wealth for the community, at least until they can be assimilated for Governmental use.

During the winter, building trades live upon their savings and credit. As spring approaches, after a dormant winter, their savings and credit become exhausted and unless the usual spring work, with its earning opportunities develops, hunger and want are inevitable. The effect of unrest, due to unemployment of a considerable percentage of these trades at this time, may result in strikes and violence. Unemployed labor may form a fertile nucleus for alien propaganda.

At first thought Secretary McAdoo's letter places upon Mr. Gompers the seemingly impossible task of persuading the idle building trades that the Government has work for them while they are facing conditions of unemployment, and also places upon him the task of instilling sentiments of patriotism under very trying circumstances.

While building materials are in the main wrought by building labor from raw material, and while some building materials are by-products of war necessities, there is now reported a surplus of many building materials, and building material concerns are going out of business.

The construction industries in general are so disorganized that a nation-wide conference is being arranged, under resolutions of the National Association of Builders' Exchanges, the National Builders' Supply Association, and with the co-operation of the American Institute of Architects, in order to readjust the industry as far as possible to meet the crisis, and to render its united resources most readily available for governmental needs.

There already exists, however, a shortage in the supply of buildings. The number of cubic feet per capita has decreased for a number of years. Rents are increasing and laws are now proposed in Congress to regulate rents. In other words, in face of an increasing demand, we are cutting off our supply.

Under these conditions, why should not the building industries place a well-balanced and constructive interpretation upon all of Secretary McAdoo's statements and refuse to believe that this useful industry has been singled out by any Department for embargo?

The general policy of the Administration in refraining from the definition of essentials and non-essentials has saved the industrial organism of this country from serious disarrangement. All agree with the wisdom of the policy of priority for war needs.

Governmental burdens have been impartially distributed upon all industries, and the building industry is particularly unfortunate in having applied to it alone, without a clear definition, the essential and non-essential policy. And until this is either more clearly defined or changed to the general policy of priority the industry must continue to place the most constructive interpretation possible on the statements of the Secretary of the Treasury, even though it may not understand why further efforts should be made to free its labor while its labor is already in idleness, or to free its materials while many of its materials are not being used, as well as why many of the non-essential and luxury producing industries are allowed the use of capital, labor and materials, unhampered by publicity and direct interference.

In exchanging the ownership of funds, construction frees and gives earning power to capital otherwise locked up in land, while not exhausting but creating capital out of natural resources and raw materials, the majority of which are not essential for Government use. Buildings are one of the most permanent forms of wealth, a means of producing more wealth and one of the most secure bases of increased credit. The withholding of funds from circulation through this industry tends to decrease rather than increase national wealth.

Money saved by curtailing the consumption of food, clothing or luxuries is added to the national wealth, but the curtailing of building does not add to the national wealth; it is a deferred charge, part of our war debt, to be paid after the war is over at an increased cost, probably by a disorganized industry.

The curtailment of building is not a saving but an expense during the war, because through lack of normal facilities the cost of everything is increased, since buildings are primary tools of industry, necessary for the production of all other tools of industry as well as for the production of the necessities of life, food, clothing and shelter.

If in an endeavor to free labor, materials and capital for future Governmental use we are holding in idleness labor which we are unable to assimilate we are confronted with the economic law of Diminishing Returns.

In his letter of Feb. 27 to Mr. Frank W. Conner, Secretary McAdoo writes "where it" (construction) "is a question of need—be it on account of sanitary conditions or because, without such new construction, other operations essential at this time for the welfare of the country would suffer—there is no doubt such work should be undertaken. This applies equally to construction work in cities, towns and farming districts." And referring to luxury building, he states "where it is a question of building a new home simply because it would afford greater comfort the operation should not be undertaken."

But for a clearer understanding of "need" and "essential" it has been necessary for us to consider other communications from the Secretary together with the conditions prevailing throughout the country.

The resolutions of the War Industries Board of March 25th, although non-constructive in tone, do not discourage "new undertakings * * * contributing * * * indirectly toward winning the war * * * or even for indirect war needs."

But the term "not essential" is again used without definition and these resolutions therefore do not shed any further light upon this important matter or seem to alter existing conditions or rulings.

However, in his letter to Bernard N. Baruch, at the time of the latter's appointment as chairman of the War Industries Board, President Wilson in outlining the functions of the Board particularly emphasized in paragraph 3, "The studious conservation of resources and facilities by scientific, commercial, and industrial economies." The construction industry is a national facility, and as such its conservation is thus enjoined.

Setting up National Welfare as the final test, and from both the President's and Secretary's communications it is evident that a constructive national spirit which fosters creative enterprises is essential in order to insure a "difference between what is made and what is spent." As the world is gradually drifting from individualism to various forms of governmental control, it is vital to the progress and happiness of humanity that these forms of governmental control shall be constructive rather than purely regulative in character.

SIX-CENT FARE OR HIGHER TAXES.

the request of the operating companies for a six-cent fare. It will surely make a more equitable distribution of the burden. If the six-cent fare is granted a considerable part of the deficit will be paid by thousands of out-of-town users of the city transit lines who contribute practically nothing to the cost of maintenance of the city government. If the increased fare is not granted, these transients will contribute no share to the excess cost of operation.

The six cent fare means a 20 per cent. increase. When one considers the recent increased cost in necessities, it would appear to me that a 20 per cent. increase in fares is not unreasonable.

The agreement as between the labor unions and the operating company will expire in September, and there will undoubtedly be granted an increased wage. It would seem to me to be not only desirable but necessary that the increase in fare be granted in anticipation of the deficit, in fact without any unnecessary delay.

Real Estate Board Active In War Efforts

Under Leadership of President McGuire Members Have Been Untiring in Liberty Loan and W. S. S. Campaign.

INSPIRED by patriotic motives, the Real Estate Board of New York inaugurated on February 10, 1917, a campaign to aid the Government in every way within its power. The organization as a whole, as well as its individual members, subscribed to the movement. It was a coincidence that this campaign was started on the occasion of the twenty-first annual banquet of the Board, the day on which Count von Bernstorff received his passport. The keynote was struck on that evening in a speech delivered by Hon. Martin W. Littleton, and since that time the Board has been untiring in its efforts.

As a preliminary step a telegram was sent to President Wilson pledging the support of the Real Estate Board, as well as the thousand guests present. On April 3, 1917, loyalty to the President and the Federal Government was pledged through a resolution passed by the Board of Governors, and the first active work was commenced at the time of the issuance of the first Liberty Loan, last June. Laurence McGuire, president of the Board, was designated chairman of the Realty Division, which had this work in charge.

The Board was so successful in its efforts to interest the real estate fraternity in the Liberty Loan that when the Second Loan was announced, the Realty Division continued its efforts, also under the direction of Mr. McGuire. Teams were formed and the real estate interests of the city were thoroughly canvassed, with the result that thousands of dollars were invested in Liberty bonds.

Not content with what had been accomplished, active work was resumed when the War Savings Stamps were issued. The National War Savings Committee decided to incorporate all the real estate men in the five boroughs and Mr. McGuire was designated as chairman of that committee. The city was divided into groups and the committee has been continuously receiving reports from the captains of these groups. A. N. Gitterman, acting as secretary to Mr. McGuire, was instrumental in obtaining a number of original posters by Arthur and Wendell Roos, which have stimulated the work of selling War Stamps and War Saving Certificates.

Mr. McGuire, in speaking of the work done by the Board in selling the War Savings Stamps, said yesterday:

"Although it is less than three months since I organized the Realty Division of the War Savings Committee, I am proud of the achievement. With the assistance of Mr. Gitterman, who is acting as our secretary, we have a Committee of One Hundred who, for convenience, have divided Manhattan into twenty-seven districts and have bought more than 20,000 thrift stamps and cards, which was the original allotment.

"The banner district is north of Dyckman street, and from that location we have received the report cards regularly and promptly which are so necessary for the proper compilation of sales. This the Government is most anxious to receive so that it may record the interest in this movement and see the effect of proper introduction of thrift methods."

The Real Estate Board this year decided to abandon its custom of having an annual banquet, and in its place substituted a benefit performance which was held at the Hippodrome on the evening of Sunday, March 3. The proceeds were given to the Army and Navy. That the benefit was a financial success is attested by the following figures, as reported by Elisha Sniffin, chairman of the Benefit Committee.

The gross receipts were $15,604.92, and the expenses $6,049.94. The treasurer of the Navy Relief Society, New York Annex, 280 Broadway, received $4,802.50; the treasurer of the New York Finance Committee of the War Camp Community Service, William Henry Barnum, 115 Broadway, $2,401.24, the Regimental Fund of the 308th U. S. Infantry, N. A., Camp Upton, N. Y., $2,000, and Major Charles E. Coates, U. S. Signal Corps, Fort Wood, Bedloe's Island, New York Harbor, $401.24.

Measures Affecting Real Estate

Bills Which Have Been Approved or Disapproved by Committee Appointed by Real Estate Board of New York

THE Real Estate Board of New York calls attention to the fact that there will be a joint hearing of the Committees on Taxation and Retrenchment at Albany on Tuesday next. All tax bills will be taken up, among them the Boylan bill for a fixed tax on real estate and for a tax on personalty lower than the present rate (Senate Int. 621, Boylan, Assembly Int. 613, Seesselberg). Organizations are earnestly requested to have one or more representatives at this hearing on Tuesday next so that some conclusion may be reached and action taken that will result in securing proper relief. No special arrangements are being made for a delegation, but it is hoped that interest in this matter will insure a large representation.

Action in detail was taken on the following bills:

Senate Int. 858, Pr. 1326, Slater (Same as Assembly Int. 1026, Pr. 1205, Brush) State reservation at Lake Mohansic.

This bill is approved. It provides for the abandonment of the proposition to establish a hospital for the insane and a training school for boys upon the Croton Watershed at Yorktown, Westchester county, and transfers the sites selected for such institution to a commission for use as a state reservation, a part of which may be used by a small number of boys and the necessary officers of the House of Refuge. The measure represents a policy endorsed last year and this by the Real Estate Board of New York. The bill specifically is the outcome of a vigorous fight made by the Merchants' Association of New York against the establishing of such institutions where their sewage and surface contamination would be likely to pollute the city's water supply. The enactment of this bill should be vigorously advocated.

Assembly Int. 1052, Pr. 1346, McKee. To amend the Greater New York Charter, in relation to the purchase of supplies and the establishment of a department of purchase.

This bill is approved. It embodies a principle which has been endorsed by the Real Estate Board for several years. It creates and defines the jurisdiction of the Department of Purchase to be added to the city government. Its purposes are to centralize the control of purchases and to standardize materials and supplies required by all departments, boards, and offices, dependent upon the city treasury for support. The machinery to effect these purposes is devised and articulated clearly and definitely in the bill, and, in the hands of competent and honest officers it should operate to the great advantage of local taxpayers. It may be contended that the bill is mandatory in form and creates a number of high salaried offices, but this form of legislation is as inconsequential as its cost in salaries, if the results thereby achieved give even an approximation of the relief to the city treasury, possible under this bill. The measure should be actively supported.

Senate Int. 851, Pr. 1024, G. F. Thompson. In relation to acquisition, lease and operation of public utilities by municipal corporations, constituting chapter seventy-one of the consolidated laws.

This bill is disapproved. It is a general law proposition in relation to the acquisition, lease and operation of public utilities by municipal corporations. Its provisions are substantially the same as the Hearst bill introduced by Senator

Important Developments of the Week at Albany

New York Realty Leaders Make Profound Impression on Legislators in Municipal Ownership and Other Matters Vitally Affecting Taxpayers.

(Special to the Record and Guide.)

Albany, March 29.—Developments in the Legislature in which the real estate world is interested may be summarized for the week as follows:

1.—Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Company, and Lawrence McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board, laid before Senator Elon R. Brown, Republican leader in the upper branch of the Legislature, the alarming conditions growing out of the administrative schemes which have been launched in New York City and received from him a promise to support legislation which would relieve this condition and consequently redound to the benefit of the property owners.

2.—Edward P. Doyle, Chairman of the Budget Committee of the Real Estate Board, announced that immediately after the close of the Legislature the middle class of people in New York City would be thoroughly organized and a determined and aggressive front presented to the "Bolsheviki of the city and their allies, the political demagogues and the idle rich."

3.—Chairman Walter H. Knapp of the State Tax Commission characterized the published complaint of Mayor Hylan about the $34,000,000 reduction in the assessed valuations of franchises held by certain New York City corporations as "intended for political purposes."

4.—Mayor Hylan was scored on the floor of the Senate for his espousal and advocacy of the Wagner-Donohue municipal ownership bill.

5.—Senator Brown, as majority leader in the Senate, outwitted the advocates of municipal ownership by causing to be passed, by a vote of 28 to 20, a resolution creating a Legislative Commission upon which the duty of investigating and considering legislation of this character will devolve.

6.—Persistent agitation in the interest of the Boylan realty and personality measures has not only enlisted the support of Senator Brown but has resulted in an agreement for a hearing to be given on these measures on Tuesday next, at which the Real Estate Board, the City Tax Department and other interested parties may discuss the measures. The design of this legislation is to limit the realty tax rate to $1.75 per $100 of value and to impose a tax of 25 cents upon every $100 of personal property. The ultimate aim of the bills is to relieve the burden cast upon real property by reason of the extravagant expenditures made by the City of New York in recent years.

7.—Strong protest against the Dowling "four-story dwelling conversion" bill, which would permit the transformation of unused four-story dwellings into tenement houses, thus creating new sources of revenue for the city and real property owners, has operated to diminish the chances this bill had of passing the Legislature. The protest came entirely from organizations which suspect in every amendment of the Tenement House Law a deprivation of the "constitutional right" of flat dwellers.

8.—The Assembly Codes Committee has reported out the A. E. Davies bill designed to prevent the practice of law by any person not regularly admitted to the bar. Before the favorable report was made on this measure it was amended so as to permit real estate brokers to draw leases and instruments required in the sale or purchase of real and personal property. While the introducer of the measure is hopeful of its passage the general sentiment indicates that it will meet with some opposition in the lower branch of the Legislature. The bill in its present form would prohibit title examiners not attorneys from engaging with the large title companies in New York City and would otherwise impose burdens upon real estate brokers.

9.—The Prohibition forces and the "wet" element seem to be deadlocked over excise legislation.

10.—Despite protests from the Democratic leaders in both houses to the inclusion of the $13,000,000 Direct State tax, of which approximately seventy per cent.

must be raised by New York City, the Legislature will enact the Appropriation Bill in its original form.

11.—The chances of enactment of the Boylan bill abolishing the New York Water Supply Commission and transferring the duties of this bureau to the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity were greatly diminished after a hearing on the bill before the Cromwell New York City Affairs Committee. Opponents of the measure made the point at this hearing that the saving to be effected by such a transfer would be negligible. The judgment of the more influential members of the committee is that the bill will not pass.

After a conference with Mr. Dowling and Mr. McGuire, Senator Brown declared that he knew the financial condition of the City of New York and the effect of this condition upon real estate. He promised his hearty co-operation and support in the effort the Real Estate Board is making to secure the enactment of the bill limiting the realty tax rate to $1.75.

Unless something is done to check the extravagance in city government, Senator Brown was advised, New York City will lose its greatest asset. They pointed out that the middle class, constituting the real property owners, and the men and women who have savings accounts and equities in insurance policies or other evidences of thrift and saving, is sustaining a burden which will at the present expenditure of municipal moneys soon become unbearable.

Mr. Doyle's announcement of an organization of a middle class to protect itself against municipal extravagance has had a distinct effect here in Albany, and the visit of Mr. Dowling and Mr. McGuire is regarded here as one of the most effective strokes the realty interests have made at this session of the Legislature.

After the adoption of the Brown resolution calling for a Commission to examine into the merits of Municipal Ownership the following Legislative commission was named: Argetsinger of Rochester, G. F. Thompson of Niagara, Cromwell of Richmond, Slater of Westchester, Ottinger of New York, Republicans; Walker and Sheridan of New York, Democrats.

A second resolution offered by Senator Brown carrying an appropriation of $5,000 with which to defray the expenses of the inquiry was beaten. It received only 25 votes, one short of the required number.

The creation of the Brown Committee is regarded as the death knell of municipal ownership at this session. It was buried some time ago, but the advocates of the Wagner-Donohue measure succeeded in reviving it. As the matter now stands the only means of resuscitating Municipal Ownership would be by a motion to discharge the committee from consideration of the bill, but such a plan would not accomplish much in view of the vote on the first Brown resolution.

Among the important bills introduced in the past week are these:

Assemblyman Welsh, providing that motion picture entertainments may be held on Sunday afternoon after two o'clock in cities where there are no local ordinances prohibiting such entertainments. Sunday "movies" under this bill are made a matter of home rule for the various cities, towns and villages.

Senator Gilchrist, providing that the Board of Revision of Assessments in New York City may review awards for damages made by the boards of assessors and its confirmation of such awards will be final.

Senator Walker, authorizing the Board of Estimate of New York in its discretion to direct that all or any part of the cost of opening, widening or extending a street to be used for rapid transit subway purposes shall be borne by the city at large. This applies to streets heretofore opened or improved and used for such purpose, as well as those hereafter opened or extended, and notwithstanding any previous action taken by the board in connection therewith. Corporate stock may be issued to pay the cost.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Record and Guide, in starting its second half-century, is pleased to announce the association with it of Mr. Frank E. Perley, who is taking up his duties as President of the Record and Guide Company with this issue.

The retiring President, Mr. F. T. Miller, retains his financial interest and will continue his personal interest in the development of the property as President of the F. W. Dodge Company and affiliated organizations, with which this publication is co-ordinated.

STARTING THE SECOND HALF CENTURY.

With this issue the Real Estate Record and Builders Guide starts its second half century.

For any publication to attain the age of fifty years is an event worthy of comment, and the comments and compliments which have reached this office attest the general interest of real estate men and builders in the continued success of the Record and Guide.

During its first half century of existence this publication has striven to make itself useful to its large circle of readers, and there is ample evidence that these efforts have been successful. Otherwise the attainment of a fiftieth anniversary would not have been possible.

The field of usefulness of the Record and Guide has been constantly expanding during these fifty years, and that field never has been so broad as today. With the start of its second half century this publication aims at further and greater usefulness to the real estate and building interests of the metropolis. These interests, tremendous as they are, must expand with the years, and they will find the Record and Guide working earnestly and constantly to promote all that is best and most helpful for the future welfare of the metropolis.

AN ISSUE WHICH MUST BE MET.

Standing out conspicuously in the discussion of the day is the proposition to increase from five to six cents the fares on the city transportation lines.

At some other time and under some other circumstances this proposal might be viewed at another angle from that it now presents. But when it is considered in the light of present-day circumstances, no broad-minded citizen should be willing to view it other than as a condition which cannot be disposed of by theory.

What are the facts of the matter?

In order to give its readers a sane basis for judgment, the Record and Guide presents in this number the vital facts gathered from several sources. Real estate in the metropolis already is carrying such a heavy burden of taxation as to give grave concern to all well-informed students of the situation. No tangible evidence of relief is in sight, and none of the suggested remedies are likely to be effected in the near future. Even if there were no world war, even if times were normal, the perplexities of taxation would still exist, and the millennium of economical government and reasonable taxation, equitably distributed, would continue to be only an optimistic hope.

The outstanding fact in the proposal for a six-cent fare is this: The interest on the city's investment in the Dual System must be paid from one of two sources. Either it must be paid by those who ride on the city's transportation lines or else it must be paid in additional taxes. There is no alternative.

Men best qualified to speak assert that if the five-cent fare is continued the city must face an annual deficit of from $11,000,000 to $15,000,000, and President Shonts of the Interborough intimates in his statement elsewhere in this number that, owing to war conditions and the uncertainty of the times, the city's deficit may run up to $20,000,000 annually.

But, even if the lowest estimates are accurate, the property owners of the metropolis are confronted with the danger of another increase of five per cent. in their taxes. Such a development would be a staggering blow to every landlord and to every owner of a business building, a hotel or a private dwelling.

In his statement printed elsewhere in this issue of the Record and Guide Mr. Laurence McGuire, President of the Real Estate Board of New York, points out, with reference to the threatened increase in taxes due to the deficit, that it "will not be possible for land owners to pass this increased burden to the rent payers. Rentals cannot be advanced with the rapidity at which taxes are mounting. Of one thing we can feel quite sure and that is the owners of vacant or unproductive property cannot pass this burden on to others."

President Shonts, in his statement for the Record and Guide, says frankly that the interest of his company in the matter is to secure the current payment of its preferential and to insure sufficient earnings to keep the surface lines out of bankruptcy, but he also emphasizes the fact that every owner of real estate and every rent payer has a vital interest in the proposition.

Commissioner Whitney, of the Public Service Commission, makes no attempt to minimize the seriousness of the situation. He believes the time has come when consideration should be given to the financial problems in relation to the dual contracts.

"When the average monthly deficit goes from $100,000 to $250,000," Commissioner Whitney declares, "the public should understand the criticism that an increase in operating expenses comes out of the pockets of the company is spoken in complete ignorance of the financial obligation of the city to carry the deficits of a rapid transit system in return for the public benefits received from such an enlarged system."

As great office buildings maintain their elevator service at the expense of their tenants, but free for the use of all visitors, so New York might go a step farther and give free rides for everybody on the subway at the expense of its taxpayers. This might so improve the business of the city that the taxpayers would be warranted in assuming the expense, but such progressive measures have never yet been demonstrated by practical experience and the principle which has been verified by successful precedent is that water service and other public utilities should be paid for by the users and not be a direct expense upon the taxpayers. New York always has several hundred thousand transients who might well contribute to this expense.

It should be borne in mind that, owing to general conditions, the authorities in Washington have found it imperative to increase passenger and freight rates on many railroads. While it is true that different problems are presented by the trunk lines, yet many of the general conditions which have increased the cost of operating outside railroads apply also to the city transportation lines.

To the people of the metropolis, however, a concrete problem is presented. A deficit is at hand which must be paid.

The city can pay it by adding many millions annually to the tax burdens of the realty owners and rent payers or

The burden can be distributed among all who use the transportation lines, including the hundreds of thousands from outside the city who use these facilities daily.

One or the other of these alternatives offers the only solution.

Wagner. Whatever may be the economic merits of the doctrine of municipal ownership of public utilities the present crisis in the affairs of our people renders impracticable radical legislation of any kind, and particularly a measure which may so greatly involve the city's finances as is contemplated by the pending measure. This is no time for self-seeking politicians to promote legislation likely to cause business upheavals, colossal municipal expenditures and conflicts between municipalities and public service corporations. It is imperative that we have peace at home so that our own efforts in the war abroad may have full force and effect. The Thompson bill and all kindred legislation should be vigorously opposed at this time.

Publishers Record and Guide:

I am writing to express my hearty congratulations to the Record and Guide on its Fiftieth Anniversary. It has rendered great service to the real estate fraternity, and to builders, investors and mortgage lenders, and all others interested in real estate. This service has been characterized, in the main, by a progressive outlook—that is, your publication has intelligently grappled with the problems connected with our business, and you have successfully attempted to help in the solution of these problems.

I think I am expressing the opinion of most real estate men when I say that we would feel quite lost without the weekly visit of your interesting and important publication, and that never in its history has it rendered a better service to those engaged in our business and kindred callings than it is today.

in relation to responsibility for observance of certain provisions of the Labor Law, and defining the term "owner" in relation to such provisions.

This bill is disapproved. It relates to the enforcement of article 12 of the Labor Law applying to the employment of women and children in mercantile establishments. It proposes to add the vicious definition of "owner" contained in section 94 of the Labor Law. Out of this definition, which the Real Estate Board is trying in another bill (Senate Int. 444, Pr. 488, Boylan) to rectify, has grown some of the most serious troubles coming out of the Labor Law, and has placed upon agents wholly unable to carry out the requirements of the law, responsibility and penalties which belong to owners. The bill should not be permitted to pass.

Assembly Int. 1140, Pr. 1347, Blakely. To amend the Labor Law, generally, and making an appropriation for additional mercantile inspectors.

This bill is disapproved. It proposes a number of amendments to the Labor Law, some of which are salutary, but it also provides for substantial salary increases for a large number of employees of the Labor Department and creates a number of new inspectors, etc. Specifically it employs the language "there shall not be less than," changing the existing language of "more than." As a result of this no limit whatever is placed upon the number of inspectors that might be employed under the act. If such measures as this are not vigorously opposed by taxpayers they have no right to complain of direct taxation by the state. The bill should be opposed as imposing additional and unnecessary burdens upon taxpayers.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Real Estate Men To Commence Drive For Third Liberty Loan—Important Bids Opened

LAST Thursday, at the Downtown Club, was held the first meeting of the Real Estate Division of the Third Liberty Loan Committee, and a campaign was organized to obtain subscriptions from all those identified with the real estate market. The Real Estate Board is in hearty cooperation with the movement. Alfred E. Marling was elected chairman, Charles S. Brown vice-chairman and Aaron Rabinowitz secretary. The committee consists of the following:

F. R. Wood, Albert B. Ashforth, George R. Read, Joseph P. Day, William H. Wheelock, Robert E. Simon, Charles F. Noyes, Harris Mandelbaum, Douglas L. Elliman, Franklin T. Miller, Dr. Charles V. Paterno, Charles F. Lyons, Robert E. Dowling, Livingston Wetmore, William P. Rae, Thomas Hoven-den, Jacob Leitner, Clement H. Smith, George F. Ryan and Cornelius G. Kolff. Teams have been formed under the captaincy of the foregoing members, and assistants will be appointed, who will aid them in covering those names assigned.

During the campaigns inaugurated for the previous Liberty Loan drives it was discovered that many failed to subscribe because they were not properly canvassed, and it is to overcome this condition that the present plan has been adopted at the suggestion of the Liberty Loan Committee, which is behind the drive.

Property owners are interested in the opening of bids by President Dowling for the repaving of fifteen important thoroughfares in Manhattan. The streets under consideration were Battery Place, Broadway to West street; First avenue, 95th to 106th street; Lexington avenue, 53d to 86th street; Broadway, 122d to Manhattan street; 155th street, west of Broadway to Riverside Drive; Madison avenue, 42d to 46th street; Broadway, 17th to 22d street, and to 22d street and Broadway, from 24th to 27th street; Broadway, 121st to 122d street; Oliver street, Cherry to Madison street; Monroe street, Pike to Jackson street; 48th street, First to Lexington avenue; 52d street, 8th to 11th avenue, and 155th street, Broadway, extending west 140 feet.

The total of the low bids was $699,570.33. In all sixty-six bids were received. President Dowling expects to make the awards next week.

Bids for concrete foundation for granite block pavement for Battery Place, Broadway, Lexington and Seventh avenues ranged from $3.50 to $10.50 per cubic yard, and for the granite itself from $4.92 to $5.88 per square yard. Prices a year ago for concrete foundation averaged $6.88 per yard, while the average on the bids just received was $9 a yard. For granite block last year the prices averaged $4.22 per square yard and the average on yesterday's bids was $5.70. The average price for sheet asphalt last year was $1.72 a square yard, and yesterday the average bid was $2.60 per square yard.

The process of law is sometimes slow, but property owners will be gratified to learn that after eleven years have elapsed between the appointment of the commission and confirmation of the report of the commission in the matter of the acquisition of an easement in the 43d Sewer District a decision has been handed down. The district embraces the property within the boundaries east of Bronx River to Westchester Creek, along Hutchinson Creek to the northern lines of the river, and includes between 23,000 and 24,000 pieces of land. This is what is known as the Annex District, lower Bronx.

Relief to Mortgage Market.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I want to call the attention of real estate owners and agents to the bill now pending in the Legislature, introduced by Senator Gilchrist (Int. No. 71), which makes certificates of participation, in first mortgages on real estate, legal investments for trustees, when the mortgages themselves cover unencumbered real property worth fifty per cent. more than the amount loaned thereon.

These certificates are issued in denominations of $100 and up, pay interest at the rate of five or five and one-half per cent. and are usually issued by title or mortgage companies with their guaranty of payment. They find a ready sale among small investors, the title and mortgage companies of New York City having at present outstanding more than $19,000,000 in such certificates.

It has already become difficult to finance the larger real estate operations by reason of the fact that the number of investors and institutions with facilities for making large loans is limited. During the continuance of the war, on account of the scarcity of capital seeking investment outside of that absorbed in Government loans, it will become increasingly difficult to finance these operations, unless loans are made in such form that the mortgage may be adapted for subdivision.

In order to take up the largest possible amount of these certificates, therefore, it is necessary that the market be extended. It is well known that trustees and others holding fiduciary positions have funds which are available for such investments. They cannot, under the present law, however, purchase mortgage participation certificates, for the reason that the mortgage so subdivided is not delivered to any certificate-holder, but is retained by a title or trust company for the benefit of all certificate-holders.

QUERY DEPARTMENT.

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 312.—Do war stamps have to be placed on the renewal of mortgages?

OWNER.

Answer No. 312.—By "renewal" it is assumed "extension" is meant. Agreements extending the time of payment of bonds secured by mortgages must be stamped like the original bonds. The stamp on the original bond would be 5 cents per $100.

Question No. 313.—Can I draw up a lease, bill of sale, deed, mortgage, etc., and charge for same as a notary? I do not claim to be a lawyer and tell people I am not, if asked. Does this decision (Brooklyn Bar Association vs. Title Guarantee & Trust Company) mean that no one but a lawyer can draw up a lease, etc.? I do not want to violate the law.

Answer No. 313.—The decision in question related solely to the practice of law by a corporation. Doing the things you mention might be construed as practicing law. Probably the filling in of forms prepared by an attorney would not be practicing law. The question is a very much involved one.

Because it has heretofore been the custom, when a trustee invested money on bond and mortgage, to acquire the whole mortgage and therefore the actual custody of the instruments, many attorneys believe that no other form of mortgage investment by trustees should be permitted. This objection is based on an arbitrary and unreasonable view of the situation. The law permits investments by trustees in railroad bonds, where the custody of the mortgage is retained by a trustee for the benefit of all the bondholders. Investments in first mortgage participation certificates are similar in character.

At a meeting held at the Real Estate Board Rooms on January 29, 1918, the bill was approved and its passage urged by presidents and other representatives of the following institutions: The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, New York Life Insurance Company, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Guardian Life Insurance Company, Bowery Savings Bank, Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, New York Savings Bank, City Investing Company, United States Realty and Improvement Company, Realty Company of America, Real Estate Board of New York, Horace S. Ely & Company, Union Mortgage Company, Lawyers' Mortgage Company, New York Title and Mortgage Company, Lawyers' Title and Trust Company, and the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

It is particularly important, in my opinion, that the Gilchrist Bill should pass this year, in order that the loan market may be extended at a time when the relief which the bill will afford is most urgently needed.

CYRIL H. BURDETT.

United States—Canada.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The astounding trade conditions, as just reported, between the United States and the European Allies since July, 1914, may be appreciated in the statement that from the day war was declared until now this country has sold $10,000,000,000 of goods abroad in excess of goods purchased. In other words, on direct trade balance the Allies would owe this country the amount above mentioned.

The actual figures by countries for the fiscal years 1915, 1916 and 1917 and seven months of the current fiscal year are as follows: United Kingdom, $4,602,268,640; Canada, $1,030,996,058; France, $2,183,459,786; Russia, $1,039,717,194; Italy, $790,978,967, and Belgium, $80,203,574, making a total of $9,727,624,219. The estimate for February is $300,000,000.

In payment of this debt there has been exported to the United States from Great Britain, France and Canada approximately $1,500,000,000 gold and $2,000,000,000 in American securities.

The United States Government has taken to date $4,440,000,000 of the obligations of these foreign countries, out of the proceeds of which bills contracted for supplies bought here have been paid. There is an additional item of about $2,000,000,000, represented in loans of the United Kingdom, France, Canada and Russia, and now held by American private investors and institutions. These loans, while providing commercial credits, must eventually be liquidated.

Naturally one is led to ask how these enormous balances are to be liquidated, and may it not be within the bounds of possibility that so far as Great Britain is concerned—of course, with the consent and approval of her Canadian subjects—she would be willing to cede Canada to the United States in payment of the whole or a substantial portion of her vast indebtedness to us, and under conditions whereby the present enormous Canadian debt would be liquidated at Washington.

The suggestion is no doubt a startling one, but more radical things have happened as the outgrowth of a world's war like that which is now devastating Europe.

Long ago armed fortresses were eliminated along the whole of the three thousand miles of boundary between this country and Canada, and I am of the opinion that we will soon see an elimination of custom houses as well, greatly to the benefit of both countries. Canada possesses vast natural resources, the surface of which has hardly as yet been scratched; while we are possessed of a financial wealth never before equaled by any other country, so far as I know. Under such circumstances can there be any doubt that the relations between the two countries should be harmonious and that trade restrictions should be entirely eradicated?

This country and Canada are sisters, and are the offspring of the mother country—Great Britain—and why should they not combine their fortunes and, united, present the greatest living power that the world has even seen? And why should they not, so united, go down into time as the greatest influence for the betterment of mankind and the protection and extension of civilization?

The Canadian people are strong, hardy and highly intelligent, and their form of government, while substantially similar to our own, is better in some respects. Their educational system is probably the best in the world. They are law-abiding, debt-paying and intensely loyal. With these characteristics their nine millions of population would be a splendid asset, and their influences would largely offset much that has recently come into this country and not yet been assimilated or digested.

Their grain fields are among the most remarkable in the world, and their resources in the way of timber and minerals almost beyond one's comprehension. They have natural wealth to a stupendous degree, and we have that which they most need—viz., capital to develop it.

The growth of Canada has not been rapid, but it has been along absolutely safe lines. That there are advantages in this country, however, the more than a million native-born Canadians now here will almost unanimously testify.

A union such as I have suggested could be accomplished without difficulty or friction were the parties favorable to it. I mean by this that there are no discordant elements that could not be readily assimilated.

True it is that there have been differences between the two countries that have led to much hard feeling, but the present war is rapidly obliterating them. There is now certainly no ill feeling in this country against Canada, and I think I may say that our doors are open to her when she wills to come, if ever. If not then let all of us do our best to increase the good neighborhood that now exists, and so far as we can increase it to our mutual advantage.

Title Company in New Home.

The United States Title Guaranty Company is now in possession of its new home in the twenty-two story office building at Court and Remsen streets, Brooklyn. The company was organized in September, 1902, by a merger of the People's Guaranty & Indemnity Company and the Long Island Title Company, and began business under the name United States Title Guaranty & Indemnity Company, with George J. Grossman as president. In March, 1911, the company was reorganized and George A. Fleury was elected president. In 1912 the company moved to the Old Dime Savings Bank Building at Court and Remsen streets, the site upon which its present home has been erected. During the construction of the new building the company moved to temporary quarters at 176 and 180 Montague street. Branch offices are located at 346 Fulton street, Jamaica, and Riverhead, L. I.

Burglar Insurance Rates Increased.

An increase in burglary insurance rates as affecting tenement houses went into effect this week, through the action taken by the Burglary Insurance Underwriters' Association. The increase amounts to twenty per cent, and new policies will be at the rate of $19.80 a thousand, instead of $16.50 a thousand, as heretofore. Elevator houses are placed on a par with non-elevator houses, though the latter class have been always considered more hazardous, due to the fact that ingress is easily accomplished. Samuel B. Brewster, the retiring secretary of the association, stated that the number of robberies in elevator houses had materially increased, which was the cause in the advance in the rates. Insurance companies are asking the cooperation of owners and superintendents of tenement houses in guarding against thefts through the exercising of more care in the hiring of help. Tenants are also being requested to use vigilance in the investigation of servants' references.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 27 as against 30 last week and 34 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 12 as compared with 13 last week and 9 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 15 as compared with 17 last week and 25 a year ago.

From the Bronx 11 sales at private contract were reported as against 14 last week and 16 a year ago.

Crimmins House in Trade.

The residence of the late John D. Crimmins, at 40 East 68th street, has been sold to Alfred S. Rossin, of the firm of S. Rossin & Sons, tobacco merchants. The building is one of the finest of the older residences in the East Side colony, and was erected by day's work some years ago under the direct supervision of the late Mr. Crimmins, who occupied it up to the time of his death. The house has a frontage of 45 feet, and the west half extends back the full depth of the lot, 100.5 feet. The building is four stories high, with a facade of white stone. In the immediate vicinity are the homes of Hugh S. Auchincloss, Herbert Scoville, Clarence S. Day, William H. Porter, Anson McCook Beard, J. William Clark and Mrs. Edward W. Sparrow. At the Park avenue corner is the new residence of Percy Pyne. In exchange Mr. Rossin gave his four-story residence, on a lot 206 x 100 feet, at 15 East 62d street. William B. May & Company were the brokers. The Rossin house adjoins the home of Charles Steele, of J. P. Morgan & Company, and immediately opposite are the newly constructed homes of Ambrose Monell, Charles H. Savin and Malcolm Sloane. Other owners in the block include Edmund L. Baylies, Roy A. Raine, Mrs. William A. Read and Mrs. John R. Drexel.

Buyer for Old Waldo House.

The two residences formerly owned by Mrs. Gertrude Rhinelander Waldo at the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 72d street have been sold to Samuel E. Herzog, the builder. The houses have a frontage of 102.2 feet on the avenue and 58 feet in the street. On the immediate corner is a five-story structure, 40 x 102.2, which Mr. Herzog acquired from the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn. Adjoining is a five-story building, 18 x 102.2 feet, which he bought

EVERY owner of real estate in New York, every rent payer, has a vital interest in the proposition to charge a six-cent fare for the period of the war on all street railway lines, subway, elevated and surface.

Either the people who ride on the subway and elevated must pay the interest on the City's investment of $250,000,000 in the Dual System, or it must be paid out of taxes.

The Interborough's contract with the City provides that after operating expenses are paid, the Company shall receive its preferential. It is not until this has been paid in full that the City will receive any return from fares to meet the interest charges on its investment. The other contracts the City has relating to the Dual System are on the same basis. A five-cent fare during this period of extraordinary operating costs will defer any return to the City from the operation of its lines.

It is estimated that with a five-cent fare, the City will for a period of from five to seven years face an annual deficit of at least $11,250,000 in the operation of the Dual System. Some people believe that, due to war conditions and the uncertainty of the times, this deficit will reach $20,000,000.

Every $10,000,000 increase in the City's tax budget must mean a five per cent increase in the tax rate. A $20,000,000 deficit will mean a 10 per cent increase in the tax rate.

This deficit of from $11,000,000 to $20,000,000 as variously estimated, can be provided for in only one of two ways; either by putting the burden on the taxpayer in the one case, or on the fare-payer in the other. If put on the taxpayer it will fall on the real estate owners of the City—already bending under enormous tax burdens which have been put upon them to the extent that many of the best-located properties in the City are to-day selling at one-half their assessed valuations.

The real estate owners must, in turn, pass as large a proportion as they can to the tenants occupying their property, with the result that if the burden is put on the taxpayer it will wholly fall on the citizens of New York; who work in New York—who make their living in New York—who spend their incomes in New York—who pay their taxes in New York—the vital members of the community that keep New York alive and growing.

If, however, a policy is determined upon of putting this burden on the fare-payer, it is estimated there are 300,000 strangers from all over the world daily using the transportation facilities of New York, in addition to hundreds of thousands of commuters from nearby States, who make their money in New York, but spend their money outside New York; who pay their taxes outside of New York, and are not an integral portion of New York life.

We have offered to put the Dual System contract into effect simultaneously with the 6c fare. This will preclude the Interborough from receiving one dollar of additional revenue as a result of the bill.

Frankly, our interest in this measure is twofold:

First, to insure the current payment of the Interborough's preferential, under its contract with the City, which, in any event, would have to ultimately be paid out of future earnings, with compound interest.

Second, to insure sufficient earnings by the surface lines of the New York Railways to keep them out of bankruptcy. Bankruptcy, as you know, would result in splitting up the lines into the original companies, and would abolish transfers entirely.

THEODORE P. SHONTS, President

Interborough Rapid Transit Company

New York Railways Company

from the County Holding Company, William C. Adams, president. The city assessed the properties at $253,000 last year. The corner building passed into the possession of a bank in 1912 as the result of a foreclosure action, and the adjoining building was obtained by the seller in the present deal in a similar manner during the same year. Both properties were restricted against apartment houses until recently. These restrictions interfered with several prospective deals in the past.

West Side Apartment House Sold.

Earl & Calhoun sold for Jacob Axelrod, builder, the nine-story elevator apartment house, known as La Jacquetta, at 166 to 172 West 87th street, 108x100.11 feet. The property is held at $550,000, and shows an annual rent roll of about $57,000. Although there was a small element of trade involved, the deal was practically an all-cash transaction. Mr. Axelrod bought the site from the Alliance Realty Company, and made the improvement at a cost of about $200,000, the designs having been prepared by George F. Pelham, architect. The property was part of the large holdings of the D. Willis James family in that vicinity. In 1912 the Alliance Company bought twenty-two dwellings in 86th and 87th streets from the James Estate, and disposed of the property in large units to builders. The remainder of the 87th street frontage was improved by the Princeton Construction Company, which disposed of 160, adjoining the property just sold, about a year ago, to the Economy Real Property Company. Mrs. Adelaide M. Megeath is the purchaser.

Alien Property Acquired.

A. Mitchell Palmer, as alien property custodian, acquired title from Anton Birkle to the five-story apartment house at 806 and 808 Westchester avenue, facing the junction of Union avenue and 158th street, known as the Regina apartment house. The structure measures 50 x 122 feet, and was transferred subject to mortgages aggregating $56,000. This is the first recorded seizure of alien property in the Metropolitan district.

Brady Estate Sells.

The executors of the estate of James Buchanan (Diamond Jim) Brady sold the four-story residence at 7 West 86th street, on a lot 25 x 100 feet. The late Mr. Brady expended nearly $100,000 on interior decorating and furnishings for the house. Pease & Elliman were the brokers.

Estate Sells in Worth Street.

James F. White & Company, Inc., a new corporation succeeding the firm of James White & Company, purchased, from the White Estate of Dundee, Scotland, 54 and 56 Worth street and 39 and 41 Thomas street, leasehold owned by the New York Hospital Society. This lease, which still has a number of years to run, has also been purchased by the same buyer. The land and buildings measure 34 x 184 feet, and are assessed by the city at $225,000. Daniel Birdsall & Company were the brokers. The building will be remodeled and the upper portion rented in separate floors. Negotiations are now pending for the leasing of this space. The owners of the building will occupy the ground floor.

Sale in Pearl Street.

Geo. R. Read & Company sold for the Sixty-Seven Pearl Street Corporation, to Charles Otis, owner of the financial publications known as The Daily Bond Buyer and the American Banker, 67 Pearl street, through to 32 and 32½ Stone street, a one four-story building, and two three-story buildings, having frontages of 20.4 feet in Pearl street, and 26.11 feet in Stone street. The publications will occupy the Pearl street building to house the printing establishment. The Stone street property will be held as an investment, with the prospect that its ultimate use may be to provide additional space for the publications.

Receivers Receive Offer.

Henry Brady and Robert C. Knapp, as receivers for Clarence Payne, received from Max Lowenthal, an offer to buy the twelve-story apartment house at 383 to 387 Park avenue, near 53d street. The bid, which is reported to be $500,000, has been submitted to the United States District Court for ratification. There is a first mortgage of $350,000 on the property, held by the Mutual Life Insurance Company, and also a second mortgage of $47,500. Mr. Lowenthal recently acquired the Sonoma apartment house, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 55th street, on the day when it was to have been sold at foreclosure. Mr. Lowenthal held a third mortgage on that property and bid $10,500 for the stock of the Derwent Realty Company, the owning corporation.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

ALTHOUGH a number of contracts of considerable magnitude have been placed during the past week and working plans have been commenced for many entirely new building projects, factors of prime importance to the future of the industry have come up that may possibly interfere seriously with the progress of this work. The bulk of the new construction is located in the outlying boroughs of the city and in adjacent towns and consists of industrial building and housing operations with occasional jobs of a public or semi-public character. Within the confines of the Borough of Manhattan the operations are comparatively small and consist largely of alterations and additions to existing structures, modernizing them for new occupancies.

Locally the building situation is quiet. The strike of the building laborers remains unsettled and from all accounts there is slight possibility of arriving at a definite conclusion for some time. The laborers are holding out for their full demands and there is no disposition on the part of the employers to accede. This strike is effectually holding up what little work was in progress in this city.

The suburban activity, both in the construction of one and two family houses and also in apartment house building has been one of the most hopeful factors in the building situation. Quite a number of new projects of this nature have recently been started and they were badly needed as the demand for living accommodations was considerably in excess of the supply. It is to be hoped that under the new conditions some method of permitting these operations to proceed may be evolved, otherwise actual hardship is likely to result.

In general the building material markets have been quiet, with only a moderate volume of new orders and inquiries comparatively scarce. There has been no price movement during the week of any consequence and there is a firm feeling that the new levels recently announced for certain commodities are likely to remain stationary for some time to come.

Common Brick.—The Hudson River common brick market passed through a quiet week, and although a number of sales were recorded the price remained unchanged. The market is firm at the $10 to $10.25 a thousand level, and there seems to be no disposition to revise these figures at this time. The river is now fully open to navigation; a tow of five barges having come down during the week from Haverstraw and two barges came in from Kingston. According to the present outlook the brick manufacturing season along the Hudson will certainly not be a busy one. Up to the present absolutely no work has been accomplished toward getting the plants ready to manufacture and there are grave doubts as to whether a start will be made in a number of instances. The labor and fuel situation, coupled with the steady decline in the number of active building operations has influenced the producers against manufacturing during the coming season, and if production is commenced the season will be only a limited one. One of the prominent manufacturers of common brick has recently stated that the yards along the river still contain sufficient brick to last more than half the season at the present rate of demand and many of the plants have considerable unburned brick in their kilns that will be held as a reserve. There is no change in the Raritan situation. Brick from this section are out of the market and no quotations are being made.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, March 29, 1918: Condition of market: Demand light; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10 to $10.25 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 7; sales, 3. Distribution: Manhattan, 1; Brooklyn, 1; New Jersey points, 1.

Structural Steel.—The announcement by the President that the existing scale of basic steel prices would be continued for the next three months settles many questions that have been responsible for withholding a number of important structural operations from an early start. There was much hope that the price for steel would be reduced and in anticipation of this reduction prospective builders were holding their work from the market. In the local market there has been practically no activity. A number of projects have been out for estimates, but there is no seeming disposition on the part of the owners to place their contracts at this time. Government work dominates the market in almost all departments and will be likely to for some time in the future.

Portland Cement.—Aside from the demand from Government sources the cement market has experienced but slight activity during the past week. The predicted advance in price was made effective last Saturday and the present market price is $2.55 a barrel in lots of 1,000 barrels or more. The base price is now $1.90 to dealers and $2 to consumers, less bags. There is very little private demand and the outlook from this source is not of the best, but the Government requirements are steadily growing and much is anticipated from this character of building during the summer and autumn. Manufacturers are having increasing difficulty in obtaining labor to operate their plants and also in obtaining the necessary fuel. At some points production is likely to be seriously curtailed owing to the lack of these essentials. There is practically no reserve, the plants adjacent to the Metropolitan district being about cleaned out.

Lumber.—There are no salient features to the lumber situation in the Metropolitan district. The market is quiet with only a slight demand from building sources other than that naturally coming from the enlarged program of Federal construction. This phase of building endeavor is rapidly being extended and each day brings announcements of additional structures necessary at the cantonments and base hospitals or for the work over in France. There is considerable of a demand from manufacturing consumers who have contracts for military equipment and supplies. The requirements for materials to be used in suburban building projects are fairly large and at the present time this phase of building activity is most encouraging. Local dealers are experiencing extreme difficulties in obtaining stock. The reserves on hand are broken and large orders take considerable time to fill. Although there has been a slight improvement in the transportation situation there is still great congestion.

Lime.—The market for this commodity is inactive and although there are small orders occasionally the situation is far from satisfactory. Since the increase in price on March 1, there has been no change and the present figure will undoubtedly maintain for quite some time. Only a slight quantity of lime is being used in Government construction work, so this phase of structural activity has not affected the lime market to any degree. There is no scarcity of lime in this market, although transportation difficulties and embargoes have considerably curtailed the arrival of new supplies.

Sand and Gravel.—The market for sand has picked up somewhat and there is a slightly better demand. Price is unchanged at $1.25 a cubic yard to dealers. Navigation is fully open to sand scows and sufficient quantities are coming in to supply all demands. The only difficulty is in obtaining adequate labor at production points. There is but little life to the gravel situation. Although some quotations are being made on definite orders at $2 a yard, deliveries are not guaranteed and supplies are only available after the immediate Government requirements are filled. From all accounts but little gravel will be obtainable for the balance of this year.

Rosendale Cement.—The market for this material is quiet, and no increased volume of business is possible until there is a general resumption of structural activity throughout the Metropolitan district. Some weeks ago the increased number of inquiries indicated an improved market condition, but these have not resulted in definite orders so far, and the prospects for immediate business are not particularly bright. Rosendale cement prices remain unchanged.

Wire Products.—The demand for wire and wire nails from the general trade is quiet and what business is current mostly comes from Federal sources. The Government has taken bids and will soon award contracts for 30,000 kegs of wire nails wanted by the Army Department. It is understood that this order is for shipment to France. The War Industries Board has reaffirmed prices on all wire products until June 30, and quotations will be made according to the old schedule till then.

Cut Nails.—The War Industries Board has reaffirmed the price of $4 per keg base, f. o. b. Pittsburgh, on carload lots of cut nails, until June 30. There is only a moderate demand and the jobbers are able to obtain better deliveries from the mills than have been possible for some time.

Window Glass.—The situation is quiet and both manufacturers and jobbers are not looking for an increase in activity for some time. There is but little business emanating from private building sources and practically the only current orders of any consequence are for the requirements of Government construction work. The schedule of manufacturers' discounts remains unchanged.

White and Red Lead.—Although there has been no substantial change in the price of these materials during the past two weeks, there is a firmer tone to the market, due no doubt to the advent of the spring season and the consequent increase in the demand for outside paints. No advance in prices is likely unless raw material costs are considerably increased.

Face Brick.—Although there are a number of high class operations current that will utilize a large number of face brick, the manufacturers are suffering increasing difficulties in obtaining labor and fuel, and from these factors no relief is in sight. Transportation matters are also hindering the producers, for they are forced to wait for cars even when production is possible.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Business in this market is very light, both public and private buying having fallen off considerably. There have been some recent inquiries of importance, but up to the present writing orders have not materialized. Government control prices continue to rule all quotations.

SURVEY OF BUILDING MATERIALS

Building Industries of New York Send
Data to Washington to Aid Government

THE Building Industries of New York has made a survey of the building material market in New York City for the purpose of providing first-hand, reliable and concise information regarding the quantities of basic materials on hand in New York City and vicinity available for construction work essential to the war program. The following is a digest of the condition of the market as applied to some of the products:

Asphaltum—The largest distributors, the Standard Oil Company and the Barber Asphalt Company, are not selling any Mexican asphaltum to the trade, and have none on hand. The latter company is selling a substitute—Dulcanite—for road and paving work. This product has to be used with a flux. The wholesale price of Mexican asphaltum, as of March 1, 1918, is $25 a ton as against a normal base, New York, of $15 a ton. Spot base price Dulcanite, as of March 16, 1918, carload lots, $20; less than carload lots, $22. Flux, carload lots, March 16, 1918, $30; less than carload lots, $32.

Brick—Hudson River common brick, not contracted for, in shed between Haverstraw and Mechanicsville, N. Y., totals between 300,000,000 and 400,000,000. The normal supply at this time of the year is about 700,000,000. There was on hand in dealers' yards, New York City, March 15, 1918, about 28,000,000 brick, sufficient to care for the New York building situation.

There is about 225,000,000 Raritan River common brick on hand. The normal for this year is about 400,000,000 brick. These plants can manufacture all the year round if labor can be obtained.

About 100,000,000 Long Island common brick is available. This commodity can be shipped to Manhattan if the price goes to about $11.75 a thousand wholesale.

Hackensack, N. J., common brick on hand totals about 75,000,000. The emergency construction work at Port Newark, N. J., has used up large quantities of material. Manufacture this year will be as near the maximum as labor and fuel supplies will permit. About 50,000,000 Staten Island brick is on hand, but of this 80 per cent. is contracted for or is being held in reserve for Government needs. Fuel shortage has practically closed down Portland cement manufacturing plants in the two eastern zones supplying New York. On March 15 free cement in Lehigh and Hudson districts indicated a shortage, based on shipments, and curtailed production of 2,000,000 barrels on April 1. On February 1, 1918, in Zone 1, there was on hand 3,000,000 barrels; on February 1, 1917, 3,510,000 barrels, and on February 1, 1916, 4,500,000 barrels.

Stocks on hand of Portland cement throughout the country on February 1, 1918, were only 63 per cent. of what they were in February, 1917. The cost of production in 1917 a barrel in the two eastern zones was about $1, while today the price is almost $2. The increasing cost of cooerage in cotton bags will force this price up to $2.25 during the summer.

Copper is being held for Government requirements. List prices as fixed by the Federal authorities govern the entire market, but deliveries are uncertain. The production for the first three months of this year was about 75,000,000 pounds a month.

Window and plate glass are being produced at about 25 per cent. of normal capacity, and the continuation is uncertain. At times during the present "fire" the industry has been about 80 per cent. closed down. Small window panes especially are hard to get, as cantonment work and Halifax reconstruction work has sapped the supply.

There were on hand at various plants owned by members of the Face Brick Association on February 1, 1918, the following quantities, over and above brick sold on accepted orders: Red shades, 12,000,000; flashed or iron spot shades, 13,000,000, and gray or buff shades, 18,000,000.

The gravel supplies in New York Harbor have been held under Government option. The authorities have taken options on the outputs of two large producing companies after an attempt was made to bring prices down to the upset level set by the navy. The quantity on hand is about 2,000,000 yards, less 500,000 yards taken out of the market by the Government. Of the 1,500,000 remaining about 900,000 are under contract.

Practically all the local output of hollow tile is being held for Government requirements. The supply is about 55 per cent. short, according to manufacturers. Labor and fuel shortage is affecting the output.

About 2,000,000 barrels of lime are available for the Government's use in the market. In the matter of mortar in any possible shortage of cement, lime can be used for non-bearing walls in many sections.

Lumber stocks vary. Shortage of ships and cars has made stocks very meagre. There is sufficient on hand, however, to meet all requirements.

While lath and reinforcing material, as reported by the association compiling this data, is in ample supply for any emergency that may develop through Government requirements, there is in stock at present between 300,000 and 400,000 square yards of wire lath; also a large quantity of sheets available.

Wire nails, like some other products, is under Government price control. There is no question about an adequate supply being on hand for both Government and private demands. The price today is 3.5c. a pound; cut nails, 4c., and fence wire, Pittsburgh, 3.25c. Plaster, which has large possibilities for emergency construction work, has not yet been called upon for Government work. Its use largely releases cement, lumber and expanded metal for use in quick housing, and is to a certain extent fireproof.

Sand, a by-product of gravel, mined simultaneously with gravel and grits, is scarce. Eastern plants bordering upon New York Harbor are in a position to supply Government work with any quantity of sand desired. Private work, however, is not taking large quantities.

Favoring weather has helped in the last few weeks the increasing of the production of pig iron, but the steel shell tonnage of 2,500,000 for the second half of the year as against 1,500,000 for the first half plainly indicates that structural work is secondary in importance at producing centers. The Government is about to place the first of 150,000 cars and 2,500 locomotives in its program, which will probably result in further replacement of construction orders.

Small lots of steel available for immediate construction work are on hand in many New York plants. One concern reports 1,600 tons of standard and Bethlehem shapes, plates and also a large stock of bolts, nuts, rivets, etc.

Theatre Contract Let.

A general contract has been awarded to the Longacre Construction Company, 185 Madison avenue, for the erection of a six-story fireproof theatre and office building at 1649 Broadway, south-east corner of 51st street. The owner of this operation is the Wendell Estate, 175 Broadway, and the lessee, the More-dall Realty Company, 233 Broadway. The plans and specifications were prepared by Thomas W. Lamb, architect, 644 Eighth avenue. This structure will have facades of face brick, limestone and terra cotta and will have ground dimensions of 100x288x137 feet.

Lawmakers Take Up Realty Board's Tax Bill

Legislative Amendments Fix Rate on Real Estate at 2.00—Comptroller Craig Offers Substitute—Legislature Adjourns Next Saturday

REAL estate men who went to Albany on Tuesday of this week to attend the joint hearing before the Senate Committees on Taxation and Retrenchment and New York City Affairs returned to the city considerably encouraged in the belief that the Legislature will pass bills that will open the way for the permanent relief of real estate from the great burden of taxation which it has been carrying for so long and which recently has been very materially increased.

The hearing was by far the most important held this year, because of the large representation of interests affected by the proposed legislation and because of the apparently friendly attitude of the lawmakers, and in the general recognition by both legislators and tax officials of the imperative necessity of affording relief to New York realty. It was necessary to hold the hearing in one of the largest rooms in the Capitol to accommodate the great number of people who appeared either to take part in the hearing or who represented interests that would be affected by the proposed legislation.

The joint committee meeting was held for the purpose of giving an opportunity for the development of any opposition to the bill proposed by the Real Estate Board of New York fixing the real estate tax at 1.75, with its attendant proposition that personal property should be taxed at two and one half mills to make up the deficit between the budget and the taxes obtained from real estate under this rate, and the six bills proposed by the Tax Department known as the Boylan bills.

Just before the hearing the New York City administration sprung a surprise by obtaining the introduction in the Senate near the close of the day's session of a bill prepared by Mr. King of the Corporation Counsel's office, under instructions from Comptroller Craig, proposing the listing of personal property under conditions similar to the National Government's regulations for the imposition of the income tax and fixing the personal property tax rate at eleven mills per dollar. This bill was also introduced by Senator Boylan, who asked that it be advanced to final passage immediately, but this was blocked by Senator Nicholl's objection. Minority Leader Wagner thereupon threatened that if the objection was persisted in he would attempt to prevent legislation of any character for the remainder of the legislative session.

As the direct result of the hearing Senator Boylan, on Wednesday in the Senate, offered amendments to the bill proposed by the Real Estate Board limiting the tax on real estate to twenty mills or 2.00 per hundred instead of 1.75, as proposed in the original measure, and making the personalty rate eleven mills, or $1.10 per hundred, instead of 2½ mills, or twenty-five cents per hundred as the bill originally read. These amendments were adopted by the Senate and the bill was recommended to the Committee on Affairs of the City of New York.

This amended bill is a compromise measure between the original Boylan bill and the ones proposed by the Tax Department and by Comptroller Craig.

The next step in the legislative program will be the reporting of the bill out of committee to take its place on the calendar for final passage. It is expected that this will be done next Monday night.

Among those who were present when the hearing began were Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Company; Laurence McGuire, president of the Real Estate

Board of New York; E. P. Doyle of the Real Estate Board; Walter Lindner, representing the Title Guarantee and Trust Company; President Jacob A. Cantor and Commissioners Louis A. Swazey and George H. Payne of the Tax Department, and representatives of the Brooklyn Board of Brokers, the New York Tax Reform Association, the Association of Manufacturers and Merchants and other organizations. Senators James A. Emerson and George Cromwell jointly presided.

A. C. Pleydell of the Tax Reform Association protested against the enactment of any of the bills proposed by the Tax Department aiming at increasing the revenues by the taxation of personal property on the general ground that these bills would be ineffective if they became laws, because their provisions were too loosely drawn and the penalties insignificant. Referring to the bill proposing the taxation of individual holdings of corporate stock he said that this measure involved double taxation, inasmuch as the corporation was already taxed on its stock. The corporation having to pay a tax upon the entire issue of its stock it was unjust, in his opinion, for an individual holder of any part of this issue to be called upon to pay an additional tax.

Mr. Pleydell also contended that if personal property was taxed in the tax district where such property is located, as proposed by the Tax Department, it would mean, for one thing, that a railroad train would be taxable in any district in which it might happen to be at the date of the tax return. He declared that the proposed listing of personal property, as outlined by the Tax Department, would net small results because the bill followed the lines of former efforts in this direction which had proved failures.

J. J. Merrill of the Corporation Tax Bureau said that if an effective listing system for personal property could be drawn up there would undoubtedly be disclosed over $60,000,000,000 of personal property of which only a bagatelle is now on the tax rolls. If this enormous amount of property could by any means be got on the rolls, and after all exemptions had been made, the tax rate would be so low that nobody could or would object to paying their allotment and the burden on real estate would be relieved. The poor people in the tenements were now carrying this burden in the form of rent payments. The workman who paid a rent of $16 per month was paying about $130 per year out of his poor earnings for the cost of government.

The City of New York, Mr. Merrill declared, is turning in the right direction but the reform looked for could not be accomplished through the legislation proposed by the Tax Department.

"There is no such thing as sacred property," said Mr. Merrill. "More than 90 per cent. of the personal property is on the exempt roll. We cannot keep on piling up the taxes. There are now 17 kinds of taxation. The steam railways alone pay taxes in seven different ways. Unless steps are taken to relieve the tax burdens in New York City socialism will be enormously increased when the men who are now fighting our battles 'over there' come back and demand that things be set right 'over here.'"

President Cantor explained that the bills introduced by Senator Boylan at the request of the Tax Department had been prepared after two months' investigation of the subject. It had at first been proposed to tax personal property at 1.50 so as to relieve real estate. The bills were meant to strengthen the Tax Department and he thought that if the listing of personal property was adopted the result aimed at would be attained.

Referring to the bill repealing the law exempting uncompleted buildings from taxation President Cantor said that the Department had found that buildings completed except for lettering the street number or fitting them with door knobs had escaped taxation for a year through this technicality although partly occupied. With regard to personal property exemptions it was not unusual for men to claim exemptions by setting up fictitious debts. Mr. Cantor called upon Mr. King of the Corporation Counsel's office, who had prepared the bills, to explain other provisions.

"If a general plan of listing personal property can be decided upon," said Mr. King, "and the assessors have before them sworn statements as to personal property holdings similar to the income tax returns made to the National Government they would have something definite to go on and the Tax Department could proceed with intelligence. The income tax law had proved that it was possible to list personal property and the rest was easy."

Mr. Murphy, representing the New York Central railroad, declared that if the bill to assess personal property in the tax district in which it is located should become a law the Empire State Express would be liable to taxation in 658 tax districts through which it ran in making the trip from New York to Buffalo.

The discussion of the Tax Department bills was brought to an end by Senator Cromwell, who inquired how the assessors would get hold of the man who tucked his stock certificates into his pocket and lived in New Jersey, and by Senator Ellsworth, who demanded to know if the city could not cut down its running expenses and so release the situation. There was a chorus of "Nos!" to this latter question.

"It can't be done," said Senator Robert Wagner. "The cost of government everywhere, National, State and City, is constantly mounting and it is impossible to stay it."

Comptroller Craig was then called on to explain the bill referred to at the introduction of this story which had been introduced by Senator Boylan for the city administration. This bill contains the following provisions:

Every person residing in the City of New York owning personal property which, without deductions for debts or exemptions, is of the value of $3,000 or over, shall during the month of July each year furnish to the Department of Taxes and Assessments a written statement under oath setting forth all his or her personal property owned on the first day of July in each year and also setting forth as of the latter date his or her debts and other deductions for purposes of taxation against his or her personal property.

Succeeding sections of the bill are identically similar to the foregoing except that they apply to every corporation having an office or place of business, or any person residing in or having an office or place of business in New York City who has personal property in his or her control as agent, trustee, guardian, executor or administrator.

Corporations organized under the laws of the State of New York and taxable in the City of New York on its capital and surplus stocks, having assets which without deductions or exemptions are of a value of $3,000; and non-resident or foreign corporations having an office or place of business, or doing business, in the City of New York and owning personal property which without deductions or exemptions is of the value of $3,000, shall also file similar statements.

Failure to comply with the law entails a penalty of $100 for every failure and an additional sum of $10 for each day that such failure continues, and in addition thereto fifty per cent. of the tax payable; and in addition such delinquent person or corporation shall not be entitled to review by certiorari any assessment for the year in question against their property, stock, profits or capital.

Provision is made for examinations under oath, production of papers, and testimony for proof or disproof by any statement made, and for the transfer of an assessment from the roll of a borough where it is improperly made to the proper borough roll.

The taxable status of all real property shall be fixed for each year on the first day of October in the preceding year and the taxable status of all personal property shall be fixed for each year on the first day of July in the preceding year.

Examinations for reductions of assessments on real and personal property shall be made during the last 15 days of November and during December. Decisions shall be rendered within 30 days and in no case later than Dec. 31 on personal property and Feb. 1 on real property. The Tax Board, during the month of December, is to prepare the rolls on personal property computed at eleven mills upon each dollar of assessed valuation, and these rolls are to be certified to the Board of Aldermen as under the existing laws, and the Board shall fix the rate on real estate not later than March 3.

All taxes on personal property shall be due and payable on Jan. 10 and on real estate on May 1 and Nov. 1.

The court in which any suit is brought for the enforcement of payment of any tax on personal property may, on motion of either party, dismiss the suit without costs, or conditionally, upon the payment of costs, or may, on the facts, in its discretion, dismiss such suit on the payment of such part of tax and costs as may be just, in any case where it shall be satisfied that the persons or corporations taxed are unable for want of property, or other reason, to pay any tax, or have an equitable defense to such act or proceeding.

Comptroller Craig explained that the foregoing bill was drawn to meet the objection raised to the bill proposed by the Real Estate Board of a flat rate of 1.75 that it left the city "up in the air" for the money necessary for expenses of the government.

"Under this bill," said the Comptroller, "we will collect what taxes on personal property we can and then when we know just what we have got we can fix the rate on real estate to cover the balance necessary."

"The personal property tax is payable on January 10 and the penalty starts in 30 days. In February the tax rolls are certified to the Board of Aldermen. Before they fix the rate on real estate they will deduct from the total amount necessary the sum which has been collected from personal property."

"We have fixed the rate on personal property at eleven mills on the dollar, or 1 1/10 per cent. This rate was determined on because we found that the city received about $4,000,000 from the tax of one per cent. on bank stocks and it was deemed unadvisable to make the personal property rate less or equal to the bank rate, and the proposed rate of 1 1/2 seemed too high. So we have made it 1 1/10 per cent."

"I know that men who have personal property will pay the tax if they are given a chance. I, personally, have for years been assessed on less than I had and on less than I could afford to pay. I know of one apartment house worth about $400,000 in which I can count up over $5,000,000 of personal property. Give honest men a chance. They don't know where the tax office is. And give a lash to the slackers."

"The Federal income tax has proved the value of compulsory returns on personal property. This bill can't wait. There are only two other methods of raising money—an income tax and an occupation tax. It would be infamous to pass an income tax law while the Government is collecting money for war purposes by that method."

Senator Emerson asked if the Comptroller had made any estimate of the amount of money that could be raised under the provisions of the bill. He replied that the total amount of personal property had been estimated as high as $135,000,000,000. Mr. Doyle of the Real Estate Board, he said, had scaled this down to $20,000,000,000 which might be subject to new taxation. On this amount a one per cent. tax would bring in $200,000,000, which is about what the budget calls for, leaving nothing to be paid by real estate. If the tax was fixed at 1 1/10 per cent., as the bill called for, the amount to be collected would run up to $220,000,000.

"This bill," continued the Comptroller, "does not fix the status of any property. It only fixes the rate and provides for the collection of the tax. Let me say to you, gentlemen, that there are vaults in lower Manhattan bigger than

Real Estate Leaders For Six-cent Fares

Strong Reasons Are Given for Placing the City's Deficit Burden on Those Who Ride

BY ROBERT E. DOWLING,

President of the City Investing Company.

I am in favor of a six-cent fare. A five-cent fare will not pay the interest on the city's bonds issued for the building of the subways. This interest will then have to be met by taxation, mainly upon real estate, now admitted by all to be overburdened.

Those who ride should pay. If they do not, the rent payer will have to. It is only reasonable that during the war the increased operating cost should be met by people who receive the service.

BY ROBERT E. SIMON,

President of the Henry Morgenthau Company.

In the past we have always taken for granted when the head of a large corporation made a statement which was contrary to the belief of the public, that he was not sincere. That day has passed. Corporations take the public into their confidence. They are compelled to do so if they wish to succeed. Mr. Shonts has made public figures which indicate that the traction company cannot operate under the present schedule. We must assume that these figures are correct. If correct his arguments are unanswerable and they should be acted upon without delay. If, on the other hand, they are wrong, let some one point out the true facts.

The Bronx will get value received from a six-cent fare. There is no city in the world where such a long ride can be obtained for five cents as in New York City. In fact the public is receiving more than it is entitled to. It has been estimated that there are about 300,000 visitors from distant points in New York City daily. It is safe to assume that each one takes more than one round trip daily, on one or more of the traction lines. Add to this the suburban traffic of all the roads entering New York City and it will be seen what a large percentage of the increased revenue will be borne by those who benefit through the advantages of the big city and who pay no part of its running expenses.

Real estate should be relieved of as much of its burden as possible, and I am sure that owners will favor the fare change and in the long run the rent-payer will also see the wisdom of the move.

BY FRANKLIN PETTIT,

President of the Realty Company of America.

The real essence of the problem is that inasmuch as the operating company has a preferential, a deficit must be met as the figures stand. The public can without feeling the slight advance in fares pay this one cent additional, and thus distribute fairly what might otherwise become an unfair burden and hardship to one class, the real estate owners. I believe the public will do this willingly.

The other alternative, a further advance in the tax rate, would be most dangerous and I might say even precarious just now.

When sanely measured up, the two alternatives leave little to be considered. A six-cent fare will do no harm, and the real public will pay it willingly under the circumstances.

BY HERBERT E. JACKSON,

Of the Lawyers Title & Trust Company.

I do not know, from any direct knowledge in my possession, whether the present five-cent fare is sufficient to pay the operating expenses of the transit lines. I believe that the fare charged should conform with the necessities. Capital charges, operating expenses and a reasonable profit to stockholders should be met.

If five cents is not enough to meet these requirements an adjustment should be made.

BY WILLIAM H. WHEELOCK,

Vice-President, Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Co.

I think the public utilities corporations in general should be allowed an increase in rates, and this applies particularly to the street railroad companies, though it also is true of the gas and electric light companies.

Real estate should not be called upon to reduce a deficit in the operating expenses of public utilities. Rents must be increased, due to the lack of new construction work, the increased cost of operating existing buildings and the great increase in taxes. Gradually this increase will reach the small tenant.

In my opinion, anything that will hold down rents should be advocated.

BY CYRIL H. BURDETT,

Vice-President, New York Title & Mortgage Co.

I favor the six-cent fare on the ground that I do not believe the taxpayers or the real estate owners should be charged with the entire expenses of these improvements. The argument that the real estate owner should pay the entire cost because he gets the increased value through the operation of the subway is not conclusive.

To be sure property is increased in value on account of the service given by the transit lines, but that advantage is offset by the increase in taxes which he has to pay for other purposes. He should not be the one to bear the entire cost of subway construction, as would be the case were the fares not increased.

The increase in fares would be paid by thousands of people who are residents in other states and communities, and who are visitors to New York City. With the six-cent fare they would be bearing part of the burden in return for the increased facilities for travel and other conveniences which they obtain here.

BY FREDERICK JOHNSON,

President, 42nd Street & Madison Avenue Co.

The city is built upon two things, the country as a whole and the local population. All must be transported around the city. It is obvious that the more people there are to carry, the heavier will be the cost. Better transit facilities mean time saved. Time saved means money made. But this also means an added outlay.

I do not know whether six cents is the proper amount to be charged, but looking at the matter from a broad point of view, whatever is necessary to provide suitable transportation should be done.

BY WILLIAM P. RAE,

President, Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers.

The present and future development of the city is largely dependent upon the transit lines. The transit facilities are an important factor, if not the most important, affecting the greatest number of the population within and without the boundaries of Greater New York.

Under the original Dual System Agreement, the city planned to spend about two hundred million dollars and the railroad companies about the same amount. The joint arrangement whereby the separate railroad companies agreed to pool their earnings and operate over each others' lines made it possible for passengers to travel from borough to borough without change of cars, and for a single fare.

The city entered into the contract in its effort to provide a full and better service throughout the city and assumed the question of transit as an added function of government. The argument advanced by those in authority at the time, was that the receipts would offset the interest upon the investment, and further allow

Realty Men's Plans for Third Liberty Loan Drive

Teams Will Enter Field Today and Make Thorough Canvass of the Market—
Real Estate Board Co-operates

THE Real Estate Division of the Liberty Loan Committee today begins its campaign to obtain subscriptions to the Third Liberty Loan. Through concerted action the teams entering the field will make a thorough canvass of all five Boroughs in order to reach everyone interested in the real estate market in Greater New York.

Hon. Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank for this District, has appointed a Committee, headed by Alfred E. Marling, as chairman, and Charles S. Brown, Vice-Chairman, and Aaron Rabinowitz, Secretary.

Similar committees have been organized for other trades and the total subscriptions by the various trades will be carefully tabulated and published during the campaign. Each trade or profession will be responsible for the sale of bonds to all those identified with such trade or profession.

While the loan should be subscribed through each respective trade, nevertheless, each purchaser of Liberty Bonds can make such financial arrangement with his own bank as will suit his personal convenience.

Meetings of the Real Estate Division have been held at the rooms of the Real Estate Board of New York several times during the week, at which time the plan of campaign was outlined. The city has been divided, first of all, into Boroughs, and in some instances, notably in Manhattan, the Boroughs have been subdivided. The following team captains have been appointed for Manhattan:

Alfred E. Marling, Charles S. Brown and Alfred R. Kirkus; Battery to Fulton street, east and west of Broadway.

Charles F. Noyes; Fulton street to Canal street.

Aaron Rabinowitz and Maurice Mandelbaum; Canal street to 14th street, east and west of Broadway.

Robert E. Dowling and Lewis H. May; 14th to 34th streets, east and west of Broadway.

George R. Read and Franklin Pettit; 34th to 42d streets, east and west of Broadway.

Robert E. Simon and S. A. Paxson; 42d to 59th streets, east and west of Fifth avenue.

Albert B. Ashforth and Douglas L. Elliman; 59th to 110th streets, east of Fifth avenue.

Charles S. Lyons and F. R. Wood; 59th to 110th streets, west of Central Park West.

Dr. Charles V. Paterno; 110th to 145th streets, west of Morningside drive.

Livingston Wetmore, 145th to 181st streets, including Fort George section.

Joseph P. Day, 181st street to City line, west of Van Cortlandt Park.

William P. Rae and Howard C. Pyle will look after subscriptions in Brooklyn.

George F. Ryan will have jurisdiction over Queens.

Willis H. May, Rockaway Peninsula.

Alfred J. Eno, Jamaica.

Cornelius G. Kolff, Staten Island.

In speaking of the campaign Mr. Rabinowitz said yesterday:

"The city has been zoned and the committee, as a whole, is responsible for the subscriptions obtained from the real estate field. In order to make the work more thorough the team captains have the privilege of appointing as many helpers as they see fit, so that the canvass will be thorough and no one overlooked.

"The Committee has obtained a card list of 7,400 names of prospects, of which about 3,600 are in Manhattan. These cards are arranged in districts, so that with the least possible delay each team captain can collate those who are in his district, and make a proper division among his assistants.

"The members of the Real Estate Board of New York are on the various teams, and are giving hearty support to the movement. The spirit of unselfishness which has been displayed is most gratifying, and we all feel sure that the 'drive' will produce excellent results. The Board has donated its rooms, at 217 Broadway, for headquarters of the Committee, and applicants can obtain information by applying to that address.

"It is not the purpose of the teams to collect the actual money or checks, but simply to get a signature on a blank, which shows that a given number of bonds has been subscribed for by the individual signing the slip. This slip will be turned in at the headquarters of the Liberty Loan Committee, 120 Broadway.

"The signer has the privilege of purchasing the bonds wherever he may see fit, either through his bank, another institution, or elsewhere. The Real Estate Division, however, will receive the credit for the subscription.

"The services of Guy C. Carleton has been donated by William Salomon Co., the bond house, and he will act in co-operation with the Real Estate Committee in giving what aid he can in supervising the work of the Committee."

a sinking fund in final redemption of the debt. Now, we are told a deficit is at hand and must be met by an increased tax upon real estate.

The only question that seems to concern the traveling public is quick transit and plenty of it. My observation of passengers willing to pay the extra fare by transfer from the trolley lines to connect with the subway between Brooklyn and Manhattan would tend to show that the traveling public would prefer to pay even a ten-cent fare in order to obtain quick transit and the added facilities of subway service rather than the delays and lack of direct interborough service, as provided by the trolley lines.

Real estate owners now are taxed beyond the limit, and if the city is to face a deficit under the dual system contracts then the same spirit of co-operation that actuated the city authorities to provide better railroad facilities should prompt the traveling public to respond now and accept the rate of fare at cost whether it be six cents or more. The possible inconvenience of the added penny to the present nickel fare could be overcome to some extent in that direction by the coining of a new six-cent piece.

It cannot be shown since the city undertook the contract to spend millions for added transit that it has been a direct cause in any way to increase values on real estate, or in any increase of rents. In fact, on the other hand, real estate values have declined during the past few years in most every part of the older or built-up section, and while the suburbs or outlying sections have been better served by the added transit, no appreciable added value has been felt. The proposed transit was anticipated and discounted, which created over-speculation in many sections with corresponding reversals.

The main question today is relief of the overburden of taxation, and as real estate is the main asset of the city, it is as important to conserve that asset for tax borrowing purposes as it is to the individual owner, and the plan to charge real estate with the extra rate of fare over five cents to meet the deficit seems to be unjust and inequitable in distributing the cost of government.

The time has arrived when the people who desire the many privileges, be it transit or otherwise, should bear their proportionate share of the cost of city government.

Building Industries Organize Loan Campaign

Committee Perfects Plans and Will Maintain Executive Offices—
Individual Trades in Greater New York Will Be Solicited

ALTHOUGH the building business has been almost demoralized by the intolerable working conditions that have maintained over a long period, patriotism in the building industry is undiminished and enthusiasm for the success of the Third Liberty Loan has not been permitted to die, or even lag. Just as soon as the preliminary plans for the new loan were obtainable the allied organizations which comprise the industry in Greater New York appointed its general committee to have charge of this drive.

Third Liberty Loan subscriptions from the builders and the interests closely affiliated with them will be made through the Building and Allied Trades Committee for the Third Liberty Loan. Otto M. Eidlitz was elected chairman; Charles J. Kelley, First Vice-President; John P. Kane, Second Vice-President, and Francis A. Shinn, Secretary. The committee is fully organized and will maintain executive offices during the term of the drive.

Otto M. Eidlitz, chairman of the committee, said yesterday:

"Despite the fact that the present war catastrophe has brought the building industry of New York almost to a standstill, the chairmen of the Liberty Loan subcommittees, who are leaders in the different branches of the industry, are giving such a demonstration of patriotic enthusiasm and showing such a desire to make good to our country in this national crisis, that no effort will be spared to make the campaign a success. To accomplish this in these times means, however, the united support of both the employers and employees of our industry and this support our committee most urgently asks for.

"No industry has hitherto made a better showing in accordance with its means to meet the Government's needs than have the building trades of New York, and our committee feels sure that this industry will again meet its obligations to our country as citizens and patriots."

The general committee includes in its membership representatives from all of the separate organizations allied to the building industry, and will be the headquarters through which the subcommittees from the individual organizations will report and work. The prime function of the general committee will be to act as the clearing house for the ideas brought in by the separate trades, disseminate information as to the progress of the loan and assist in every possible capacity in making the drive a complete success so far as the structural interests are concerned. This committee will provide the literature and, when needed, speakers for the meetings of the separate trade organizations. Furthermore, it will assist generally in planning the local campaigns for the sub-trade committees.

Individual trade organizations have each appointed Liberty Loan Committees from their membership; the chairman of each automatically becoming a member of the general committee previously mentioned. Walter Reid, Jr., represents the Mason Builders and General Contractors' Association; Benjamin Traitel, the Marble Industry, Tile Mantel and Grate Association and the Mosaic Employers; Lincoln Pierce, the Cut Stone Association and the Stone Setters' Association; Alfred Daybill, the House Movers and Shorers' Association, and the Hoisting Association; C. A. Fullerton, the Ornamental Bronze and Iron Masters and the Wire Work Manufacturers; F. G. Webber, the Cement Workers; M. F. Westergren, the Composition Roofers and Waterproofers, Metal Covered Door and Window Manufacturers, Roofers and Sheet Metal Workers and the Metal Ceiling Association; Andrew J. Post, the Iron Erectors' League; Davis Brown, the Plasterers; John I. Downey, the Master Carpenters' Association and the Parquet Floor Association; Albert Wahle, the Lighting Fixture Association; W. H. Curtin, the Steam and Hot Water Fitters' Association; Carl Dabelstein, the Painters and Decorators; Max Baumann, the Metal Furring and Lathing Association; Joseph H. Jasper, the Plumbers; William G. McCune, the Elevator Manufacturers; Edgar A. Levy, the Investing Builders, and Frank E. Wise, the Masons' Material Dealers.

In the drive for the Second Liberty Loan the building interests, through its general committee, made an excellent record. A total of nearly $10,000,000 was subscribed through this allied organization and there is every intention of exceeding this figure in the forthcoming drive, if possible.

Practically every one of the separate organizations have called meetings at the Building Trades Club, to perfect the working plans for the drive for bond sales and arouse enthusiasm among the membership. A number of the meetings have already taken place and the Sheet Metal Workers' Association reports that more than $45,000 in Third Loan subscriptions have thus far been received.

The subcommittees of the individual trade units will canvass their membership by various methods. Personal visits by committeemen will be made, the telephone used extensively, and also by a large use of the mails for distributing literature and letters. No medium of approach will be overlooked; every effort will be made to obtain subscriptions early in the campaign.

Municipal Ownership Sidetracked at Albany

Albany.—Municipal ownership, the adoption of which would bring New York City face to face with financial calamity, according to opinions repeatedly expressed by tax experts appearing before legislative committees, was effectually disposed of this week. Revived time and time again through the efforts of Senator Robert F. Wagner, sponsor of the bill in the Senate, it remained for the special legislative committee created under the Brown resolution to consign municipal ownership to the legislative morgue.

While Senator Wagner was preparing to resuscitate the bill the special committee headed by Senator George F. Argetsinger, of Monroe, reported in favor of the creation of a commission to investigate municipal ownership in its relation to municipal finance.

"Owing to the great importance of the issues involved in the propositions submitted to the committee and the shortness of time between now and the prospective adjournment of the Senate, we suggest that the principle of municipal ownership of public utilities should be more fully considered by a special committee appointed by the Legislature which committee should report to the Legislature in 1919, or in the event that the foregoing suggestion is not acceptable that the whole matter be held in abeyance."

A minority report by Senator George F. Thompson who also introduced a municipal ownership bill dissenting from the suggestions of the majority was submitted to the Senate at the same time. His dissent was predicated more upon his natural antipathy to the Public Service Commissions which he investigated as Chairman of a Legislative Committee in 1915 than upon his belief in municipal ownership.

With adjournment without date definitely set for April 13, and in the face of the adverse report of the Municipal Ownership Special Committee, it would be impossible to trouble this session further with the problem.

Legislature Should Grant Relief Now.

It is announced from Albany that the Legislature will finish its annual session next Saturday. This means that whatever is to be accomplished in the way of legislation before another year must be accomplished quickly.

No problem pending before the Legislature is so vital to the City of New York as the question of obtaining relief for the over-taxed realty owners in the metropolis. A burden has been placed upon them which is beyond justification. They are entitled to a square deal, and it is to be hoped that the Legislature of 1918, even though the time be now short, will afford the relief which is sought.

Much good is likely to result from the important meeting in Albany on Tuesday, when Mr. Laurence McGuire, President of the Real Estate Board of New York, Mr. Robert E. Dowling, President of the City Investing Company, Mr. Edward P. Doyle, Chairman of the Budget Committee of the Real Estate Board, Comptroller Craig, President Cantor of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, and other prominent New Yorkers went over the situation with leaders in the Senate and the Assembly.

If any influential member of the Legislature prior to Tuesday's meeting was in ignorance as to the vital necessity for remedial action, there no longer is any excuse for ignorance on that point.

Many vital reasons were brought out emphasizing the fact that New York realty owners have not been getting a square deal in the matter of taxation. This was conclusively shown, as it has been shown on many previous occasions. Mr. McGuire, Mr. Dowling and Mr. Doyle made their points with such telling effect on Tuesday, however, that the justice of what they are contending for was conceded on all sides.

This was a big gain in itself. But it also made more imperative than ever the necessity for quick action. Now that the legislative leaders have come to understand the fairness and importance of the fight New York realty owners are making, the time is opportune for getting results.

The danger is, with the end of the legislative session so near and with the multiplicity of suggestions which have been proposed, that the question of relief for real estate owners, the need of which is admitted by all those who have even a remote knowledge of the subject, will become so muddled nothing will be accomplished at this session.

One thing is evident, namely, the real estate men who ought to know what is best have had before the Legislature a bill designed to relieve the situation, this measure having been prepared after a careful study of all the facts. The lawmakers should give this proposal very careful consideration before taking up new propositions which may be of doubtful value and which certainly have not been as carefully adapted to the various important interests involved as has the measure drawn by the real estate men.

Again Ready to Do Their Part

The Third Liberty Loan drive opens today and patriotic people all over the United States are taking off their coats, prepared to do their utmost toward raising the three billion dollars for which the government is asking to prosecute the war.

New York City, as usual, is expected by the rest of the country to bear a very large proportion of this enterprise. Just as the metropolis responded splendidly to the First and Second Liberty Loans, so it may be depended upon in the present drive not to disappoint the government at Washington and the Allies abroad.

The real estate men and the building and allied trades of New York are showing once again that they can be depended upon when called to a patriotic service.

Under the chairmanship of Mr. Alfred E. Marling, a Real Estate Division has been formed and to it has been assigned a very important part of the Liberty Loan work in the metropolis. Mr. Marling has had no difficulty in enlisting the co-operation of earnest and influential workers.

With Mr. Otto M. Eidlitz as chairman, a Committee of the Building and Allied Trades has been formed, and patriotic leaders in these various lines have joined the new drive with enthusiastic spirit.

These men, representing highly important interests, may be depended upon to give the same good account of themselves as they have in the preceding Liberty Loan campaigns.

Realty Should Not Bear This Burden.

Wide interest has been shown in the authoritative statements on the subject of six-cent fares which appeared in the last issue of the Record and Guide. President McGuire, of the Real Estate Board, and President Shonts, of the Interborough system, showed conclusively the importance of the matter in its relation to the real estate interests of the city.

That their views are shared by other well-informed students of the realty situation is evidenced in the series of statements from prominent real estate men which appear elsewhere in this issue.

Mr. Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Company, declares unequivocally in favor of a six-cent fare on the local transportation lines. Mr. Dowling holds that those who ride should pay, and that the increased operating cost, due to war conditions, should be paid by the people who receive the service.

Mr. William H. Wheelock, vice-president of the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, holds that the street railroad companies, and perhaps the gas and electric light companies as well, should be allowed to make an increase in rates. Mr. Wheelock rightly declares that real estate owners should not be called upon to pay a deficit in the operating expenses of public utilities.

Mr. Cyril H. Burdett, vice-president of the New York Title & Mortgage Company, also declares frankly in favor of a six-cent fare, he maintaining that the taxpayers or the real estate owners should not be charged with an undue share of the cost of these public utility improvements.

Mr. Herbert E. Jackson, of the Lawyers Title & Trust Company, maintains that if a five-cent fare is not sufficient to meet capital charges, operating expenses and a reasonable profit to stockholders, an adjustment should be made which will do so.

Mr. Robert E. Simon, president of the Henry Morgenthau Company, emphasizes the desirability of making visitors from outside the city bear a part of the burden. Mr. Simon logically points out that with the higher fare a large percentage of the increased revenue will be paid by these outsiders, who benefit through the advantages of the big city, but who pay no part of its running expenses.

As was brought out in the last issue of the Record and Guide, a deficit in operating the city transportation lines is at hand and must be paid. The city can pay it by adding many millions annually to the tax burdens of the realty owners and rent payers, or the burden can be distributed among all who use the transportation lines, including the hundreds of thousands from outside the city which enjoy the advantages of these facilities daily.

Lawmakers Take Up Realty Board's Tax Bills

this committee room filled with personal property, but we can't get at it for taxation purposes unless you pass this bill. I am not afraid that if you do make it law that the men who own these huge amounts of personal property will divert them outside the city. They are here in New York because it is New York, and they will stay here."

"Do you know the amount of personal property that is exempt under the law?" asked Mr. Merrill. "I have in my office the true return of a corporation which has $104,000,000 of personal property and has exemptions for $116,000,000."

"We are dealing only with property which is not subject to exemption and not now taxed," declared the Comptroller.

Robert E. Dowling drew the attention of the committee to the original bill introduced by Senator Boylan fixing the real estate at 1.75.

"We are glad," he said, "if the presentation of the Comptroller's bill has focused the attention of the Legislature upon the necessity of affording relief to real estate. The situation is intolerable. Realty in addition to having the rate constantly increased is now being assessed at ten per cent over its real value.

"Rather than see things go on as they have been going we would prefer to have the whole tax on personal property as it is now levied wiped out. It has become such a comparatively small amount as to be practically negligible. It is more than probable that the tax rate will be advanced next year another 25 or 30 points, bringing it up to 2.50 or 2.60. There is also the deficit of about $12,000,000 in the Dual Subway contracts to be taken care of.

"We have proposed a flat rate of 1.75 on real estate and a 2½ mills tax on personal property. We believe that if the tax on personalty is made too high it will be ineffective, while a low tax will meet with ready response by owners of personal property. There is such a vast amount of taxable property of this description that a very low rate, such as we have suggested, will bring in all the money necessary to make up the difference between what the 1.75 flat rate on real estate brings in and the amount necessary to cover the total expenses of the government."

"Why not put a 5 or 6-mill rate on the whole big lot of personal property and let it go at that?" asked Senator Ellsworth.

"Well," replied Comptroller Craig, "put this bill through at the 1 1/10 per cent. rate and get the personal property on the lists. Then, next year, we can all come up here and consent to a reduction to 5 or 6 mills. The first thing to do is to get the lists made."

Laurence McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board, said that it was possible that there might be many abuses of the law exempting uncompleted buildings from taxes.

"But you must remember," declared Mr. McGuire, "that the Government has been exercising its prerogative in commandeering materials which may be necessary for the completion of buildings. A building only one-eighth completed should not be taxed."

President Cantor interrupted to say that he knew of four big apartment houses that had escaped taxation this year on trivial technicalities.

"The Comptroller comes here," continued Mr. McGuire, "and says that his bill will relieve the city from embarrassment, and that if it is passed the question of the rate can be taken up again next year and adjusted to the actual needs of the city. The Comptroller is in a position to know what is necessary but if he assumes the authorship of this bill he will also, I think, assume the responsibility for it."

The hearing was then adjourned.

Conferences among the real estate men after their return to this city, among themselves and together with representatives of large financial institutions, resulted in establishing the fact that the relief demanded by real estate interests was sufficiently provided for in the measures proposed by the Real Estate Board in the original Boylan bill for a flat 1.75 rate and a tax of 2½ mills on personalty.

It is the almost universal opinion that personal property owners may not be any more willing to pay 1 1/10 per cent. than they would 1.50 per cent., and that if so high a rate is enacted into law it will have a tendency to the secretion of personalty by every possible means and the evasion of taxation if it can in any way be accomplished.

The belief is equally strong that if the very low rate of 2½ mills had been retained a tremendous amount of taxable property would have been willingly disclosed and that not brought to the surface quickly smoked out by fixing the penalty for evasion of taxation at the same rate as for real estate—five times the amount of the tax. It was also generally conceded that if the personalty rate is small there will be such a large amount of taxes collected that the loss of the $4,000,000 now collected from banks will not be felt.

But the compromise will afford immense relief to real estate interests and they are therefore not disposed to offer any serious objections to the passage of the bill in its present shape.

The Legislature adjourns April 13 so that there is only a week in which to secure legislation at this session.

Budget of Sales Includes Several Downtown Buildings—To Pay Off Large Mortgage

THE budget of sales reported by brokers contained a number of interesting transactions, including several downtown properties. The Century Building, a twenty-one story structure, at 74 Broadway, through to New street, changed hands. While the consideration was not stated in the deed, the property was sold subject to a mortgage of $950,000. The revenue stamps attached amounted to $425, which would indicate that the property brought $1,375,000.

The twenty-story office building, at 46 to 52 Broad street, was transferred during the week by the New York Life Insurance Company to the Broadex Realty Company, for a stated consideration of $2,000,000. A mortgage of $1,750,000 was also placed upon record. It bears interest at five per cent., due April 1, 1933.

At a recent meeting of the stockholders of the real estate company which owns the Metropolitan Opera House property it was decided to pay off the mortgage of $1,000,000, which has encumbered the property for the past quarter of a century. The mortgage is held by the United States Trust Company. The mortgage will be liquidated through the payment of $30,000 for each box by April 15, thus yielding $1,050,000, which is sufficient to meet the obligation and also the coupons due on May 1. Without the mortgage obligation the annual assessment of the boxholders will be reduced from $4,500 to $3,000, which will be a saving of $1,500 a year to each owner.

The Beaver Arcade Building, a twelve-story office building at 23 and 25 Beaver street, with an "L" in New street, has been sold by the Metropolitan Trust Company. The selling company acquired the property last June, as the result of a foreclosure action to recover a mortgage and liens aggregating about $705,000. The price paid at auction was $670,000.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, acting for suffrage interests, took title to the group of properties belonging to the late Mrs. Frank Leslie. The properties involved are the three three-story dwellings at 363 to 367 West 117th street; also 2767 Decatur avenue; also a plot on Sedgwick and Bailey avenues; also 2385 Walton avenue, and a lot 25x100 feet, at the southwest corner of Heath avenue and Victor place.

Mrs. Leslie left the bulk of her fortune, estimated to amount to more than $1,500,000, for the furtherance of the enfranchisement of women. The court recently eliminated contestants of the will and directed that the estate be administered according to the will.

State Comptroller Travis has recommended that an inventory be taken at once to ascertain just how much and what real estate the State of New York owns, and that a Central Bureau be established for recording all conveyances. There are no lists of property held by the State other than the record showing land acquired under tax sales or mortgages or in forest preserve counties by the Commissioners of the Land Board. Such lists, however, fail to show accurately the boundaries of the different parcels included in these deeds.

It has been in the past the custom, when lands are acquired by the State, to have the title placed in the names of the various State institutions, consequently the deeds do not run to the people of the State, and in many instances, therefore, no records exist in any State office.

Advertising for Bids.

The Public Service Commission, despite the present condition of the labor and steel markets, is making a vigorous effort to get the Culver Rapid Transit Railroad, in Brooklyn, completed so that residents of the section it traverses may have the benefit of the facilities it will afford. The Commission has therefore begun advertising for bids for a part of the construction on Section No. 3 of this line, extending from a point near Avenue X, in Gravesend avenue, over streets and private property to a connection with the Coney Island Terminal of the B. R. T. near Sheepshead Bay Road. The section is approximately 3,500 feet in length. The portion of construction for which bids are now being asked is for a supply of the necessary steel plates and girders and for the erection of the same over the whole section. The Commission also plans in the near future to let a contract for the construction of the necessary column foundations and supports for this elevated structure. There will be one station on Section 3, viz.: at Neptune avenue, and known as the Van Sicklen Station.

Express Companies Want Increase.

Hearings have been held and closed by the Public Service Commission on the applications of the New York Transfer Company and the Westcott Express Company for permission to increase their rates for the carrying of trunks and other baggage. The company has a zone system in operation, and the proposed increase will amount approximately to ten cents per package. It was stated on behalf of the Westcott Express Company that during 1917 it did business at a net loss, while on behalf of the other company it was said that the income had been reduced to a point where, if a proper amount were charged for depreciation, little or no profit would be shown.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 314.—In October, 1915, we made a lease for three years on a business property expiring October, 1918. Incorporated in the lease, however, was an option giving the lessee the privilege of renewal for a further term of two years; namely, from October, 1918, to October, 1920. This option has just been exercised. Will you inform us if we are entitled to a further commission for the two years embodied in the option beginning October, 1918?

W. B. M.

Answer No. 314.—Special Rule Number 2 of the Real Estate Board of New York provides as follows:

"Should there be a clause in a lease made for a term under twenty years, giving the lessee the option of a further term, and should the lessee avail himself of such option the owner shall pay the broker commissioning such lease the commission due on the rent to be paid during such extension at the time that said option is exercised."

As among members of the Board, the enforcement of this rule would be carried out according to constitutional requirement. In other cases it might be difficult to collect the additional commission unless there was some provision in the lease providing for it. It would also be difficult to collect the additional commission if the building had changed ownership in the meantime. Ethically the broker is entitled to the additional commission.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Provisions in Lease.

THE New York Appellate Division, H. M. Weill Co. v. Creveling, 168 N. Y. Supp. 385, holds that a lease containing a clause that rent for certain years should be regulated by appraisal by experts, which did not state the number of experts, who should select them, or what would be done if they disagreed, was too incomplete to be specifically enforced. It is also held that a provision "to improve the said property to the extent of not less than $10,000" was too indefinite and uncertain to be specifically enforced.

Broker's Commission.

The New York Appellate Division holds, Hall v. Schiff, 167 N. Y. Supp. 362, that where a broker contracted with the individual defendant for a commission, if he should sell real estate upon certain terms, but, before consummating the sale, learned that the true owner was a corporation, insolvent, and in the hands of a receiver, and continued negotiations, he was bound by a condition of the sale contract making it dependent upon consent of creditors and was not entitled to commission if, without fault of the corporation, the sale was not consummated. The mere fact that the contract was cancelled for a consideration paid by the corporation to the purchaser did not show that the failure to sell was due to the fault of the corporation.

Eviction.

The lessor of a store and four-family suites collected rent from the lessee's tenants and gave them notice forbidding them to pay any further rent to the lessee. In an action by the lessee, alleging eviction, the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court holds, Aguglia v. Caviccia, 118 N. E. 283, that the lessee was not constructively evicted or ousted, since to constitute eviction there must be an actual expulsion of the tenant, or some act of permanent character done by the landlord with the intention and effect of depriving the tenant of the enjoyment of the premises or some part, to which he yields, abandoning possession within a reasonable time. Such acts by the lessor were not equivalent to a breach of his covenant of quiet enjoyment, the lessor not entering and repossessing himself of his former estate, thus determining the lessee's estate. Exceptions to verdict for the defendant were overruled.

Option to Purchase.

The Nevada Supreme Court holds that a lease authorizing the lessee to purchase "any part" of certain premises is too indefinite to be aided by parol evidence, and to afford the lessee no defense in a forcible entry and detainer action. An option contract must so describe the property that it can be identified from the instrument itself, although parol evidence is admissible to show the description's application. De Remer v. Anderson, 169 Pac. 737.

Breach by Principal.

In an action for broker's commissions it appeared that the defendant agreed to pay the plaintiff a commission for exchanging property, and another party agreed to pay him a like commission. The minds of the principals met as to the exchange, but the defendant broke the contract. The New York Appellate Division holds, Windman v. Bulkowstein, 168 N. Y. Supp. 57, that the broker could recover from the defendant only the single commission due from him. The mere fact that the plaintiff broker told the defendant that the other party was going to pay the plaintiff a commission was held no evidence that the defendant agreed, in case of default, to pay the second commission.

Liability of Tenant.

The New York Appellate Division holds, Taylor v. Kastel, 168 N. Y. Supp. 3, that where a landlord under a first lease furnished electricity at his own expense, but a renewal lease provided that the tenant should pay for her own electricity, a reduction therefor being made in the lease, the tenant was bound to pay for all electricity furnished by the landlord under the renewal lease, although the cost was in excess of the reduction in rent.

HUDSON TUBE EXTENSION.

Will Provide Transit Accommodation for Shipworkers—Local Survey Made.

AS a means of solving the housing problem at the shipbuilding plant in the Newark Bay District, the United States Shipping Board has had prepared plans, by A. L. Drum, Transportation Engineer of the Board, for the extension of the through train service of the Hudson Tubes. A new terminal will be established on Lincoln Highway, in the heart of the shipyard. The extended service will have a capacity of transporting 50,000 workers daily.

According to the tentative schedule the running time to Cortlandt street, Manhattan, will be sixteen minutes; Herald Square, twenty-six minutes, and Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, thirty-one minutes.

Even though the improvement will, according to present estimates, cost about $3,500,000, the Government will save a large sum of money, for it has been stated that the minimum cost of housing the 50,000 employees will be at the rate of $1,500 a man, or a total of about $75,000,000.

It is contended that with improved transit facilities workmen who reside in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx will be content to take positions in the Newark shipyards, and so the labor turnover will be reduced to a considerable degree.

Mr. Drum is a consulting engineer of Chicago and volunteered as Transportation Engineer of the Shipping Board, at the solicitation of J. Rogers Flannery, Chairman of the Housing Committee of the Board. Part of his work has been the settling of the transportation problem for the laborers of twenty-four shipyards on the Atlantic Coast.

Joseph P. Day has been active in the development of this section of the New Jersey meadows. He was the broker in the deals which resulted in the establishment of plants by the Ford Motor Company, the United States Steel Corporation, the Niles-Bement Pond Company, and others.

The Chelsea Neighborhood Association recently made a survey of the district bounded by Fifth avenue, Hudson River, 14th and 42nd streets, having in mind the possibility that the Government might desire information as to the housing accommodations in the West Side of Manhattan.

The survey revealed that approximately 8,448 persons could be housed in the side streets in Chelsea and about 3,360 on the avenue blocks, or a total of 11,868 persons. These figures are based on a field survey of a typical area, covering one-fourth of the section, and also on additional facts obtained from real estate concerns in the district.

The association finds that there are eighteen plots of considerable size available in the neighborhood, now improved with old structures, all being controlled by a single owner, divided as follows:

Between 14th and 23rd streets there are five plots containing about 13,500, 24,500, 32,000, 11,000 and 9,800 square feet, respectively.

Between 23rd and 34th streets there are six plots of about 4,900, 19,600, 8,100, 39,000, 8,820 and 11,700 square feet, respectively.

Between 34th and 42nd streets, seven plots approximating 15,000, 7,400, 8,820, 1,800, 3,600, 17,400 and 15,000 square feet, respectively.

In other words, there is, at present, in the Chelsea District, 241,940 square feet of space available, 80,800 of which is south of 23rd street, 92,120 south of 34th street and 69,020 south of 42nd street.

EVERY owner of real estate in New York, every rent payer, has a vital interest in the proposition to charge a six-cent fare for the period of the war on all street railway lines, subway, elevated and surface.

Either the people who ride on the subway and elevated must pay the interest on the City's investment of $250,000,000 in the Dual System, or it must be paid out of taxes.

The Interborough's contract with the City provides that after operating expenses are paid, the Company shall receive its preferential. It is not until this has been paid in full that the City will receive any return from fares to meet the interest charges on its investment. The other contracts the City has relating to the Dual System are on the same basis. A five-cent fare during this period of extraordinary operating costs will defer any return to the City from the operation of its lines.

It is estimated that with a five-cent fare, the City will for a period of from five to seven years face an annual deficit of at least $11,250,000 in the operation of the Dual System. Some people believe that, due to war conditions and the uncertainty of the times, this deficit will reach $20,000,000.

Every $10,000,000 increase in the City's tax budget must mean a five per cent increase in the tax rate. A $20,000,000 deficit will mean a 10 per cent increase in the tax rate.

This deficit of from $11,000,000 to $20,000,000 as variously estimated, can be provided for in only one of two ways; either by putting the burden on the taxpayer in the one case, or on the fare-payer in the other. If put on the taxpayer it will fall on the real estate owners of the City—already bending under enormous tax burdens which have been put upon them to the extent that many of the best-located properties in the City are to-day selling at one-half their assessed valuations.

The real estate owners must, in turn, pass as large a proportion as they can to the tenants occupying their property, with the result that if the burden is put on the taxpayer it will wholly fall on the citizens of New York; who work in New York—who make their living in New York—who spend their incomes in New York—who pay their taxes in New York—the vital members of the community that keep New York alive and growing.

If, however, a policy is determined upon of putting this burden on the fare-payer, it is estimated there are 300,000 strangers from all over the world daily using the transportation facilities of New York, in addition to hundreds of thousands of commuters from nearby States, who make their money in New York, but spend their money outside New York; who pay their taxes outside of New York, and are not an integral portion of New York life.

We have offered to put the Dual System contract into effect simultaneously with the 6c fare. This will preclude the Interborough from receiving one dollar of additional revenue as a result of the bill.

Frankly, our interest in this measure is twofold:

First, to insure the current payment of the Interborough's preferential, under its contract with the City, which, in any event, would have to ultimately be paid out of future earnings, with compound interest.

Second, to insure sufficient earnings by the surface lines of the New York Railways to keep them out of bankruptcy. Bankruptcy, as you know, would result in splitting up the lines into the original companies, and would abolish transfers entirely.

The building has a frontage of 45.6 feet on Broadway and 44.7 feet in New street, with north and south lines of 112 and 117.2 feet respectively. The Union Trust Company owns the adjoining building at 80 Broadway. Eagle Pencil Company Buys.

The Eagle Pencil Company purchased the block front on the west side of Avenue D, between 13th and 14th streets, containing sixteen lots. The property is covered with one, two and three story buildings, and fronts 206 feet on Avenue D and 188 feet in each street. The Avenue D frontage, 206 x 88 feet, was purchased from the Mid-City Realty Company, Henry G. Barber, and the west end, formerly in two parcels, was acquired from Emily T. Kent and Herbert C. Pell, Jr., Clarence C. Pell and the United States Trust Company as trustees. Douglas Robinson Charles S. Brown Company, were the brokers. With this purchase the pencil company now controls the entire block bounded by Avenues C and D, 13th and 14th streets, having avenue dimensions of 202.6 feet and extending along each street 676 feet. The total area comprises nearly three and one-half acres. The new purchasers contemplate erecting a large plant on the site. All of the property is available for immediate improvement with the exception of the corner of Avenue D and 14th street, on which the lease is held by a lumber concern. The Eagle Pencil Company has had a factory in this section for nearly forty years, having started in 14th street in 1885. The house is assessed at $525,000 and was acquired by the selling company last February from the Estate of Edwin Baudoine. It is arranged in nine, ten and eleven room suites. The building was erected about ten years ago by the George A. Fuller Construction Company, and in the future will be known as the Pacific Development Building. The company is engaged exclusively in export and import trade from the Philippine Islands. The Charles F. Noyes Company was the broker. Stoddard & Mark represented Klein & Jackson as attorneys, and A. J. Ridley, of Sullivan & Cromwell, the lessees.

New York Herald Leases.

The New York Herald and Evening Telegram will open a branch office in the Transit Building, at the northeast corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 181st street, on May 1. The Herald Company leased the first floor store in that building, and alterations will be made to provide space for the general business, circulation and advertising departments and reportorial work for both newspapers. The building is located at one of the busiest uptown stations of the Broadway route. To arrange the lease the broker was obliged to negotiate a cancellation with Strauss & Company, present tenants of the 48th street building, whose lease had five years to run. The new lease with the owner, Elizabeth S. Lufborrow, is for about seventeen years at $12,000 a year, expiring with the lease on the Broadway premises, April 13, 1935. CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

NEW building activity in the Metropolitan district has been a negligible quantity during the past week. The industry was greatly disheartened by the recent announcement of the War Industries Board in regard to the cessation of non-essential building construction during the remainder of the war and many builders who anticipated an early start of new operations are practically marking time and hoping that the order will be abrogated or at least modified. Should the ruling stand the effect will be severely felt as the building interests had looked forward with much hope to a real revival of structural activity.

The strike of the building laborers has been settled and the work resumed on the majority of structures that have been held up pending a decision. The laborers have agreed to accept $3.76 per day as offered by the bricklayers' organization. This wage will maintain until July 1, when they will obtain $4 a day. There is a prospect of great difficulty in arriving at the terms of the new agreement which will be entered into after July 1. The demands of the laborers in a number of instances are exorbitant and not likely to be readily acceded to by the employers. Probably the chief bones of contention will be the hours of work and the kinds of labor to be performed.

Government building continues without abatement and almost daily announcements are being made from Washington of entirely new projects or additions to operations already well advanced. There are strong rumors that some of the largest single building operations are yet to be announced to the public, and the building contractors and material dealers and manufacturers are looking forward to business from this source as the principal means of keeping their organizations intact for the balance of the war. Although the work at the cantonments and other training stations is generally all completed, there is great activity in the work underway at the supply bases and hospitals. Various parts of the country are affected by this work, but the Atlantic seaboard and particularly the territory in close proximity to New York undoubtedly embodies a large proportion of the activity.

The material markets are exceptionally quiet and, according to the current reports, but little new life can be expected while there is so much uncertainty as to the future of building. Sales have been light owing to the greatly reduced number of building operations. There will be a considerable curtailment in the amount of material manufacturing during the present season. This applies more particularly to common and face brick, but other materials are likely to be affected in a similar manner. This need cause no anxiety, however, as there are in the majority of instances sufficient quantities of materials in reserve for all ordinary demands, and for what requirements are current, supplies will be available without great difficulty.

It is generally conceded that the existing high price levels for practically all lines of building materials and supplies will be maintained for the balance of the war and that there is every probability of further advances. Opinion differs somewhat as to the price movement after hostilities cease and one hears at time that present levels will be maintained or advanced and then that all prices will slump greatly. It is mostly a matter of private opinion, however, as no one knows exactly what the conditions will be by the time this war is over.

Common Brick.—Conditions in the Hudson River common brick market have improved materially during the past week and the movement of brick both incoming and outgoing has been heavier than it has for many months. A total of thirty barge loads, or approximately 1,200,000 brick, arrived from up-river points during the last seven days. Twenty-seven barges were disposed of and sent to various distribution points within the Metropolitan district. The common brick price has weakened somewhat and the price level is now $9.50 to $10 a thousand. It is not expected that common brick prices will be further decreased, at least not for the present, but under existing building conditions predictions as to market trend are difficult. Up to the present writing there is seemingly no disposition on the part of the manufacturers of brick in the Hudson Valley to commence operations. Practically no work has been begun in preparing the river plants for the season's operations, and in a number of instances manufacturers have expressed themselves as having fully decided to skip this season. There are a number of reasons for this, all of which are important. First, there still remains a considerable volume of both burned and unburned brick in the plant yards and manufacturing operations will not be started until these are disposed of. Second, fuel is almost impossible to obtain and labor is extremely scarce and uncertain. Third, there is very little profit for the manufacturer with the high production costs and the current prices obtained and many feel that it will be useless to think of starting their plants while the present conditions maintain. The Raritan situation is practically identical to that in the Hudson Valley. Manufacturers are doing little or nothing toward production at this time and brick from this section is out of the market. No quotations are being made.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, April 5, 1918. Condition of market: Demand increased; prices lower. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $9.60 to $10.00 a thousand in cargo lots to dealers alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 30; sales, 27. Distribution: Manhattan, 8; Brooklyn, 2; Bronx, 2; New Jersey points, 13; Flushing, 1; Yonkers, 1.

Lumber.—Dealers in the Metropolitan district report a satisfactory volume of business from both the manufacturing consumers and the building interests. The most prominent factor at the present time is the difficulty of obtaining new supplies. The transportation situation is far from satisfactory, and this is a severe handicap to the lumber interests. Stocks on hand are generally low and the deliveries of new supplies are indefinite. The Government is making heavy purchases of lumber in this market for its work in the local territory and business from this source is likely to continue for the next two or three months without cessation. Lumber prices are steadily advancing and it is feared that the end of the increase is not in sight. The tendency toward stiffening prices is accounted for largely by the immense volume of lumber required by the Federal Government in its program of military construction work.

Cast Iron Pipe.—The market is quiet and without signs of new activity in the near future. Both municipal and private buying has slowed down perceptibly and inquiries are scarce. There is a rumor current that the manufacturers of cast iron pipe will be called into conference with the Federal authorities to consider prices. Control prices continue to dominate all quotations which are made on the basis of $55.35 per net ton, New York, for 6 in., 8 in., and heavier, and $58.35 for 4 in.

Structural Steel.—Notwithstanding the fact that there has been no change in the basic price of fabricated steel the market is dull and new business, other than for the Government, is at a low ebb. The mills are heavily loaded with priority orders and are not disposed to make commitments for private business at this time. Within the bounds of the Metropolitan district the building situation is particularly quiet and what new construction work was projected for an early start is likely to be held in abeyance until the exact status of non-essential building is more fully established. New requirements of fabricated material for additional Government buildings are daily being announced and the steel industry will be fully occupied in taking care of this business and that of supplying steel for shipbuilding. There have been no changes in the quotations for mill shipments of fabricated steel.

Portland Cement.—The recent increase in the price of this commodity has stimulated business to some extent and there has been quite a demand on old contracts and some new demand. Generally speaking the market situation can be considered normal. The producers are experiencing considerable difficulty in obtaining adequate supplies of fuel and much anxiety exists as to the future from this viewpoint. The demands from the Government sources for Portland cement are comparatively heavy and from all accounts this type of business will continue in a large volume throughout the summer and autumn. The outlook for business from private building operations is not of the best and the manufacturers and dealers are not making extensive plans for handling business of this character.

Wire Products.—Manufacturers of both wire and wire nails state that the new demand is fairly satisfactory and that the market situation is normal. The Federal Government has not yet placed its order for the 30,000 kegs of wire nails that will be required in the construction of hangars in France. Undoubtedly this order will be divided among the mills during the next few days. There has been no change in the prices and the current official figures will maintain until June 30. Wire nails are being quoted at $3.50 base per keg, and bright basic wire at $3.35 a hundred pounds.

Sand and Gravel.—The situation as applied to these commodities is practically unchanged from that of last week. The demand for sand is somewhat better than it has been, and new supplies are coming into the market more freely. Sand prices are unchanged. The gravel market is inactive owing to the Governmental action that commandeered all available supplies for military use. No gravel quotations current.

Window Glass.—The glass market is duller today than it has been for a long time and there seems to be no possibility of an early improvement in the situation. Demand for plate and window glass from building sources is exceedingly light and with the existing lethargy in the building industry the condition is likely to be unsatisfactory for a while to come. There has been no change in the schedules of manufacturers' discounts.

Linseed Oil.—Manufacturing is practically at a standstill owing to the fact that it is impossible to obtain bottoms for the transportation of seed supplies from Argentina. The demand is fair but not up to the average of other years at this season. Linseed oil prices are firm at the levels that have now maintained for two or three weeks and there is no immediate prospect of a recession from the current prices.

TRINITY CORPORATION WILL BUILD

Properties In Varick Street To Be Improved With Modern Business Buildings

TRINITY Church Corporation, as exclusively announced in the Record and Guide on March 23, is prepared to consider the erection of modern fireproof buildings for tenants on long leases in Varick street, near the subway station of the new Seventh avenue line, at West Houston street. Probably this is the first tangible result of the widening of Varick street, its connection with Seventh avenue, and the completion of the north and south Interborough Rapid Transit subway, which will connect Wall and William streets with this new and inexpensive West Side district, destined for large development.

The opening of the subway and the widening of Varick street comes at a time when the Financial District is greatly overcrowded, and coincidentally with the requisition of much office space by the Government. Business in many lines has increased beyond its normal rate. Some concerns, having profited by the war, found it necessary to enlarge their offices. New concerns are trying to establish branch agencies in the city, and no new buildings are being built. Office rentals have therefore risen vertically, and it is likely that as each lease now in effect expires the rate will be largely increased.

It is fair to say that the average rent paid for the space occupied by clerks is at least $1.85 a square foot per annum.

Many have re-located in what is known as the 42d street district. Such changes, however, have not caused any reduction in the rent per square foot, since real estate in that neighborhood has, during the past five years, greatly appreciated in value.

The completion of the Seventh avenue subway has called attention to the large area of poorly improved property lying along Varick street, with Houston and King streets as its center. Most of the property in this district, comprising perhaps three hundred lots, is in the ownership of Trinity Church Corporation. A large proportion of its property has only two and three-story brick dwellings now standing upon it, although in Hudson street, one block to the west of Varick street, there are modern fireproof buildings occupied by commercial concerns.

It is fair to assume that the average lot in Trinity's ownership is worth in the neighborhood of $20,000, or $8 a square foot, and that as Trinity Church Corporation owns so much property, and so many whole blocks in this district, it can be improved by the owners, or leased, or sold for improvement by others, so that the light and character of the improvements can all be controlled. If there were only a few plots ready for improvement the objection could be raised that only a few business houses could locate there, and that they would be alone in a new field. This large area of cheap land, however, will provide locations for any number of occupants without causing a marked advance in the prices or rents to late comers. The way seems open, therefore, for a development in a large way and along broad lines.

The Zoning Law prescribes that east of Varick street certain of the thoroughfares shall be maintained for residences. In Varick street, however, office buildings and commercial buildings can be erected, but only to a height of 150 feet, meaning a maximum of twelve floors. When it is realized that Varick street is now 100 feet wide, and that the Trinity Church Corporation can control the improvement of so many lots, it is evident that new buildings, built pursuant to the regulations of the Zoning Law, will enjoy an extent of light unknown in the financial district, where a thirty-story building on a narrow street darkens everything in its neighborhood and causes thousands of clerks to work and live in offices where the light and air seriously injures their health and detracts from their efficiency.

Since the average value of this land is only $8 a square foot, it follows that the rental to be charged for office buildings, or commercial buildings built thereon, will be little more than half the rent now paid in the older and more established business districts, where the price of land is from five to ten times greater than in Varick street.

When it is realized that this Houston street station on the new line can have direct stairway connection with buildings on the four blocks adjoining it, and that it will take only seven minutes to reach it from, let us say Wall and William streets, it is evident that the opportunity now presents itself, not only for a re-location of whole business staffs and managers, but also a possible separation of the clerks from their managing offices, if it should be necessary that the managing offices be close to Wall Street.

An inspection of this neighborhood at the moment produces a most discouraging effect, for although the street has been widened, the repairing of it is only now about to take place; buildings have been demolished for this widening, and others have been cut in two. Seventh avenue, while physically cut through and connecting with Varick street, has also not been paved; there are no sidewalks in place; many of the buildings on Trinity Church Corporation's property are old, and help to produce the impression that the neighborhood needs rebuilding. However, the profits made in real estate have always been largest to those who first saw the vision, and, standing at the corner of Houston and Varick streets, where the new station entrances are already constructed, it does not require much imagination to realize that with the Seventh avenue trolley cars running on Varick street, the Eighth avenue trolley on Hudson street; a station of the Elevated railroad at Houston street, two blocks west; a crosstown trolley line in Hudson street, and, most important, the new subway, that the development of this section is imminent.

This new subway, it must be realized, passes through the financial section, with stations at William and John streets, and William and Wall streets, and so under the river to Brooklyn. Going north it runs from Varick street into Seventh avenue, where it crosses the Hudson Tunnels at Christopher street, connects with the Pennsylvania Station at 32d street, and joins the old subway at 42d street, from which point it runs north, using the present tracks up Broadway, and so up Washington Heights to VanCortland Park, or eastward into the Bronx. A passenger wishing to go to the Grand Central terminal or up Lexington avenue will transfer, without additional charge, at 42d street, where a shuttle service will take him to the Grand Central or permit him to use the new east side Lexington avenue subway without paying an additional fare. It is therefore apparent that people living in Brooklyn, Long Island, Bronx and in New Jersey wishing to reach this new section can do so with more speed and convenience than is now possible in their daily trip to the financial district.

Depend Upon It

Reliable service is the basis of property management. Reliable electric service goes farther yet—it is the center of that basis

Upon it stand not only all lighting requirements; modern power needs—for tenants' machinery, for elevators, pumps, ventilating and communication systems—all rest upon it

The Central Station is the one source of such service because it works on a scale that permits of the highest efficiency. A yearly output of 600,000,000 kilowatt hours means organization and equipment that cannot be approached by private supply

This equipment—giant generators of 40,000 horse-power capacity, and unlimited resources—spells one great fact, dependability. The Waterside Stations cannot break down for they stand for the utmost point of human preparedness

This fact should reach you and convince you. Ask us now for the engineering details

Bill Fixing Realty Tax at $2.00 Passes Senate

Amended Boylan Measure Receives 35 Votes to 7 Against—Now Goes to Assembly

ALBANY, April 12.—The Boylan bill, limiting the tax on New York real estate to 2.00 and on personal property to 1.10 passed the Senate late yesterday by the vote of 35 to 7. The bill had been favorably reported by the Committee on the Affairs of the City of New York, of which Senator George Cromwell is chairman, after amendments had been made in the original bill prepared by the Real Estate Board of New York. The vote in the committee was unanimous, except for that of Senator Nichol, of New York, who also voted against the bill when it came up for passage in the Senate.

After the bill had been passed Senator Wagner charged breach of faith on the part of Senator Murphy of Kings, declaring that he (Wagner) understood that the bill proposed by Comptroller Craig, as embodying the wishes of Mayor Hylan's administration, which provided for a listing system for personal property, was to be considered after the Boylan bill.

Senator Brown immediately moved to recall the Boylan bill from the Assembly, ostensibly to reconsider that bill and the Craig bill along with it. Senator Wagner made no further effort to bring about a vote on the Craig bill and allowed the Boylan bill to be passed again. It now has to take its chances with the Assembly Committee on Rules. Speaker Sweet will have the final say as to whether the bill will come to a vote in the lower house before adjournment tomorrow.

The vote on the bill was as follows:

Ayes—Republicans—Brown, E. R. Cromwell, Emerson, Gibbs, Gilchrist, Graves, Hewitt, Hill, Lawson, Lockwood, Marshall, Murphy, Ottinger, Robinson, Slater, Stivers, Towner, Walton, Whitney, Wicks, Yelverton—21.

Democrats—Boylan, Carroll, Cotto, Cullen, Dowling, Downing, Dunnigan, Farrenkopf, Foley, Koenig, Ramserger, Sheridan, Wagner, Walker—14. Total ayes, 35.

Noes—Republicans—Argetsinger, Carson, Newton, Nicoll, Sage, Thompson, G. F. Wellington. Total 7.

The text of the bill as it passed the Senate is as follows:

For the purpose of enabling the board of aldermen to impose the annual taxes it shall be the duty of the comptroller of said city to prepare and submit to said board, at least one week before the first day of March in each and every year, a statement setting forth the amounts by law authorized to be raised by tax in that year, on account of the corporation of the city of New York, as hereby constituted, or for city purposes within said city as created by this act, and purposes for which said city is liable, and on account of the counties of New York, Kings, Bronx, Queens and Richmond, and also an estimate of the probable amount of receipts into the city treasury during the then current year from all the sources of revenue of the general funds, including surplus revenues from the sinking funds of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York and of any of the municipal and public corporations, or parts of municipal and public corporations by this act consolidated with the municipal corporation known as the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, other than the surplus of revenues of any such sinking funds for the payment of interest on the city debt of the municipal corporation known as the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, or the like debts of the municipal and public corporations by this act consolidated as aforesaid, and the said board of aldermen is hereby authorized and directed to deduct the total amount of such estimated receipts from the aggregate amounts of all the various sums which by law it is required to order and cause to be raised by tax in said year, for the purposes aforesaid, and to cause to be raised by tax such sum as shall be as nearly as possible but not less than the balance of such aggregate amount after making such deductions, by fixing a tax rate in cents and hundredths of a cent upon each dollar of assessed valuation. Such annual rate shall not exceed, however, twenty mills upon each dollar of assessed valuation of real property, and eleven mills upon each dollar of personal property, if any, tangible and intangible, assessed on the assessment books of the city, without offset for debt or exemption of any character unless such exemption is in the nature of a contract between the federal, state and city governments and the owner of the property, provided that nothing in this act shall be held to affect in any way property exempted under subdivision thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, or twenty-one of section four of article one of chapter sixty of the consolidated laws.

As to the tax rate on real property, this act shall not take effect until January first, nineteen hundred and twenty. As to all other provisions it shall take effect immediately.

On Tuesday of this week there was another hearing on the Boylan and other bills before the Committee on the City of New York, of which Senator George Cromwell is chairman. As at former hearings there were present representatives of various real estate interests and of the city administration. Comptroller Craig, Chairman Jacob A. Cantor and Commissioner George H. Payne of the Tax Department; Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Company; Laurence McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board of New York, and a number of others attended.

In addition to the members of the committee Senator Elon R. Brown, President pro tempore of the Senate and leader of the majority, and several other prominent Senators were in attendance at the meeting.

Following explanations of the features of the Boylan bill and of the Craig bill, which includes the listing provision, Senator Brown raised the question as to the constitutionality of any bill which would affect the collection of the State tax at a different rate in New York County than that prevailing in any other county in the State.

The Comptroller, Mr. Doyle of the Realty Board, and others pointed out that there is considerable divergence between the rates already enforced in different counties under existing laws. Mr. Brown declared that the Attorney General had expressed the opinion without having the opportunity to thoroughly examine into the matter that the proposed legislation was unconstitutional. The Comptroller and the President of the Tax Department replied that the bills offered by the City administration, these bills being the ones containing the listing provision, had been carefully prepared by the Corporation Counsel, who had taken into consideration their constitutionality. If any question still existed as to this feature of the proposed legislation, they said, it was a matter that should be passed upon by the Court of Appeals, as was the practice with other laws passed by the Legislature when a similar question arose.

As to the difference between the rate on real and personal property it was shown that the rate was not the same this year in New York City, the realty tax rate being 2.36, while that on personal property was 2.32. The one per cent. tax on bank stock is again different from the 2.32 rate on other personal property.

Mr. Brown also suggested that if the tax on personal property brought in the large amount of money that has been estimated the City of New York might have to pay 10/12 of the State tax instead of 5/12 which it now pays. The Comptroller replied that if this condition arose the city would have the money to pay, and would be glad to pay, the increased proportion of the State tax.

Mr. Dowling called attention to the fact that the original Boylan bill had no listing provision, and that the tax on personal property had been fixed at a quarter of one per cent. The object of the bill was, by putting a very low rate on personalty, to induce property owners to disclose their holdings voluntarily. He again asked the Legislature, on behalf of the 860 members of the Real Estate Board, who represent as agents or trustees practically all the real estate in the city, for some measure of relief, declaring that the increasing

Many Idle Among Building Trades Workers

Special Reports from Leading Cities Show Surplus of Labor, Excepting on Atlantic Seaboard

FOR the purpose of learning whether labor in the building trades is today idle, the Record and Guide recently gathered by telegraph information from points throughout the United States. The replies show that much of that labor is idle and has not been utilized.

Boston reports that in New England there is much unemployment of workmen in industries made idle by war conditions, that the major part of these idle workmen cannot be employed upon war work, partly because not fitted for it and partly because there is no opportunity for their employment, and that industries and men are becoming dislocated and demoralized.

Worcester reports that building labor of all kinds is becoming more plentiful, as little work is being carried on. Providence reports idle labor plenty and much complaint because of lack of work.

In this city reports are that there is a marked degree of idle labor above the draft age in building operations. Buffalo reports that there is no shortage of building labor there; that their need is employment for labor. Rochester reports to the same effect. Pittsburgh reports many mechanics idle in the building line, except iron workers.

Cleveland reports abundant mechanics in all building trades and an excessive supply in basic trades, such as masons and carpenters. Cincinnati reports that there is an ample supply of labor, mostly of experienced men forty years of age and up, that much labor is unemployed and that any further restriction of building operations would be destructive. Detroit reports idle labor. Grand Rapids says that labor is plentiful; Indianapolis reports to the same effect.

A careful survey in Chicago reports that of 80,000 men belonging to unions in the building trades about sixty per cent. are idle; that brick plants and stone yards are prostrated; that many smaller building organizations are idle and facing destruction; that the surplus of labor is particularly marked among carpenters, masons, marble setters, plumbers, electricians and painters. Rock Island reports idle labor. Milwaukee reports that there is much idle skilled labor in the city which can not be shifted easily to other industries or sections and that building operations are practically at a standstill pending readjustment of unbalanced conditions.

St. Paul reports an ample supply of skilled labor in the building lines and that a large number of men in the building trades in the northwest are out of work.

Minneapolis reports plenty of labor needing employment, not available for Government use. Des Moines reports idle labor. Kansas City says that there is an abundance of common and building trades labor and a surplus of three hundred carpenters at this time, with but 76 per cent. of the normal labor employed. Omaha reports men seeking work where a few months ago it was difficult to get men under any conditions. Salt Lake City reports plenty of idle labor. New Orleans says that there is plenty of building trades labor available and no shortage of any kind except of skilled carpenters last fall during Government cantonment construction.

San Francisco reports a surplus of unemployed building labor and the existence of anxiety because activities have been fostered in certain lines and restrictions imposed in others, creating an extensive surplus of idle labor seeking employment, especially among carpenters. Los Angeles reports plenty of building mechanics and Portland, Ore., plenty of skilled labor. A few localities report a scarcity of labor and these are at once to be recognized as the localities in which heavy Government construction has gone on, such as Philadelphia, Washington, Norfolk, Atlanta and Birmingham.

A similar inquiry as to materials results in exactly the same conclusion. The Government construction has used large quantities of lumber, but a large organization declares that it can easily furnish all lumber required for Government and private construction and that the immense requirement of Government lumber last fall consumed only about 10 per cent. of southern lumber production and that there is no need to discourage construction for want of supply of southern pine. Another association declares that the Government requirement for cypress are for stock which does not enter into ordinary building operation, and that cessation of building would close down the mills and prevent the filling of Government requirements through destroying the market for the surplus above this.

The Government demands for steel have been enormous, but the President of the United States Steel Corporation has recently declared that within a very brief time the Government demands for steel will be more than met and an ample surplus released for private building operations.

Brick has been but little used in Government operations. It can be produced in indefinite quantities. It is a local material requiring but little transportation and the facilities for production are ample almost everywhere. Cement for use in concrete is widely distributed and needs no long haul, if local purchases are made. The productive capacity of the country is vastly above the limited quantity required for governmental needs. The Government has used no stone. Complaints of extreme distress come from the localities of stone production, such as Bedford, Ind., for limestone, and Boston for granite.

Sufficient quantities of material in general on hand are reported from New York, Buffalo, Rochester, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Indianapolis, Chicago, Rock Island, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Kansas City, Omaha, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland. There is no complaint of scarcity of building material from any locality, but there is less report of surplus from New England points than elsewhere.

A bulletin issued from Washington on April 9th by the Department of Labor verifies the reports received by the Record and Guide.

The Department of Labor states that conditions in the building trades are still serious, and that only five cities show a shortage of labor, while 34 show a surplus. Many of the larger cities, including Chicago, Indianapolis, Minneapolis and Los Angeles, the Labor Department statement brings out, show that there is serious unemployment in those cities. Among mechanics, the statement shows that eight cities report a surplus and thirty a shortage. In the skilled trades there is a demand for boiler makers, blacksmiths, ship-fitters, drop forgers, ship carpenters and the like.

City Officials Have Power to Readjust Fares

Corporation Counsel Burr, Analyzing Decision in Rochester Case, Shows Authority of Board of Estimate

BY HON. WILLIAM P. BURR, Corporation Counsel, City of New York.

The Public Service Commission for the First District held the view that all the applications for increased rates of fare now pending before the Commission by the B. R. T., Third Avenue, New York Railway and other companies operating in the city should each be tried at length on the merits, and that each company should be given the opportunity to show by its experts, accountants and engineers that the five-cent fare was not sufficient to enable it to carry on its business at a profit and that an increase should be allowed to a six or seven cent rate.

This view of the Public Service Commission necessitated employment by the Law Department appearing in opposition for the city of accountants, engineers, experts and special counsel to examine the books of the company, to have a valuation made of the properties and, generally, to do those things necessary to establish the defense in a rate case. This was what was done by the Public Service Commission of the First District in the case of the New York and North Shore Railway Company against the protest of the city.

After an exhaustive examination into the business of this company, its properties and its cost of operation and the employment of special counsel and experts by the city, the Public Service Commission handed down an opinion consisting of eighty-nine printed pages, written by Commissioner Travis H. Whitney, in which these conclusions were reached:

"The Company's situation may be dealt with in any one of these ways:

"(1) The City of New York may consent to a waiver or modification of the fare provisions of the franchise contracts, and thus enable the putting into effect of the seven-cent rate which is here found necessary for the continuance of present service under present operating costs.

"(2) The City and State may to a large extent lessen the company's financial difficulties by remission and repayment of moneys now going into the public treasury out of the company's revenues, by virtue of franchise and statutory provisions.

"(3) The City may extend to the company the principle and policy of municipalization, already embodied in other aspects of the City's transportation policy—such extension of municipalization to come about through purchase, lease, or acquisition under a municipal guarantee of a fixed return upon unimpaired investment, with a gradual amortization, over a period of years, of this investment out of the earnings, supplemented as need be by contributions from the public treasury."

Upon the whole record, Commissioner Whitney concludes:

"I do not think the conclusion can be avoided that the Commission is not at present vested with power to authorize the seven-cent fare which would be warranted by the company's financial circumstances and its right to earn a fair return upon the fair value of its property used in the public service. * * *

"In the interests of a solution of the matter along such lines as the City may deem best in the premises, I recommend that this case be held open for a period of ten days, during which time the company may procure and file proof of action by the City by way of removal of present obstacles to a determination of the matter by the Commission."

This was plainly putting the increase of fare up to the city, with a recommendation in favor of such increase.

Since I became Corporation Counsel I have urged upon the Commission that, having no power delegated to it from the Legislature to alter the terms and conditions of the franchises under which the street railroad companies were operating in the streets of the city, the applications should be dismissed and the city thus saved from the necessity of spending thousands of dollars in the employment of accountants, experts, engineers and special counsel to combat the claims set up by the companies. If the Public Service Commission had no legal authority—as I contended they had not—to vary the original terms of the franchises under which these companies were operating, a long, protracted and expensive trial was entirely unnecessary and would be simply putting an additional burden on the already overburdened shoulders of the taxpayers of the city. These motions are still pending undecided before the Public Service Commission of this District.

In the meantime and while these motions were pending before the Public Service Commission here, a similar condition of affairs existed in the City of Rochester, and the Public Service Commission for the Second District had under consideration the application of the Rochester street railways for an increase of fares. An application was made to the Supreme Court on behalf of the City of Rochester for a writ of prohibition restraining the Public Service Commission of that district from proceeding to hear and determine such applications on the ground that under the original contracts made between the City of Rochester and such street railways five cents was the fare agreed upon and that the Public Service Commission had no authority to vary or change that rate so fixed by the original franchise. This application was denied at Special Term and an appeal was taken at once to the General Term and there the denial was affirmed. An appeal was immediately taken by the City of Rochester to the Court of Appeals and, in view of the importance of the question raised, a preference was asked for and given by the Court of Appeals in the argument of this appeal.

As it may readily be seen, the very questions I had raised on behalf of the City of New York before the Public Service Commission for the First District were involved in the proceeding brought by the City of Rochester, and therefore, under direction of the Mayor, I applied to the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals for leave to intervene and file a brief on behalf of the City of New York. This request was granted and the argument came on for hearing on the 25th of March. The City of New York's brief supported the contention of the City of Rochester in its application for a writ of prohibition on the ground that the Public Service Commission had no authority to change the terms of the franchise contracts between the city and the street railway companies by increasing the fares from five cents to six or seven cents.

The Public Service Commission of this district also filed a brief with the Court of Appeals on that argument. In that brief the counsel for the Public Service Commission of the First District opposed the issuance of a writ of prohibition to the City of Rochester. In his brief he said:

"If the Public Service Commission for the Second District has no power to authorize an increase of the rate charged by the New York State railways within the City of Rochester to a sum in excess of the maximum fixed by statute, that is an objection which should be raised before the Commission and later reviewed by the courts on certiorari if necessary; it is no ground for the present issuance of a writ of prohibition."

And again:

"The writ of prohibition should be denied and the matter remanded to the Commission for the Second District for proceedings pursuant to its indicated jurisdiction."

So that it plainly appears if the view of the counsel for the Public Service Commission for the First District had prevailed in the Rochester case before the Court of Appeals, the City of Rochester would have been defeated and its application for a writ of prohibition denied.

Moreover, in addition to its strong opposition to the City of Rochester's right to a writ of prohibition, the Public Service Commission of the First Department argued for the right of the public service commissions to conduct hearings on five-cent fare cases, to take testimony, to hear experts and then to pass upon the legal points involved, as well as the facts, leaving the municipality, after being compelled to undergo the tremendous expense of such a procedure, to bring up in court in protracted certiorari proceedings, the legal questions involved. Had the Court of Appeals adopted this view and approved of such a procedure, municipalities raising legal questions of this character would be placed at a great disadvantage and would be compelled to incur great expense.

As Corporation Counsel of the City of New York I supported the contention of the City of Rochester, and the Court of Appeals decided that the Public Service Commission for the Second District had no power to vary the contracts made by the railways with the City of Rochester and

Realty Men Sell $300,000 of Liberty Bonds

First Week of Drive Produces Gratifying Results—Brokers Making Thorough Canvass of All Five Boroughs

INTENSIVE work has been done during the week by the members of the Real Estate Division of the Liberty Loan Committee, of which Alfred E. Marling is chairman and Aaron Rabinowitz secretary. The total amount of subscriptions obtained up to late Thursday evening was $300,000.

As outlined in the Record and Guide last week, the city has been divided into zones, under the leadership of captains and lieutenants. This work has progressed more favorably than is indicated by the total already subscribed, for many prospects have been lined up who have not as yet placed their names on the dotted lines.

The Liberty Loan Committee issued the following statement:

"You have got to take your hat off to the real estate men of New York. When they start out to do a thing they do it right.

"Perhaps you think that $300,000 is not much money for the real estate men of New York to subscribe in less than one week. But just remember that real estate has been through a few years of the toughest kind of going and that a good part of the business most brokers have done has never reached the point where commissions are paid and deposited in the bank. But if you think that the brokers, agents and operators are not coming strongly to the support of Uncle Sam and his fighting men just because business is bad you are wrong. There probably are going to be a good many more $100 bonds sold to real estate men than $1,000, $5,000 or $10,000. But before the campaign ends the names of real estate men not on the subscription list can be counted easily.

"Captains of teams working in various parts of the city came into the Real Estate Board rooms, at 217 Broadway, filled with enthusiasm over their work and said that the city will be mighty proud of its real estate men when the total of subscriptions for the drive is announced.

"How much is the Board after in subscriptions? Nobody knows. Alfred E. Marling, chairman of the drive, said: 'When we get our first million I shall be interested. When we get our second million I shall be pleased. When we get our third million—well, now, let's all go to work.'"

The work which the real estate brokers are doing necessitates the solicitation of subscriptions from almost eight thousand persons. The plan adopted will mean that every one in real estate offices, from the office boys up, will be asked to buy at least one bond.

William P. Rae, president of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, presided at a meeting held last Tuesday at the Board rooms, 189 Montague street, Brooklyn. Edwin P. Maynard, president of the Brooklyn Trust Company, the chairman of the Brooklyn Liberty Loan Committee, addressed the meeting, and his patriotic remarks and encouraging attitude stirred the brokers to immediate action. Every man in the room offered to act on a committee to get all the Brooklyn brokers interested in the drive.

The members voted to give Mr. Rae authority to spend whatever he deemed necessary to provide literature for the campaign.

The following Board members were present at the meeting: William P. Rae, William G. Morrissey, George H. Gray, De Hart Bergen, Frederick L. Snow, Isaac

Cortelyou, James B. Fisher, Charles Behrens, A. H. Gritmann, O. B. Lafroniere, E. J. Ruskin, Howard C. Pyle, John R. Ryon, H. E. Esterbrook, Isaac O. Horton, A. J. Murphy, Joseph M. May, Frank A. Seaver, Joseph W. Catharine and William Raymond BURLING.

Building Trades Earnest in Third Loan Drive

First Week Brings in More Than $400,000—Important Trade Meetings Scheduled

THE building trades, with their affiliated interests, are well started in their program for the drive of the Third Liberty Loan and the present outlook is excellent for a complete success of the task these organizations have set for themselves.

The first week of the campaign has closed and there are numerous indications that the mark set by the General Committee as its quota will be attained without difficulty and there are many who freely predict that subscriptions will rise to a considerable amount above the allotted figure. Already reports of substantial subscriptions are being placed on file and the statements from the chairmen of the individual trade committees are most optimistic for the ultimate success of the Third Loan drive from the standpoint of the building trades.

According to the latest reports from the executive offices of the General Committee more than $400,000 in actual subscriptions have been turned in by the sub-committees, and they have promise of subscriptions to this issue of bonds amounting almost to a like figure. The members of the committee are all working at top speed in order to make an excellent showing early in the drive. The prime idea is to obtain the full quota at the earliest moment and then, combining all efforts, to influence as large an over-subscription as is humanly possible. The chairman of the individual trade committees are strongly urged to make their reports to the executive committee without delay so that it will be known where the building industry stands in regard to its quota.

The General Committee is greatly encouraged and pleased with the present aspect of the situation. The feeling prevails that the allied trades will win great credit in the drive for the Third Liberty Loan.

The various sub-committees are now thoroughly organized and are working in complete harmony. All of the members are doing the best in their power to further the sales of bonds, and, as the drive progresses, it is anticipated that keen competition will be engendered between the various trade bodies to make the records of their respective organizations stand out prominently when the totals are finally announced at the close of the drive.

Edgar A. Levy, chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee of the Investing Builders' Association, in discussing the plans of this organization, stated yesterday: "The special committee for this organization is making a thorough canvass not only among its membership, but is also soliciting bond sales from all of the speculative and operating builders throughout the city. In addition, all members of the Investing Builders' Association are soliciting the subscriptions of their employees in the various apartment houses and office buildings in their control. Tenants are being canvassed and posters and other advertising matter have long been placed in the entrance halls, elevators and landings of all these buildings. We intend to leave no stone unturned to advance the sale of Liberty Bonds."

James R. McAfee, representing M. F. Westergren, chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee for the Roofing, Sheet Metal, Metal Ceilings, Waterproofing and Metal Covered Door trades, stated this week: "At our first meeting, held at the Building Trades Club, Thursday evening, April 4, we obtained bond subscriptions to the amount of nearly $150,000, or about double the figure of the first meeting of the last loan drive. For the Second Liberty Loan our combined trades raised $303,000 and for the present loan we had placed our objective at $600,000. This amount is now in sight; in fact we hold promises for sales to go over that amount and we are now confident that the combined trades represented by our committee will turn in subscriptions to the third issue of more than $1,000,000. Since the first meeting the entire city has been districted and captains appointed for each. Every man in the trades covered by our committee will be canvassed by one of the twenty men who have volunteered to give their time and automobiles for this work and daily reports will be made at dinner each evening at the Building Trades Club.

"At the meeting last week one of the most interesting features was the program of patriotic songs rendered by the Livingston Male Quartette accompanied by Harry Burleigh. The songs aroused those at the meeting to a high pitch of enthusiasm and assisted greatly in the subsequent sale of bonds. This quartette will be present at the luncheon meeting of the Mason Builders' Association today.

"Our campaign is now in full swing and we will not relax our efforts until the drive closes and our trades have done their best."

Probably one of the most unique features of the plans of the General Committee for the Allied Building Trades will be the series of meetings-scheduled to be held wherever a sufficient number of men are gathered, engaged in active construction work. According to the present plans every building operation in this city of any size and importance will be visited during the period of the drive by members of the committee.

Patriotic meetings will be held on the job, during the noon hour or in time to be donated by the employers. Addresses by men in close harmony with the workmen will be the feature of these job meetings and the prime purpose will be to interest the mechanics and laborers, increase their patriotism, and add materially to the number of individual bond buyers and owners. Bond sales to mechanics will become one of the important functions of the General Committee, and large results are anticipated from this phase of the work. Complete records of all bond subscriptions made at these meetings will be kept and the amounts will be credited to the totals of the trades the individual buyers are affiliated with.

The various trade organizations have the plans for their individual campaigns well prepared and from this time on to the close of the drive intense activity will be apparent. Numerous meetings are on the schedule and they are all expected to arouse enthusiasm to a high pitch and bring real results in increased bond sales.

The Mason Builders' Association will hold a luncheon meeting today, at the Building Trades Club, for the purpose of increasing the interest in the loan drive among its membership. Otto M. Eidlitz, chairman of the Building and Allied Trades Committee for the Third Liberty Loan, will be present and has promised to address the meeting. Captain Arthur Chute, of the British Army, who has witnessed considerable of the fighting on the battlefields of Europe, will also deliver an address on the conditions at the front and the imperative need for immediate and substantial support financially in subduing the Hun. Another interesting address will be made by Lindsay P. McKinley, of the firm of McKinley & Morris, bond brokers, who has recently returned from a European trip especially made to obtain atmosphere for assisting his efforts in furthering this loan drive.

The Clough-Bourne Construction Co., 101 Park avenue, builder of the cantonment at Camp Mills, Garden City, L. I., has arranged to hold two patriotic rallies and bond sales meetings at that job on Wednesday and Thursday, April 17 and 18. Bond sales will be the feature of these meetings and the program will also include band concerts and selections by a famous opera singer.

granted the writ of prohibition. This applies to and is of vital importance to the City of New York. It saves its taxpayers thousands of dollars; it saves the traveling public millions more.

If the street railway companies desire a modification of their franchises they must now apply to the Board of Estimate, and if these franchise contracts may be modified in one respect they may be modified in others. If they can be modified in the interest of the corporation, they should be modified in the interest of the people.

U. S. Government Standards for War Housing

Building Code for Industrial Workers' Homes Erected under Federal Control Is Formulated by Labor Department

The Record and Guide reproduces here the Government's Standards for War Housing, published as yet only in the April issue of the Architectural Record under a release from the Housing Committee of the Federal Department of Labor.

The Standards are in effect a Federal Housing Code, regulating the construction of permanent housing for industrial workers erected under the auspices of the Government.

Lawrence Veiller, secretary of the National Housing Association, drew up the general framework of the Standards and also took a prominent part in the working out of the final details. The Standards are of vital interest and fundamental importance to the building trades, especially at this time, when the housing situation needs prompt attention as one of the urgent war problems of the nation.

THESE standards are not intended as inflexible requirements, but any plans which fail to conform to them are not likely to be accepted unless supported by very strong reasons. Local building codes, housing laws, and similar ordinances are to be followed except where they permit lower standards than herein set forth.

The Eleventh Hour at Albany.

As this issue of the Record and Guide goes to press the Legislature is completing its work for the year at Albany.

The remaining few hours of the regular session will tell the story as to whether or not New York realty is to be given any tangible relief from the great burden of taxation it so long has been carrying.

There would be strong hope of some relief were the close of the session not so close at hand. The Boylan bill, placing a two mill flat rate on real estate and a tax of one and one-tenth mills on personal property has been passed by the Senate. While this bill does not give to the real estate interests of the metropolis quite the measure of relief which was proposed in the Boylan bill originally, yet at the same time it marks a decided step in the right direction.

There seems to be a good deal of doubt as to the attitude of the Assembly towards the Boylan bill in its present form. The matter is of such great importance to New York City, however, and the justice of the principle involved is so apparent that all well wishers of the city will hope until the minute of final adjournment that the Boylan bill may be passed by both houses of the Legislature and sent to Governor Whitman for his approval.

War Housing Standards.

Through the courtesy of the Architectural Record, the standards adopted by the United States Government for war housing are re-published in full in this issue of the Record and Guide.

These standards are of the utmost interest to the building trades, but they also are of timely interest to all citizens who are devoted to the successful prosecution of the war.

The problem of housing the vast army of workmen engaged in shipbuilding and other undertakings has been one of the most vital among the many perplexities the Federal authorities have had to meet. Now that these standards have been formally adopted, a great step forward in the Government's shipbuilding and other large undertakings has been accomplished.

Where the Authority Rests.

The Record and Guide is fortunate in being able to present in this issue the clear-cut statement of Corporation Counsel Burr on the subject of higher fares on the city transportation lines.

The Corporation Counsel analyzes in a convincing manner the recent decision of the Court of Appeals in the Rochester case. The point involved in that action was as to whether or not the Public Service Commission of the Secnd District has authority to grant applications for increased fares on street railroads. Mr. Burr holds, and he has carefully studied the decision, that the ruling of the Court of Appeals applies to the Public Service Commission of the First District, as well as to the Second District Commission. In other words, the Corporation Counsel holds that fares on the various transportation lines in this city cannot be readjusted by the Public Service Commission here, just as fares in Rochester cannot be adjusted by the Up-State Public Service Commission.

Mr. Burr's statement in the Record and Guide is of especial interest because he points out what seems to be the only immediate avenue of relief from the Dual System deficit which threatens to add many millions of dollars annually to the burden already being carried by New York real estate. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment, Mr. Burr declares, has full authority in the matter.

This statement of the Corporation Counsel is of the utmost importance just at this time. The Legislature is adjourning and there is no likelihood of providing for the subway deficit through legislation this year. The Public Service Commission, it now seems clearly established, has no authority in this matter.

For the taxpayers of New York City, therefore, it is both important and fortunate that they have in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment a permanent body to which the question of higher fares may be submitted. It is true that Mayor Hylan is opposed to granting any increase, but neither the Mayor nor any other member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment can hope to justify arbitrary action in case an application for the six-cent fare is submitted to the Board in the near future. There are strong arguments in favor of higher fares, and the strongest of all these arguments is that unless the people who ride bear their share of the Dual System deficit the burden will have to be put upon the realty owners of the metropolis.

The present question is not as to the cause of the deficit. The matter has gone beyond that point. The deficit is here, and it must be met. The only question now pending is as to the best method of meeting it.

Numerous prominent and public-spirited realty owners in this city already have expressed, through the Record and Guide, their sincere belief that the only fair and equitable method of meeting this deficit is through increased fares. With real estate groaning under the tremendous tax burden which it already is carrying, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment should consider the matter most earnestly before deciding against higher fares.

Mr. Oscar S. Straus, Chairman of the Public Service Commission in this District, intimated the other day his belief in the justice of higher fares. Chairman Straus, addressing a committee of employees of the New York Railways Company, told them they were quasi-public servants and owed a duty to the public to maintain the traction service, and then added:

"The public in turn should recognize that it owes you men a duty also, and, if necessary, should be willing to approve a slightly higher fare for your company to make possible the payment to you of the prevailing and adequate rate of wage, so that you may receive a fair return for your labor."

If, under the existing franchises, the operating companies are unable to pay their employees sufficient wages, that is one more reason why the question of higher fares should be given most earnest consideration by the city authorities.

Wealth Producing Industry Should Proceed.

The Capital Issues Committee announces in its bulletin of April 8th that it has a plan for working in conjunction with the United States Employment Reserve to the end of avoiding the creation of idle labor. This means the employment of idle labor and will be welcome news to the building industry, which has stood ready to make any sacrifice that would be productive of useful results but has felt that it was called upon to stand idle, to no apparent good purpose.

For many weeks this industry has been perturbed and unsettled by official utterances from departments and boards of the National Administration. In a recent issue the Record and Guide published an article placing a constructive interpretation upon these official utterances and bringing out the fact that the underlying motive is really constructive, even in the warnings against luxury building and against building operations that would interfere with the Government's war program.

To illustrate the existence of this motive we have quoted from the letter of President Wilson to Mr. Bernard M. Baruch upon the occasion of the latter's appointment as chairman of the War Industries Board. At that time the President emphasized "the studious conservation of national resources and facilities." This includes the building industry, which is an important national facility.

In a letter of February 27th to Mr. Frank W. Connor, Secretary McAdoo wrote: "Where it" (construction) "is a question of need—be it on account of sanitary conditions or because, without such new construction, other operations essential at this time for the welfare of the country would suffer—there is no doubt such work should be undertaken. This applies equally to construction work in cities, towns and farming districts."

taxation was destroying the value of the greatest asset the city has.

He pointed out that in less than two years the city would reach the constitutional limit of 2 per cent., and that the Federal Government had easily collected about $900,000,000 in income taxes in the city.

A telegram from the Franklin Trust Company was read by the chairman protesting against the imposition of a tax on personal property under the provisions of the Craig bill and declaring that its enactment would drive a large amount of personal property out of the state. It was

On March 15th Secretary McAdoo, in a letter to Mr. Samuel Gompers, wrote: "I have been reported in the public press as having 'appealed to property owners not to construct any homes or buildings during the war.' This is entirely erroneous. I have said that building operations which are not required to protect the health or provide for the comfortable needs of our people, or to supply facilities necessary for the proper conduct of business essential to the successful prosecution of the war, should be postponed."

In the same letter the Secretary said: "The successful financing of the war depends * * * upon the difference between what is made and what is spent."

In each case these encouraging words were to an extent obscured by their connection with cautions against undesirable use of labor, materials and capital needed for governmental purposes and still further obscured by the captions given them in the daily press.

Staff representatives of the Record and Guide, being in Washington studying conditions and desiring to make sure the basis of their judgment, sent telegrams to all parts of the United States asking from well-informed and reliable men information as to the labor and materials markets in each section. The substance of these telegrams is that there is idle building labor and also a surplus of building materials in every part of the country except those localities on the Atlantic seaboard and in the South, where governmental work is progressing on a large scale.

It is gratifying to feel that the situation is now improving, largely by reason of a better understanding of facts and conditions; even resolutions of the War Industries Board, which were interpreted by many as discouraging in their tendency, were aimed to emphasize the general purpose of narrowing down war priorities to the most direct war needs. This should be done. As the building industry is not seeking war priorities, having labor and materials largely at hand ready for use, it is not adversely affected by these resolutions.

Compatible with the operations of the Government's war program it is realized that useful building must proceed; that every man, every dollar and every ton of material should be utilized; that every loss of a day's time in the employment of these elements is an irretrievable loss—a deadly waste at a time when the nation cannot endure waste.

This thought is emphasized by the Capital Issues Committee in its Bulletin of April 8th, wherein it expresses its anxiety "that its operations should not create idleness any faster than the demand for labor can counteract."

From all this it is clear that every man in the building industry ought to feel that it is incumbent upon him to use his best efforts to prevent such waste and to keep labor employed, always having in mind that the results sought shall not be luxury, ornamentation or any unnecessary building, but only that which adds to the needed comfort and efficiency of the community and to the productive wealth of the nation.

stated by Senator Brown that there had been received several other protests from financial institutions against the proposed legislation.

Chairman Cromwell asked if some agreement could not be reached on the tax rate to be placed on personal property, and after consultation between the various interests Comptroller Craig agreed to a rate of $\frac{1}{2}$ of one per cent. instead of 1 $\frac{1}{10}$ per cent., as in his bill. This rate would involve the loss of one half of the \$4,000,000 now collected under the law taxing it at one per cent. This ended the hearing.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Renting Demand Continues Strong—Business Invasion in 57th Street—Other Reports

WHILE there were no spectacular deals reported during the week, nevertheless the budget showed a fairly well distributed number of sales, including business, as well as residential properties. The leasing market is well maintained; in fact, not in years has there been such a shortage of space as exists at the present time.

This shortage is general throughout all five boroughs. The percentage of vacancies in the Bronx is exceedingly small. Within the past few years a large number of "walk-up" apartment houses were erected, with the result that at that time there was a decided overproduction. This surplus has been taken up, and brokers report that there is today less than 1 per cent. of untenanted suites.

In the downtown business section there is also but little space to be had in buildings of newer construction. Owners of the older structures are coming into their own and are now in a position to find tenants at higher rentals than have maintained for several years.

There has been a considerable amount of activity during the past few weeks in West 57th street, a large number of houses having been either sold or leased for business purposes. There is no question but that this thoroughfare will become one of the leading retail streets in this section of the city, and will derive a large amount of business from the overflow from Fifth avenue.

During the week two houses have been given over to trade, and in the block between Fifth and Sixth avenues at least twenty properties have been, or will be, converted into business structures. There are many good reasons why 57th street should be a business thoroughfare. It is a one hundred foot wide street, and is, with the exception of 59th street, the most important east and west street in that section of the city.

The traffic congestion on Fifth avenue has become so acute that a natural overflow had to be provided. The side streets further south were the first to feel the effect, but the amount of property available for business purposes was limited. The trend naturally went north, and while some of the streets south of 57th street benefited, still they did not all have the advantages of the wider thoroughfare.

The falling off in building activities was another factor in the conversion of 57th street to business. The comparatively small amount of money required to alter the existing buildings appealed not only to the property owner, but also to the prospective tenant, with the result that increased rentals were obtained without any financial embarrassment to either party.

Last Tuesday the question of the six-cent fare on local traction lines came up for consideration. Charles L. Woody, of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, explained that, according to figures compiled by the Public Service Commission, about $15,000,000 a year would have to be raised by taxation to meet the city's annual interest on indebtedness, incurred by the building of rapid transit lines forming the Dual System.

Mr. Woody contended that this deficit can be largely, if not wholly, avoided by the increased fare from five to six cents, and instead of the taxpayer bearing all the burden it will be shared by those who are not real estate owners and who use the lines, but reside outside of the city limits.

Coal is now moving more freely to all points of consignment, and the additional methods added to the speeding-up process are aiding towards a tremendous output during the warm season. Rearrangement of some of the old breakers in the anthracite region to permit the loading of fifty-ton cars, as is done at all modern breakers, instead of twenty-five and thirty ton cars, and the assignment by the railroads and Fuel Administrator of more of the large cars will further aid the distribution of coal.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Trudwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 315.—Can the city be held responsible for broken window glass blown out by a recent sewer explosion? Where must application be made?

Answer No. 315.—The city is liable if it can be proved that the explosion was the direct result of negligence, and the first step to take is to file your claim with the Comptroller's office. This must be done promptly.

Question No. 316.—I quote from a contract of sale: "All personal property appurtenant to or used in the operation of said premises is represented to be owned by the seller and is included in this sale." Do the awnings, screens, etc., of a two-family house in question, even though taken down for the winter, come under this clause? The seller is asking for an allowance for the awnings, etc., and my contention is that the awnings, screens, etc., are included in the price stated in the contract. Can you give us the answer? E. G. R.

Answer No. 316.—If the awnings and screens were specially made for or fitted to the premises, and connecting rods, bolts or other means of attachment are permanently fastened to the building, they are included in the contract. If they are not specially fitted for or attached to the premises and can be as readily used for any other building (like adjustable window screens) they are not included in the contract.

BUILDING MANAGERS MEET.

Co-operation Keynote of Speeches—Women Elevator Operators Practical.

THE New York Building Managers' Association held its monthly dinner meeting at the Park Avenue Hotel last Tuesday, at which time William E. Walsh, Superintendent of Buildings, Manhattan, Dr. William F. Doyle of the Fire Prevention Bureau, and Walter C. Martin, Superintendent, Tenement House Department, Bronx, were the principal speakers.

Raymond P. Roberts, Secretary of the Association, read a communication from the New York Building Superintendents' Association in which it was brought out that owing to the scarcity of elevator operators in New York City, female operators might well replace male operators on electric passenger elevators operating at a speed of 400 feet per minute or less, providing that such elevators be equipped with shaft doors and elevator gates of such weight and easy operation as not to make the manipulation too strenuous.

The communication pointed out that by this means those male operators now handling cars having a speed of 400 feet or less per minute would be released. It was contended that the faster elevators could not successfully be handled by females.

C. T. Coley stated that in the Equitable

Building, women operators had been tried. The result was that they were not found satisfactory for high duty cars. The work was too strenuous for them and they required longer relief periods during the morning and afternoon. Mr. Coley, however, recommended that women be put on cars running from 400 to 450 feet a minute.

William E. Barton, of Pease & Elliman, stated that his firm has about fifty women operators on elevators and that they are taking the place of men in the best apartment houses. The schedule is so arranged that the women work a less number of hours than the men, but this is made up by a longer night shift. Mr. Barton stated that it is not safe for the house nor fair to the tenant to have women night operators. He stated that he has a system of relief operators, subject to call. There is no question in his mind but that women operators will continue because up to the present time they have given satisfaction, not only to his firm, but also to the tenants.

Superintendent Walsh outlined the policy which will be pursued by his department. He assured the members of the association that he desired co-operation. He drew attention to the Building Code, and the difficulty in properly administering it.

"Every building in New York City," said Superintendent Walsh, "is covered in the Code by one of the three following classifications, 'public buildings,' 'commercial buildings,' or 'residential buildings.' This in itself indicates the difficulties which confront me in the administration of my duty. My policy is going to be a broad, common-sense one, and I feel that everyone is justified in demanding treatment that is fair, and I am going to follow out this policy."

Dr. Doyle explained that the attitude of the Fire Prevention Bureau was a friendly one to real estate. He stated that he had organized a Board of Review for the purpose of disposing of cases brought to its attention, but that if it is not able to do so, they would be referred to the Board of Standards and Appeals.

"It is my intention," said Dr. Doyle, "to be fair and equitable to everyone. I wish to get a lot of unnecessary cases off the calendar, and I am going to pursue a broad policy. As an example at the hearing today there were sixteen cases on the calendar, fourteen of which were dismissed, and the remaining two were so flagrant in character that they will be enforced. Co-operation is all that is necessary for a continuance of satisfactory relations between the Fire Prevention Bureau and building owners and managers, and I feel that we will all co-operate."

Superintendent Martin spoke about his work in his Department. He has been interested in the building business for the past fourteen years and during that period continually came into contact with the Tenement House Department. He assured the members if they would go half way relating to any matter which might come up, the Department would extend all the help possible and go the other half way.

To Extend Culver Line.

Action has been taken by the Public Service Commission upon motion of Commissioner F. J. H. Kracke to provide for service as far as Avenue X on the new Culver Line in Brooklyn when that road is placed in operation, which it is expected will be in the next few months. The Commission is now advertising for bids for the construction of Section 3 of this line from Avenue X to Coney Island, which are to be received on April 15. The structure will be completed to Avenue X well in advance of the remaining portion to Coney Island. It was at first proposed that when operation began it should be carried only as far as Kings Highway. Commissioner Kracke's motion, however, provided for the shifting of crossovers between local and express tracks from Kings Highway to Avenue X and will thus place in service the stations at Avenue U and at Avenue X.

Sale by Front Foot.

WHETHER a sale of realty is in gross, that is, without regard to quantity, or is a sale according to area by a price per acre or per front foot, depends on the intention of the parties, as shown by the contract and all the facts and circumstances connected with its making. It is held, Coppage v. Equitable Guarantee & Trust Co. (Del.), 102 Atl. 788, that a sale of a lot was none the less in effect a sale by front foot, though the seller, after fixing the price as based on a price per foot, the result being $5,025, reduced it to an even $5,000.

Action for Rent.

The New York Appellate Division holds, McLoughney v. White, 168 N. Y. Supp. 532, that a tenant, a woman of intelligence, could not avoid her liability under a lease for one year on the ground that the landlord's agent had agreed orally that the lease should contain a term permitting the tenant to terminate it whenever she desired to do so, which provision the lease did not contain, though the agent told her it did, where she had an opportunity to examine the contents of the lease, but chose not to read it or the copy given her, but occupied the premises for nine months without objection.

Effect of Option to Purchase.

Parties entered into a contract which they called a lease, and in which they called themselves lessor and lessee. The instrument contained all that the law requires in a contract of lease. The Louisiana Supreme Court holds, Doullut

Worth Fighting For?

SHALL this little girl grow up in the sort of American home we know, healthy and happy? Shall she have the advantage of living and learning in a free land, under free institutions? Shall such children develop into Liberty-loving citizens that a free America may be proud of?

For over two hundred years Americans have fought valiantly, and died gallantly, to win for themselves and hand down to their posterity the blessings of liberty, justice, self-government and equal opportunity. This precious heritage, bought at so great a price, is now threatened.

The question which today confronts America as a nation, and you as an individual, is whether or not a free America is worth fighting for

Are American children in this and all future generations to receive unimpaired the legacy of freedom of which we are now the custodians, or shall their country be turned over bodily to the brutal, rapacious, power-mad enemy which has forced us into this war?

This question cannot be answered by word of mouth, but by deeds alone.

Let your answer be your investment in War Duty This Side The Trenches

An official photograph of the club which is used to "finish off" wounded Italian soldiers. 32,000 of these were recently captured by the Italians.

The Destruction of Civilization is in grim and sober reality what we are fighting this war to prevent. The club pictured above—from an actual official photograph—might be the weapon of a savage cave man of five thousand years ago. It is in fact the weapon with which German soldiers "finish off" enemy wounded who have fallen on the battlefield.

There is only one answer to make to such methods—the defeat of the German armies. America has taken up the sword to give that answer. Our army is in France to help win this war on the battlefield—that civilization may be safe, that America may be safe.

You Can Have Your Share in America's Answer to German Savagery

The Third Liberty Loan is your opportunity. It is the most direct blow that can be struck at German military supremacy. It is the most powerful aid that can be given our soldiers in France. It means rifles and helmets and gas-masks—the best protection for our men from German brutality. It means big guns and shells and airplanes—and VICTORY.

Invest today in bonds of the Third Liberty Loan, and save the lives of American soldiers.

He Also Fights Who Helps A Fighter Fight

WE are now building more naval and merchant ships than we have constructed in the last generation.

We are building a vast fleet of airplanes, and enormous supplies of artillery, motor trucks, machine guns, rifles and ammunition. We are feeding, clothing and training an army of a million men, and preparing for a million more. We have loaned billions of dollars to our allies to be spent in the United States.

The mind can hardly conceive the sums of money required for our war preparations. Yet these expenditures are absolutely essential. We must win the war quickly if possible; we must carry it on for years if necessary. We must do the job with American thoroughness, let the cost be what it may.

From the shipyards of the Pacific to those of the Atlantic; on our farms and in our mines, mills and factories in every state in the Union; back of the firing lines in France, where men are training, camps are being erected and railroads built, billions upon billions are being expended for labor, for transportation, for materials and supplies of every description.

Remember, when you invest in your Liberty Bonds, that there is immediate, urgent, imperative need for every dollar you can possibly spare.

A Bond In The Hand Is Worth Two In The Booth

YOU are asked to save every cent not needed for your reasonable support and physical well being—this is thrift

Bonds Are Not A Burden But A Blessing

THRIFT requires the exercise of restraint and self-denial—qualities without which you cannot achieve the success in life which it is your ambition to achieve, and for the lack of which you are likely to suffer in later years.

The money you acquire by thrift you are asked to loan—not give—to your country. It will come back to you when you may need it far more than you do now, and you will be paid interest for its use.

This war is a frightful thing, but it may prove of inestimable benefit to you, if it teaches you the good habit of thrift. Start the habit by investing in EVERY owner of real estate in New York, every rent payer, has a vital interest in the proposition to charge a six-cent fare for the period of the war on all street railway lines, subway, elevated and surface.

Either the people who ride on the subway and elevated must pay the interest on the City's investment of $250,000,000 in the Dual System, or it must be paid out of taxes.

The Interborough's contract with the City provides that after operating expenses are paid, the Company shall receive its preferential. It is not until this has been paid in full that the City will receive any return from fares to meet the interest charges on its investment. The other contracts the City has relating to the Dual System are on the same basis. A five-cent fare during this period of extraordinary operating costs will defer any return to the City from the operation of its lines.

It is estimated that with a five-cent fare, the City will for a period of from five to seven years face an annual deficit of at least $11,250,000 in the operation of the Dual System. Some people believe that, due to war conditions and the uncertainty of the times, this deficit will reach $20,000,000.

Every $10,000,000 increase in the City's tax budget must mean a five per cent increase in the tax rate. A $20,000,000 deficit will mean a 10 per cent increase in the tax rate.

This deficit of from $11,000,000 to $20,000,000 as variously estimated, can be provided for in only one of two ways; either by putting the burden on the taxpayer in the one case, or on the fare-payer in the other. If put on the taxpayer it will fall on the real estate owners of the City—already bending under enormous tax burdens which have been put upon them to the extent that many of the best-located properties in the City are to-day selling at one-half their assessed valuations.

The real estate owners must, in turn, pass as large a proportion as they can to the tenants occupying their property, with the result that if the burden is put on the taxpayer it will wholly fall on the citizens of New York; who work in New York—who make their living in New York—who spend their incomes in New York—who pay their taxes in New York—the vital members of the community that keep New York alive and growing.

If, however, a policy is determined upon of putting this burden on the fare-payer, it is estimated there are 300,000 strangers from all over the world daily using the transportation facilities of New York, in addition to hundreds of thousands of commuters from nearby States, who make their money in New York, but spend their money outside New York; who pay their taxes outside of New York, and are not an integral portion of New York life.

We have offered to put the Dual System contract into effect simultaneously with the 6c fare. This will preclude the Interborough from receiving one dollar of additional revenue as a result of the bill.

Frankly, our interest in this measure is two-fold:

First, to insure the current payment of the Interborough's preferential, under its contract with the City, which, in any event, would have to ultimately be paid out of future earnings, with compound interest.

Second, to insure sufficient earnings by the surface lines of the New York Railways to keep them out of bankruptcy. Bankruptcy, as you know, would result in splitting up the lines into the original companies, and would abolish transfers entirely.

street, abutting the Hotel Wolcott, which they acquired last June in a trade for their former thirteen-story apartment house at the northwest corner of West End avenue and 80th street. In part payment the Messrs. Mayer received 124 and 126 East 23d street, an old building, on a plot 50 x 100 feet, between Madison and Fourth avenues, now occupied as stores and apartments. The property will ultimately be improved with a loft building. In purchasing this property the Mayers, who acquired it free and clear, have arranged a loan of $75,000 with the Lincoln Trust Company. Each property was put in the trade at $175,000. Julian Benedict was the broker. Weschler & Kohn acted as attorneys for the selling company.

Heights Apartments Bought by Investor.

The Henry Morgenthau Company, Robert E. Simon, president, sold two large six-story elevator apartment houses, covering the block front in the south side of 181st street, from Pinehurst to Northern avenues. The house at the Pinehurst avenue corner is known as the Warrington Hall, and occupies a plot 118 x 115 feet. It contains three stories and accommodations for forty-three families. The structure is now fully rented, and shows an annual return of $30,000. At the Northern avenue corner is the Fort View, which measures 115 x 115 feet. It contains one basement store and thirty-five apartments. The house is also fully tenanted, the annual rent roll being $26,264. The two houses were held at $475,000, and were acquired a few years ago by the selling company.

Bronx Plot Assembled.

George Bockhaus, Inc., leased from Joseph Gottlieb, and Annette Adelman, the two five-story tenements at 551 and 553 East 132d street, corner of St. Anns avenue, for a long term. The lease carries with it an option to purchase. The same interests also purchased from Samuel L. Hewlett and George Y. MacMurphy, as trustees under the will of Stephen R. Hewlett, and Noah C. Rogers, as trustee under the will of John L. Rogers, the five-story tenement houses at 107 and 109 St. Anns avenue, adjoining the 132d street property. The company now controls one-half block fronting on St. Anns avenue including the corner of 132d street; also the house adjoining in the latter thoroughfare. Lawrence Blake, Jr., was the broker. It is reported that the buyers intend to improve the property with apartment houses.

Bank Sells in Wooster Street.

The Brooklyn Savings Bank sold to the Tremont-Webster Building Company, August F. Schwarzler, the Bronx builder, president, the seven-story loft building, at 179 to 183 Wooster street, measuring 74.8 x 100 feet, located 100 feet south of Bleecker street. The bank took back a mortgage of $122,500 on the property for a five-year term at 5 per cent.

Buyer for Bronx Apartment House.

The Brooklyn Savings Bank sold, through A. H. Levy and Jacob Kaplan, Forest Hall, a seven-story elevator structure, at the northwest corner of Forest avenue and 158th street, on a plot 100 x 87.6 feet. The bank acquired the property as plaintiff in a foreclosure suit, and takes back a first mortgage of $87,500.

Creditors Accept Offer.

The creditors of Clarence Payne accepted through their attorneys, Campbell, Flaherty & Turner, the offer of $475,000 recently made by Max Loewenthal, for the twelve-story apartment house, at 383 to 387 Park avenue. The property is one hundred per cent. rented, the annual rent roll aggregating about $67,000. It is subject to two mortgages, totaling $390,000. N. A. Berwin & Company represented Mr. Loewenthal in the transaction.

The Board of Standards and Appeals at its meeting on Thursday disposed of 33 cases as follows: Dismissed 3, denied 4, withdrawn 4, granted 6, laid over 10, set for rehearing 1. The following proposed amendment was submitted:

Proposed Amendment to rule 25, Rules for fire extinguishing appliances, adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals May 24, 1917. Rule 25, Water Supply Check Valves. The piping connecting each source of water supply with the sprinkler system, including fire department connections, shall be provided with a check valve.

On two source systems, check valves shall have a gate valve on each side to permit repair of check without shutting off both supplies except that where the two sources of supply consist of a pressure and gravity tank located above the highest line of sprinklers, a gate valve need only be provided on the down stream side of each check valve.

The purpose of this amendment is to eliminate two gate valves in systems supplied by pressure and gravity tanks. Individual modifications have been granted by the Board of Appeals and the representatives of various sprinkler companies as well as of the New York Fire Insurance Exchange have stated that the additional valves required by the rule as it now stands are a menace to the system, due to the possible accidental seating of one of the valves, thereby shutting off a source of supply.

[Record and Guide Quotations Are Accepted as Official by Building Material Exchanges.]

LOCALLY, building construction has slowed down almost to a point of inactivity. The operations that were started some time ago are progressing in a satisfactory manner now that the strike of the laborers is a thing of the past, but there is no new building projects of any consequence being started, and according to the present outlook none will be commenced until general conditions in building circles are more settled. There have been plans recently prepared for quite a number of substantial operations, a number of which were placed in the hands of contractors for estimates; but as yet no contracts have been placed, and there is a growing disposition on the part of owners to hold off for a time at least.

As a consequence of the conditions now maintaining the building trades are looking more and more to the Government as its salvation during the balance of the war period. It is quite evident that private building will be a negligible quantity for a long time, and what activity is possible will be brought about through Federal sources. During the past two weeks the activity along this line has steadily increased, and a number of important contracts for military construction have been awarded to contractors. During the week there have been announcements of large Congressional appropriations for the extension of the military and naval building program. An appropriation has been granted for nearly $3,000,000, to be used in the erection and equipment of temporary hospitals at the navy yards and training stations; $3,565,000 has been provided for the construction of barracks and quarters for the coast artillery at sea coast posts and fortifications; $2,500,000 has been placed at the disposal of the Quartermaster's Department for the building of magazines and storehouses at a number of naval stations, and a large group of other projects of a military or naval character have been included in the recent appropriations. The total of the expenditure of United States Treasury funds for the balance of this year will reach an astounding figure. Practically none of the construction called for by these appropriations has been placed under contract. The plans for the work are now under way, and it is expected that before long announcements will be made as to the builders of these projects.

The building material markets are quiet, and outside of commitments for the Federal work large orders are scarce. Although sales have been light in almost all lines, material prices are well sustained, chiefly for the reason that reserves are low and manufacturers are generally curtailing production on account of the difficulty of obtaining fuel, labor and other essentials, and the doubts as to the immediate future of private building construction. In practically every line of building commodity there will be a material decrease in the volume of production during the coming season, and in some instances, notably common brick, the production is likely to be only at the minimum that will enable manufacturers to keep their plants from deterioration.

Common Brick.—In comparison with the activity of one week ago the past seven days have been relatively quiet ones in the Hudson River brick market. Although brick has arrived from up-river points in fair volume, the demand has slowed down materially, and the sales of the past week have been exceedingly light. Owing to the lack of demand there has been somewhat of a tendency to cut prices in order to stimulate sales. As a consequence some of the barges sold during the week went out of the market at $9 to $9.50 a thousand. This drop in prices was advisable because a number of manufacturers had their brick on chartered barges and the heavy charter rates were rapidly consuming what little profits were possible. Every day that these barges were held unsold added considerably to the overhead of the manufacturer, and it seemed good business to sacrifice prices in order to decrease dockage and demurrage charges. The balance of the unsold barges in local waters are held firmly at $10 a thousand. According to present accounts the prospects for an active manufacturing season along the Hudson River are anything but bright. Some of the larger manufacturers undoubtedly will open their plants, but will not produce anything like the amount of brick made in previous years. With the high cost of fuel and other manufacturing essentials and the difficulty of holding labor throughout the season there is little incentive to start, especially as the demand for brick is almost negligible and practically no improvement in sight. The Raritan situation is almost identical to that maintaining along the Hudson, and but slight manufacturing activity is anticipated this year.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, April 12, 1918. Condition of market: Demand light; prices weaker. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10.00 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 15; sales, 10. Distribution: Manhattan, 4; Brooklyn, 4; New Jersey points, 1, Yonkers, 1.

Structural Steel.—Activity in this line of a private nature has slowed down to the minimum, and the prospects for the balance of the current year are anything but optimistic. There were estimates recently taken on a number of large and important structural projects in the Metropolitan district and also in the territory in close proximity, but up to the present writing no definite action in regard to placing contracts for this work has been taken, and it appears as though the major portion of the contemplated work would be held in abeyance until the times are more propitious. The steel contractors in this territory are devoting much of their efforts to Government construction and are looking forward to a continuation of structural work of this character until such time as it will be possible to start private building with a reasonable degree of security. The fabricating mills are heavily loaded with war business, and it is a difficult matter to get private orders through. The demands from the Government for steel for its steadily increasing building program will keep the mills busy for months to come, almost to the exclusion of any other type of business. Prices for mill shipments of fabricated material are unchanged, Federal control figures still dominating all quotations.

Cast Iron Pipe.—The manufacturers of cast iron pipe recently held a meeting, at which prices were the principal topic of discussion. This situation was gone over at great length, and the consensus of opinion seemed to be that the prices of this commodity should be increased; but there is no immediate probability that the Government will take action of this character. The present outlook is that the existing scale will maintain until July 1. Activity in this market is at present almost wholly dependent upon Government demands for extensions to the cantonments and training stations and what is coming from the construction of ship yards. Private buying at this time is almost negligible, and there is a firm disposition on the part of municipalities to hold off with their prospective work until later in the season. Prices for cast iron pipe are unchanged—6-in., 8-in., and heavier, $55.35, per net ton, New York, and 4-in., $58.35.

Wire Products.—There has been considerable Government activity in this market within the past week. The order for 30,000 kegs of wire nails, required by the Federal authorities for use in France, has been equally distributed between the American Steel & Wire Company, the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company and the Pittsburgh Steel Company, each to supply 10,000 kegs; and it is generally understood that this order went at the $3.50 base price, subject to the usual advances. The Navy Department is also in the market for about 40,000 kegs of wire nails, and it is expected that this order will be placed at an early date. The demand for wire products from the regular trade is not brisk, but the mills are generally well booked over the next two or three months. Prices remain at the levels established by the Government, and will maintain until June 30.

Sand and Gravel.—While there is considerable activity in the markets for these commodities, Government demands represent the bulk of the business, and orders from this source naturally take precedence over the requirements of private interests. The Federal Government has requisitioned approximately 80 per cent. of the total output of sand and gravel for this year, and although it is generally thought that the actual requirements for the Government building program will fall considerably below this amount a sufficient volume of sand and gravel must be available at all times to supply immediate wants. Prices to dealers and consumers are firm and likely to remain stationary for the balance of this year.

Portland Cement.—From the manufacturers' standpoint the Portland cement situation is considered satisfactory. There is a consistent demand for this commodity, both from Federal sources and also from the dealers, who are gathering together their season's supplies. The price is firm at the $2.55 a barrel level, and there is no immediate prospect of a change from this figure. Manufacturing is proceeding up to the limit of fuel deliveries, and the producers are working to increase their reserves at mill points, which are at the present time at a low ebb.

Window Glass.—Trade in plate and window glass for the past month has been exceedingly light, and producers declare that the activity is at the lowest ebb in years. There has been a strong demand for glass for Government building operations, and stocks in the hands of the local dealers are greatly depleted and broken as to sizes. There is a satisfactory amount of glass in reserve at various factories, but there is extreme difficulty in obtaining transportation to distributing points. There has been no change in the schedule of manufacturers' discounts.

Linseed Oil.—The market is quiet, but prices are well sustained, and there is no indication that any immediate recession is probable. Although there have been some arrivals of seed from Argentine, there has been no break in oil prices, and there is but slight possibility that supplies will be available from South America in any volume before the new domestic crop is ready for the crushers.

Hardware.—There has been a general advance in practically all lines of hardware. Almost daily manufacturers are announcing new schedules of prices, made necessary by the constantly increasing cost of raw materials, labor and general manufacturing overhead.

This work is for Julius Kayser & Co., glove manufacturers, 45 East 17th street, Manhattan, and on premises. The plans and specifications were prepared by Wm. Higginson, architect, 21 Park Row, Manhattan. The cost of this project is approximately $300,000.

Architect for Model Tenements.

Grosvenor Atterbury, architect, 20 West 43d street, Manhattan, has been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for the two model tenements to be erected in Bayonne, N. J., by the Bayonne Housing Co., a corporation now being formed under the auspices of the Bayonne Chamber of Commerce. Definite details of this project have not been decided upon as yet and it will be some time before announcement can be made. The exact location also has not been determined but the operation will occupy a large plot that will be parked and arranged as a playground for children. It is proposed to spend in the neighborhood of $200,000 upon this project.

Contract for Y. W. C. A. Building.

Tucker & Lewis, 101 Park avenue, have obtained without competition, the general contract for the erection of the new building for the colored branch of the Young Women's Christian Association to be located in the north side of 137th street 100 feet east of Seventh avenue. Government to Spend Millions in Building Here

Recent Appropriations for War Plants Assure Large Amount of Construction Work in Metropolitan District.

FEDERAL building operations throughout the country, and more particularly those scattered along the Eastern seaboard, at the present time completely overshadow all other phases of structural activity either actually under construction or contemplated. Data gathered by the Record and Guide indicates that in the near future the Government will start in the Metropolitan district building enterprises involving an expenditure of at least $50,000,000.

Although it is fully realized that many military projects are widely scattered over the United States and the territories, there is no doubt about the fact that a large percentage of the expenditures will center within a radius of one hundred miles of New York and furthermore that a relatively large proportion of the work will be actually confined within the boundaries of the Metropolitan district.

A definite idea of the work to be undertaken by the Government within the territory contiguous to New York City may be had by a study of the following partial list of the new building operations for which Federal funds have recently been appropriated and working plans commenced. The actual construction will be started shortly on a large proportion of these projects.

More than $1,000,000 will be the cost of the proposed barracks and officers' quarters to be built at the fortifications protecting Long Island Sound and for which the War Department has practically completed plans. The builders of these projects will obtain contracts on the cost plus basis and it is anticipated that the names of the contractors will be announced at an early date. Of the twenty warehouses planned last year for Governors Island, N. Y., to be used by the Quartermaster Department, six have already been completed and the remaining fourteen will be started immediately. This work was let in a single contract at a cost said to be in excess of $2,000,000. Working plans have been completed for the erection of a group of barracks and officers' quarters at Sandy Hook, N. J., to cost approximately $300,000 and the contractors for this operation are likely to be selected within a few days. At Lake Denmark, N. J., it is proposed to construct thirty additional hollow tile and concrete storehouses at a total cost of $500,000. Estimates are now being taken for this work, to close April 29, after which a contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder.

Four buildings for the National Red Cross Society, constructed according to standardized plans, are to be erected in close proximity to this city. Each will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000. Pelham Bay, N. Y.; Hoffman Island, N. Y.; Mineola, L. I., and Clifton, S. I., have been the locations decided upon as the sites for these projects and undoubtedly the plans of this organization include other similar projects in this territory. At Stapleton, S. I., more than $300,000 will soon be expended in the erection and equipment of a marine hospital. The appropriation has been granted by Congress and the plans are now being prepared in the offices of the Acting Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department, at Washington.

One of the largest and most important of the building operations in the local territory to be undertaken by the Government, the size and cost of which will place it in a class by itself, will soon be started. The contractor for the work has practically been selected and announcement will be made within the next few days. This project involves the construction of a group of eight-story reinforced concrete warehouses, concrete piers and a number of auxiliary structures, at the Bush Terminal property, in Brooklyn. It is generally understood throughout building trades that the cost of this operation will exceed $25,000,000.

Housing accommodations for workers in the shipyards and munition factories adjacent to Greater New York are also included in the program of Federal building operations that are shortly to be undertaken. Already the sum of $50,000,000 has been placed at the disposal of the Emergency Housing Committee of the U. S. Emergency Fleet Corporation and additional funds for the extension of this type of construction will be made available through the action of Congress. The project to build in the neighborhood of three thousand dwellings for shipyard employees and their families on Staten Island is rapidly developing. These buildings at the lowest estimate will cost at least $1,500, thus bringing the total cost of this one housing development project in the neighborhood of $5,000,000. Housing projects at other nearby points are also to be a part of the local building program and this phase of activity alone will represent an expenditure of many millions of dollars.

In order to give a more general comprehension of the wide scope of the building plans now a part of the Federal program of military preparation, it is necessary to consider the work scheduled over the entire national territory. The magnitude of this work is evident upon a study of only a part of the projects for which Congress lately appropriated funds. The figures given include the work to be undertaken at various locations throughout the country and they give a graphic idea of the immensity of the labor involved and the vast amounts of building materials and supplies that will be required.

To provide for the erection of additional structures at the naval training stations and camps the sum of $12,000,000 has been made available and for the purpose of building and equipping four new shipyards an appropriation of $50,000,000 has been made by Congress. The latter work will come under the jurisdiction of the U. S. Emergency Fleet Corporation. Among other recent Congressional grants was $550,000 for the erection of post exchange buildings at locations to be specified later and the Coast Defence units will benefit by the expenditure of $3,565,000 recently allotted for the construction of greatly needed barracks and quarters. The working plans for these jobs have been completed under the direction of Lt.-Col. F. B. Wheaton, architect, and Lt.-Col. F. M. Gunby, engineer, and the contracts will be awarded on the cost plus basis.

For the erection of additional hospital buildings a new appropriation of $19,654,000 has been granted, and $2,500,000 was allowed for the erection of magazines and storehouses at various locations, which will be announced later. In order to provide for temporary hospitals a total of $2,750,000 was allotted and $5,000,000 was placed at the disposal of the Navy Department for the construction of terminal storage and shipping buildings along the Atlantic seaboard. An appropriation of $984,000 was provided to build and equip rifle ranges at the training stations and cantonments and for the installation of water supply and sewer systems at the mobilization camps throughout the country a total of $18,000,000 has been provided.

All of this, it must be understood, is in addition to the immense amount of Government work already under contract. These projects are entirely new and add just that much to the grand total of the Federal expenditures made

Preparing to Investigate Municipal Ownership

Special Brown Committee Looking Into Financial Capacity of Cities—Other Albany Developments

(Special to The Record and Guide.)

Albany, April 19.—Senator Elon R. Brown, who effectually blocked the Hylan municipal ownership plan in the Legislature by forcing the reference of municipal ownership to a commission for investigation between now and the meeting of the next Legislature, is laying the groundwork of his inquiry.

The majority leader in the Senate has caused to be made a tabulation of the financial condition of all the cities of the State, with a view to establishing some means of determining the financial capacity of these municipalities to take over privately-owned and operated utilities. New York City is included in this list, the publication of which will be made within a few weeks.

The opposition to municipal ownership voiced by Senator Brown was not predicated upon his antipathy to the principle so much as to his belief that few if any of the cities of the State, and New York City as the last of the line, are financially equipped to carry the debt municipal ownership would impose. On the floor of the Senate Mr. Brown recounted the experience of a dozen or more cities which were bankrupted by the adoption of a municipal ownership railroad plan some 40 years ago, and at the same time he predicted the failure of any plan of similar character if adopted by New York or any up-state municipality at this time.

The outlook now is that it will be some weeks before the Brown Municipal Ownership committee will begin its investigation. In the meantime the financial status of the several municipalities of the State will be ascertained.

Governor Whitman will give a hearing on the Youker bill, designed to simplify the operation of the Torrens Law, on Wednesday, April 24, at 2:30 o'clock. At noon on the same day the Governor will hear arguments on the Knight bill affecting taxable transfers.

The Youker bill and the Wagner serial bond bill appear to be the most important legislation, from the viewpoint of New York City property owners, left by the Legislature at adjournment. The former is somewhat radical in character and is designed to make more workable the system of registration of titles to real property. It provides for the appointment of official examiners by the registers in counties where the office of register exists, such official examiners to be lawyers capable of meeting the qualifications the Court of Appeals may prescribe. These official examiners are empowered to summon witnesses and administer oaths, in fact, under a court designation may administer the law and handle petitions for registration in the same way a Supreme Court Justice was accustomed to handle them at special term in the past. They will finally report to the court the proofs submitted, together with their findings and conclusions. Notice to all persons having any interest in property sought to be registered under the Torrens Law must be notified by the register.

The Wagner bill, entitled "for the relief of the City of New York in financing its obligations during the period of the war and one year thereafter in reference to the issuance of corporate stock and serial bonds," permits New York City during the period of the war to issue not exceeding $15,000,000 a year serial bonds and corporate stock in excess of the city debt limit to finance public improvements.

Such bonds and stock must mature within the period not exceeding the minimum estimated usefulness of the public improvements for which the securities are issued. In the case of acquisition of real property, water front, rapid transit or terminal improvements these securities must mature within 50 years. Maturity for fireproof buildings, viaducts, bridges, boulevards, parkways and the like is fixed at 40 years; for non fireproof buildings at 25 years; for electric light and power plants, fire alarm systems, telephone and telegraph plants and systems of communication and transmission at 15 years, and for all other improvements not enumerated in the bill at 10 years. Such bonds may not be used in the acquisition of any public utility or any property connected with a public utility.

The Knight bill upon which the Governor will give a hearing abolishes the distinction between tangible and intangible personal property for transfer tax purposes, providing that securities not otherwise taxable and kept within the State and cash on deposit or kept within the State by non-residents shall not be construed as property within the State.

Senator Ottinger's bill amending the Real Property Law by providing that an agreement for the occupation of real estate in New York City shall create a monthly tenancy unless the duration of the occupation is specified in some note, lease or memorandum, was passed on the last day of the session.

A number of other bills more or less directly affecting real estate in New York City also were passed in the last hours of the Legislature.

The Farrenkopf bill, providing that the holder of a tax lien may foreclose the same in the county court of the county where the lands or tenement are situated as well as in the Supreme Court as at present.

The Lockwood pension bill, under the terms of which a commission composed of the State Superintendent of Insurance, two members appointed by the Governor and one member each by the temporary president of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly, shall investigate the subject of pensions, annuities and allowances to State and municipal employees. This bill is the upshot of the flood of pension legislation which was cast upon the 1918 Legislature, mostly from New York City, and estimated to represent an annual outlay of approximately $2,000,000. The Governor is expected to sign this bill.

The Youker bill, abolishing the board of Sinking Fund Commissioners in New York City and transferring the powers and duties of that board to the Board of Estimate.

Senator Walker's bill, amending the Civil Code relative to the sale of real property pursuant to judgment by striking out the provisions requiring the judgment to designate the papers for publication of such notice where the property is located in New York City.

Senator Cromwell's bill, providing that when in the opinion of the Board of Estimate the combined assessments for public improvements confirmed after January 1, 1918, against any parcel of real estate shall in any two consecutive years exceed 60 per cent of the assessed valuation, the board may upon the certificate of the Comptroller direct a modification of the assessment.

Senator Gilchrist's bill, providing that the Board of Revision of Assessments may review awards for damages made by the boards of assessors and its confirmation of such award shall be final, and requiring the Comptroller to certify to the Board of Assessors the registration of contracts for street improvements, and authorizing the revision board to confirm the assessment at any time after the registration of the contract.

Senator Gibbs' bill, amending the Tax law, Section 154, by providing that where land was sold for the non-payment of county taxes prior to January 1, 1880, without deed or conveyance, the owner may pay the County Treasurer the amount of the face of such sale and free the land from the lien of such sale from the date of payment.

Among the laws signed by Governor Whitman are the following:

Providing that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment may determine that the cost of a public improvement other than rapid transit improvements, where it exceeds $50,000 and is to be paid in whole or in part by the city or a borough, shall be payable in not exceeding five annual installments. This applies to such improvements the cost of which shall have been fixed prior to April 1, 1918, as well as future improvements.

Amending section 21 of the General Municipal Law by providing that municipal bonds authorized by any law prior to January 1, 1918, may be issued at such interest rate not exceeding the legal rate as the department, board, commission or officer charged with issuing the same may determine, notwithstanding the maximum rate may have been fixed in such law.

No Relief This Year For New York Real Estate

Legislature Adjourns Without Taking Action on the Boylan Bill Limiting the Tax Rate on Realty

REAL estate taxes will not be reduced for the present as the 1918 Legislature failed to pass the Boylan bill or any other measure which would relieve owners of realty. But while there is some disappointment over the fact that the Boylan bill did not become law after it had successfully passed the Senate by a vote of 35 to 7, and failed of passage in the Assembly only because it was held up by the Rules Committee, there is much encouragement to be found in the altered attitude of legislators towards the proposal to relieve real estate from the unjustifiable burden of paying 90 per cent. of the expenses of running the city and placing at least a part of it on other property, the taxation of which is just as reasonable and fair as is the taxing of land and buildings.

Before the campaign for the readjustment of taxes which has just come to the end of its first phase there was a general disposition among city officials and State legislators to run up the expenses as fast as this could be done and call upon real estate to foot the bill, knowing in advance that it could not escape. Real estate owners were looked upon as fair prey. Their rights were not given much consideration and the advantage to the city of keeping the holding and improvement of real estate on a business basis was constantly overlooked.

The two hearings and the many conferences held at Albany resulted in a better understanding by the lawmakers of the reason for the demand for the limitation of taxation of real estate and the shifting of part of the burden to personal property and there also came about an approach to an agreement as to the terms of a bill that would be agreeable to the various interests represented. This was in itself a good measure of success in the initial campaign and if nothing more had been accomplished there would have been reason for congratulation.

But considerably more than this was effected by the campaign and the advantage scored in the work of securing proper legislation is best judged by the action of the Committee on Affairs of the City of New York, of which Senator George Cromwell is chairman, and the vote in the Senate, and in the canvass of the Assemblymen, made during the closing hours of the session.

In the first place Senator Cromwell's committee devoted two hearings of several hours each to public arguments over the Boylan and other bills. Every opportunity was given for opposition to develop. What little was brought out came from sources which were expected to oppose the imposition of a tax on personal property in any form. During the progress of the hearings the Tax Department, represented by President Jacob A. Cantor, and Comptroller Charles L. Craig presented bills that had been formulated with reference to the views prevailing in these two departments of the city government.

These bills to a certain extent were not in accord with the original Boylan bill which was based on a limitation of the tax on real estate to 1.75 and on personal property of .25 per thousand each. The principal differences were as to the rates and to the inclusion in the departmental bills of a provision for listing of personal property on the general lines of the national income tax scheme. These administration bills proposed a flat rate of 2.00 on real estate and 1.10 on personal property. This latter provision was fixed to avoid interfering with the tax on bank stocks which now stand at 1. and brings in $4,000,000.

The argument of the administration representatives was that the listing system was necessary to ensure the disclosure of sufficient personal property to bring in enough revenue to offset the loss occasioned by reducing the rate on real estate, and that until the amount of money that could be collected by taxes on personal property was known the rates on both real and personal property must not be made too low.

On the other hand the real estate people held that if the rate on personal property was too high owners would cover up their holdings as they have done in the past, but that with the very low rate of .25 they would come forward willingly and pay the small tax, which in the aggregate, on the tremendous amount of taxable personalty known to exist, would bring in such a large sum as to more than offset the reduction in real estate taxes.

Outside of these considerations about the only thing developed at the hearings was the contention of Senator Brown that the Boylan bill was unconstitutional because it did not apply to every county in the State the same provisions for the collection of the State tax.

Senator Cromwell's committee in executive meeting lasting into the early morning hours of one of the last days of the session decided by an almost unanimous vote to report and recommend the passage of the Boylan bill amended to make the rate on real estate 2.00 and on personal property .25. This meant dropping the listing provision from further consideration at this session. The bill was to go into effect Jan. 1, 1920.

The Senate passed this bill by a vote of 35 to 7, which was in itself proof of the general acceptance of the contention that real estate was entitled to relief. Only 26 votes were necessary for the passage of the bill, and one of the most encouraging signs of the new attitude of lawmakers towards the proposal of the Real Estate Board of New York was the fact that of the 35 votes recorded in favor of the bill 21 were Republicans and 14 were Democrats.

Points of encouragement from the session's efforts at Albany, as viewed by real estate leaders, are:

The practically unanimous agreement of city officials and lawmakers alike that real estate is entitled to relief.

The passage of the Boylan bill first by the Cromwell committee by an almost unanimous majority and by the Senate by a very large majority.

The canvass of the Assembly which showed a large majority in favor of the bill.

The agreement arrived at during the last hearing on the bill between Comptroller Craig, representing the City administration, and Mr. Dowling, representing the real estate interests, for a rate on personal property not to exceed one-half of one per cent. If this provision had been incorporated in the bill, as reported, the result in the Assembly Committee on Rules might have been different.

There were other points where those favoring the various bills seemed to be approaching a complete understanding and this opens the way for the conclusion that it will not be impossible to secure such a thorough concord of action before the next legislature convenes that there can be no doubt of favorable legislation at that time.

For one thing the matter will not be dropped. Plans are already being formulated for a new campaign of education, and this is likely to include the whole State as well as New York City. Those who have been active in the work which has resulted in the initial success have pledged themselves to go ahead with added determination.

Realty Board Committee Passes Million Mark

In Spite of Week Starting Off Badly, Encouraging Result Is Achieved—Brokers Themselves Prompt to Subscribe

REAL Estate Division of the Third Liberty Loan Committee passed the one million mark on Thursday afternoon and started at once to roll up the second, which they are confident they will do before the end of another week.

The members of the various teams making up the board's campaign committee attended an informal luncheon on Thursday afternoon in the Board rooms, 217 Broadway, as guests of the Chairman of the Committee Alfred E. Marling. Promptly at the appointed time, one o'clock, Mr. Marling called the assemblage to order. Mr. Marling said in part:

"I promised when I asked you to be here today that I would see to it that the hot air would be turned off at 1, and the cold lunch turned on at 1:15, but before we go any further I want to express my sincere thanks for the splendid co-operation of all of you in this campaign. I am deeply grateful for the intelligent, industrious, impressive, imperative and inimitable manner in which every one of you has taken hold of this great work and made possible the excellent results so far achieved.

"At 6:30 Wednesday evening the total amount subscribed through the various teams was $713,000, and when I tell you that this amount represents but one large subscription, that of the Bond & Mortgage Guaranty Company for $200,000, you will readily understand the work that is being done by this committee and its teams. Out of a total of 524 subscriptions one hundred and seventy-five were for fifty dollar bonds and 114 for one hundred dollar bonds. More than fifty per cent. of the whole number was taken by people of small means and that is exactly what the Government wants this third Liberty Loan to be a popular subscription by the man and woman of small income rather than financed by big financial institutions and individuals. We have found that the lists handed out were in most cases of no value and so we have decided to abandon them and free lance for subscriptions."

Laurence McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board of New York, was given a rousing reception, whereupon the chairman called upon Mr. McGuire for a few remarks. He said:

"The most effective word I can say is that I will subscribe $5,000 in addition to my former subscription. We are now at the most serious part of this campaign and we must put forth every bit of energy and push that is in us to put the loan over the top. Just as the soldier, whether he be volunteer or drafted man, has sworn to give himself to his country so are we called upon to give our money.

"The soldier can never get back the eye or the ear or the limb that he loses on the battlefield, but we will get our money back, and unless we want to live in a false state of optimism we have got to come across.

"When we read in the newspapers day after day of the terrible things happening over there we should not hesitate for a moment to give our money. An oversubscription of five times the Third Liberty Loan will be the best blow that America can strike at Germany and the suppression of German propaganda."

Mr. McGuire gave way to Colonel H. D. Thomasen, U. S. A., who has been assigned by the War Department to assist in the Liberty Loan campaign.

"I am not very well versed in finance," he said, "and know nothing about bonds or stocks. The first bond I ever owned was one of the first Liberty Loan bonds. I own a few of the second and this button shows that I own one of the third loan. When I come to die all I expect to leave is the insurance that the Government provides, Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps. Our people are too fond of asking the question 'When is this war going to end?' Better that they should ask 'How is this war going to end?' We must win this war if it takes our last dollar in treasure and our last man if need be."

Mr. McGuire then announced that he would give another $5,000 toward making the total the even million and called upon those present to call out what they would subscribe. In exactly four and one-half minutes the secretary, Mr. Parish, announced that the million-dollar mark had been passed by $100,700, whereupon Mr. Marling called for three cheers for Mr. McGuire, which were given with a will.

"I told the Record and Guide last week that we would pass the million mark this week and we have done so," said Chairman Marling at the close of the meeting. "Now for the second million and then for the third. The men are working as they never worked before in this campaign, are sacrificing personal business, social engagements, and everything else to make the loan a success, and when the final count is in you will find that the real estate men of New York stand well up in the list of those who have stood loyally and faithfully by their Government, and this at a time when real estate is at a standstill because of war conditions."

The second week of the big drive started off very inauspiciously for all active workers. There was a big falling off on Monday and the Real Estate committee had at the end of the day but $41,800, and this was deemed so insignificant that no report was sent to the press.

The teams met again on Tuesday morning and after listening to a few remarks from Mr. Marling they again started out to report back on Wednesday evening, when, after all reports were in, it was found that the total reached was $713,000. This represents only subscriptions actually in hand. Many team captains and members of the teams reported prospects that would put the total far above that amount but it has been the rule that only subscriptions in hand should be reported.

The large subscriptions taken this week were from large estates and this is taken as an indication that in the final analysis the subscriptions from estates will constitute a substantial factor.

The Real Estate Board Committee asks everybody who is connected with realty in any way to help the work of the Board's teams by buying bonds through one of them. The buyer may designate any institution through which bonds are to be bought and the Board will obtain them from that institution.

In last week's issue of the Record and Guide an error in the personnel of the team of which Geo. R. Read and Franklin Petit are captains was inadvertently made. The team is composed of the following real estate brokers: George T. Mayo, Newbery F. Read, Clarence J. Ramsey, Frederick Stuart, Frank E. Connell, Clarence J. Carroll, Robert T. McGusty, Edward Zittel, Frank Zittel and Charles E. Schuyler.

Government to Spend Millions in Building Here

in order that this country might enjoy liberty and peace in future. No account is taken here of work made possible by previous appropriations or structures now in process of erection. The major portion of the operations referred to have been announced within the past week or ten days and provide just that much more new construction for the building trades of the country. No matter to what extent private building construction falls off for the remaining period of this war, Federal activity will take its place. There is every indication that the Government, through its ever increasing program of military and industrial building activity, will provide sufficient work to keep the building trades and their allied interests fully occupied until such time as conditions shall again have become normal and the ordinary construction of peace times resumed.

Builders' Loan Drive Nets $1,578,350 to Date

Allied Trades Somewhat Behind in Their Schedule but Undoubtedly Will Obtain Full Quota

OF the $900,000,000 established as the quota for the Second Federal Reserve district in the Third Liberty Loan drive, the building trades and the industries closely affiliated with them are looked upon to provide at least $5,000,000. This amount is exclusive of the bond subscriptions being made by the General Contractors' Association which are considered independently.

One-half of the allotted time for the drive has now elapsed and so far but slightly more than one-quarter of the quota assigned to the building interests has been subscribed. During the remaining two weeks of the drive, the structural interests, through their General Committee and various sub-committees, will of necessity have to materially speed up their efforts in order that the trades, manufacturers and dealers they represent shall not lag behind other industrial interests in doing their bit for this great cause.

The General Committee feels that something, other than homeopathic remedies when the patient requires a major operation, will have to be the principle upon which the builders and their allied interests will have to work for the balance of this drive. This is absolutely required, so that when the campaign finally terminates this important industrial body shall have its full quota in hand if not substantially oversubscribed.

During the past week the showing made by the Building and Allied Trades Committee for the Third Liberty Loan far surpassed that made in the initial week of the campaign, but even with the excellent record of the past few days the industry as a whole is only averaging along with other organizations in this district and is somewhat behind in its schedule. The inclement weather that maintained during the first week, combined with the scarcity of subscription blanks, was in part responsible for the lack of early sales. These conditions were non-existent during the past week, yet the building industry has not come up to the expectations of its committee. It is conceded that the structural trades have been severely handicapped during the last year or more by conditions beyond their control and that their profits have been adversely affected if not altogether nullified. The past conditions, however, cannot be accepted as a legitimate excuse for a lack of interest or a failure to subscribe to Liberty Bonds to the maximum of the ability of the industry.

According to the latest report of the General Committee the total of bond subscriptions from the building trades to date is in the neighborhood of $1,578,350. The chairmen of the Liberty Loan Committees of the individual trades have definite promises of large subscriptions still to be made but official announcement of these cannot be made until the blanks are actually signed.

From the records on file in the executive office of the General Committee, the various organizations that comprise the working field of this committee have reported the following subscriptions to date:

Mason Builders' and Contractors' Association..	$258,850
Marble Industry: Tile, Grate & Mantle Association and the Mosaic Employers.....	94,000
Cut Stone Association and the Stone Setters..	40,000
House Movers & Shorers' Association and the Hoisting Association.....	1,750

Ornamental Bronze & Iron Masters and the Wire Work Manufacturers.....	No return
Cement Workers.....	8,050

Association of Metal Furring and Lathing Contractors	No return

Manifestations of a high degree of patriotic enthusiasm have been evident at all of the trade meetings recently held for the purpose of increasing the sale of Liberty Bonds. Speakers at these gatherings are men of considerable prominence in the building trades or other lines of commercial, industrial and public life. In order to increase the interest of these meetings other forms of appeal, including band concerts and vocal selections by well-known artists, have been made a part of the programs. All of these agencies have assisted in adding greatly to the sale of bonds and the energy and labor spent in arranging the meetings and their programs have been well repaid.

A number of job meetings have been held during the past week and from all accounts these activities are meeting with remarkable success. Last Tuesday, the Turner Construction Company held a Bond Sale Rally at the new building under construction for the Bay Ridge Dock Company, at which approximately three hundred employees were present. On the same day this concern also conducted another meeting at the Naval Supply Base at 31st street and Second avenue, Brooklyn, at which nearly one thousand workmen were in attendance. Patriotic addresses were the special features of both gatherings and the sale of Liberty Bonds to individual purchasers was reported as most satisfactory evidence of the value of this form of campaign appeal. These meetings were repeated at the both jobs Wednesday with equally satisfactory results.

One of the largest job meetings of the campaign occurred Wednesday afternoon at Camp Mills, L. I., under the direction of the Clough-Bourne Company, builder of the new cantonment at that location. It is reported that in the neighborhood of one thousand workmen were present. The program of this meeting was varied and consisted of selections by a prominent opera singer, music by a military band and addresses by well known speakers. Thursday, at Aviation Field, No. 2, at Garden City, L. I., a similar gathering was held under the auspices of the same firm of builders and the program was repeated for the benefit of the hundreds of workers at that particular job. The response to the appeal for bond subscriptions was $60,000, and gave evidence that this type of gatherings is of prime importance in influencing the mechanics and laborers to take interest in the campaign for the Third Liberty Loan.

Some time during the coming week another large job meeting will be held at Colonia, N. J., under the direction of the Cauldwell-Wingate Co., builder of the Base Hospital now under construction there. It is anticipated that nearly seventeen hundred workmen engaged in building this project will be present to listen to the speakers and the musical program that will be provided and that a large sale of bonds will result.

The Association of Master Plumbers, Manhattan branch, held a Liberty Loan rally Tuesday evening at its headquarters, which was well attended by the members of the organization. After listening to stirring addresses by Hon. Peter Schmuck and M. H. Elliott, bonds were sold to the members, bringing the total sales of the plumbing trades up to more than $70,000. J. H. Jasper, chairman of the Liberty Loan committee for the plumbing trades, stated that his committee was working at top speed and that when the final results of the Third Loan drive were announced, his organization would undoubtedly have every reason to take pride in the showing made.

The General Committee has sent notices to the chairmen of the various trade committees urging their presence at the meeting to be held at the Building Trades Club next Wednesday afternoon. Plans for the balance of the campaign will be discussed and new enthusiasm unquestionably engendered at this gathering.

Interborough Employees Demand Six Cent Fare

Drain on Personnel of Subway by Draft and More Highly Paid Employment May Bring About Shut-Down

FOLLOWING the failure of the Legislature to pass the bill designed to confer upon the Public Service Commissions jurisdiction to hear and determine applications for increases in street car fares where a maximum rate had been fixed in the original franchise, and the opinion rendered by Corporation Counsel Burr that authority in this matter rests with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the Interborough employees this week took up the fight for a six-cent fare, so that the subway lines might increase wages proportionately to the increased cost of living.

John A. Phelan, President of the Interborough Brotherhood, which has 15,000 members, appeared on successive days before Chairman Straus of the Public Service Commission, Mayor Hylan, Frank L. Dowling, President of the Borough of Manhattan, Borough President Reigelmann of Brooklyn, and other officials. Representatives of the employees of the New York Railways Companies had already been given hearings by their officials.

The importance of the question raised by the Interborough employees was indicated in the statement issued by them that the city will face a possible shut down of transit lines, or at best a reduction of the service, next Fall, following the termination of the working agreements in August, the drain upon the personnel of the roads by the next draft and the additional reduction of the operating forces because of the opportunity created by war conditions for more remunerative work in other employment.

Mr. Straus explained that the Court of Appeals had held that the Commission lacked jurisdiction. Mayor Hylan intimated that he was opposed to any increase in the fare.

In stating the case of the Interborough employees, Mr. Phelan said:

"We are interested as employees and as taxpayers. Out of the gross earnings of the Interborough we must receive our wages. If any part of those earnings are to be paid through a tax on land, our wages will be further reduced through increased rents, which will be advanced to meet the new tax rate plus a sufficient amount to bring the rent up to round figures.

"The company is now paying us more money per month than the agreements call for, but the additional moneys are not in proportion to the increased cost of living or in proportion to the wages paid in munition factories, shipyards or other industries. Our men have had to make their income meet their expenses by working extra hours. This is now being done by thousands of them every day.

"Our men have shown their patriotism. Thousands of them are holding Liberty Bonds, which they could ill afford to buy; thousands of them are holding Thrift Stamps, and thousands of them are in the military and naval service. But unless very substantial increases are provided for in the new agreement they will consider themselves free to seek the best possible return for their labor.

"We have noted the statement of one of the Public Service Commissioners, which shows that on the four lines now being operated by the Interborough under the Dual System contracts, there was at the time of the report a deficit of $1,250,000. This deficit was much smaller than it would have been had our men on those lines been paid, as they should have been, the same rates of pay as men doing the same work in other industries are being paid. Indeed, it would have been much larger had our men been paid the rates of pay they are now receiving.

"Under the Dual System contracts the deficit will stand as a debt against the city, to be paid out of future earnings of the property, the deficit drawing compound interest, but labor must be paid for when it is used. If the revenue of the operating company is to remain fixed in the face of abnormal operating expenses, the operating company will attempt to keep down the deficit by rigid economy. This will result in the unsatisfactory conditions described above.

"Maximum efficiency cannot be maintained when the operating company is forced to employ inefficient help. The men who have operated these lines for the past several years have their families in this city, their children in its public schools, and want to keep them there. We have served the public conscientiously and want to continue, but are being forced out of the service by the rising prices of every necessity of life."

Up-State Roads Want Rehearing on 6-Cent Fare

ALBANY, April 19.—Attorneys for up-state railway corporations affected by the recent six-cent fare decision of the Court of Appeals are considering the advisability of making a motion for a reargument of the case before the highest court. The purpose of such a motion would be to exhaust every legal remedy before accepting the serious conditions imposed upon these corporations by this decision.

Charles E. Hotchkiss, representing the Committee of the Street Railways of the State, made an announcement to this effect before the Public Service Commission yesterday at a hearing given representatives of the 21 railway corporations interested in the Rochester decision. The commission had called a conference of the attorneys who had argued six-cent fare applications for the purpose of ascertaining what effect the Court of Appeals decisions had upon the various cases, briefly what railways were prevented from seeking increases by reason of the incorporation of a maximum five-cent fare clause in their original franchises.

Mr. Hotchkiss was joined in his appeal for a postponement of action by the Public Service Commission until it had been definitely decided to renew the case before the Court of Appeals by an application for a reargument by Warnick L. Kernan, of Utica, representing the New York State Railways, and Albert J. O'Connor, corporation counsel of Utica.

In view of the fact that the Court of Appeals in the Rochester six-cent fare case did not indicate whether or not the Legislature had the power to vest the public service commissions with jurisdiction to hear fare increase applications from railways operating in cities where the maximum five-cent fare was fixed by agreement it is regarded as likely that the street railways will endeavor to reopen the case. Legislation was introduced in the closing days of the Legislature to give the public service commissions authority to determine applications for fare increases even in cities where the five-cent fare was fixed by agreement, but in view of the failure of the Court of Appeals opinion to pass upon the Legislature's right to do this, the bill was not advanced to order of final passage.

The need for an increase is so pressing with a number of up-State railway corporations that they have agreed to throw open their books to the municipal authorities to prove that under the present rate of fare they are incurring an annual deficit. In some instances the companies must cease operating, unless the fare agreements are rescinded.

Opposes Bronx Salary Bill

AT the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bronx Board of Trade, held Wednesday evening, the Board was placed squarely on record as opposed to the legislation intended to provide for a working-force for, just as it had previously opposed the creation of, the new office of Commissioner of Records for that county.

The bill regarding legal practice by Sheriffs outside the counties in which they hold office was also disapproved.

The Board was also placed on record as against Senate Bill Introductory 1161, Printed 1666, which prohibits the use on any public highways outside of the City by any auto truck or trailer with a combined weight of truck and load of more than twenty-five thousand pounds.

To Mobilize and Distribute Industrial Army

Labor Problem at Present Not One of Shortage but of Distribution

BY ROGER W. BABSON.

THE shipyards have been requested by the United States Employment Service to obtain their labor exclusively through it.

Full compliance with this request will best serve the interests of the shipyards themselves and of industry in general. It will eliminate the recruiting of workers by one yard at the expense of others or of other war industries. The labor turnover in the shipyards will be reduced because of the selective process employed by the service, whereby each applicant for shipbuilding is carefully examined as to his qualifications for a particular position. It will check the stampede of men unfitted for shipbuilding to the centers of this industry, where they lie in idleness while other industries are in urgent need of them.

What the United States Employment Service is doing for the shipyards it can do for other manufacturers. Many factories still cling to obsolete employment methods to their detriment, and the obtaining of workers is a haphazard process. These concerns have not yet awakened to the great system which the Department of Labor has established throughout the country for their use.

Through its employment service the department covers the country with several hundred Federal and co-operating State employment offices and tens of thousands of sub-branches in postoffices and elsewhere.

The United States Employment Service is one of the great industrial machines which the war has placed in full operation. It should and will eliminate the independent employment bureaus just as the great modern water systems have eliminated the old private wells and cisterns. The employment service provides a central reservoir from which the best of workers can be supplied through its branches when manufacturers ask for them. It is always at the command of manufacturers, is absolutely fair to both employer and wage earner, and is destined some day to be a great monument to the Department of Labor.

Just as a central authority must mobilize and distribute our military forces, a central authority must mobilize and distribute our industrial army, and the sooner the individual manufacturer accepts this fact the sooner he will find the proper kind of labor.

The old private employment bureau has no place in our war industrial scheme. Its existence means uneconomic competition for labor, unnecessary costs to both employers and workers, and reduction of efficiency. A Pittsburgh employer not long ago obtained a number of machinists in Detroit through a private agency in the latter city. The train bearing these men to Pittsburgh passed another bound from Pittsburgh to Detroit with an equal number of machinists on board. In Norfolk employment agents bid against each other for men already employed in essential industries and swept the nearby farms bare of labor. It is said that one of these agents even hired men away from himself. The situation was rapidly becoming intolerable when the United States Employment Service stepped in.

The manufacturer must realize that the labor problem at present is not one of shortage but of distribution. With the exception of some highly skilled or unusual trades, there is sufficient labor in the country to meet all demands, provided the demands are made intelligently, without exaggeration, and at the proper time. Calls for large bodies of men when manufacturers are not yet ready to use them or when no housing accommodations are provided only further aggravate the situation, injure other industries and strengthen the general impression that there is a labor shortage.

Mayor Hylan Favors Jamaica Bay Improvement

Promises at Hearing Before Ports and Terminals Committee to Do All He Can to Aid Project

MAYOR HYLAN endorsed the improvement of Jamaica Bay at a hearing before the Port and Terminals Committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment held on last Wednesday at the City Hall, at which were present representatives of property owners around the Bay and from the local governments of Brooklyn and Queens Boroughs. The mayor's declaration that he would do everything in his power to promote the further development of the improvement came near the close of the hearing after the present condition of the proposed harbor had been explained and its history.

Comptroller Craig presided at the hearing, and the Mayor, Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert and Borough President Frank L. Dowling sat on the committee.

Deputy Dock Commissioner Henry A. Meyer said that the work at Jamaica Bay had been interrupted because the city had not kept its part of the agreement entered into between the National Government, the State and the City. He called upon Secretary Killmer of the Jamaica Bay Improvement Association.

Mr. Killmer declared that under the preceding administrations of the city government there had been influences at work which resulted in the interruption of the work of dredging and filling in, although ample funds were available for the continuation of the work, balances existing in both the appropriations made by Congress and by the former Board of Estimate and Apportionment of more than $750,000.

One of the largest shipbuilding organizations in the country, Mr. Killmer said, had this year made an investigation of Jamaica Bay for the purpose of locating a large plant there, but gave up the project when it was found that the outside channel of 30 feet depth had not been dredged owing to the failure of the city to go ahead with the work under the agreement. Seven large manufacturing concerns had during this year sought locations on Jamaica Bay but had been obliged to go elsewhere.

Letters of Col. Abbott and Gen. Black of the War Department, and Gen. Goethals were referred to as showing the attitude of the National Government to be that no use would be made of Jamaica Bay unless the city went ahead and dredged the 30-foot channel.

Comptroller Craig asked Mr. Killmer if he recommended that the water frontage should be owned and controlled by the city or whether it should be developed for the benefit of private owners, and the Comptroller asked the same question of every subsequent speaker.

Mr. Killmer declared that both the city and private owners would benefit, and that it was practically impossible to say which would benefit the most. During the remainder of the hearing a number of representatives of property owners were heard. They all declared that they would be glad to co-operate with the city and that in some instances they had already built bulkheads and done dredging and filling in at their own expense, and that considerable land and stretches of bulkheads had been ceded to the city. The increased revenue which the city would derive if the improvement is made, amounting to many millions, was pointed out.

Among those who took part in the discussion were John H. Ward of the Bergen Beach Land Corporation; Mr. Baird, counsel of the Atlantic Gulf and Pacific Company; Theodore Kendall; H. O. Dobson of the Howard Estates Development Company; Paul C. Cloyd of the U. S. Title Guaranty Co.; William S. Pickard of the Association for Promoting the Waterways of Long Island and William Liebermann of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce.

Future Prospects Brighter.

The Legislature of 1918 has adjourned without affording any relief to the overburdened realty owners in New York City. The amended Boylan bill, which limited to $2 per $100 the tax on real estate and which provided a tax of $1.10 per $100 on personal property, died in the Rules Committee of the Assembly.

Reviewing the winter's efforts at Albany to get justice for the New York realty owners, it is evident that considerable progress has been made even though the Boylan bill, which was favored by the Real Estate Board, failed of passage. A good many legislators who hitherto had given no study to the subject have acquired a more comprehensive and intelligent view of this vital problem. Some of them have learned for the first time that New York realty has not been getting a square deal in the matter of taxation, and genuine help from them may be expected when the fight is resumed at Albany next winter.

A great deal of credit for this improved prospect is due to Mr. Laurence McGuire, President of the Real Estate Board, Mr. Robert E. Dowling, President of the City Investing Company, Mr. Edward P. Doyle and other spokesmen for New York realty interests. By the forcefulness of the arguments which they presented at various hearings and conferences with the legislative leaders, these gentlemen have paved the way for definite accomplishments another year.

As pointed out elsewhere in this issue of the Record and Guide, encouraging signs are to be found in the growing belief at Albany that New York realty must be afforded early relief; in the large majority by which the Boylan bill passed the Senate, and in the strength which the measure gained in the Assembly, as disclosed by a careful canvass of the members. Advices from Albany are to the effect that if the Boylan bill had been reported from the Rules Committee it would have been passed in the Assembly by a vote perhaps quite as decisive as was the vote in the Senate.

While it is to be regretted that the Assembly had no opportunity to vote on the Boylan bill, this is not the time for gloomy retrospect because that measure was not enacted into law. The intimation given in the Record and Guide today that the leaders in the campaign have only just begun to fight shows the right spirit. The Boylan bill, even if passed by the recent Legislature, would not have gone into effect until January 1, 1920. A satisfactory measure, one doing justice to the realty interests of New York and to the holders of personal property as well, should be placed upon the statute books by the Legislature of 1919.

The Dual System Deficit.

The failure of the Legislature to take any action on the proposed increase in fares in this city brings to a climax a very serious situation. No legislation on the subject can now be hoped for until next year, and in the meantime the Dual System deficit is piling up at an alarming rate. Many millions of dollars will be added to the total before another Legislature will be in session to consider the matter.

As Corporation Counsel Burr brought out in his timely statement in the Record and Guide last week, authority to take up this matter rests with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. It is to be assumed that before long the members of that Board will have the matter presented to them. Meantime, another important angle of the problem has arisen, namely, the demand of the transportation system employees for higher wages.

Mayor Hylan, Chairman Straus of the Public Service Commission, and other prominent officials already have been advised that an increased wage scale will be called for in the near future. It has been pointed out to these officials that unless the wages of the employees are increased there will be great difficulty in obtaining the men necessary to operate the city transportation lines.

While the question of wages is one between the operating companies and their employees, its adjustment has a direct bearing on the whole question of Dual System operation. It emphasizes the pressing necessity for action.

Unusual Conditions in Public Utilities Should Be Recognized.

The vital bearing of the war on public utilities was properly emphasized at the recent convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Chicago. With so many people thinking in a national way because of the war there is a tendency to lose sight of the bearing of local conditions in their relation to national conditions.

The United States Chamber of Commerce stated the case succinctly, but none the less impressively, in the resolutions which were unanimously adopted by the convention and which read as follows:

Whereas, The maintenance of the country's public utilities in the highest possible state of efficiency is essential not only to the war program of the United States, but also to the nation's business, industrial and public interests; and

Whereas, Such efficiency depends upon the preservation of the credit of the companies providing public utility service; and

Whereas, The increase of costs and the unusually onerous conditions of operation brought about by the war seriously threaten the ability of the public utilities to continue the furnishing of the necessary services they perform; and

Whereas, The protection of the credit of public utilities is very largely in the hands of regulatory commissions and other public authorities, rather than in the utilities themselves;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Chamber of Commerce of the United States recommends to state and local authorities that they recognize the unusual and onerous conditions with which public utilities are contending, and that in the interest of the nation, of business, and of the public they give prompt and sympathetic hearing to the petitions of such utilities for assistance and relief.

A timely address on this subject was that delivered by Mr. Thomas N. McCarter, President of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey. Mr. McCarter declared that the railroads of the country with their inter-state ramifications have long been recognized as a quasi-public and national industry of the first importance. He then referred to public utilities, including privately-operated gas companies, electric light and power companies and electric railway companies, declaring that the every-day activities of the nation are as fully if not more dependent upon them, taken collectively, as they are upon the steam railroads or the telephone industry. Their ability as a whole to perform their chief function—that of providing adequate service—Mr. McCarter declared to be of vital consequence to the comfort and economic welfare of the nation, a viewpoint from which there can be no logical dissent.

This is no time for the exercise of narrow-gauged judgment in dealing with such broad-gauged problems. Public officials should adapt their minds to the conditions of the hour, regardless of what may have been their views as to public utilities in peace times.

Readers' Comments on Current Subjects.

Editor of the Record and Guide:

The Appellate Division, First Department, reversing the order of Judge Hendrick of February, 1915, by a divided Court, held that under a mortgage which provided that in the event of default of payment of interest or principal the rents were assigned to the mortgagee as further security for the payment of the indebtedness; that even though a junior or subsequent mortgagee in a foreclosure action obtained the appointment of a receiver who collected the rents from the premises, that the rents would belong to the senior or prior mortgagee upon the theory that the language employed was a present assignment of the rents, and that hence the receivership would not avail the junior mortgagee.

The effect of this decision was, in substance, that under the language employed in the mortgage the junior mortgagee got nothing by his receivership. The receiver was compelled to turn the rents over under the order of the Court to the senior mortgagee having the assignment clause, even though that mortgagee did absolutely nothing and remained quiescent while the receiver was collecting the rents. The Appellate Division having certified the question to the Court of Appeals for its determination, because of the importance of the case, it was brought on for argument in that Court by me, and the Court, in a long opinion written by Judge Chase, reversed the Appellate Division and held that, despite the language in the mortgage, the rents belonged to the junior mortgagee, who had the receiver appointed, and that her diligence would be rewarded by allowing her to have the rents instead of the senior mortgagee.

While I have not as yet a copy of the opinion of the Court, I have heard excerpts read. The effect of the decision is to sustain the point made by me on behalf of Mrs. Hannah Sullivan, the plaintiff, that where a junior mortgagee has a receiver appointed he will be allowed to retain the rents collected by the receiver appointed upon his motion, unless the senior mortgagee either enters into possession under the assignment clause of his mortgage, has the receivership extended for his benefit, takes possession of the mortgaged premises, or does some other act consistent with his claim of assignment.

The case is one of importance in the real estate community, for it was assumed that the decision of the Appellate Division in Sullivan v. Rosson correctly stated the law, and under that decision several hundreds of thousands of dollars had been awarded to senior mortgagees, despite the fact that junior mortgagees had obtained the appointment of receivers, who had collected the rents intended for their benefit.

GUSTAVUS A. ROGERS.

Editor of the Record and Guide:

In your issue of March 10, 1917, my attention was attracted to an item headed by the words, "Brokers Obtain Judgment." This article described how a broker went about to obtain for a prospective purchaser some land as directed by that prospective purchaser, and how after obtaining a suitable site of land the purchaser went into negotiations for same and directed the broker to proceed to obtain an option at a certain stipulated price, and on doing so the purchaser would buy it. After the broker had succeeded in so doing the purchaser failed to buy and therefore the broker sued the proposed buyer for his commission and won his case with the aid of David L. Podell as counsel.

I laid aside this issue to keep it handy for the next occurrence of that kind I should have and a few months after I had the identically same thing happen to me. I thereupon referred back to this article and obtained the name of the counsel who handled that case and he successfully won my case, too, on the 15th of March, just two weeks ago.

My case or facts are that in October last a Max Nirenberg requested me to locate a suitable dwelling for him, giving me instructions as to what kind of a dwelling he must have and in what location it must be. After considerable work and energy I presented for his consideration a dwelling at 2746 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn. Max Nirenberg after an examination of the property told me to proceed to obtain same for a price of $14,250 and he would buy it. After succeeding in this mission he instructed me to obtain an option for four days which I did. He failed to appear at the time set for signing contracts and when reached denied and repudiated all he had said and done. It was understood that I was to receive the commission from the seller of the property. I engaged David L. Podell to take up this case, which he did personally, and I obtained judgment and have already received the commission from the proposed buyer, the judgment being $300.

A judgment obtained under such circumstances is unusual in that the deal was never consummated, and although the owner was to pay the commission the court allowed the judgment or recovery against the purchaser.

It was through the Record and Guide that we first learned of the possibilities of such a case against a purchaser, who never bought, being liable to the broker for the commission under such circumstances and we also selected the same lawyer whose name appeared in the article to try ours with which we find the same result, a verdict in favor of the broker against the defaulting purchaser, and we attribute our desire to try it to the article published in your paper.

Realty Board's Legislative Review

Bills Affecting Real Estate Before Mayor and Governor for Approval—Several Important Measures Not Acted On

THE following review of the work of this Legislature on bills relating to real estate, introduced during the last session, is issued by the Real Estate Board of New York:

Real estate owners have nothing in particular for which to be grateful to the 1918 Legislature. A number of extremely important bills, introduced at the suggestion of the Real Estate Board, and designed to bring much needed relief to real property, have failed of passage.

The Boylan Tax Bill, Senate Int. 621, was one upon which the Board laid particular emphasis. In the form originally suggested by the Board this bill would have placed a fixed rate of 17½ mills on real estate and 2½ mills on personal property. Various compromises were suggested. In its final form the bill carried a rate to be not in excess of 20 mills on real estate, and a rate not to be in excess of 11 mills on personal property, the real property rate not to be effective until 1920. It did not contain the objectionable listing feature which appeared in another tax bill. The opposition was presented by large corporate and individual interests, who, overlooking the fact that their real estate tax would have been largely reduced, feared a great increase in their personal tax. In the last hours of the session the feature of exemption of church properties was also brought in, and this combination, with the aid of the Speaker of the Assembly, was sufficient to keep the bill in the Committee on Rules.

The Real Estate Board did all that it could to secure the passage of its bill, known as the Dowling Four-Family House Bill, Senate Int. 776. This bill seems to have been rather indifferently championed, due in part to the fact that the introducer was ill during the last week of the session. The bill came out of the committee and was advanced to third reading, but in the absence of the introducer could not be moved for final passage.

Five labor bills presented by the Board through Senator Boylan (Int. Nos. 440 to 444), in spite of their extreme importance, apparently never had any chance of getting out of the Committee on Labor and Industry. One of these bills was designed to correct an injustice which the Labor Law now places on agents, and the others were perfectly proper amendments to rectify injustices of the present law. The opposition of the State Labor Department was largely responsible for the failure of these bills.

Senator Ottinger's bill, creating a commission to adjust the New York Central's relation to the city on the west side, and to provide suitable terminals, was approved by the Real Estate Board except as to certain details affecting the personnel of the commission.

Assemblyman Pratt's bill, permitting the Public Service Commissions to increase street car fares; Senator Ottinger's bill, providing for a referendum in relation to a tunnel for freight and vehicular traffic between New York and New Jersey, both of which were approved by this Board, died in committee.

Assemblyman Youker's bill, amending the Torrens Law, was passed, and is waiting action by the governor. Glaring defects in this bill have been called to the attention of the governor.

The Real Estate Board will renew and will double its efforts and will employ the time between now and next Legislature for an intensive educational campaign, calling attention to the grave conditions of the city's finances, to the absolute necessity for a reform in taxation, and for a reduction in the tax rate. It is beyond dispute that if the tax rate continues to increase at the rate of the past few years, notably in 1917 and 1918, the rate in 1919 will exceed the constitutional debt limit of 2 per cent., exclusive of the debt service. This fact will be kept continually before city and state officials and the taxpayers themselves, who will be urged to assist the Real Estate Board in perfecting its organization and increasing its membership for a vigorous campaign along the lines above indicated.

The following is a brief summary of bills that have been signed by the governor, which are of more or less interest to real estate owners:

Chapter 15, Senate Int. 411, Pr. 657, Farrenkopf. (Same as Assembly Int. 518, Pr. 557, McGarry.)

Charter amendment, permitting the Board of Estimate to permit five installment payments for the cost of public improvements exceeding $50,000 except for rapid transit improvements.

Chapter 20, Assembly Int. 240, Pr. 241, L. W. Johnson. (Same as Senate Int. 250, Pr. 260, Hewitt.)

Amending General Business Law by including bronze or brass casting among the articles about which those selling to junk dealers shall make a statement as to where such property was obtained. This bill was approved by the Real Estate Board.

Chapter 58, Senate Int. 15, Pr. 370, Slater. Amending Real Property Law, requiring that mortgaged property taken by the Alien Property Custodian must be discharged of record upon a certificate executed by such Custodian with same effect as if executed by mortgagee. This bill was approved by the Real Estate Board.

Chapter 63, Senate Int. 46, Pr. 326, Sheridan. (Same as Assembly Int. 191, Pr. 191, Curley.)

Amending charter, making it lawful for the comptroller to suspend or postpone advertised tax liens for thirty-six months instead of fifteen months, as at present. This bill was approved by the Real Estate Board.

Chapter 90, Senate Int. 99, Pr. 99, Dunigan.

Providing for a Commissioner of Records for Bronx County at $5,000 a year, with necessary assistants. This bill was disapproved by the Real Estate Board.

Chapter 116, Senate Int. 16, Pr. 576, Slater.

Amending Real Property Law, providing that conveyances executed by parties enlisted or commissioned in the military or naval forces of the United States may be acknowledged before a judge or clerk of a court of record, a mayor or other chief officer of the city, a commissioner appointed for the purpose by the governor, or certain officers of the United States Army or Navy, and making other changes relative to acknowledgments and proofs.

The following list shows bills in the hands of the governor and the action taken by the Real Estate Board, and members of the Board and taxpayers are urged to write the governor, asking his approval or disapproval as indicated.

Senate Int. 71, Pr. 1265, Gilchrist.

Amending the Decedent Estate Law and the Personal Property Law by providing that trust funds may be invested in parts of mortgages held by trust companies and title guarantee companies under certain conditions. The Real Estate Board approved this bill, believing that the proposed investment of trust funds, with the safeguard provided in the bill, would be beneficial to the real estate market.

Senate Int. 84, Pr. 369, Dowling. Providing that one of the assistant district attorneys of New York County shall receive an annual salary of $10,000. This bill was disapproved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 231, Pr. 241, Farrenkopf. (Same as Assembly Int. 282, Pr. 293, O'Hare.)

Providing that foreclosure of tax liens may be held in the County Court instead of the Supreme Court. This bill was disapproved by the Real Estate Board, which believes that the Supreme Court is the proper place for the conduct of such proceedings.

Senate Int. 389, Pr. 420, Farrenkopf. (Same as Assembly Int. 463, Pr. 490, O'Hare.)

Amending the Civil Code by providing that people of the State may be a party defendant in an action to compel determination of a claim to real property. This bill was approved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 602, Pr. 1608, Walters. (Same as Assembly Int. 690, Pr. 764, Pratt.) Amending the Workmen's Compensation Law.

Among other changes it adds a new group, 45, including all employments not included in other groups where four or more workmen are regularly employed in the same business or establishment, excepting farm laborers and domestic servants, and making other drastic changes. This would extend the Workmen's Compensation Act to all employments, and was disapproved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 611, Pr. 1644, Sage. (Same as Assembly Int. 769, Pr. 866, Machold.)

Creating a State Central Supply Commission. This is in the direction of economy and good business procedure, and is approved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 716, Pr. 1650, Carson. (Same as Assembly Int. 722, Pr. 797, Bewley.)

Amending the Labor Law by providing, among other things, that in buildings over five stories in height all stairways must extend to the roof. This will emphasize a bad feature of the Labor Law, which in one section arbitrarily compels extension to the roof, regardless of whether escape may be had from the roof of adjoining building. The Board of Standards and Appeals recently rectified this condition by a ruling. This bill was disapproved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 787, Pr. 1218, Ottinger. (Same as Assembly Int. 928, Pr. 1503, Ellenbogen.)

Amending the Real Property Law by providing that an agreement for the occupation of real estate in New York City shall create a monthly tenancy unless the duration of occupation shall be specified in some note or a memorandum thereto in writing and subscribed by the parties or their agents. This bill removes difficulties arising out of the so-called verbal leases, and is approved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 858, Pr. 1326, Slater. (Same as Assembly Int. 1026, Pr. 1205, Brush.)

Abolishing the Mohansic State Hospital, the existence of which has created so much opposition on account of danger of polluting the water which supplies New York City. This was approved by the Real Estate Board.

Assembly Int. 9, Pr. Senate. 1445. Youker. (Same as Senate Int. 151, Pr. 1437, Burlingame.)

Amending the Real Property Law in relation to Torrens Title Registration. While the Board is thoroughly committed to the so-called Torrens System, and is largely responsible for placing the Torrens Law on the statute books, it has opposed this bill because it believes it includes unconstitutional features through which owners might be deprived of their property without due process of law.

Assembly Int. 142, Pr. 1556, Judson. (Same as Senate Int. 117, Pr. 799, Emerson.)

Amending the Tax Law by striking

Legal Notes Affecting Realty

Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Right to Broker's Commissions.

IN an action for commissions on real estate sales, the Alabama Supreme Court, Smith v. Sharp Real Estate Company, 77 So. 40, makes the following rulings on points of interest to brokers and real estate owners:

When an agent is employed to find a purchaser for land, it is his duty to disclose the name of the purchaser to his principal, but where an agent is commissioned to sell on stated terms, and makes a written agreement of sale which is binding on the purchaser, the duty to disclose and the duty to execute a deed are concurrent. Under an agreement to sell land, where commission is to be paid "when the deal is closed," the commission is not due until the sale is consummated according to its terms, or upon substituted terms, unless the seller wrongfully refuses or fails to execute the sale. An agency agreement by an owner to deliver a deed to a purchaser "now secured" is an acceptance of the purchaser, although his identity is not disclosed, but the initiative is on the purchaser to tender a required payment and security before the seller can be required to execute a deed. Under an agency agreement whereby a seller agrees to deliver a deed "to the purchaser," it is necessary that the purchaser's name be disclosed within the time in which the deed is to be made, as a deed cannot be effectively executed without the name of the grantee.

A person contracting to sell land for another may act for the purchaser in any way not inconsistent with his duty to his principal. An agent does not have to produce a purchaser "known" to the seller to be able, ready and willing to execute the contract. In an action for having furnished a purchaser it was proper for the agent to show that it had informed the seller that the purchaser was able, ready and willing to make the required cash payment, it being in fact its duty so to inform the seller.

Negligence in Specific Performance.

An application to a court of equity for the rescission or cancellation of a contract is one addressed to the sound discretion of the court, and in granting or refusing it the court acts upon its own notion of what is reasonable and just under all the surrounding circumstances; the discretion being, of course, a sound one, and it must be exercised within established equitable principles. In an action for specific performance or for cancellation of a contract, negligence of the party seeking to be relieved of the contract does not prevent relief; it presents a reason why, in the exercise of a sound discretion, under all the facts and circumstances, the court may not grant relief, and may be one reason for denying relief, but it is not a bar to relief.

A broker produced an instrument offering to trade properties on terms, the offer to be accepted within five days, and the defendant objected to signing it, as he did not have his glasses and could not read it. The broker so read it that the defendant understood it to mean that he, and not the plaintiff, should have five days to consider, and he then signed it. Within five days, however, he notified the plaintiff that the deal was off, the plaintiff meantime having accepted. The Wisconsin Supreme Court held, Woldenberg v. Riplian, 166 N. W. 21, that the defendant was not as a matter of law so inexcusably negligent that as a matter of right, the plaintiff could have specific performance.

Secret Profits of Broker.

When the relation between principal and broker or agent is found to have existed it must be held to have continued until the broker, in dealing with the principal's property, notifies the principal that he is no longer dealing as broker, but desires to deal at arm's length as purchaser, disclosing all facts relating to the subject matter of the contract while the agency existed. A corporation, while acting as broker or agent to sell property at $1,200, itself purchased the property at a price, less commission to it, of $1,000, and resold for $2,000, all without disclosing the purchase for itself to its principal, and without disclosing the price received by it. It is held, Clark v. Rogers Foundry & Manufacturing Co. (Md.), 199 S. W. 576, that it was liable to its principal for the profits received by it.

Interpretation of Agreement.

In a lease of a building to be constructed, providing that the basement was to be "properly waterproof," the Arkansas Supreme Court holds, Ozark Grocer Co. v. Crandall, 199 S. W. 551, that the term "waterproof" is a relative expression, meaning that the walls and floor of the basement were to be constructed so as to keep out water and dampness under such circumstances and weather conditions as might have been reasonably foreseen and anticipated, and if the wall and floors of the basement were so constructed as to resist the ordinary invasion of water and dampness it was in law "waterproof." In an action for rent under such a lease, where the tenant counterclaimed for damages to his merchandise from water and dampness entering the building, it was held to be for the jury to determine whether the injury resulted from causes which might have been anticipated so as to have been within the terms of the contract. In construing the language of a contract it is to be presumed that the parties intended to apply it to conditions to be reasonably anticipated.

Wrecking Contract.

In an action by an owner of a building against the owner of an adjacent building for injuries to the plaintiff's building, incurred when the defendant's building was torn down by an independent contractor, exclusive of the contract under which the building was demolished, was held by the New York Appellate Division, Freund v. Composite Realty Co., 165 N. Y. Supp. 951, to be error, such evidence being admissible to show that the defendants maintained no control over the contract. Evidence that the defendants were informed that their contractor caused certain damage was not sufficient to show knowledge on the part of the defendants that the contractor was doing an unlawful act. Liability could not be predicated upon the fact of injury, necessitated by the nature of the work, in the absence of a showing that a reasonably careful workman could not have demolished the building without trespass to the plaintiff's building.

Realty Board's Legislative Review.

out the provision that the franchise tax on the net income of manufacturing and mercantile corporations shall be based upon corporations' report by the Federal Income Tax, and removes the necessity for correct returns to the State Tax Commission when errors have been made in the federal return. This bill was disapproved.

The following bills are before the mayor:

Senate Int. 11, Pr. 835, Cromwell. (Same as Assembly Int. 43, Pr. 1196, Seesselberg)

This provides that when the Board of Estimate believes that combined assessments for public improvements confirmed after January 1, 1908, against real estate in any two consecutive years exceed 60 per cent. of the assessed valuation the Board may, upon the certificate of the comptroller, direct modification of the assessment. This bill was approved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 330, Pr. 922, Dowling.

This would authorize the Board of Estimate to increase by a very large amount a sum payable for the support of Hunter College. The amount originally required for this support was $175,000 a year, and the amendment would bring this up to four times this amount. The Board believes that this amount should not be expended to furnish free college education.

Senate Int. 572, Pr. 941, Wagner.

Adds new provisions respecting the teachers' retirement fund of Hunter College. The Board believes that this is an exceedingly inopportune time for the enactment of legislation which would add large fixed charges to our already scandalous municipal budget.

Senate Int. 756, Pr. 879, Wagner.

This bill would take from the Board of Education the control of Hunter College and put it into the Board of Trustees of the college, and would extend the functions of the institution from preparing teachers for work in common schools to the furnishing of a general education without any provision that graduates should teach in the public schools of New York City. The Board disapproves the promiscuous furnishing of free college education, and believes the bill should be defeated.

Senate Int. 972, Pr. 1194, Nicoll.

This bill provides for a horizontal increase of 10 per cent. in the salaries of the administrative force of the District Attorney of New York County. It is disapproved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 1110, Pr. 1419, Dunnigan.

This authorizes the city of New York to ascertain and pay the amount of damages to lands or lands and buildings suffered by reason of changes in established grades in the city.

While a large number of property owners have been materially damaged by changes of grades of streets or avenues, made necessary to conform them to changes in grades of the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company and the New York and Portchester Railroad from Tremont avenue to Bear Swamp Road, to which this bill applies, it is not clear why the entire burden of these damages, which will aggregate hundreds of thousands of dollars, should be saddled upon the city. If the railroads have not paid a sufficient share of the expenses any remedial legislation should take this fact into account.

Traffic Committee Appointed.

Mayor Hylan appointed on Tuesday a committee, of which John A. Harriss, Special Deputy Police Commissioner, is Chairman, to make a study of street conditions and make suggestions for relief. The other members of the committee are: Jefferson DeMont Thompson, President of the Broadway Association, vice-chairman; William Fellows Morgan, President of the Merchants' Association; Robert Grier Cooke, President of the Fifth Avenue Association; Elmer Thompson, secretary of the Automobile Club of America; Frank L. Dowling, Borough President of Manhattan; Edward Riegelman, Borough President of Brooklyn; Robert Adamson, former Fire Commissioner; John A. Leach, First Deputy Police Commissioner; Mrs. Sophie Irene Loeb and Henry R. Hoyt.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Little Selling Activity. Renting Continues Strong. Improvement in Recording Instruments. Other Reports

PROBABLY because almost every real estate broker in the city is on the committee of the Real Estate Board soliciting subscriptions for the Third Liberty Loan, and therefore neglecting personal affairs to help the government, the business of the week shows a decided falling off.

Few sales of any consequence have been reported, and while leasing continues strong this department of the business in every well regulated office is usually attended to by subordinates while the sales are as a rule looked after by the heads of the firm and their close associates.

Heading the list of private sales of the week is that of the hotel property at the northwest corner of Irving Place and Fifteenth street, known as the Hotel Du Nord and previously as the Hotel America, some years ago a hostelry popular with Latin-Americans of the wealthy class, to the Kops Realty Company, which owns the adjoining twelve-story loft and office building at the southwest corner of Irving Place and 16th street.

The hotel consists of two five-story buildings on a plot 62½x80 feet. Horace S. Ely & Co. negotiated the deal. The last owners of record are Stephen H. Olin and another of No. 15 the corner parcel, and the Samuel Frost Estate of the balance of the property. The property is assessed by the city at $118,000. The sale of the three-story building at 361 Ninth avenue to the Ancient and Mystical Order of Rosae Crucis is of sentimental interest rather than because of the amount involved, since it was for many years the home of Lily Langtry, the once noted actress. One of the most complex deals in leasing to transpire in many months, an account of which is given in another column, has just been consummated by Bushman & Wakefield, Inc., and involves space at 244 Madison avenue and in the Whitehall building at 44 Whitehall street. The two leases total over $300,000 in the aggregate and the whole transaction was put through within forty-eight hours after the matter was placed in the hands of the brokers.

About $250,000 is represented in the long-term lease of Seventh avenue property just north of the Pennsylvania station, which will be the site of a modern restaurant building. The Krim Realty Company representing the Hanover Lunch Company, which operates a chain of lunch rooms throughout the city, leased three four-story buildings at 430 to 434 Seventh avenue, fifty feet south of 34th street, for twenty-one years on a net rental basis. H. M. Weill Company, White-Goodman and A. H. Levy were the brokers and Kugel & Son, the attorneys.

Register James A. Donegan is authorized for the statement that for the first time in the history of New York County deeds, mortgages and other documents are returned to lawyers within three days from the time they are presented for recording in his office. Up to December 31st of last year the time required for recording instruments was four days. Under the new system of recording instruments instituted by Mr. Donegan, the receiving and abstracting are done on the first day, abstracting, recording and examining on the second day, and indexing and delivery on third day. The clerks employed in the examining department now devote the morning of each day to assisting in other departments of the office and in the afternoons for the work of examination. A material saving is effected by this arrangement.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 317.—Where a broker finds a tenant for a piece of property and accepts a deposit, but the owner refuses to lease to broker's client, can broker legally claim his commission? F. B.

Answer No. 317.—This question cannot be answered on the above meagre statement. Many important facts are omitted. It would, for instance, be important to know whether he was authorized by the owner to exhibit the property or to accept a deposit.

Question No. 318.—A and B are neighbors. A fence dividing the properties falls down and A demands that B have fence repaired. B notifies A that he proposes having both properties surveyed, as he is in doubt as to the correctness of the dividing line and states that A will have to pay half the cost of the survey. A refuses, but still insists on the fence being repaired. Can A legally compel B to repair the fence under the circumstances? S. E. H.

Answer No. 318.—A partition fence must be so built that the dividing line between the properties shall run through the center of the fence, and the fence must be built and maintained at the joint expense of the owners of the land on each side. Where the owner on one side neglects or refuses to join the other in making the necessary repair for six days after being requested in writing by the other owner, the latter may make the repairs and recover from the other the latter's share of the reasonable expense. If the rebuilding owner does not build on the correct line he will not be able to make the other contribute. If the title to the entire lot has been examined by a title company such company might have a survey, of which the insured owner could get a copy without expense. If the dispute as to the actual line is sincere, it should be settled by a survey and definition of the correct line which would cost about $10, or $5 for each owner, and that would be cheaper than a quarrel.

Increased Traffic.

When the transverse roads through Central Park at 65th and 95th streets were turned over to the Borough President in March, 1916, the pavement was in bad condition. It was believed these streets would be more generally used for vehicular traffic if furnished with a proper pavement, and steps were taken to repave them. As a result of this repaving the vehicular traffic has greatly increased. A toll taken by representatives of the Borough President shows the following result:

On October 23, 1916, the number of vehicles using 65th street was 1,160, and on February 28, 1918, since the new pavement was laid, 3,291 vehicles used the street. This is an increase of 283 per cent. On October 25, 1916, 717 vehicles used 95th street, while the old pavement was still there, and on February 27, 1918, 1,055 vehicles used the street with the new pavement down. This is an increase of 147 per cent. Automobile traffic in 65th street has shown an increase of 40 per cent. since the new pavement was laid, and 50 per cent. in 95th street.

President Dowling has been allowed $2,000,000 for the repaving of streets throughout the Borough of Manhattan, and this work will not carry assessments on abutting properties.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 26 as against 26 last week and 27 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 13 as compared with 9 last week and 3 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 13 as compared with 17 last week and 24 a year ago.

From the Bronx 13 sales at private contract were reported as against 18 last week and 11 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 522 of this issue.

Large Apartment House Deal.

William S. Baker sold to Nason Realty Company, Max N. Nathanson, president, three large apartment houses along Broadway, in the Washington Heights section, showing a total valuation of $655,000. All cash was paid over the mortgages on the property, which was acquired by the Halcyon Real Estate Corporation, representing bond holders of the former New York Real Estate Security Company. The largest of these houses is the Carolyn Court, a six-story elevator building, on a plot 100 x 100, at 3880 to 3888 Broadway, northeast corner of 162d street. This building is arranged for thirty families, contains seven stores, and was held at $275,000. It is fully rented. The other two are the Sylvia, a six-story elevator house, on a plot 100 x 100, at 560 West 144th street, adjoining the southeast corner of Broadway; arranged for forty families; also fully rented, and valued at $190,000; and 605 West 142d street, adjoining the northeast corner of Broadway; six stories with elevator, on a plot 100 x 100; arranged for thirty-six families, and held at $190,000.

Sale of Mid-Town Property.

A transaction of especial interest, since it is the largest affecting mid-town property in some months, was closed Wednesday as a result of which the United Cigar Stores Company gains control of the Hotel Lorraine, a twelve-story structure at the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-fifth street. The property has been leased from the United Mortgage and Trust Company as trustee of the Estate of Matthew Byrne for a term of twenty-one years, with a renewal privilege at $115,000 a year, indicating an aggregate rental for the first term of $2,415,000. It is said to be the ultimate intention of the lessee to remodel the building for business purposes for its own use. Possession will be taken on October 1. J. C. Bolger, vice-president of the United Cigar Stores Company, in commenting upon the keen competition for the property which developed since it was placed on the market, stated that rarely in his experience had he encountered as many and as persistent rivals for its acquisition. He considers it one of the most important properties that has come into the control of his company.

Tenements Figure in Deals.

Uptown tenements figured prominently in the sales of the week. A well maintained demand for moderate priced property was evidenced by the sale of the six-story tenements with stores at 243 and 245 West 116th street, on a plot 40 x 100.11, and assessed at $54,000. Abram S. Saffer, lawyer, sold the property. Mr. Saffer recently purchased the property from the Lawyers' Mortgage Company, which had taken it over at foreclosure.

Hotel Property Changes Hands.

Horace S. Ely & Company has sold the hotel property at the northwest corner of Irving place and 15th street, known in recent years as Hotel Du Nord and previously as the Hotel America, a rendezvous for Latin-Americans of the wealthy class. The property consists of two five-story buildings on a plot 62½. The owners of record of the plot are Stephen H. Olin and another of No.

15, the corner parcel, and the Samuel Frost Estate of the balance of the property. Kops Realty Company, which owns the adjoining twelve-story loft and office building at the southwest corner of Irving place and 16th street, is the buyer. The property is assessed by the city at $118,000.

Other Tenements in Deal.

James H. Cruikshank, the operator, sold to Janet B. Littell, as executrix, and Edith Berry Schimmel the five-story double flat at 132 West 133d street, on plot 25 x 100. Mr. Cruikshank took as part payment 50 South Walnut street, East Orange, N. J., a private residence, on a plot 40 x 240, and valued at $12,000.

Sale of Block in Queens.

John F. Simmons Company, manufacturers of tools, plumbing and miscellaneous supplies, purchased for industrial purposes the entire block in the Degnon Terminal at Long Island City, bounded by Nott avenue, Manly street, Anable avenue and Orton street. The various departments of the company are now located in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Newark and Erie, Pa., and these will be consolidated in a new building to be erected, which will cover the greater portion of the block. The balance of the property will be used as a storeyard. The new plant will be served with a spur from the Degnon Terminal Railroad, and will be a block from the waterfront.

Sale in Chelsea District.

Interest in the real estate market this week centered largely upon the sale of a famous old Chelsea building, not so much because of the amount involved in the transaction, but more because of the fact that the property involved was at one time the home of the famous actress, Lilly Langtry, and in later years occupied by the Pasteur Institute. The property in question is located at 361 Ninth avenue, and was sold by the Thomas A. Scott Estate to Ancient and Mystical Order of Rosae Crucis. It is a three-story building, on a plot 50x142, with an eight-foot alley to 24th street. Mrs. Langley occupied the house in 1886 and for several years thereafter.

This is the third sale of the property since the first of the year. The building is fully tenanted and has an annual rent roll of about $6,500.

FRONT ST.—Charles F. Noyes Co. sold for about $55,000, for Markham Realty Corp. (Clarence W. Eckardt, President) to John Curtin, Inc., 46 and -8 Front st, two connected 5-sty loft buildings, on plot about 40x91 and containing about 20,000 sq. ft. of space.

Your Bond May Bomb the Kaiser

Give Your Little Ones An Interest In the Future

THEY are your hold on the future, and America is fighting to make their future safe. They are too little to realize this now—but some day they must learn to reverence the traditions of America, and understand the great cause for which the men of their fathers' day gave their lives.

Be ready to put into their hands bonds of their government. They will be for them inspiring evidence that their fathers planned, sacrificed, and invested for their future. Liberty Bonds will mean more to them than money. They will make them proud of fathers who in America's day of great need proved themselves true American Patriots.

America's Answer to German Savagery

The Road To France— He Is Keeping It Open

HE is fighting German submarines and German shells. We can't win the war without him. He faces the biting winds of the North Atlantic with a smile and a song—but 'way down in his heart is the knowledge that he is facing the biggest job that has ever fallen to the American Navy. . . . An ever increasing army of American soldiers in France is doing its part in a way to win the admiration of the world.

New troops must back them up. A ceaseless supply of food, guns, shells, airplanes and tanks must be sent to their support.

We asked this man if he was downhearted. "In the words of old John Paul Jones," he said, "We've just begun to fight!"

THE victory of our arms—the very existence of our armies—depends upon safe transport through seas infested with submarines.

The American sailor will do his part—if we will lend him a hand. He needs money—lots of it—for ships and shells to keep open the road to France. We will not fail him.

Help Insure a Priceless Heritage

We Shall Prove Worthy Of Our Heritage

This is a good time to consider the history of our country. It is three thousand miles from one American coast to another, and every mile was fought for.

Our forefathers fought for the privilege of mere existence. They fought the terrors and hardships of an unknown and forbidding land; they fought cold, hunger, wild beasts and blood-thirsty savages; they fought their mother country and all others which sought to curtail or threaten their liberties, and when it was proposed to sever the ties which bound together the federation of states, which they had formed; they fought that issue to a finish in the greatest war the world had seen.

We owe our country to the fact that we descended from a race of fighters. The red stripes in our flag symbolize the blood so freely shed for the principles and ideals of which that flag is the standard.

We are fighting today because those principles and ideals would otherwise be trampled under the foot by the enemy which assails them.

We will not prove false to the trust reposed in us; we will not lose, through cowardice or recreancy, the precious inheritance bought for us by the sacrifices and suffering of the founders and defenders of our country; we too are ready to fight for liberty, justice, and democracy, and to devote our last man and our last dollar to their support and protection.

We will invest in Liberty Bonds

LIBERTY BONDS
A VITAL NECESSITY IN EVERY AMERICAN HOME

Why Buy Liberty Bonds?

Why do you save to build a home? It is usually cheaper to pay rent!

Why do you plan to give your children a good education? Will you get any money-dividends from that?

Why do you pay fire insurance premiums and life insurance premiums? You personally will get little if anything from that.

Why do you call the Doctor quickly if the children are ailing? You don't stop to think whether you can afford it. Do you?

None of these expenditures are what we call good investments. They don't pay in money, yet all pay the finest of dividends.

Liberty Bonds represent the home, the school, the children; they represent all the great deeds of our fathers and grandfathers; they represent Bunker Hill and Yorktown and Gettysburg; they represent the blessed freedom under which we all live and they also represent the Order that makes freedom blessed.

They represent the boys "over there"; they represent devastated Belgium and homeless Serbia and murdered Armenia. They are the defense that shall keep from our shores the monster criminals who debauched the women of Belgium and Northern France and made the men slaves. They represent the strength that shall restore Belgium and rebuild France and avenge Serbia.

They are the voices of those who are too young or too old or too weak to fight. They are the sword of the women and the cannon of the children. They are the voice of a free people calling to cruelly wronged, freedom-loving men and bringing them succor.

You'll barrow to buy them.

You don't need to be urged. You would be ashamed to go home to your children if you did not buy them.

The rate of interest is important but not of first importance. They would pay, they would appeal to you, if they bore no interest whatever:

Add to the rate of interest the dividends they pay in self-respect, in safety, in public order, in liberty and law and you have a larger return than you receive from any other thing you own.

They will never become "scraps of paper"

They are the best secured investment in the world

IF the free peoples of the earth are not to become toiling millions for the Prussian Junkers and the Prussian Krupps, if they are not to be terror-ridden slaves at the mercy of a German Kaiser's will, Prussianism must be driven back within its own borders and kept there.

That is why the war must be fought on European soil. We are fighting in Europe now that we may not have to fight in America, on the very thresholds of our own homes, later

We are fighting for the safety and liberty of our children, our homes, our country. No price is too great to pay for Victory.

Americans, you are called upon to back our armies in France, to furnish them the guns and shells and ships and airplanes, the enormous quantities of every sort of supplies that they must have to defeat the Prussian armies and drive them back across the Rhine.

The Last Round—Make It a Knockout

*"I purpose to fight it out on this line
if it takes all summer"*

General Grant

THAT was the American way then; it is the American way now.

We have entered this great war with a clearly defined purpose, and have made that purpose known to all the world. We "will fight it out on this line" if it takes a dozen summers. No discouragements, no disasters, shall deter us; no halfway peace or compromises with our enemy can tempt us from the course we have laid out.

Our Army and Navy are prepared to "fight it out on this line" until victory is won, and we must be prepared to back them up with every dollar necessary to make victory possible, even if it is the last dollar we possess.

Prevent the Destruction of Civilization

Lend Him A Hand

Here Is Your Boy —

going over the top, his gun in hand, his jaw set, his heart on fire. It is the most dramatic moment in the life of this soldier—and in the life of this nation.

His heart and mind are set on one thing—VICTORY—victory over an enemy who stands for acts and ideas which this soldier despises—which he is ready to give his life to destroy.

We here at home hate these things too. We are pledged to their destruction—to our last dollar and our last man. But this soldier can actually—get-his-hands-on-them—and root them out of the world forever—if we will lend him a hand.

This Boy Is the Symbol of Fighting America

He stands for the aspiration, the conviction of a hundred million people translated into action. He is doing what the rest of us are dreaming. Only through him can we win the Victory.

But He Can't Do It with His Bare Hands! He asks you to back him up with guns, shells, tanks, airplanes. Let's lend him a hand by lending our dollars. Then no power in the world can prevent him from winning the Victory.

The long fighting ages of the world have never seen a better soldier than this boy of yours—your son—your husband—your brother—your friend. He stands for the sons of America, hundreds of thousands strong; soon to be millions. He is doing his part—we must do ours!

We are fighting a united German people. Until every American is backing the boys in the trenches, until every hand in the land is stretched out to help, we cannot expect our army to defeat the German armies strengthened by the toil and sacrifice of the one hundred and fifty million people of Germany and her allies.

This is a war of national resources, and everyone must add his share to America's fighting strength if we are to make our superior resources count. Every hand in the land must be stretched out to help our boys if we would send them over the top to early and certain VICTORY

That We May Not Be Defeated by the Enemy

What Does "War Time" Mean to You?

ARE you complaining because "war time" means coal shortage; less sugar in your coffee; less money than you think you ought to make?

What about the boys who are fighting for you in France?

For them, the trenches; the pitiless storms of rain and sleet; the ceaseless deafening bombardment of the guns, hunger, cold, and fever; wounds and death. For you—a little economy and deprivation.

The Third Liberty Loan is your opportunity to prove the patriotism that is in your heart and on your lips.

Your opportunity to show yourself worthy of the heroism, the devotion, the self-renunciation of your soldiers and sailors.

Your opportunity to share, in some small degree, the sufferings of those who stand ready to make the supreme sacrifice for you.

All you can do is little enough. You simply lend your money. Do it, and be glad that you can do so much and sorry you can do no more.

are you

Do the Job with American Thoroughness

"That We Here Highly Resolve That These Dead Shall Not Have Died In Vain"

Lincoln, at Gettysburg

ON November 19, 1863, Abraham Lincoln made an immortal speech on the Battlefield of Gettysburg. His words ring as clear and as true to-day—line for line a message to Americans at war—as they did when he spoke them so eloquently more than half a century ago. Let us apply these words to ourselves.

"Our Fathers," he said, "brought forth a nation conceived in Liberty."

"Our soldiers gave their lives that that nation might live."

"The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here."

"It is for us the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—"

The flower of America is in France to-day. They offer—for us—the last full measure of devotion. Let us be with them in our thought, our work, every hour of every day until they come home to us victorious.

And let us remember that "the world will little note what we say here." But what we do here counts. Liberty Bonds will help to save the lives of our men in France and on the sea. Let us roll up a subscription that will set the world on fire. Let us make the victory swift and sure! Some of these boys will not return to us. But our overwhelming offering of dollars to our country will show the world that we shall not turn back—that we have resolved—and acted on that high resolve—"that these dead shall not have died in vain."

Liberty Bonds—The Torch of Liberty

“Keep the Home Fires Burning”

TONIGHT there will be American boys in lonely listening posts far out in the desolation of No Man's Land, American boys in the darkness and the mud and cold of the trenches under the ceaseless thunder of guns and the scream of shells, American boys tramping along the pitch-black, shell-torn roads. Through the long, dreary hours, as they wait and watch in the dark, their thoughts turn to the homes they have left behind, homes on distant farms, in little scattered villages, in great cities, and they see in imagination the pleasant home lights shining out into the night.

They are fighting to keep these home fires burning

You, back here in the peace and safety of the homes they love, can help in the bitter struggle that our boys must face tonight, and every day, and every night, until the final VICTORY is won. You, too, must work to keep the home fires burning—for our sons in France.

They need guns and more guns, shells and more shells; they need tanks and transports and airplanes, good food and warm clothes and medicines and hospital supplies—an ever increasing abundance of all the vital materials of war, if they are to drive the ruthless German invaders back within their own borders, and establish for all time the sacredness of American liberty and the safety of America's homes—their homes, our homes.

For these lads that are fighting and dying for you—do your share to send them to VICTORY. Invest today in Bonds of the Third Liberty Loan—ALL the bonds you can.

What Bait Do You Use?

All builders of modern apartments and residences wire for electric light; but he who sells or rents first usually has some especially attractive feature to offer.

Why not make this feature an electrical one? An Electric Washing Machine or Vacuum Cleaner for the use of each tenant are suggestions.

Let us tell you of their many advantages.

RECENT LEASES.

Complex Deal Consummated.

One of the most complex deals in leasing which has transpired in many months has just been consummated by Cushman & Wakefield, Inc., involving moves on the part of three large organizations, to be made practically simultaneously. This firm leased for the National Aniline & Chemical Company, Inc., the entire space occupied by them at 244 Madison avenue, southwest corner of 38th street, consisting of over 20,000 square feet of offices, covering two and one-half floors, to the Indian Refining Company, Inc., of 44 Whitehall street. The deal was contingent upon the leasing of the latter space in the Whitehall Building, where they occupied the entire sixth floor, comprising some 14,000 square feet of offices. This was successfully accomplished by the same brokers, leasing the space to the United States Navy within forty-eight hours after the Indian Refining Company, Inc., reached a decision to move uptown. The two leases total over $300,000 in rentals, the lease to the Indian Refining Company, Inc., being at a yearly rental of approximately $25,000 for a period of nine years; while the Navy will pay more than this amount annually for the remainder of the Indian Refining Company's lease downtown. The National Aniline & Chemical Company, Inc., will move to their own building, recently extensively renovated for their sole occupancy, at 21 Burling Slip, corner of Front street.

Lease in Times Square.

A rental of $25 a square foot will be paid for store space in the Times Square section as the result of a lease closed Tuesday. The Longacre Land Company leased the store at 149 West 42d street, immediately adjoining the arcade entrance to the subway. The tenant is Mme. Marie Louise, retailer of lingerie, gloves, etc., now conducting four other New York stores. The lease is for a term of five years at an aggregate rental of about $50,000. As the store has no basement and an area of only 400 square feet the rental secured is about $25 a square foot. Charles F. Noyes Company was the broker in the lease.

Lease in Pennsylvania Zone.

H. M. Weill Company, White-Goodman and A. H. Leavy leased to the Hanover Lunch Company, which operates a chain of lunch rooms throughout the city, represented by the Krim Realty Company, three four-story buildings at 430 to 434 Seventh avenue south of 34th street on plot 50x100, on a long term lease and at a net rental of $250,000. The site will be improved with a modern restaurant building at a cost of about $50,000. Kugel & Son were the attorneys.

Appellate Division Decides Case Involving Payment of Mortgage Tax.

The Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department, in the case of The People, etc., ex rel Home Mortgage Investment Company of New York, respondent, against the State Board of Tax Commissioners, appellant, from an order of the Special Term, granted on October 23, 1917, denying its motion to vacate a writ of certiorari, has just handed down a decision, written by presiding Justice Jenks, affirming the order of the lower court, without costs to either party.

This action was brought to determine the right of the Register of Kings County to accept a certain mortgage for record without the payment of a mortgage tax. The State Tax Commission, on July 17, 1917, and on July 9, 1917, affirmed the ruling of the Kings County Register that such mortgage could not be accepted for record unless the mortgage tax was paid. The Home Mortgage Investment Company thereupon obtained a writ of certiorari to review the determination of the State Tax Commission. The Attorney-General for the State Tax Commission moved to vacate the said writ. This motion was denied, and the writ was sustained. The defendant appealed.

The question involved was where one Zurlo and his wife executed and delivered to the Home Mortgage Investment Company of New York a bond and building loan mortgage to secure the payment of $33,000 and interest, covering a plot of land and a building to be erected on it. The bond and mortgage, and a building loan agreement, which was duly filed in the County Clerk's office, provided that the mortgagee should make advances from time to time until completion of said building, and thereupon said principal sum should become due on September 1, 1922, with a provision for amortization. The mortgage contained this provision: "Upon the completion of the advances hereunder the parties of the first part, if the party of the second part so request, shall execute, acknowledge and deliver to the party of the second part new bonds and a new mortgage in lieu and instead of these presents, to secure the indebtedness hereby secured, at the same rate of interest and upon the same terms."

The mortgage was duly recorded in the Kings County Register's office on March 26, 1917, and the mortgage tax of $165 was paid. The building was completed and the $33,000 was advanced. Thereupon the mortgagee requested the mortgagor to execute a new mortgage and thirty-three new bonds for $1,000 each to take the place of the old mortgage and bond. This was done on July 2, 1917, and the new mortgage was offered for record on July 3, 1917, accompanied by an affidavit of the secretary of the mortgagee that the new mortgage did not create or secure a new or further indebtedness or obligation other than the principal indebtedness or obligation secured by or which under any contingency may be secured by the recorded primary mortgage, as provided by Section 255 of the Tax Law. The new mortgage contained this provision: "This mortgage is executed and delivered pursuant to a certain provision and covenant contained in a mortgage between the parties hereto, bearing date the 13th day of March, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and recorded in the office of the Register of Kings County on March 26, 1917, in Liber 4350 of mortgages page 64, Section 1, Block 57, which mortgage is to be satisfied upon the recording of this mortgage." The Register of Kings County refused to accept said new mortgage for record without the payment of a mortgage tax. An appeal was taken to the State Tax Commission on July 6, 1917, and on July 9, 1917, said State Tax Commission affirmed the ruling of the Kings County Register.

Justice Jenks, in advising the affirmation of the order, said: "I find nothing in the Tax Law that forbids a supplemental agreement or mortgage, made pursuant to a provision or covenant, when the provision or covenant affords the right of an election. I advise that the order be affirmed, but without costs."

The Value of Established Business.

The Supreme Court of the United States in the Des Moines gas rate case has recognized the principle well understood by business men that there is a real value or property right in being established in business. The court said: "That there is an element of value in an assembled and established plant doing business and earning money, over one not thus advanced, is self-evident. This element of value is a property right and should be considered in determining the value of the property, upon which the owner has a right to make a fair return when the same is privately owned, although dedicated to public use. Each case must be controlled by its own circumstances."
